According to a DHMH spokesman, measles is a serious, highly contagious viral disease, passed from an infected person through droplets in the air when an infected person coughs or sneezes. Ten to 14 days after exposure a person may develop cough, runny nose, red watery eyes and fever, followed by a rash that spreads from the face to the rest of the body. A person with measles can infect others four days after the onset of a rash. In rare cases, measles can cause infection of the brain (encephalitis), permanent brain damage and death.

Hospitalization was necessary for 20 of these cases since the start of the year, and the average length of stay for a hospitalized measles patient was five days. In the United States, 45 deaths occurred among 17,314 reported measles cases in 1989. Already in 1990, 3,940 cases and 34 deaths have been reported.

All children 15 months or older should receive a measles shot (usually given with immunization for rubella and mumps). Parents should check the records of their children or call their health care provider to ensure that they and their children have received appropriate immunization. A second dose is currently being recommended for children at middle school entry or at about 12 years of age.

In response to the outbreak, Health Departments in the area are investigating cases as soon as they are reported. Physicians and hospitals are being alerted to diagnose cases, isolate suspect cases of rash illness who visit their facilities, and to report confirmed and suspected cases immediately by telephone. Additionally, health care facilities are being asked to make sure that all their employees have received appropriate immunization against measles to reduce the risk of health care workers being infected and then spreading the measles virus to more patients.

"This outbreak emphasizes the need for parents to take their children for their first shot of measles vaccine at 15 months of age," said Dr. Diane Dwyer, chief of the Maryland Center for Clinical Epidemiology. "It is crucial that every child is immunized against measles in order to halt the spread of the disease," she added.

"If you suspect that you or your child has measles, phone your physician before going to the facility. Ill persons should be kept away from others until a diagnosis is made by a doctor. If you think you or someone in your family has been exposed to a case of measles, or if you need immunizations, phone your doctor or local health department," Dr. Dwyer concluded.

Laura Teter Is TDEC Employee Of The Month

Laura Teter is the "Employee of the Month" for April 1990 at The Data Entry Company, Inc., in Oakland, according to Wanda Dawson, vice president.

Mrs. Teter has been employed with TDEC since November 1988 as a data entry operator.

She was presented with a cash award, special parking privileges, and a Letter of Recognition for "a very good work performance and superior attendance record."

Seniors To Visit Fish Hatchery

The Garrett County Area Agency on Aging will sponsor a trip to the Bear Creek Fish Hatchery, near Accident, on Tuesday, April 24. The Community Action van will leave the Oakland Senior Center in Mountain Lake Park at 11:30 a.m. There will be a stop at Flowery Vale Senior Center, Accident, for the Senior Nutrition Program Lunch. At 12:50, the van will leave Flowery Vale and proceed to the hatchery. Boots and heavy sweaters are recommended.

The fee (which covers transportation only) is $4. A contribution for lunch is encouraged.

Seating is limited and reservations will be taken on a first-come, first-served basis. Deadline for the reservations is Monday, April 23, at 2 p.m.

Any senior citizen in Garrett County is eligible to attend this trip. For more information or reservations, persons may call 334-5856 or 334-9431.

CRIME SOLVERS

The Garrett County Crime Solvers case of the week involves a breaking, entering and theft.

On January 26 unknown suspect(s) entered the residence of Deanna Flanagan, located on Bear Hill Road, between the hours of 12:30 and 6 p.m. by forcing the front door. Once inside the suspects removed numerous items including two rifles, a VCR, approximately 50 tapes, lamps, a stereo and speakers, a phone and a Bearcat Scanner.

The total loss in theft and damages has been estimated at $4,357.

All leads in this case have been exhausted and Crime Solvers is seeking help from the public.

Persons with information regarding this case or any other unsolved crime are urged to call Garrett County Crime Solvers at 334-1975.

If a tip leads to the arrest and charging of the responsible party, the caller is eligible for a reward up to $1,000. The caller may remain anonymous and need not appear in court.

GARRETT COUNTIANS MEET IN FLORIDA — Every year for the past 15 years, residents of Garrett County who spend part or all of the winter at their homes in Florida get together for a Garrett Countians in Florida reunion. The 15th annual event was held recent at Qunicey State House in Leesburg. Nearly 80 persons, pictured above, were in attendance. Another event that was celebrated at the reunion this year was the 90th birthday of Fred Beachy, pictured below.

Kyra Hider To Perform In FSU Theatre Play

When Dan Rustin's "The Middle Passage" premiered at the Bristol Riverside Theatre in Bristol, Pa., it featured Equity actress Kyra Hider in the roles of Young Phillis and Desdemonia. When the Frostburg State University Theatre opens the Maryland premiere of the Rustin play this evening (April 19), it will feature now 27-year-old Hider in her original roles.

"The Middle Passage," directed by Dr. David R. Press, will run April 19-21 with an 8:15 p.m. curtain time at Compton Auditorium on the University campus.

A native of Santa Barbara, Calif., Hider said she is excited about renewing her roles as Young Phillis and Desdemonia in the FSU production. "Do you know who Phillis Wheatly is?" asks the petite Equity actress who loves to read Stephen King novels and haunt Chinatown in search of the exotic teas. "Then," she continues, "you need to come and see the show."

Hider admits that she herself did not know of Phillis Wheatly when she was first cast in the original production.

"The Middle Passage" tells the story of Phillis Wheatly, a black writer and the first woman to have her work published in Colonial America, and the John Wheatly family of Boston who fought to have Phillis's genius recognized.

Although Wheatly's life was filled with wonderful things such as education and publication of her work, Hider points out that Phillis was the victim of many sad and tragic experiences.

However, the now New Yorker emphasizes that Rustin's work is much more than a simple lesson in history. Along with its strong drama, it also has its lighter moments. "Desdemonia is funny. The script is like a Richter Scale. There are emotional ups and downs," she notes.

In the play, Hider actually portrays two different characters who are opposites. Drawing a comparison that both girls are quite lonely, Hider stresses that two have quite different personalities and that for her as an actress, it is interesting to switch from one to the other. Desdemonia is a spoiled brat who thinks she knows everything about everything. Young Phillis, right off the slave boat from Africa with no knowledge of the English language, has a thirst for learning and finds her only friends in books.

Hider also notes that Young Phillis struggles within herself to find her identity since she is a black child raised in a white family.

Even though Hider has played the roles before, she is still developing and discovering the characters for the FSU production. "I find something new every time. I am always trying to dig deeper and get to more levels," she said. While working on the FSU show, she discovered the strong religious tones in the play. Hider, who has a strong spiritual conviction and studies the Bible daily, uncovered the strong spiritualness of Young Phillis.

With her dreams set on someday playing Juliet in "Romeo and Juliet," Hider does not focus her career on wanting to be a star. "What I'd like to be is just a working actress. That's all I ever wanted," she expresses, noting that often people who are known in "the business" lose a sense of their self because of their high visibility.

Hider, who is blessed with talents for singing, dancing and acting, was last seen as Ivy in "Playboy of the West Indies" at Crossroads Theatre in New Jersey and as Curly in "Peter Pan" at E.S.I.P.A. in Albany, New York. Additional regional credits include Actress Number 1 in "A . . . My Name is Alice" at the Group Theatre and Crystal in "Little Shop of Horrors" (one of her all-time favorite roles) at A.C.T., both in Seattle.

Joining her in the cast are Robin Wynder as Older Phillis; Celeste LaChance as Susannah Wheatly; Greg Holtschneider as John Wheatly; Tamela Frazier as India; Sean Salmon as Prince; Lee Combs as Madame Traver; Steve Miotto as Rev. Joseph Sewell; Royce Dudley as George Washington; and Beth Emerson, Renee Richard, Jeremy Gagliardi and Rob Somerville as townspeople.

Holtschneider, a native of Friendsville, was most recently seen as Peter Cottontail in the FSU spring children's show, "The Adventures of Peter Cottontail." He has appeared with the University Theatre this season as Theophile and an apache dancer in "Can-Can" and in various roles in "Reckless." The sophomore theatre major also was in the fall children's show, "Little Red and the Hood."

Robert Lewis Smith is the show's designer. Topher Woodward is the stage manager, while Fred Holliday is production stage manager.

Tickets for the show may be purchased from 2-3 p.m. at the Compton Box Office weekdays. Also reservations may be made by contacting the University Theatre, weekdays from 1-4:30 p.m., at (301) 689-4145.

A&A Realty Holds Annual Awards Dinner

More than 70 people attended the A&A Realty/Better Homes & Gardens "Oscar Night" held recently at Point View Inn, McHenry. The night was organized to recognize those individuals within the company whose hard work and efforts helped produce over $33.5 million in sales volume in Garrett County and nearby West Virginia during 1989, according to Patty Manown, A&A public relations.

Dr. Steven Herman, president of Garrett Community College, was the guest speaker. His presentation was centered around "ADVENTURE SPORTS" as an ongoing enterprise within the county and the various educational and research opportunities that are being pursued by GCC in cooperation with Frostburg State University.

Recognition awards were presented by Karen F. Spiker, president and broker of A&A Realty/Better Homes & Gardens in a variety of categories.

Medallion Club certificates from the National Better Homes & Gardens Real Estate Service were presented to 12 individuals. All of these individuals produced at least $1,000,000 in sales and listing volume in 1989; three agents had produced $3,000,000; one had $4,000,000; one had $6,000,000; and one had $16,000,000.

Inducted into the 1989 President's Club were the following individuals, all of whom produced at least $3,000,000 in production: Bill Weissgerber Jr., Ed and Jean King, Kevin Liller, Cindy Rosson, Barbara Pritts, Tim Josephs, and Tom DeBerry.

Management awards were presented to David Insley, Rental Department manager, for over $750,000 in rental volume; Jan Shafer, Oakland Office manager for over $3,000,000 in the Oakland residential area; and Bob Custer, sales manager for the company, for assisting in the $33.5 million of annual sales volumes.

Bill Weissgerber Jr. received the Top Listing Agent and the Top Selling Agent plaques. His overall volume was in excess of $16,000,000. Also receiving honor plaques for overall volume were Ed King, with $6,000,000 and Kevin Liller with $4,000,000.

Wildlife Seed Packets To Be Distributed

Between April 9 and May 9, Maryland's Department of Natural Resources (DNR) will offer free seed packets for planting wildlife food plots. The packets will be available to the public in each county of the state on a first-come, first-serve basis as an incentive to landowners to set aside part of their land for wildlife habitat.

Seed packets will contain buckwheat, sorghum or a millet mix. Each packet will contain enough seed to plant 1/16 of an acre. Planting instructions are included. The seed packet offer is limited; no more than three packets per person and no more than one kind of seed. Individuals accepting seedpackets must provide their name, address and telephone number. DNR's Forest, Park and Wildlife Service (FPWS) will make random checks during the summer to verify that the seeds have been used as intended.

The seed packet program is a project of the Maryland Farm Game Advisory Committee whose function is to advise and assist FPWS in promoting habitat management on private land for rabbits, quail, pheasants and doves.

Seed packets may be obtained at the US Department of Agriculture's Soil Conservation Service office in each county except Montgomery. Packets will be distributed in Montgomery County from Seneca Creek State Park, 11960 Clopper Road, Gaithersburg (258-7308).

Technique Can Help Cerebral Palsy Patients

Morgantown, W.Va. — A multidisciplinary team of neurosurgeons, neurologists, pediatric neurologists, orthopedists and physical therapists at the WVU Health Sciences Center is applying an effective technique to alleviate spasticity in children with cerebral palsy.

Cerebral palsy can involve a number of motor dysfunctions, including disturbance in muscle tone, weakness, abnormal motor control, lack of balance, persistent primitive reflexes, secondary contractures and perceptual problems. There are three types of disturbance in muscle tone: spasticity which is muscle spindle dependent, rigidity, and dystonia and choreoathetosis.

The technique — selective dorsal root section — can help patients with less-severe spasticity improve function, including walking. Patients more severely spastic can be made more comfortable and easier to care for. The procedure is not recommended in cases of excessive weakness or contractures, because it may impair functional abilities.

This procedure has not previously been available in the state.

The WVU team is currently accepting patients for screening. Physicians with questions or referrals may contact Dr. Howard H. Kaufman at 1-800-WVA-MARS.

RAMP DINNER

The Gorman VFD will hold a ramp dinner on Sunday, April 29 starting at 12 noon in the Gorman Fire Hall located on Rt. 560.

The menu will include:
Ramps (raw & cooked), fried potatoes with and without ramps, ham, coleslaw, soup beans and cornbread.

Adults $5.00 · Children $2.50

Proceeds will benefit the Gorman Volunteer Fire Department.

North Central W.Va. DHIA Holds Annual Banquet, Meeting In Aurora

The North Central West Virginia Dairy Herd Improvement Association (DHIA) held its annual meeting and banquet April 9 at the Aurora Volunteer Fire Hall with 53 attending.

Dr. Ellen Jordan, of West Virginia University, recognized those who had received awards at the recent state meeting held at Green Brier. Recognized for being fifth in the state for protein was Milford Gibson. John Fint was first in the state for butterfat and his herd average for the last three years was eighth in the state. Tom Mason was recognized for being second in the state for butterfat and eighth in the state for protein. Mark Teets was fourth in the state for milk production and seventh in the state for butterfat. Doyle and Wade Harsh were recognized for placing fifth in the state for butterfat. George Ringer was recognized for having individual cows with high-life production. And Hunters' Dairy was also recognized for individual cows with high-life production records.

Gene Long, state DHIA, recognized the Hopemont Dairy herd for having the greatest Energy Corrected Milk (ECM) increase and protein increase. The top five ECM herds were also recognized by Long. They are: John Fint, Mark Teets, Tom Mason, Milford Gibson, and Doyle and Wade Harsh, in that order.

North Central DHIA Supervisors Betty Bolyard and Bill Beeghley were presented incentive checks by Long for their work during the past year, and were presented gift baskets by DHIA Secretary David Stemple.

Awards were presented to the following top three producers in each category.

MILK

Mark and Ledeana Teets were awarded a $50 savings bond, donated by the Peoples National Bank, Rowlesburg, W.VA., for owning the first-place herd of 42.5 cows producing 20,925 pounds milk. In second place was the Milford H. Gibson herd of 65.5 cows giving 19,147 pounds milk. The third-place herd of 67.2 cows is owned by John or Connie Fint and is producing 19,538 pounds of milk.

FAT

The 67.2-cow herd of John or Connie Fint was the top herd for fat with 793 pounds. The Fints were awarded a $50 savings bond, donated by the Miners & Merchants Bank, Thomas, W.Va. The second-place award for fat was presented to Thomas R. Mason for his 61.2-cow herd with 756 pounds fat. The Doyle & Wade Harsh 72.1 cow herd producing 738 pounds fat placed third.

PROTEIN

The Milford H. Gibson 65.5-cow herd was the highest herd for protein at 661 pounds. Accepting a $50 savings bond, donated by The Albright National Bank, Kingwood, Bruceton and Reedsville, W.Va., was Greg Gibson. Second highest in protein was the 42.5-cow herd of Mark and Ladeana Teets with 651 pounds. Third was the Thomas R. Mason 61.2-cow herd with 638 pounds protein.

INCREASE IN PRODUCTION FOR ONE YEAR

J.J. Dalton was the owner of the herd with the greatest one-year increase in milk with a 12.21 increase from his 43 cows, and was awarded a $50 savings bond, donated by The Bruceton Bank, Bruceton Mills and Kingwood, W.Va. Second highest increase was the W.J. Bradley 51.3-cow herd with a 9.32 increase. Third was Thomas R. Mason's 61.2-cow herd with 7.10 increase.

INCREASE IN PRODUCTION FOR THREE YEAR PERIOD

David Stemple is the owner of the 35.6-cow herd with the greatest increase in production for a three-year period with a 28.7 increase. He was presented a $50 savings bond, donated by One Valley Bank, Preston County Office. Second highest was the 65.5-cow herd of Milford H. Gibson with 22.56 increase. Third highest was the 32 cow herd of Melvin and Stanley Harsh with 22.00 increase.

INCREASE IN PRODUCTION FOR FIVE YEAR PERIOD

The top herd for a five-year increase was the West Virginia University herd of 41 cows with 28.98 increase. WVU, however, disqualified its herd to avoid competition with producers. The $50 savings bond, donated by West Virginia Production Credit Association represented by Randy Bolyard, was presented to the Milford H. Gibson 65.5-cow herd with 25.75 increase. The third-place herd for five-year increase was the 72.1-cow herd of Wade and Doyle Harsh with 23.96 increase.

It was announced that the Hopemont Dairy, most recently operated by the WV Farm Commission and managed by Truman Wolfe, recorded increases in milk production of one year-18.8 percent, three years-32.73 percent and five years-49.35 percent. That herd was one of the original subscribers to North Central DHIA and was until recently a long-time member. The herd has been moved to the Lakin Unit of the WVFC.

LOWEST 1989 SCC

John and Leland Teets were awarded a $50 savings bond, donated by First United National Bank and Trust of Oakland, for their 13-cow Holstein group with an average linear score of 1.65 (equivilant to 75,000 - 80,000 SCC). The herd's production level is 17,407 pounds of milk, 666 pounds fat, and 548 pounds protein. For this distinction, the Teets were also presented a plaque donated by Casselman Veterinary Services, Grantsville, represented by Dr. Tom Mercuro.

HIGH COW AWARD

The high cow award (3.5 percent fat corrected milk) was awarded to Thomas R. Mason for his six-year old cow Number 96 with a production level of 28,243 pounds milk. Mason received an ampul of Black Star semen, donated by Select Sire.

Bill Would Allow "Light Butter"

Butter could retain its name by containing as low as 52 percent butterfat, under a bill introduced in the U.S. House by Representative Jim Moody, D-Wis.

The "Butter Competitiveness Act" is similar to a recommendation by the American Butter Institute, which suggests a butterfat content of 52 percent for "light" butters. The intent: To capture market share from oil-based margarines and spreads. According to ABI, light butter would fill a void between butter and non-dairy spreads for consumers who are limiting fat intake. Light butter would have one-third fewer calories and half the fat of regular butter. Tests have shown, however, that reducing butter's fat content below 52 percent reduces shelf life and may affect product performance.

A True View Of Farm Life Makes Great Gift For Friends, Relatives

by Bernice Kepple

So often we ponder over an appropriate gift for city or suburban friends and relatives on birthdays or at Christmas time. We'd like to give them something that represents our life on the farm — but what?

I've just discovered a new book, "The American Family Farm," by Joan Anderson with photos by George Ancona, that presents a relatively true picture of farm life — and what that life means to those of us who farm — which would make a great gift for city folks.

After hearing, three years ago, that an American farm was going out of business every six minutes, the pair set out to document farming — an American institution. Two years of telephone calls, research and travel led them to focus on three very different farm families: the MacMillans, in Massachusetts, who specialize in dairy farming; the Adamses, in Georgia, who raise chickens and have created a farm cooperative; and the Rosmanns, in Iowa, who have an organic hog and grain operation.

Determined to document farming before it all but disappeared, the authors found that what began as a tribute to a dying way of life turned into a journey of discovery and hope. The three families have a lot in common with each other and with all of us. They were raised on farms and learned much of what they know from their ancestors. They get genuine satisfaction out of seeing hay in the barn, silage in the silo, canned food lining the cellar walls, and newly plowed fields. Their lives are dictated by weather patterns, seasons, the needs of their livestock, and the demands of their land. Most of all, they love what they do and are determined to continue.

The book views the routine lives of the three families: 12-to 15-hour days with all family members pitching in; children learning from their parents and taking on responsibilities that match their age and abilities; a sometimes simple, sometimes hectic life; a life lived in cycles and seasons by people determined to survive.

After gathering all their information and making their last visits to the three farm families in the spring of 1988, the authors were worried about how "their" families had been affected by the heat wave and drought which hit later that summer. Finally calling them at the end of the summer, the authors were uplifted that the three families had prevailed despite the drought. They felt it showed that these families, and other farm families, possess an indomitable spirit, not unlike the pioneer spirit of early Americans. "Their sheer will to survive fuels their desire to search constantly for new and better ways to remain on the land and maintain a lifestyle that they cherish," the book concludes.

The book, with its many large and discriptive black and white photos, can be ordered at book stores, including The Book Mark'et in Oakland. The hardcover, 6X10-inch book costs $18.95. It is also available for borrowing from the Ruth Enlow Library in Oakland.

Grazing Period Closes April 30

The grazing period on land designated as acreage conservation reserve (ACR) and conservation us (CU) acreage for pay (including the required eight percent) will close April 30, 1990. Farmers participating in the 1990 acreage reduction programs are not authorized to graze these acres between May 1 through September 30, 1990, Kenneth Bachtel, chairman of the Garrett County ASC Committee, said.

Under the wheat and feed grains programs, designated acreages cannot be hayed or grazed during the principal growing months. Haying of designated acreage during the remaining seven months of the year has not been approved by the Maryland State ASC Committee.

"Farmers who fail to comply with haying and grazing restrictions could lose program benefits," Bachtel said.

Additionally, he said that cropland designated as ACR must have been devoted to row crops, small grains or other crops planted annually in two of the last three years, except for land in a summer fallow rotation, in which case the cropping requirement is for only one of the previous two crop years. Land designated as ACR or CU for pay (including the required eight percent) is considered to have been planted in the year designated for the purpose of meeting the cropping requirements. However, the CU must have been eligible to be designated as ACR in that same year to receive considered planted credit.

To qualify for full benefits on their 1990 program crops, Bachtel said farmers must maintain their designated acreages in accordance with the program contract. Farm program participants are required to protect cover crops or establishing approved conservation practices on the land, no later than June 1st. The ASCS official said producers are also required to carry out control measures to guard against weeds, insects and rodents.

Farm program participants will be out of compliance if they do not carry out proper conservation measures, or fail to comply with grazing, haying or harvesting restrictions.

MCA Approves Code Of Ethics For Animal Care

In response to the animal welfare issue, the Maryland Cattlemen's Association (MCA) approved a code of ethics for the treatment of cattle during the organization's annual business meeting.

Maryland's code of ethics is modeled after a similar pledge drafted by California beef producers. The code promises that the state's beef industry will provide a quality product, provide a high standard of care, manage cattle in a humane manner, conduct routine observations of animals, maintain feed and water and maintain an active veterinary-client relationship.

"These are things we do anyway," said MCA president John Mazur. "The hope is to put the industry on a higher plane, not necessarily an offensive position, on the issue."

A code of ethics, Mazur added, would avoid any misunderstanding that written guidelines might create. He also believes that the California code should be adopted by all livestock production agriculture in Maryland.

Wisconsin Senate Passes BST Ban

The Wisconsin Senate passed a bill last month that would prohibit the use of synthetic BST until July 1, 1991, or one year after Food and Drug Administration approval, whichever is longer. The vote was 22-11 on the measure introduced by state Senator Russ Feingold.

That move came shortly after Feingold's bill, which would require labeling on milk produced from synthetic BST, was soundly defeated.

Annual Banquet,

During the business meeting, DHIA State Director Darwin Bender spoke on the benefit of promoting farm tours to educate consumers. New officers elected were: Mark Teets, president; Jerry Hauser, vice president; and David Stemple, secretary/treasurer. It was decided to hold the next annual awards meeting on April 8, 1991, at the Aurora Fire Hall. To conclude the evening, a large number of door prizes, donated by local businesses, were awarded.

Land Preparation Ahead Of Last Year

Most agricultural activities were ahead of a year earlier on April 8. At the end of the week, topsoil moisture was surplus in 75 percent of the state and 25 percent was adequate. Subsoil moisture was surplus in 44 percent of Maryland and 56 percent was adequate. There was an average of 0.9 of a day suitable for field work according to the Maryland Agricultural Statistics Service.

Thirty-three percent of the acreage had been prepared for spring planting, ahead of last year's 23 percent at the end of the first week in April. The use of minimum tillage and government programs causes the acreage-prepared figure to be difficult to measure and less meaningful. A portion of the acreage is not conventionally tilled.

Wheat was generally in good condition, even though powdery mildew has been reported in some fields. Barley and rye were also in good condition throughout the state. Oats were in fair condition. Spring oats were 42 percent planted, slightly ahead of last year's 40 percent. Peaches were 96 percent in bloom, ahead of last year's 32 percent on April 8. Ten percent of the apples had bloomed, while last year none had bloomed at the end of the first week in April. Strawberries were in bloom on 24 percent of the crop, ahead of last year's one percent.

Sweet corn was two percent planted, behind four percent a year earlier. Farmers had planted 48 percent of the potatoes, up from 30 percent a year earlier. Green peas were about 35 percent planted, behind last year's 57 percent at the end of the first week in April.

Seedcorn Maggots

If wet, cool conditions continue during the planting season, seedcorn maggots are more likely to damage corn and bean seeds. Fields that are chosen more frequently for egg laying are those with less than adequate drainage, fields following set-aside acreage, old sod fields or fields that have high concentrations of organic matter. Fields that have had frequent manure applications are at the greatest risk for an infestation to develop. Planter box seed treatments provide a reliable and economical approach to managing this pest. Seed treatments of Diazinon, Lindane, or Lorsban, or a combination of these chemicals, will protect germinating corn or bean seeds at a relatively low cost.

Planting Depth of Field Corn

Planting depth of two inches has consistently produced the highest yields for moist soil types in tests conducted by Pioneer Seed Company. Planting another two inches deeper can reduce yields as much as 30 bushels per acre. Deeper planted corn takes longer to emerge; silking is delayed, and vigor and stands are reduced. When planting early, especially in heavier soils that are typical in Garrett County, hold planting depth to 1½ inches. This keeps the growing point below the soil for frost protection while minimizing the distance for emergence.

Crossbow Herbicide for Permanent Pasture

Crossbow is a fairly new pre-packaged mix herbicide that contains Garlon + 2, 4-D made by Dow Company. This herbicide does a very good job on dock, Canadian Thistle, cocklebur, dandelion, lambsquarter, and many other broadleaf weeds. Also, at high rates it is very effective on woody plants such as multiflora rose, cherry, elderberry, etc. Apply when weeds and brush are actively growing. Apply in a manner to avoid drift. Withdraw animals from treated areas 3 days prior to slaughter. Do not graze lactating dairy animals for one year following treatment.

Earn Awards In Poetry Contest

In the 14th Annual Poetry Contest, sponsored by the World of Poetry of Sacramento, Calif., Doris Goldsborough of Mtn. Lake Park, has received an Award of Merit Certificate for her poem submitted entitled "Bill," for which she received Honorable Mention.

Her mother, Zeta H. Clay, of Cumberland, was recently advised that her poem, "The Letter," which had been placed in a previous contest, will appear in the "World Treasury of Golden Poems" to be published in July. From her poetry anthology she received the Golden Award in 1987 and the Silver Award in 1989, and received invitations from John Campbell, editor and publisher, and Eddie-Lou Cole, poetry editor of the World of Poetry, to attend their conventions held in Las Vegas, Nevada, and Washington, D.C.

Allegany/Garrett March Of Dimes Council Convenes

The Allegany/Garrett County Division Community Council of the March of Dimes met at the office in Cumberland the first Monday in April. President Jim Robey presided and members present were Dr. Leroy Kohler, Willard Kitzmiller, Ernest Kesner, Dianne Failinger, Pat Natale, and R. Margaret Hamilton. Staff members Trish Morgan and Diane Norkus were also present.

Ms. Morgan informed the Council that a donation of $1,345 was received from the nurses at Memorial Hospital and that Sacred Heart Hospital had sent its monthly donation of $100. The 13 schools that have registered for Reading Champions are sending in their monies. The presentation of awards and medals will be held in May.

The Mother's March was described as "very successful." Twenty persons attended the TeamWalk breakfast at the Holiday Inn and six new teams have registered, making a total of 16 teams so far.

Dianne Failinger, chair of Celebrity Serve, stated that the date has been changed from May to September.

WalkAmerica is registering individual walkers for the Saturday, April 28, 20-kilometer Canal path walk. An aerobic dance group will kick off the walk at 8 a.m. Pepsi will donate beverages at the checkpoints. Buses, a van, and the Red Cross will be available. Wendy's will donate chocolate chips and lemonade, Sheetz will donate hoagies, and Subway will donate coupons. There is no rain date for WalkAmerica.

Since the local Division has been moved from the National Capital Area Chapter to the West Penn Chapter, Ms. Diane Norkus, representative from West Penn Chapter, explained their goals and how they related to the local division.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Deep Creek Watershed Board of Zoning Appeals will conduct a public hearing on May 3, 1990 at 7:30 p.m. in the Planning Commission meeting room, third floor Courthouse, Oakland, Maryland. The Board will review applications on the following docketed cases:

1) Docket VR-243; and application made by Mr. Greig Johnson on behalf of Arrowhead, Inc., for a Variance from the terms of the Zoning Ordinance as it affects the front yard setback requirement for retail businesses. Specifically, Mr. Johnson is requesting a Variance to allow construction of an addition to the Arrowhead Grocery which would extend to within one half foot of the front property line instead of the required ten (10) feet. The property is located on U.S. 219 in Thayerville (Zoned TC).

2) Docket VR-244; an application made by Mr. Dwight H. Jeffrey for a Variance from the terms of the Zoning Ordinance as it affects the front yard setback requirement for residences. Specifically, Mr. Jeffrey is requesting a Variance to allow construction of an addition to his residence which would extend to within twenty-nine (29) feet of his front property line instead of the required forty (40) feet. The property is located in the Turkey Neck Estates Subdivision (Zoned LR).

3) Docket SE-207; an application made by the Garrett County Sanitary District, Inc. for a Special Exception permit to allow the construction of a Sewage Holding Facility (storage tank) on the Sanitary District property located off the Glendale Road (Zoned TC).

4) Docket SE-208 and VR-245; an application made by Mrs. Elaine McDonald on behalf of Alpine Village, Inc. for a Special Exception permit and a Variance from the terms of the Zoning Ordinance to allow a minor expansion of an outdoor bar (The Harbor). Specifically, Mrs. McDonald is requesting a Special Exception to allow construction of a covered deck area to the Harbor business and a Variance to allow the covered deck to extend to within seven (7) feet of the rear property line. The property is located along Glendale Road in Thayerville (Zoned TC).

TRUSTEE SALE OF ATTRACTIVE AND VALUABLE PROPERTY

situate in Election District No. 6, Garrett County, Maryland.

Under and by virtue of a decree of the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, passed on February 23, 1990, in the proceedings in No. 1319 Civil Action in said Court, wherein Charles R. Goss was the Plaintiff and Thomas E. Goss, et al, were the Defendants, the undersigned, being authorized and directed to sell the property hereinafter described, does hereby give notice that on:

Friday, the 4th day of May, 1990
at the hour of 10:00 a.m.

in the Rotunda of the Courthouse in the Town of Oakland, Garrett County, Maryland, we will offer and sell at public auction, all that lot, piece or parcel of land, situate, lying and being in Election District No. 6, Garrett County, Maryland, being part of a tract of land called "Gleanings" and described as follows, to wit:

BEGINNING for the same at a stake by the side of the County Road leading from Oakland to Sang Run; thence South 15 degrees West 6¾ poles to a stake; South 22¼ degrees West, 29 poles to a stake, South 28 degrees West, 29 poles to a stake; South 16 degrees West 34¼ poles to a stake corner to a division line with John Sines, South 70½ degrees West, 109½ poles (division line) to a stake, North 4½ degrees East, 10 poles to a stake; North 30 degrees East, 112 poles to a stake, North 75½ degrees East, 86½ poles to the beginning, containing 50 acres, and 74 poles, more or less.

ALSO, 7 acres of woodland, adjoining the above-described land, making a total of 57 acres and 74 poles of land hereby intended to be conveyed.

BEING the same as conveyed by Henry Sines to Elmer E. Goss and Hallie E. Goss, his wife, by deed dated September 6, 1932, and recorded in Liber No. 112, Folio 366, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland.

UPON the death of Elmer E. Goss the property vested in the late Hallie E. Goss.

The above described property is located on the County Road leading from Oakland to Sang Run and is improved by a one story four room frame cabin. This property has approximately 150 feet along the Oakland to Sang Run County Road, approximately 10 acres of woodland and the remainder is cleared. The property contains a dug well and two springs.

TERMS OF SALE: Fifteen percent (15%) cash on the day of sale and the remaining eighty-five percent (85%) upon ratification of sale and delivery of a deed for the property, or all cash, at the option of the purchaser. All taxes and other public charges will be adjusted as of the day of sale. The cost of documentary stamps and transfer tax will be shared equally. The property is being sold in an "as is" condition.

The Trustees reserve the right to reject any and all bids.

In Memory Of

GEORGE B. FRIEND SR.

who passed away
five years ago this April 22.

The loss of a loved one is so hard to bear,
And the emptiness left just seems so unfair.
The good times and bad times, they all play a part,
Of the things we call memories and hold in our hearts.
The days are turning fast into years,
But with the love of our Father, he helps the hurt disappear.
So we need to be ready, he will call us home too,
And we will be reunited in Heaven, this family with you.

Sadly missed but never forgotten.

GARRETT COUNTY'S ANSWER TO RICHARD DAWSON'S TV SHOW — FAMILY FEUD — happens this Friday evening at Dennett Road School.

The Junior Woman's Civic Club is the sponsor of "COMMUNITY FEUD" — an evening of fun and games for local teams competing against each other to win the Community Feud Bank (composed of entry fees paid by the teams and admission ticket revenue). All winnings paid by the "BANK" are then donated to the charity of that team's choice.

Our local Garrett County Host is Terry King, from WXIE Radio. Be sure to come out on Friday evening and watch while each team is put on the spot. It's an evening of antics and entertainment, and one of goodwill for local community non-profits/charities.

This year's teams, along with their designated charity, are listed below:

A&A Realty/Better Homes & Gardens, Hospice; Arrowhead, Make A Wish; GOBA, Community Christmas Tree; Friendsville School, Literacy Council; Oakland Volunteer Fire Department, Oakland Vol. Fire Dept.; State Farm Insurance, Children's Library Fund; Oakland Girls' Little League Softball Coaches, Oakland Girls' Little League Softball; Dennett Road School Staff, Dennett Road School Arborvitae.

Remember, Friday night, 7:00 p.m., COMMUNITY FEUD! Dennett Road School, Terry King, Host.

Sheriff's Dept. Charges Man With Kidnapping

The Garrett County Sheriff's Department charged a Crellin man with kidnapping, battery and reckless endangerment following an incident that occurred late last Friday night.

Duane Bolyard, 25, was arrested after he allegedly dragged a woman out of the Short Stop near Oakland, forced her into a truck and drove away shortly before 11:30 p.m.

The woman, Irene Filsinger, was located later by Deputy D.L. Crossland. According to reports, she sustained minor injuries during the altercation.

Bolyard was later released from police custody after posting $10,000 bond.

In an unrelated case, John Adam Huse, 18, Hagerstown, was arrested Saturday on a warrant charging him with battery. Huse, allegedly struck a fellow inmate at Meadow Mountain Youth Center. Deputy C.P. Nolan served the arrest warrant. Huse is being housed in the Garrett County Jail in lieu of $10,000 bond.

In another case, John Allen Randolph, 18, Grantsville, was arrested Saturday on a warrant charging him with battery. According to reports, Randolph struck a fellow inmate while serving time at Meadow Mountain Youth Center. Deputy R.L. Sines served the arrest warrant. Randolph is currently incarcerated in the Garrett County Jail in lieu of $10,000 bond.

In an unrelated case, Donald Ray Filsinger, 32, was served an additional arrest warrant Saturday, while serving time in the Garrett County Jail. The warrant charged him with possession of cocaine, misdemeanor theft and making a false statement to an officer of the court. According to reports, the charges stemmed from a May 1988 incident. Filsinger is being held in the Garrett County Jail in lieu of $6,000 bond.

Donald Ray Park, 29, Deer Park, was arrested last Thursday on the strength of three bench warrants charging him with failure to appear in the District Court of Maryland to answer charges of two counts of driving while intoxicated, two counts of driving with a revoked license and one count of a false statement to a state official. Deputy C.C. Feller served the arrest warrant. Park is currently incarcerated in the Garrett County Jail in lieu of $1,500 bond.

Robert Stanley House, 53, Accident, was arrested April 17 on the strength of a bench warrant charging him with failure to

A LIVING GARDEN MEMORIAL was planted last week in memory of Michael Vaughn Vitez, who died recently as the result of a car accident. The memorial garden was planned by his fellow students at Northern Middle School as part of the Earth Week celebration. Shown above are Michael's parents, Vaughn and Phyllis Vitez, participating in this very special activity as the students watch — and remember Michael. Earth Week was also celebrated by many of the county's other schools. See page A-16 for additional photographs of last week's tree planting activities by students.

Sheriff's Dept. Arrests Three On Drug Charges

The Garrett County Sheriff's Department reported the recent arrests of three persons on drug charges.

Michael S. Patrick, 26, and Timothy C. Sullivan, 37, both of Washington, Pa., and Kenneth D. McVay, no age or address given, were charged Friday after deputy sheriffs stopped their two vehicles shortly after 7:30 p.m. along Route 40, just west of Grantsville.

All three persons were charged with possession of a controlled dangerous substance (CDS). Sullivan, who was operating a passenger car, was also charged with operating an unregistered vehicle. Patrick, who was driving a motorcycle, was additionally charged with operating an unregistered vehicle and operating an uninsured vehicle. Deputy R.L. Sines made the arrests, assisted by Deputy J.D. Murphy and Deputy R.P. Shaffer.

THIS IS A FINE MESS! — This poor razzled raccoon spent an entire night early this week atop this electric pole on the Old Crellin Road after having been the victim of a neighborhood dog's pursuit. As photographer Craig Phillips snapped the picture, "Rocky" must have seen his life pass before him. But all's well that ends well, and Rocky was rescued by a "swat" team from the power company and ran for safety on the beloved ground into some nearby shrubbery. Luckily, this raccoon did not have rabies but Garrett County has experienced an unprecedented outbreak, with the eleventh case having been confirmed last week by Garrett County Health Department officials.

Board Of Ed. Notes Changes In Bus Routes

Michael Sines, supervisor of transportation for the Garrett County Board of Education, has announced that detailed schedules for southern Garrett County bus routes and modifications of Bittinger and Finzel area bus routes will be published in this paper in July.

Changes in bus routes in the southern portion of the county are the result of alternative student housing accomodations that will go into effect in the 1990-91 school year, while Southern High School undergoes renovations.

Bus route changes in the Bittinger area are the result of a decision to redistrict the area. The decision was made by the school board five years ago.

Modifications in Finzel area bus routes were made to accomodate population shifts. Finzel area students that currently attend school outside of Garrett County will continue to do so. The changes will only affect Garrett County school students.

The following is a tentative bus schedule for the southern portion of the county. The times listed below are the times that busses will be arriving at and departing from the respective schools:

Southern High School — First Shift
7:15 a.m. - 12:35 p.m.
Southern Middle School — First Shift
7:15 a.m. - 12:30 p.m.
Southern Middle School — Second Shift
12:30 - 5:30 p.m.
Swan Meadow
7:45 a.m. - 2:15 p.m.
All Southern Area Elementary Schools Except Crellin, Loch Lynn and Special Education
8:30 a.m. - 3:30 p.m.
Crellin Elementary School
8:30 a.m. - 3 p.m.
Loch Lynn Elementary School
8:15 a.m. - 3:35 p.m.
Special Education Students
9 a.m. - 3 p.m.

Commissioners Say Timber Harvest Plan Falling Behind In Revenue

The Garrett County Commissioners this week penned a letter to Maryland Department of Natural Resources Secretary Dr. Torrey C. Brown expressing their concern that the five-year timber harvest plan for the state has fallen "substantially behind."

Calling the issue a "perennial one," Commissioner Elwood L. Groves II stated, "The board has agreed that the five-year plan was the proper way to approach the multi-use of our natural resources. However, every time it's time to bid out contracts, it becomes another controversy with those who would like to go forward with the timber harvest and those who apparently oppose it."

Groves mentioned the situation at Herrington Manor State Park concerning the logging of Garrett State Forest there as the most recent example of this.

He added, "We wanted to go on record as supporting the department's five-year timber harvest plan for the state land in Garrett County. We think it makes sense in light of scientific forest management and multi-use of our natural resources."

The letter to Secretary Brown states, "As you are aware, any decreases in harvesting directly and negatively impacts our county's financial position through the loss of our share (25 percent) of the state's revenue. This share, which is the designated offset for the state's non-payment of county property taxes, is one that we rely on to fund some of our county services."

In the letter, the commissioners also asked that they receive a complete update on the status of the plan and asked that they be made aware of corrective actions that could be taken to "close any gaps due to the lack of harvesting."

When asked if economics was the prime consideration regarding this issue, Commissioner Ernest J. Gregg Jr. stated, "Economics is one consideration but good forest management is another one." He noted that when forests are not managed the trees are allowed to stand, thus impeding the growth of other trees. He stated that the best analogy he could offer was in the way of gardening. "You wouldn't raise a garden that way, would you?" he said.

Commissioner John G. Braskey added that part of this effort to bring the timber harvest plan on line concerned educating the public regarding

GOBA-Sponsored Circus To Visit Oakland June 5

The Greater Oakland Business Association (GOBA) has completed arrangements to bring two performances of Roberts Bros. Three Ring Circus to Oakland on Tuesday, June 5.

"We feel that the circus as an entertainment is good for the whole community since it is one of the few entertainments left that can be enjoyed by everyone in the family from young children to grandparents," said Rhonda Short, Theresa Feather and Connie Margison, who are chairing the circus committee for GOBA.

The circus includes a wide variety of acts designed to please every age group and is presented at reasonable prices to encourage family participation, Ms. Margison said. Tickets purchased in advance of show day from members of GOBA will be sold at discount prices with proceeds from the sales going to help the many community projects conducted by the organization throughout the year. Advance sales will be made by members of the organization only, without the help of any professional sales

Eleventh Rabies Case Confirmed By Health Dept.

Garrett County Health officials have announced the confirmation last week of the eleventh rabies cases in the county so far this year.

According to Tina Buckel, sanitarian for the Environmental Health Department, a skunk was discovered at the residence of Dale Severe along the Glendale Road near Bill's Marina.

Although there was no human contact with the rabid animal, an unvaccinated dog was euthanized because of possible contact. A rabies clinic is being scheduled for the week of May 7 through 12.

Couple Posing As Salesmen Rob Woman's Home

Maryland State Police are investigating an incident in which a couple posing as carpet salespersons removed a purse from a woman's home last Friday.

A white male and a white female posed as carpet salespersons and entered the home of Lorine Frost, Friendsville. The female suspect apparently removed Frost's purse, which contained medical cards, a checkbook and $180.

Tpr. S.W. Vincent is continuing the investigation.

Tfc. L.R. Rosage is investigating the theft of a truck from a Swanton man.

Elmer Wilt, Swanton, reported that someone removed a Chevy S-10 from his home on the night of April 22. The vehicle was recovered in Flintstone, where it had apparently been abandoned. The investigation is continuing.

William Sweeney, Grantsville, reported that someone removed a Service Star lawn tractor from his property between April 20 and 22.

The tractor is valued at $1,000. Tfc. J.K. Moore is continuing the investigation.

Diehl's Ford reported the theft of tires from a vehicle parked at the dealership in Grantsville between April 16 and 17.

The four tires and wheels are valued at $1,200. Tfc. L.R. Rosage is continuing the investigation.

William McKenzie, Frostburg, reported that on the night of April 21, someone removed four wheel covers from the back of his pick-up truck while it was parked at Cindy's Tavern on Finzel Road. Tpr. S.W. Vincent is continuing the investigation.

Garrett County Mental Health Clinic Receives State Approval

The Garrett County Community Mental Health Clinic received last Friday two-year general approval by the Office of Licensing and Certification Programs of the State Department of Health and Hygiene. Johanna Younger, LCSW, director of the clinic, announced the award, noting that two years is the longest time for which this certification is given.

The team of experts spent three days in reviewing patient records, policies and procedures, staff credentials and other records last week.

The site visit team was headed by Sandy Leichtman, Ph.D., chief psychologist for DHMH, and included Leonard C. Simmons, DSW, chief, Community Mental Health Programs of the Office of Licensing and Certification, and Myron Arthur, LCSW. The review team announced the findings of its intensive study at an exit conference on Friday. The meeting for discussion of findings was attended by Mental Health Department staff, MHA Western Regional representative Archie Wallace, and members of the Mental Health Advisory Committee, including Connie Margison, past chairperson; Suzanne Conger, secretary; and Laurie Scott and Margaret Beadle, committee members.

Ms. Younger commented, "I am pleased with the certification granted and the findings by the review team. I have worked in a variety of settings during my 20 years of experience in the mental health field, and I have found the staff here in Garrett County to be among the best with whom I have worked."

Services of the Mental Health Clinic include: psychiatric and psychological consultation; diagnosis; individual, marital, family and group counseling; case management for chronically mentally ill patients, and Continuum of Personal Adjustment (CPA) program in the school system. Fees are based on ability to pay. No one is excluded from receiving services at the clinic on the basis of sex, race, age or ability to pay.

The Community Mental Health Clinic is located at the Health Department headquarters at 253 North Fourth Street. The services are available five days a week from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., and on Tuesday evenings. The phone numbers are 334-8111 and 895-3111.

Bloodmobile To Visit Grantsville Next Monday

The Garrett County Chapter of the American Red Cross will hold a bloodmobile visit on Monday, April 30, from 12:30 to 6:30 p.m., at the Grantsville Fire Hall.

Over 95 percent of the American population will need blood or blood products by the time they're 72 years old, according to the Red Cross. If less than five percent of the eligible donors in the country are giving blood, that might present a problem, especially since American people are growing older.

"People don't realize the need for blood is constant," Lela Bender, blood services chairman for northern Garrett County, said. "Accidents, emergency operations and trauma cases don't take vacations. They happen every day. And the people involved in them need blood."

The April 30 bloodmobile at the Grantsville Volunteer Fire Hall has a goal of 125 units. According to Bender, the last blood drive held there did far better than that. "The last time we were at the fire hall, we collected 165 units of blood. That's a pretty good visit for any chapter,' she said. "Those 165 units could have helped to save almost 660 lives," she added.

HE DID IT AGAIN! Pleasant Valley resident Elbert Hershman, who is without question one the most successful local turkey hunters, increased his total of turkeys bagged over the past few decades to 25 with this 16-pound catch last week. Hershman, who has been a conservationist and outdoorsman for most of his 80 years, shot this gobbler in the Backbone Mountain area. Most of his success has been in the spring gobbler season. "I don't have nearly as much luck in the fall season," he said. "I just thank God for my good health that enables me to do one of the things I like best — being outdoors."

"BY GEORGE, I THINK SHE'S GOT IT!" shouts Henry Higgins, portrayed by Richard Hill in the "My Fair Lady" segment of the Garrett Choral Society's "Best of Broadway" production, slated for May 4, 5, and 6 at Garrett Community College. Playing the role of Eliza Dolittle is Jean Coviello. The program will be composed of favorite scenes from six major Broadway productions, also including "Fiddler on the Roof," "South Pacific," "Music Man," "H.M.S. Pinafore," and "Wizard of Oz." Three of the musicals have been staged over the past several years by the Choral Society, and most of the individuals who had the leads at that time will return to play them one more time. Tickets for the 7:30 p.m. concerts on May 4 and 5 and the 4 p.m. concert on Sunday, May 6, are now available at Englander's Pharmacy, Oakland, and from Choral Society members. Cost is $5 for adults and $2.50 for students.

Joan Sussman Presented Special Award By Grantsville BPW Club

Joan Sussman, a resident of Bittinger, was recently presented a special award by the Grantsville Area Business and Professional Women's Club for her Outstanding Contribution to Community Development and Enrichment.

Ms. Sussman has "worn many hats" in both her professional life and community service, according to a BPW spokesman.

She was reared on a farm in Bittinger, helping her family with the many tasks associated with a working farm. She was a 4-H member for 13 years, holding various offices within her clubs. She was awarded a trip to the National 4-H Congress in Chicago for having the outstanding horse and pony project in the state. She also represented the Md./Va./D.C. region on their team to the National Pony Club Rally. She is a member of the 4-H All-Stars and has assisted in 4-H activities as an adult by serving as a county 4-H leader and coach for public speaking and 4-H judging teams.

Ms. Sussman was one of the founders of the FREE (4-H Riding for Exceptional Equestrians) program and served as head instructor for five years. Her interest and dedication to her 4-H project also enabled her to win the Equitation Over Fences Class at the Maryland State Horse Show and she participated on the State Horse Judging Team in national competition.

Joan has experienced a wide variety of job experiences. She has been employed with a top rider in the Class A Horse Show Circuit, has held a costuming position with Brooks Van Horne in New York City, and worked on various movies and Broadway plays. She had a hand in fashioning the "Fruit of the Loom" fruit characters in advertising.

Upon her return to Garrett County she spent several years developing work programs for the handicapped at the Appalachian Center, and also worked as a reporter for The Republican Newspaper.

She is currently employed by Garrett Community College as an assistant professor and was last year's recipient of the GCC Faculty Award for Excellence. She was recently awarded her master's degree in modern humanities from Frostburg State University, where she was the unanimous choice for graduate honors this spring.

She has assisted in production and costume design for both college and community theatrical productions.

She is a charter member of the Grantsville Area BPW and has been especially active in float design and construction for the Grantsville Days Parade. She has also served on the Foundation Committee for many years.

Ms. Sussman is married to Lloyd Sussman and they are the parents of two daughters: Claire, 3, and Caitlin, 1. In addition to being employed full-time and attending to her family, Joan is an avid gardner, painter, and reader, and still finds time to devote to horses.

Brenda Butscher Files For Office Of Commissioner

Brenda Butscher, Oakland, has filed for the office of Garrett County Commissioner District Number Three.

Currently, Mrs. Butscher is the executive director of Hospice of Garrett County, Inc., and vice-president of the Oakland Radio Station Corp. She serves as chairman of the Republican Central Committee and was elected delegate to the Republican National Convention in 1976 and 1988.

A member of St. Paul's United Methodist Church, she serves on the Administrative Board. She is also a member of the Garrett Property Owners Association, the Garrett County Historical Society, the Oakland Civic Club, the Southern Republican Women's Club, the Garrett County Farm Bureau and an associate member of the F.O.P. Lodge No. 99.

Mrs. Butscher is the widow of Thomas Butscher and the mother of two children: Cpl. James Arthur Butscher, U.S.M.C., Hubert, N.C.; and Lisa Jo Butscher, a student at the International Beauty Academy.

In filing, Mrs. Butscher made the following statement:

"I am dedicated to serve all citizens of Garrett County. I believe in an open door government with maximum citizen participation for a more understanding and responsive county government. Most important will be the bringing together of business leaders and citizens to develop comprehensive strategies for utilization of county assets to expand our industrial base. This we need to do to improve our economy and provide the jobs and quality of life that we all seek.

"I do not believe we should sit and wait for industry to come to the county. Instead, with leadership at the county commissioner level, we will create and expand our industrial base. We will use our own assets, such as our banking institutions, our community college and schools, our coal, timber and other natural resources, our recreation facilities, our quality environment, and most important of all, our own manpower resources. We have the ingredients and we can do it with proper leadership.

"I will work to be sure county growth, such as around Deep Creek Lake, is accomplished based upon sound and proper planning to enhance its continuation into the future on a quality basis, with proper environmental considerations, and to the benefit of all county residents.

"The County Commissioner's obligation to our school system must be accomplished on a cooperative basis with all concerned and with proper planning for future availability of funds to meet our foreseeable facility needs. We must also provide an equitable pay scale for our teachers.

"Our property taxes continue to increase from year to year with the ever increase on property value assessments. This continued increase is near reaching the point of inability to pay by some property owners. I will work to stablize property taxes and to prevent further erosion of the tax base by property exemptions.

"My campaign will be conducted on a person to person basis. To the extent possible, I want to meet with every voter to state my pledge to serve their interests and to work in partnership for a future enlightened and progressive county government, second to none."

Charles W. "Sonny" Newhall Jr., Route 5, Box 100C, Oakland, will be serving as the treasurer for the Butscher campaign.

Sheriff's Dept. Reports Theft Over $4,000

The Garrett County Sheriff's Department is currently investigating the theft of over $4,000 in furnishings, appliances and fixtures from a Sky Valley residence.

A spokesperson for Prudential Relocation Management, Marietta, Ga., reported that between March 20 and April 5, a person or persons entered a recently sold residence on Deer Run Road and removed items valued at a total of $4,882. Missing items include a Jenn-Air range and oven, a Jenn-Air refrigerator, a Jenn-Air microwave, a shower unit cabinets and shrubbery.

Deputy R.L. Sines is conducting an investigation.

In a separate case, Robert Edward Moore, Gaithersburg, reported the destruction of property at a rental house in Garrett County.

According to Detective P.J. Kelly, holes were found in four walls and the garage door and the carpeting in the home was damaged by burns. The house sustained an estimated $1,000 in damages.

Robert Holroyd, Baltimore, reported a breaking, entering and theft that occurred Saturday at his cabin located on Old Morgantown Road. Perpetrator(s) entered his residence after breaking a window, and removed various items. Windows were also broken out of a tool shed and camper, but entry was apparently not gained in either case. According to the investigating officer, Deputy J.D. Murphy, the total loss from theft and damages was estimated at $478.

A spokesperson for the Trottin' Inn Restaurant, Route 135, Mountain Lake Park, reported the March 31 or April 1 theft of $400 in cash from the establishment's cash receipt container. Corporal L.E. Gnegy is conducting an investigation.

Sheri Anne Sampson, Crellin, reported the theft of food stamps that occurred during the second and third week of April. Detective P.J. Kelly is conducting an investigation.

George Lester Bowman, Swanton, reported the theft of a $200 sign from his property located on North Glade Road. The theft occurred Friday or Saturday. According to Deputy C.P. Nolan, the sign was made out of an old bathtub and read "Bowman's Bait Tub."

Grand Master To Be Special Guest Of Oakland Lodge

B. Hope Harrison, Grand Master of Ancient, Free, and Accepted Masons in Maryland, will be a special guest of Oakland Lodge No. 192, A.F. & A.M., on the weekend of May 5-6.

Accompanying Grand Master Harrison will be 18 other Grand officers and 11 of their spouses. The major event of the weekend will be Past Masters' Night of Oakland Lodge on Saturday evening, May 5, at which time a 60-year membership pin will be presented to Oakland Lodge Past Master and past secretary, Robert T. Hoffman.

The evening will begin with a dinner, served at the Paul B. Naylor Memorial Temple by Oakland Chapter No. 67, Order of the Eastern Star at 6 p.m. The special communication will follow at 7 p.m. Masons planning to attend the dinner are requested to make reservations by Monday, April 30, by leaving their names on the answering machine at the Temple (334-1770).

The women accompanying the Grand officers will dine with spouses of Oakland Lodge Past Masters at the Silver Tree Inn at 7 p.m. the same evening.

The Grand Master, his officers, and their spouses will stay at Royal Oaks Inn, McHenry, Saturday night. They will attend church services along with Oakland Lodge members at St. John's Episcopal Church in Deer Park at 10:30 a.m., with Rev. John Grant, vicar of St. John's and a member of Oakland Lodge, officiating. Local Masons are asked to convene at the church by 10:20 a.m. and sit together during the worship service, according to James Shafer, Worshipful Master.

Born in Cordova, Talbot County, Grand Master Harrison is a 1942 graduate of Hurlock High School, Dorchester County. He served in the U.S. Navy during World War II, spending most of his service time on a radar/sonar training ship stationed in New London.

Now retired, Harrison spent 40 years in the construction and real estate business, after starting his own masonry contracting business at the age of 24. He later enlarged his company to include general construction in both residential and light industrial projects.

His Masonic career includes becoming Master of Granite Lodge No. 177 in 1971 and again in 1978, Worthy Patron of St. Michael's Chapter, O.E.S., for three terms, and maintained active membership in both the York and Scottish Rite bodies. He has been active in the Grand Lodge since Past Grand Master Middleton appointed him W. Grand Standard Bearer in 1975. He was elected Senior Grand Warden in 1981 and has been a member of the Board of Trustees since 1978.

In addition to his Masonic service, Harrison has served the United Methodist Church in numerous capacities, including Sunday School superintendent and church lay leader. In his community, he has served Talbot County and the town of St. Michael's on several boards and commissions.

Harrison is married to the former Willa Catherine Jaynes. They are the parents of one son, Jerry, and two daughters, Mrs. Carol Sinclair and Mrs. Ann Barker. They also have seven grandchildren.

Drivers Charged With Negligent Driving By Police

Maryland State Police investigated two single vehicle accidents which occurred over the past week in which the drivers of each vehicle were charged with negligent driving.

Lana Lee Friend, 21, Oakland, was northbound on the Herrington Manor Road in a Dodge Omni with one passenger, Lisa Lyn Friend, 18, Oakland.

The vehicle apparently went off the right side of the road and Friend lost control, causing the vehicle to go back across the road and struck an embankment on the left side of the road, then overturning.

Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad responded and both Lana and Lisa were taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where they were treated and released.

Friend was charged with negligent driving.

A Washington, Pa., couple were taken to Cumberland Memorial Hospital after an accident which occurred April 22.

Violet B. Forrest, 57, Washington, Pa., was westbound on U.S. Rt. 48 in a Mazda GLC with one passenger, Robert Forrest, 60, Washington, Pa.

Forrest apparently fell asleep and the vehicle ran off the left side of the roadway into the median where it traveled approximately 100 feet before reentering the roadway where it then struck the guardrails on the right side of the road, traveling approximately 50 feet, then striking the guardrails again before coming to a rest.

Northern Garrett Rescue Squad responded and the couple were taken to Cumberland Memorial Hospital, where they were treated and released.

Forrest was charged with negligent driving.

GLAF To Present Program On African America Literature, Music

Pete Harper

Dr. Philip Allen

A program on the Literature and Music of African America, in which well-known jazz musician Pete Harper will participate, will be presented by the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival at St. Paul's United Methodist Church in Oakland on Thursday, May 3, at 7:30 p.m. The last in the series "America: Cultural Roots and Off-Shoots," the program is funded by the Maryland Humanities Council and is open to the public, free of charge.

The presentation will be given by Dr. Philip Allen, dean of Arts and Humanities at Frostburg State University, and Dr. Eira Patnaik, associate professor of English at Frostburg State University, who will demonstrate how Black American culture has evolved from the experience of living as a perpetual underclass in America. They will show how African American music emerged from its roots in Bantu and West African philosopy to become the independent voice of a people's strategy for coping with life.

In their discussion the presenters will trace the evolution of this music as an art form that celebrates or mourns a people's capacity to control the circumstances of their existence. They will give a historical perspective of four musical genres: Spiritual, Gospel, Blues, and Jazz, showing how each of these art forms reflected a condition of its people and how a body of written literature has emerged from each of them.

No stranger to the subject of Africa, Dr. Allen has been a Senior Fullbright Lecturer in American Studies at the University of Constantine in Algeria, and at the University of Dakar, Senegal. For eight years, he was associate professor of African Studies at the University of Vermont, during which time he prepared The Traveler's Africa, published in 1973.

Dr. Patnaik, originally from India, teaches a number of different courses, including African-American literature at Frostburg State University. She has been the recipient of several National Endowment for Humanities grants for summer study, and has published a number of articles, including "Proverbs as Cosmic Truth" in the Africana Journal.

Peter Harper, known to the Frostburg and Washington areas as a great jazz musician singer and band leader, is a native of Frostburg, who began playing an old "potato bug" mandolin at the age of 12, then later went on to banjo and bass fiddle. For 10 years he had his own band and establishment in Frostburg.

Md. State Police Charge Students With Theft Of Car

Maryland State Police charged two students of Garrett Community College with theft after an incident which occurred Monday.

Shane Thomas Scott, 20, Manassas, Va., and Eric Payne, 21, Landover, apparently removed a vehicle owned by Garrett Community College on Monday.

The two men allegedly drove the car to Cumberland and on the return trip, hit a deer.

Tpr. S.H. Anderson charged each man with theft. They were then released on their own recognizance.

Local 4-H'er Accepted Into IFYE Program

Joyce Noel, Oakland, was recently notified that she has been accepted as an IFYE (International 4-H Youth Exchange) Ambassador to Australia this summer.

Joyce, daughter of Jean Noel Trickett, will be a May graduate of Pleasant Valley Christian Academy. She is a five-year member of the Red House 4-H Club where she has held the offices of vice president and reporter/photographer. While in Australia, Joyce will celebrate her 17th birthday.

A total of 30 4-H members from 18 states will comprise two 4-H Ambassador groups to visit Australia. The purpose of the program is a cultural exchange program designed to give young people an opportunity to learn first-hand about other countries and other customs.

The main purpose of the program is to increase the ambassador's awareness and understanding of another people, as well as study a topic of interest related to 4-H/Extension program areas.

The six-week program includes orientation in Hawaii, a month's stay in the state of New South Wales, with three weeks spent living with host families and a three day stopover in Auckland, New Zealand.

The 4-H participant and their home counties are responsible for the funding of the trip. Joyce has conducted a yard sale and is working with her 4-H club to raise funds by selling tickets for a food basket. Anyone wishing to donate to the funds may contact the Garrett County Extension Advisory Council, International Exchange, 202 S. Third Street, Oakland. Contributions are tax deductible.

More information may be obtained by contacting Joyce at 334-3887 or Alice Hevner, Extension agent, 4-H at 334-1990.

Two Men Charged With Possession By State Police

Maryland State Police arrested two men over the past week for possession of marijuana.

Todd Timothy Caldwell, 28, Niles, Mich., was arrested on April 19 for drug charges.

Tfc. J.K. Moore stopped Caldwell about 7:50 a.m. on Rt. 219 near the Cove overlook. Caldwell was found to be driving on a suspended license. A subsequent search of the car apparently revealed drug paraphernalia and marijuana residue.

Caldwell was charged with possession of marijuana and paraphernalia. He was then taken before a District Court Commissioner, where bond was set for $1,000.

Police then transported Caldwell to the Garrett County Jail, where he is currently being held in lieu of $1,000.

Clayton Lewis Donham, 32, Mt. Lake Park, was stopped on Rt. 560 on Saturday, April 21, for driving while suspended by Tfc. R.T. Wilson.

A subsequent search of the vehicle revealed suspected marijuana and paraphernalia. Donham was charged with driving while suspended, possession of marijuna and possession of paraphernalia. He was then taken to the Garrett County Jail, where he has since been released on his own recognizance.

Bloodmobile Nets Nearly 200 Pints In Regular Visit

The American Red Cross Bloodmobile collected 195 pints of blood at its regular visit to the National Guard Armory in Oakland last Friday. There were 208 persons who responded to the visit, however 13 were deferred from donating for various reasons.

One donor reached a plateau of giving that few have ever attained. Charles N. Markgraf, of Mtn. Lake Park, gave his 192nd pint of blood which made him a 24-gallon donor. Markgraf, who was a fighter pilot during World War II, gave his first several pints of blood to injured commrades and has given regularly ever since. He has been a resident of the county for about two years, having retired here from a CPA practice.

Others reaching gallon marks were: Miriam A. Schrock, Oakland, five gallons; Levi E. Miller, Oakland, and Charles W. Harvey, Deer Park, four gallons; James Mack Rush, Friendsville, Brooks Hamilton and Marguerite Holland, both of Oakland, three gallons; Sylvia Stemple, Donald D. Matthews, and Craig E. Wengerd, and Kris E. Friend, all two gallons; and Michael Saunders, Mtn. Lake Park, Savilla S. Yoder, Patricia Craston, Sylvus Flora, Helen K. Moyer, Ellwood R. Sanders, Lisa M. Lewis, Gail S. Shope, and Leo J. McBee, Chloie Hutson, Accident, and Stephen G. Perrine, Terra Alta, W.Va., all one gallon.

Local volunteers who assisted with the visit included the following nurses: Judy Wilt, L.P.N., and Sharon Schwalm, Cindy Kutchman, Betty Shaffer, Virginia McCauley, Norma Hesen, Rhoda Keefer, Lois Cuppett, Lucy Burnett, Phyllis Pachecko, Jeanett Sweitzer, and Charee Reckner, all R.N.'s, who took donor histories.

Measuring pulses and temperatures were Helen Kahl, Cathy Moon, and Sam Moon. Bag labeling was done by Arletta Bittinger, Mary Jane DeWitt, and Ruth Porter. Hemoglobins were recorded by Beth Friend, Karen Wolf, Judy Umstot, and Susan Plank.

Handling registration were Vava Railey, Kathryn Helbig, Sally Gonder, Margie Seifert, Lorraine Ledden, Beryldine Stanton, and Dorothy Frame. Canteen workers were Mildred Savage, Mabel Hauser, Violet Bowser, Freda Austin, Grayce Quinet, Helen Henline, Lois Mechem, Ruth Mateer, Lorraine Mason, and Holly Bartlett.

Walkers were Cindy McCartney, Kim Marley, Jenny Moats, and Cathy Burnett. Loaders were members of Scout Troop 31 and unloaders were Oakland city employees.

The next Oakland visit of the Bloodmobile will be Friday, August 24.

Governor To Host "Ounce Of Prevention" Event

Governor William Donald Schaefer and his Drug and Alcohol Abuse Commission will host the first annual "Ounce of Prevention" awards ceremony in honor of Maryland residents who have made an outstanding contribution in the area of community-based substance abuse prevention programming on Tuesday, May 1, at 4 p.m. at the Annapolis Waterfront Hotel.

"I am pleased and encouraged to know that there are so many communities across the state giving their time and energy to fight drug and alcohol abuse," said Governor Schaefer.

The ceremony will recognize 146 Maryland residents representing many facets of their communities, including local law enforcement officers, school and church leaders, community volunteers, as well as drug and alcohol abuse prevention and treatment specialists.

Garrett County residents to be recognized are Floyd Baker, chairman and one of the founders of the Garrett County Council on Drug and Alcohol Abuse, and Phil Fisher, prevention coordinator for the Garrett County Health Department.

Also being recognized is the Statewide Prevention Coordinator Network comprised of 24 prevention specialists whose work includes mounting successful drug and alcohol abuse prevention initiatives and encouraging community support within their jurisdictions.

Programs that have been chosen to receive the "Ounce of Prevention" award include projects ranging from drug and alcohol free prom/graduation parties to a clergy group who have developed anti-substance abuse curriculum.

A reception will be held immediately following the ceremony at which the honorees will have an informal opportunity to meet members of the Maryland House of Delegates and the Governor's Drug and Alcohol Abuse Commission.

The "Ounce of Prevention" Recognition Ceremony will mark the end of Maryland Drug and Alcohol Abuse Prevention Month which showcased prevention programming statewide. Events during Prevention Month included the 6th Annual Alcohol and Drug Abuse Administration Conference and the Maryland State Department of Education Conference for School Superintendents and Health Officers.

Sponsorship of several of the events during Maryland Drug and Alcohol Abuse Prevention Month was provided by McDonald's Family Restaurants.

"IF I ONLY HAD A HEART" bemoans the Tin Man in the "Wizard of Oz," while Dorothy wants to go home and the Scarecrow yearns for a brain. After a 20-year hiatus from playing the roles of the Tin Man, the Scarecrow, and the Cowardly Lion in high school, Terry Wolfe, Tom Hayhurst, and Bill Grant return to the stage next week in those same roles in the Garrett Choral Society's production of "Best of Broadway." Playing the role of Dorothy will be Maria Massi (who wasn't even born 20 years ago, fellas.) The performances will be held at Garrett Community College Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, May 4-6, and will include classic excerpts from six famous Broadway musicals. Tickets are now available at Englander's Pharmacy, Oakland, and from Choral Society members. The director of the Garrett Choral Society is Nancy Learey. The director of the 1970 Southern High School Chorus production of "Wizard of Oz"? — Nancy Learey.

Juvenile Escapees Apprehended By Md. State Police

Male juveniles escaped from the Meadow Mountain Youth Center last Friday and were apprehended a short time later by Maryland State Police.

The three male juveniles were apparently reported missing at 6:45 p.m. and were found a short time later by K-9 unit in the vicinity of New Germany Road, where the youth center is located.

Tpr. J.T. Bentlejewski investigated.

Accolades For George . . .

According to those who should know, the 1990 General Assembly of Maryland has been ranked as one of the poorest, most unproductive sessions on record. The continued bickering and lack of compromise between our "do it now" Governor Schaefer and the more conservative legislature, coupled with thousands of useless hours spent haggling over the abortion issue resulted in an extremely low output of new legislation and major decisions.

However, the session was not a total loss and, with Earth Day and Earth Week so fresh on our minds right now, we want to make mention of one particular bill that was passed, one that is indeed significant for Garrett County and the environment.

The bill involved Program Open Space, a program created in 1970 that provides monies for the acquisition of land for the environmentally-sound development of parks. Without this program, various Garrett County agencies and organizations would not have been able to purchase land and build parks. Every town park except for Broadford has relied on these funds for development and several additions at Broadford Park were also made possible through Open Space funding. Statewide, some 634,000 acres of land has been purchased this way, thereby preserved from private development.

One of the major changes in the POS program brought about by this year's legislation is the phasing out of the cap on the percentage of transfer taxes going into the program. Presently, the amount of transfer tax going into the program is capped at $39 million. The new legislation will eventually allow all of the transfer tax revenue to go into the fund, which is expected to amount to about $106 annually by 1996. This means that counties like Garrett, which now receives $89,000 in POS monies annually, can expect double that amount by 1996.

The other big change in the POS program is that up to 25 percent of the funds can be used for the development and capital improvements to the land. Previously, all POS monies had to be used for the land acquisition only.

Paul E. Schurick, the governor's press secretary, described this particular piece of legislation as "one of the most significant environmental contributions that the governor will make."

While it does take the governor's signature to make this bill a law, the accolades for its passage should go to none other than our own Delegate George Edwards and Senator Bernard Fowler, who co-chaired the Joint Committee on Program Open Space. Edwards and Fowler and their committee worked for months on this legislation and orignally Governor Schaefer was opposed to it. According to Mike Nelson, assistant secretary for capital programs, Department of Natural Resources, it was George Edwards who was "very influential" in changing the governor's mind. He described Edwards as "a real fireball."

It is not part of Delegate Edwards' nature to bring attention to himself for his accomplishments in Annapolis. If it were left entirely up to him, many of his constituents would not realize how effective he is as our delegate and how much he is respected by his peers. So we take this opportunity to recognize his outstanding efforts on our behalf and extend our appreciation.

Letters to the Editor

Letter to Editor:

If Earth Day 1990 and this week's string of Earth Week activities across the country, including those in Garrett County, foreshadow anything, it might be called the "decade of the environment." Just glance through this newspaper recently and note stories about water supplies (Shallmar), logging (Herrington Manor), and the varieties of conservation-based programs area school children are undertaking.

Whatever the particular subject, from air pollution to trees, there is enough consumer awareness, maybe overall public clout, to start affecting change. But what's being reported and touted at various so-called environmental meetings the bona fide truth? Sometimes people mean well, but they don't always have their facts straight.

For example, Ron Stemple of Allegheny Wood Products at Mt. Storm, W.Va., and I, a Swanton Christmas Tree grower and member of Governor Schaefer's Task Force on Trees and Forestry, attended the April 7 Citizens' Conference on Forests and Forestry, organized by the Maryland Conservation Council with many co-sponsors like the Audubon Naturalist Society, Chesapeake Bay Foundation, the Sierra Club, Friends of the Earth. No offense intended, but, the conference was biased against forest managers like us. Conference topics ran the gamut from how natural and managed forests differ ecologically to the uncounted costs of logging.

The majority of the conferees preferred that public forest lands be managed for multi-use. They would like to see the multi-use of public and most private forestland in Maryland be limited to recreation, wildlife and held for aesthetic value while fiber production be delegated most always to "other forests."

A re-cap of the day-long session held at the University of Maryland at College Park is in order as a way of reporting just how complicated (or muddled) a seemingly innocent and scientific topic like forestry can become in the current surge in popularity of environmentalism.

First speaker up, Dr. Brian McCarthy, a forest ecologist from Frostburg State University, discussed how natural and managed forests differ ecologically. He pointed out how the practice of patch cutting was good for many wildlife species, but it was hard on interior forest dwelling species. Although later in the conference, another speaker, Dr. Leon Minckler, an environmental forestry consultant, talked about the advantage of very small "patch cuts" throughout the forest of less than one-half acre to just under two acres. Minckler didn't comment on the economic feasibility of making such cuts or the damage to the rest of the forest working in such small areas.

McCarthy compared streams in managed and natural forest stands, pointing out how streams in natural forests had lots of tree trunks and branches in them creating many pools and falls which benefited the nutriment exchange andoxygen content of the stream and provided a much better habitat for stream dwelling species than in managed forest stands where you wouldn't find tree debris in the streams thus making them less desirable.

Cutting of timber in stream buffers is very strictly regulated by law in Maryland. One of the greatest sins is to leave tree debris in the stream so obviously there would be less in a managed forest stream.

By far the most interesting concept was introduced by Dr. Richard Rice, resource economist with The Wilderness Society's Resource Planning and Economics Department. He said that all forestry agencies operate on a budget funded by a lump sum from their respective legislatures. They are also mandated to provide certain services to the public at little or no cost. Since the parks and other recreational facilities they provide are mostly used by upper income taxpayers, the lower income citizens are subsidizing the recreation of the upper income park users. The only way the forest agency, or say, DNR in Maryland, can increase their revenue is through timber sales. This fact may tend to bias the agencies toward timber sales to finance recreational goals.

Dr. Rice said studies show that recreational facilities provided by these agencies have a real value of $5 to $30 for a 12-hour period with hiking in wild areas being of a lower value and cross-country skiing being closer to the high end.

Dr. Rice's proposal is that these agencies would derive their budgets entirely from user fees and get no money from legislatures for operating expenses. This would also alleviate any potential pressure toward timber cutting.

One point completely missed by any conferees is the fact that zoning laws in Central Maryland have continued to require larger and larger minimum lot sizes for development which turns forests into roads and roofs much faster than, for example, cluster-type residential development.

To the Editor:

Since Earth Day was Sunday, April 22, let's think about the environmental hazards of balloon launches. Usually such launches are held by or for children's groups as part of their reading or science studies. But these colorful pieces of latex eventually lose their air and come down to earth or get caught in trees or power lines. Then, turtles, birds, or other wildlife are tempted to ingest these balloons, which get caught in their digestive tracts or suffocate them.

The adults in charge of these children's groups need to realize that balloons released outdoors pose a real threat to wildlife and litter up the environment. Much has already been written and broadcast about the hazards of balloon launches. In fact, just last year, some Dennett Road students wrote and broadcast editorials addressing this problem. Articles detailing the hazards of balloon launches have appeared in newspapers and magazines, and programs about the same have appeared on public and network TV. The facts are out there. Become educated! Don't release any more balloons into the atmosphere — what goes up invariably comes down. And we're all the worse off for it.

Environmentally yours,
Donna Aspinall

To the Editor:

"It sure is quiet around here, the young boy said to me.

"Spring is the time that the Robins usually sing. Where are they this year?

"I don't know, I replied, but these trees are strong and healthy.

"And why are there no butterflies on the flowers anymore, or bees buzzing?

"Is it the poison you sprayed? You've ruined it all for me and killed my friends!

"Will they ever come back again? Will it ever be the same? What could I tell my child?

"Man sees fit to do Nature's job and in conquering a part destroys the whole."

The above poem is fictional, but it reflects fears which are very real. The threat of our trees being ravaged by gypsy moths could be a nightmare come true. The proliferation of gypsy moths, however, suggests an imbalance in our environment, possibly manmade. Can man correct this imbalance by widespread spraying of Dimilin? The scales are already dangerously tipped against a healthy environment for ourselves and our wildlife.

Can we weigh the consequences of such action when the consequences are unknown? Go carefully.

Sincerely,
Eileen Schlosnagle

P.S. My son wants to know if he should carry an umbrella while playing outside during spraying time. Can anybody answer his question?

To the Editor:

Maryland's 108 public libraries answered an enormous number of questions from citizens last year, from more than 25,000 in Cecil County to nearly 300,000 in Anne Arundel County to well over 2 million in Montgomery County. The state's academic, school and special libraries answer thousands more from their users annually. Now libraries are turning the tables on Marylanders and asking, "How can we serve you better in the next decade?"

Citizens are urged to submit what they think are the important issues libraries must face in meeting the information needs of Marylanders in the 1990s. The issues will be discussed and developed into resolutions by delegates at the Maryland Governor's Conference on Libraries and Information Services, scheduled to take place September 23-25 in Baltimore. Resolutions will be submitted to Governor William Donald Schaefer and sent to the 1991 White House Conference on Libraries and Information Service.

Issues forms and guidelines are available at all Maryland public libraries. Citizens can also mail their library issues to Florence Brown, chair, Governor's Conference Resolutions Committee, Enoch Pratt Free Library, 400 Cathedral St., Baltimore, Md. 21201. (One double-spaced page per issue. Please sign, date and include your name, address and phone number). Issue statements must address the following points: What is this issue? Why is this an issue? What actions should be taken to address the issue? All issues must be postmarked by June 1, 1990.

This is an opportunity for citizens to help shape the future of Maryland's libraries — public, academic, school, special, and state institutional libraries as well as federal military libraries located in the state.

But more importantly, this is an opportunity for citizens to influence the information services libraries will provide to future generations. I encourage Marylanders to respond to this call.

Sincerely,
Diane M. Rey
Planning Committee
1990 Maryland Governor's Conference on Libraries and Information Services

Facts From The Mental Health Advisory Committee

GARRETT COUNTY MARYLAND HEALTH DEPARTMENT

DOES YOUR CHILD NEED MENTAL HEALTH COUNSELING?

by Laurie Scott-Bulka, member MHAC

Because the range of normal behavior in children is wide, with individual differences in intellectural ability, motor coordination, temperament, disposition, sociability, and coping ability, it is difficult to assess when a child needs outside help. How is a parent to decide when counseling is really necessary? Keep in mind that mental health for a child is not the absence of stress but the ability to cope with stress, (as for an adult).

Children transmit their cries for help in various ways. There may be physical complaints, headaches, stomach aches, etc., for which no causes can be found. They may regress to an earlier form of behavior like thumbsucking or bedwetting. They may begin to have trouble in school with learning, peer relationships or ability to deal with authority. Sometimes unrealistic fears develop, or children become self-destructive. Some parents report cruelty to animals or other misconduct including stealing and lying. Some children just seem moodier than usual, or have a sudden change in energy level.

Parents who are concerned about their children's mental health, but unsure of how disturbed or disturbing their child is, may benefit from answering the following questions* honestlv.

1. Is the child's behavior very different from that of his peers?
2. Does he lack the ability to direct his impulses, to control himself, as might be expected at his age?
3. Does he have trouble getting along with children of his own age?
4. Is he having difficulty learning?
5. Does he have recurring physical symptoms?
6. Is he so withdrawn or aggressive that his behavior worries you?

Parents should also consider if the disturbing behavior occurs just at home, just at school, or wherever the child is, how long it has been of concern, and what efforts have been taken to remediate or resolve the problem. The longer the list of symptoms, the less age-appropriate the behavior, the longer the problem, has existed and has been resistant to efforts to help, the more important it is to seek professional advice without delay.

For service in Garrett County, parents can contact the Mental Health division of the Garrett County Health Department at 334-8111, or one of several private practioners listed in the phone directory.

They've Closed The Lane Again! And No One Is Working . . . Or Are They?

by Linda Singer, SHA Customer Service

It's not bad enough highway engineers mess up the route you've been taking for years. You are certain they huddle to figure out what things they can do to make your morning dash to the office even more of an adventure.

Well, we confess. Our traffic staff and our highway engineers do huddle to see what lanes they must block off if highway construction and maintenance work is to be done at minimum risk to our customers, and our workers.

First and foremost, we make sure the maximum number of lanes that can be safely used are open to traffic when they are needed most. That's why, whenever possible, we keep all lanes open during morning and evening peak hours. In all candor, this policy is a double-edged sword: fewer working hours mean more time needed to complete the work. But we think it's worth it because it makes the daily ride easier. So in congested areas work is usually suspended during peak hours, the lanes are cleared and the barriers are pulled. And after the rush subsides, the lanes are blocked off again.

Very often, you find lanes closed when no work is going on. We get a lot of complaints about that. Like...we forgot to take up the barrels when the lane is clear ahead, or we blocked a lane off more than a quarter of a mile ahead of one lonely truck doing some work, or we don't know what we're doing, or we just don't care. Well, Governor Schaefer, and our people, really do care.

It may come as a surprise, but there are some really good reasons why we shut down lanes in work zones even when it appears work isn't going on. Here are a few:

•All those traffic safety devices — those barrels, for example — must be in place for the entire length of a work area before any work can begin. And they have to stay in place until the work is stopped and crews and equipment are out of the way. That takes time, and for some of that time, no work is going on.

•Freshly placed asphalt or concrete takes time to set if it's going to last long and stand up to traffic. If we do the job right, we don't have to do it as frequently, but the lane looks like it's ready to open when it really isn't.

•The very nature of road construction and maintenance work can make it dangerous. If we've got a crane moving steel to build a bridge, we've got to close lanes. If we're resurfacing or reconstructing the pavement and there is a drop off of several inches, it's dangerous if a car veers off the pavement just a bit. Sometimes we have to close an extra lane as a safety buffer, because the work is too close — and people will often wonder why that lane is closed.

•We close off a lane continuously when we have several consecutive work areas in a limited stretch of highway. This prevents drivers from getting "trapped" in short stretches of travel lanes.

•A driver must be able to see far down the road and anticipate a dangerous situation, or the need to slow down or stop. So when we're working just beyond a hill or a sharp curve, or wherever a driver doesn't have a clear line of sight, we have to close off a lane in advance even though there is no work there. That raises eyebrows or causes muttering, or worse.

•Don't forget Mother Nature. Scattered showers or other foul weather can force crews off a construction site after the pavement is torn up. And it takes time to dry up and gear up again.

•Work crews do take breaks for meals — and there won't be work going on. But time is money, so the private contractors who build our road don't permit much idle time.

•Sometimes we do goof — such as when a lane is shut down and a supplier missed a delivery or the contractor's equipment breaks down.

The next time you approach a work zone on the highway keep in mind the two main reasons for our work zone restrictions: your safety and our highway workers' safety. Also, keep in mind that contractors pay penalities if they take too long, so they try to work quickly. But construction, especially under traffic conditions, can be a long, frustrating, and dangerous process.

Your safety and our workers' safety mean a lot to us. Since last September, three of our people have been struck and killed by vehicles while they were working on the highway. And over the past five years, 66 motorists have been killed in construction zones.

So please drive safely, particularly in construction zones and "give our workers a brake." And please understand why that lane might be shut down. You don't have to like it. We don't like it either. But there is almost always a good reason.

Thanks for your patience.

To the Editor:

(Mr. Beitzell) will you please enlighten the people of Gorman as to why they pay $43.00 per quarter for water and you, and surrounding areas pay just for what you use?

Do you call that fair?

Hazel M. Kyle

To the Editor:

As a member of the volunteer service, I wish to express my strong opposition to the publishing of the picture of the accident victim which appeared on page A-2 of your April 19th edition. I can only say that in the photo the victim's visual display of horror and obvious facial lacerations lead me to believe that the photo may have best been taken from a different position and angle. I feel such an invasion upon an accident victim is unwarranted. Please don't force the volunteers on an accident scene to devote their time to tasks such as shielding accident victims with blankets or tarps and policing fire lines to prevent the publishing of such explicit photographs.

Sincerely,
Jim Raley,
Deputy Fire Chief
Eastern Garrett
Volunteer Fire Co.

LWV THE LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS

Dear Garrett Countian:

Garbage and trash!! What are we going to do with it all? Take more of this beautiful countryside for landfills? Are we burying ourselves in trash?

The State of Maryland has mandated that 15 percent of the volume of our trash going to the landfill be recylced. How do we begin a recycling program? At the League of Women Voters' Public Meeting in January many ideas for recylcing were proposed. The League would like to recommend to your place of business the following suggestions for recycling:

1. Start a workplace recycling program. Choose a recycling chairman for your business.

2. Have your employees bring to your business the following items for recycling:

a. Aluminum cans (rinsed out so that they won't attract insects).

b. Tin cans (washed out, labels don't matter).

c. Glass (washed, sorted by color: clear, brown, green).

d. Newspaper for bedding for cattle (no glossy sections or colored paper because they are cancerous if eaten by livestock).

e. Computer paper (in sheets or shredded).

f. Cardboard boxes (flattened).

3. The League will arrange to have these items picked up on a certain day of the month of your choosing. Some of these items can be used to earn money either for the League or for your business.

a. B&S Scrap will pay for cans and glass and any metal.

b. Paul Dove will take cardboard boxes and computer paper that isn't shredded.

c. The newspaper and shredded paper is just a service to local farmers.

Get the Spirit of Recycling! Help keep Garrett County clean. And help yourselves, too. Many of your employees may not have trash pick-up and this would be a real service to you and to them.

In order for the county to get credit for the 15 percent of trash recycled, please keep a record of the volume of trash you have collected and keep the League informed.

If you would like the League to assist you in any way or if you want more information about recycling, write to the LWV at P.O. Box 115, Oakland, MD, or call Connie Margison at 334-3826.

Friends will be received today, Thursday, from 2 to 4 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. at the Silcox-Merritt Funeral Residence, Cumberland.

Services will be conducted Friday at 2 p.m. at St. John's United Church of Christ, Corriganville, by the Rev. Ruth S. Kershner.

Interment will be in Rest Lawn Memorial Gardens, LaVale.

V. EILEEN FULK

V. Eileen Fulk, 65, Bayard, W.Va., died Saturday, April 21, 1990, at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Born June 10, 1924, in Bayard, she was the daughter of the late Arle E. and Florida K. (Boggs) Mullennes. She was preceded in death by one son.

Mrs. Fulk was the former coowner of H.R. Fulk Jr. General Merchandise in Bayard from 1947 to 1977. She was a life-long member of the Bayard United Methodist Church; a past worthy matron of the Davis Walter Chapter 43 Order of the Eastern Star; a member of the Mount Storm Ladies Auxiliary of VFW Post 6735; a member of the AARP; and a former co-chair of the Grant County Democratic Committee and the Bayard Town Council.

Surviving are her husband, H. Rell Fulk Jr.; two sisters, Hazel Sowers, Mannington; and Marian Sharps, Oakland; and three grandchildren.

Friends were received at the Stewart Funeral Home, Oakland. The Walter Chapter 43 Order of the Eastern Star held a memorial service at the funeral home on Tuesday. Services were held there Wednesday by the Rev. William Anderson.

Interment followed in the Bayard Cemetery.

The family requests that memorials take the form of contributions to the Southern Rescue Squad, Oakland, or the Bayard Volunteer Fire Department, Bayard, W.Va. 26707.

ARMED SERVICES REVIEW

George L. Snyder, son of Mildred L. Peterson, Oakland, has been promoted in the U.S. Army to the rank of staff sergeant.

Snyder is a motor transport operator with the 10th Area Support Group in Japan.

He is a 1985 graduate of Southern High School.

U.S. Navy Seaman Recruit Rodney T. Pike, son of Ernest L. and Catherine L. Alexander, Mountain Lake Park, has completed recruit training at Recruit Training Command, Orlando, Fla.

During Pike's eight-week training cycle, he studied general military subjects designed to prepare him for further academic and on-the-job training in one of the Navy's 85 basic fields.

Pike's studies included seamanship, close order drill, Naval history and first aid. Personnel who complete this course are eligible for three hours of college credit in Physical Education and Hygiene.

He joined the Navy in October 1989.

The fronds of some palms are over 70 feet long. Stood on its end, a leaf that length would equal the height of a seven-story building.

Regional Science Expo Winners Recently Named

An overflow crowd of parents, friends and family members gathered together recently in the Garrett Community College auditorium along with 81 entrants in the second annual Western Maryland Regional Science Expo to await the announcement of awards.

The ceremony was the culmination of a full day of activities that began with lunch and continued to include orientation, workshops, project judging, a tour of the Garrett Community College campus and dinner. RECYCLE and make it a life-long habit is the message that seems clear in the above photograph of a display set up for Earth Day by the Garrett County League of Women Voters. The display was one of many at Garrett County's Environmental Fair held Sunday at Garrett Community College. It was estimated by Steve Kessler, co-ordinator of the event, that approximately 400 people were in attendance throughout the day.

Dennett Road Students, Staff Plant Arboretum

Dennett Road School held a special "Give a Day for the Bay Program,"/ "Earth Day Planting Ceremony" last Friday afternoon. This combination event marked the importance of Earth Day 1990 and the beginning of Dennett Road's arboretum, located on the school's front lawn.

A student representative from every classroom at each grade level was invited to actually plant trees. Members of Cub Scout Pack No. 31 were also present to plant two white pines, one which they had donated and one as a gift from the Garrett County Forestry Board, courtesy of Forman's Tree Farm. All fifth graders and their teachers attended the program, as the care and maintenance of the arboretum will be largely the responsibility of fifth grade classes.

The program began with a welcome and opening remarks by Clark Sharpless, school principal. He then introduced John Nelson, Garrett County Planning and Zoning director, who presented "Maryland Earth Day" T-shirts to all students planters, to six fifth graders who were assigned to do special readings, to Mr. Sharpless, and to the two parent members of Dennett Road's Reforestation Committee, Mrs. Barbara Schick and Mrs. Carol Tuomisto.

Six fifth-graders then read aloud the individual parts of the "Earth Day 1990 Student Green Pledge." They were Adam Chorpenning, Joseph Dever, Lauren Newcomb, Rita Powell, Megan Redinger, and Matthew Schick. This was followed by the planting of a pin oak tree (donated by Paul Mateer) and a tamarack tree (given by Mrs. Kiyo Dolan of the Mountain Laurel Garden Club) by 21 student representatives: Amy Baker, Stephanie Ballard, Jesse Black, Amber Boler, Carrie Carpenter, Roy Cheshire, Janet Cook, Mark Dever, Joshua Donoghue, Rachel Farmer, Tabitha Lantz, B.J. Lyons, Cassandra Manning, Chad Mellinger, David Moore, Greg Pumphrey, Becky Smith, Nathan Thayer, Tracy Upole, Becky VanBrunt, and Carrie Werdebaugh. Under the direction of John Forman, Cub Scouts from Pack No. 31 also planted two white pines with the help of Les McDaniel, guidance counselor at the school.

Dennett Road's Reforestation Committee is composed of: Mrs. Linda Fleming (Chapter I resource teacher), Mrs. Carol Tuomisto and Mrs. Barbara Schick (parent volunteers), Les McDaniel, and Clark Sharpless.

The Reforestation Committee noted appreciation toward the Forest Conservancy District Board for its approval of the committee's grant application for the Chesapeake Bay School Reforestation Project. The arboretum will be used in conjunction with the science curriculum across all grade levels, in an effort to heighten student's environmental awareness and emphasize their role as "caretakers of our planet." It will be open to the entire community and will be accessible to handicapped persons.

The committee noted appreciation to the following people who have served as consultants in planning Dennett Road's arboretum: John Forman, chairman, Garrett County Forestry Board; Ernie Metz, Department of Natural Resources, Maryland Forest, Park and Wildlife Division, Mt. Nebo office; Dave Taylor, Green Acres Garden Center; Mrs. Kathie Smith and Mrs. Kiyo Dolan, Mountain Laurel Garden Club; Paul Mateer, Mateer Nursery, Inc.; Dr. Melvin Brown, visiting professor at the University of Maryland and author of two books, Woody Plants of Maryland and Herbaceous Plants of Maryland.

Appreciation was also extended to Mr. Sharpless, Mr. McDaniel, Mrs. Tuomisto, Mrs. Schick, Denver Bittinger, and Roy Hinkle for setting the posts around the school's driveway on Tuesday, April 17; to Al Tuomisto and Mettiki Coal, Inc., for donation and delivery of wooden posts; to John Mellinger Jr. and the Jackson Equipment Company for digging the post holes; to Russell Sines and Cumberland Concrete Company for the school's discounted cement purchases; to Dave Taylor for his donation and planting of a blue spruce tree as well as his crew's planting of five white pines, purchased by the school with this year's grant award; and to Mr. McDaniel and parent volunteers Dave Mountain, Carol Tuomisto, and Barbara Schick for landscaping done on Friday prior to the program.

A dedication ceremony for the Dennett Road School arboretum is being planned for May 30.

More information will be forthcoming as plans are finalized.

WHITEWATER DISPLAY — As part of the Environmental Fair held at Garrett Community College during Earth Day, a moving water demonstrator, constructed by Michael Logsdon, GCC instructor, is shown above. E.J. Scofield, McHenry, places a ping-pong ball into the moving water and watches as it is about to travel through the different water movements and formations normally encountered in whitewater conditions. While E.J. concentrates on the water, many who attended the fair relaxed and picnicked outside to the sounds of "The Stony Lonesome Boys," a local bluegrass band.

Chamber Of Commerce Elects Board Of Directors

The Mountain Top Chamber of Commerce recently elected its board of directors and officers for 1990-91.

Re-elected to the board were Mark Durst, of Durst Funeral Home; I. Robert Rudy, of I.R. Rudy's Inc.; Jim Murray, Rodeheaver and Associates; and Ernie Gregg, Gregg's Pharmacy.

Elected officers were: Rudy as president, Jack Jones, of Marvin's Men's Wear, vice president; Glenda Baker, of the Promotion Council, secretary; and Milford Beckman, Garrett National Bank, treasurer.

A PIZZA PARTY was won recently by the second grade class at Loch Lynn Elementary School for the students' successful completion of the Book-It program sponsored by Pizza Hut. Book-It is a five-month reading incentive program in which each student sets an individual reading goal under the guidance of his or her teacher. For each month that the student reaches that goal, he or she is rewarded with a free Personal Pan pizza from Pizza Hut. If each student in the class reaches his goal for four of the five months of the program, the class is awarded a pizza party. According to second grade teacher Lynn Elmlinger, a major factor in the success of the class was the fifth grade peer tutor program, in which fifth grade students, during their free time, help the younger students with their reading. Pictured left to right above, front row, are Cassie Nice, Erica Tasker, Angie Corby, Jeff Upole, Jerod Boyce, and Marshall Neel, all fifth grade tutors. In the second row, same order, are Greg Smith, Stephen Lilly, Josh Rodeheaver, Tommy Johnson, DeReck DeWitt, and John McRobie. In the third row, same order, are Rebecca Harvey, Dusty Roy, Gene Estill, Jason Finch, and Sheena Murphy. In the fourth row, same order, are Paul Liller, Nathan Friend, Billy Hebb, Jessica Warnick, Heather Winebrenner, and Nicole Kitzmiller. In the back row, same order, are Lynn Elmlinger, second grade teacher; Jill Gracie, fifth grade teacher; Herb Lambert, principal; and Molly Crowe, teaching assistant. Loch Lynn School is also currently participating in the World Book "Partners in Excellence" program, in which the students read books for sponsors in an effort to win a set of encyclopedias.

WILD ABOUT YOU — An environmental education program entitled "Wild About You," coordinated and presented by contractual employees of the Maryland Department of Natural Resources Forest, Park and Wildlife Service, has been ongoing in Garrett County elementary schools since early March. Described as an action-oriented group of activities, the program includes information designed to relate scientific concepts learned in the classroom to what is happening in the natural areas outside. A different version of the "Wild About You" program has been presented to each class, from pre-kindergarten through the fifth grade. Pre-K classes learned about "Creepy Crawly Rock Bugs;" kindergarten classes became parts of a "Happening Habitat;" first-graders studied mammals in "Mammals On The Move;" second graders learned the special qualities of a wetland; food chains were brought to life for third-graders in "Burgers and Fries;" fifth-graders learned about trees in "Tree Trivia," and fifth-graders learned to use identification keys in a program called "Keying Out Kids." A special education class at Dennett Road Elementary School is pictured above with DNR instructors, Jim McCann, kneeling, left, and Anita Farley, right, and, standing, are special education instructors, Betty Sell, left, and Linda Tichinel.

Card Of Thanks

A note of thanks to Dr. Leighton, the emergency room technicians and the nurses and staff of second floor, Garrett County Memorial Hospital. These people made my recent hospital stay as comfortable as possible.

Also, I want to thank those that stopped by to give their support and prayers. I also appreciate the cards and flowers that were sent to me. Having this support helps me to continue my personal crusade against cancer.

Sincerely,
Marsha L. Callis

Children's Literature Festival Set For May 4-5 At Frostburg State

Registration is underway for the 1990 Spring Festival of Children's Literature which will be held Friday and Saturday, May 4-5, at Frostburg State University. Featured speakers include noted authors Cynthia Rylant, Anne Rockwell, Margaret Hodges and storyteller Hughes Moir. The theme for this year's festival is "Literature — Folklore, Humor, and Nostalgia."

Now in its eighth year, the annual seminar brings together administrators, teachers, librarians, parents, and other children's literature advocates for the purposes of examining various children's books, exchanging ideas with fellow professionals, and gaining a more thorough understanding of the importance of literature in education.

Award-winning author Cynthia Rylant is well known in the field of children's literature. Her works include fiction, picture books, short stories, and poetry and are directed at audiences ranging from preschool to junior high. Two picture books, When I was Young in the Mountains and The Relatives Came, are Caldecott Honor Books and the short story collection Children of Christmas is noted as a Horn Book "Fanfare" Selection, as well as the School Library Journal Best Book of 1987. Other works include Mr. Grigg's Work, A Fine White Dust, and six books in the popular Henry and Mudge series.

With more than 25 years of experience. Anne Rockwell is an accomplished author and illustrator of books for young children. Two of her ever-popular early concept books, At the Beach and The First Snowfall, were selected Children's Books of the Year by the Child Study Children's Book Committee. Other favorite Rockwell books include Hugo at the Window, My Doctor, and titles in the "My World" Series, books which explore the familiar experiences of preschoolers.

Another veteran in the field of children's literature is Margaret Hodges, whose literary talents are respected and lauded. Named Outstanding Author of Books for Young Readers in 1977 by the Pennsylvania Association of School Librarians, her award winning works include 1985 Caldecott Medal winner St. George and the Dragon and A.L.A. Notable Book of 1972, The Fire Bringer.

Hughes Moir, professor of education at the University of Toledo, spends much of his time delighting audiences with his talented storytelling techniques. He works with both adults and children, performing traditional stories, urban legends, and folk ballads. In addition to these activities, Moir edits Collective Perspectives: Choosing and Using Books for the Classroom, which review the best and newest publications in children's literature.

In addition to the presentations by the featured speakers, the festival offers participants a choice of small group sessions directed by talented professionals related to the field of children's literature. Small group presenters and their topics include Joann Blackburn, librarian, Pittsburgh, "You Mean This is Reading;" John and Carol Butzow, Indiana, Pa., "Science Through Children's Literature;" Nancy Clifton, language arts teacher and librarian, Pittsburgh, "Recipe for Reading: Just a Pinch of Basal;" Fred Fedorko, reading professor, East Stroudsburg, Pa., "Using Read-Aloud Techniques to Develop Strategic Readers;" Darwin Henderson, associate professor, University of Cincinnati, "The Fox: The Gutsy and Foolish Trickster;" Gail Herman, storyteller and adjunct professor, Frostburg State University, "Stories of Global Awareness;" Marilyn Hollinshead, Pinocchio Book Store, Pittsburgh, "Trends in Children's Books: From the Eighties to the Nineties;" Debra Miller, reading specialist, Howard County Public Schools, "Interpreting Story Problems with Primary Readers: Using Children's Literature to Develop Interpretive Thought with Primary Readers;" Thomas Palardy, professor, Frostburg State University, "Involving Children in Poetry;" Estelle Williamson, retired media specialist, Baltimore County, "The Literacy Works of Rylant and Rockwell within the Curriculum."

The festival opens Friday, May 4, with an evening dessert reception for great presenters and conference participants, presentations by Rockwell and Moir, and books sales and autographing. Saturday's agenda includes coffee and danish, addresses by Hodges and Rylant, luncheon, small group sessions, and small group sessions, and book sales and autographing.

Additionally, a special children's program will be held Friday at 4 p.m. with two concurrent presentations. Anne Rockwell will meet with children ages 4, 5, and 6, while Hughes Moir works with children in grades 2 through 5. Children attending the special presentations are invited to meet and ask questions of the authors, purchase books, and obtain autographs. Enrollment for this program is limited and reservations are required.

The 1990 Children's Literature Festival is sponsored by the Frostburg State University Department of Educational Professions' Center for the Study and Dissemination of Children's Literature and administred by the Frostbur;g State University Foundation, Inc. For additional information or to obtain registration forms contact Dr. William Bingman, FSU Department of Educational Professions, (301) 689-4420. Enrollment is limited and early registration is urged.

SWANTON

Elizabeth Fleming returned to her home in Frostburg on Sunday after visiting the Albert Fleming family for a week.

Wayne Goff attended the retired Railroad Employees' breakfast at Mason's Barn on Thursday morning.

Fannie and Bob Rizer and Mareva and Orval Teets attended the memorial service for Kent Wilson in Westernport on Saturday afternoon.

The birthday of David Schofield was celebrated on Easter Sunday at the home of his grandparents, Ellie and Mary June Harvey. Brian, Sandra, Ellisa, Richard, and Ellida Schofield were present. Also John, a college friend of Ellisa was there.

Rob Riley, Gaithersburg, and Mark Whalen, Rockville, were guests of Neal, Joan and Joe Riley at Thousand Acres recently. While here they went turkey hunting with Orval Teets.

Chris Riley, Gaithersburg, visited his parents on Wednesday and then visited Joan and Neal Riley, before returning home Friday.

COMMUNITY CENTER

Sheriff Van Evans and Cathy Chapman of the Department of Social Services were at the Senior Hot Meal site on Tuesday. Sheriff Evans spoke about the drug enforcement program in the county. Cathy Chapman conducted a screening for blood sugar and spoke about diabetes.

A chicken dinner will be served at the center on Saturday, May 5, beginning at 4 p.m. Shirley Beckman is chairperson.

OTTERBEIN UNITED METHODIST CHURCH NEWS

Mareva Teets and Mary June Harvey attended the United Methodist Women Spiritual Growth Experience at Jackson's Mill, W.Va., last week. "Deepening Faith, Broadening Witness — The Power to Share" was the theme.

Charles Yrigoyen Jr. was the speaker. He is general secretary of the General Committee on Archives and History of the United Methodist Church. He also teaches church history in the Theological and Graduate Schools of Drew University and Union Theological Seminary.

The Brotherhood Breakfast will be Saturday, 7:30 a.m., at the Casselman, Grantsville.

The Brotherhood Fifth Sunday Sing will be Sunday at 7:30 p.m. at Paradise United Methodist Church.

CHURCH ANNIVERSARY

Pastor Heagy invites everyone for the 25th anniversary celebration of Otterbein Church to be held this Sunday, April 29.

Sunday School will be at 9:45 a.m., worship at 11 a.m., dinner at 1 p.m. and an afternoon service at 2 p.m. Rev. John Mason, district superintendent of Romney District, will be present at the afternoon service.

The present building was dedicated on April 25, 1965, the church class was formed in 1883 and the first building was dedicated early in 1884. This was Swanton United Brethren In Christ until 1946 when United Brethren merged with the Evangelical Church to become Evangelical United Brethren Church. Then in 1968 the Evangelical United Brethren Church and the Methodist Church united to become the United Methodist Church. The Methodist Episcopal Church of Swanton and the Evangelical United Brethren Church of Swanton merged to become Otterbein United Methodist Church in 1968, by a determination of the West Virginia Conference.

Local residents interested in getting their GED certificates may call 334-8304.

The GED, or General Educational Development test, is a high school diploma equivalency test. Persons who pass the test are given the equivalent of a high school diploma.

If enough people from a specific location in Garrett County show an interest in taking the preparation course for the test, a course will be offered in that area.

Southern Track Teams Host Two Meets; Girls' Team Victorious

UP AND OVER goes Southern high jumper Brian White, who placed second in that event in a tri-meet last Thursday at the Southern track. Union's Mike Fult won the high jump with a leap of 5'7". As a team, the Rams placed second in the meet with a total of 57 points.

The Southern High girls' track team chalked up a pair of victories this past week, crushing University, Union, and Tucker County in a four-team meet at Southern last Thursday, and then mashing Central Preston on Tuesday, 121-14, also in Oakland.

Meanwhile, the Southern boys' team did not fare quite as well, placing second against Tucker County and Union on Thursday and then edging Central Preston on Tuesday, 75-61.

The Southern girls amassed 116 and one-half points last Thursday, followed by University with 50, Union with 47, and Tucker with 30 and one-half.

The Southern boys scored 57 points in Thursday's meet, while Tucker County won with 74 points and Union was third with 27.

Tonya Shreve won three individual events and was on a first-place relay team, while Shelli Cannon and Kristi Browning also won individual races and were also on the winning 400 relay team along with Shreve. Shreve won the long jump (14 feet), high jump (4'9"), and the 200-yard dash (28.0), while Cannon won the 100-yard dash and Browning won the 300 hurdles.

Southern's Jon Hegeman won the 1,600 run (5:08) and 3,200 run (11:20.8) in boys' competition.

Shreve again paced the girls against Central Preston on Tuesday, winning the 200 dash (27.5) and triple jump (33'3") and she was on the winning 400 and 800 relay teams. Browning won the 100 hurdles and 300 hurdles and was also on the 400 relay team.

Jim Pysell paced the Southern boys by winning the 200 dash (23.74) and the triple jump (37'), and was also on the winning 400 and 800 relay teams. Brett Glotfelty won the discus (108'9") and the shotput (39'½"), while Brian White won the 110 hurdles (19.07) and the high jump (5'2").

The results left the Southern girls with a 2-1 record and the boys are 2-3.

ENROUTE TO VICTORY in the 100-meter hurdles are Southern track team members Christa Updyke, left, and Khrystie Browning, who placed first and second, respectively, in that event last Thursday. The Southern girls' team easily defeated University, Union, and Tucker County high schools, and also topped Central Preston on Tuesday.

Huskies Fall To 1-5 With Loss To Wildcats

The Northern Huskies dropped to 1-5 on the season Monday afternoon at home when they lost to the Westmar Wildcats, 9-3.

Jim Lauder carried the big bat for the Wildcats, rapping a double and a single good for three RBI, while pitcher Buck Lough scattered seven hits, struck out eight, and aided his own cause with a double and a single.

Westmar took a 1-0 lead in the first inning as Pat Dick singled, stole second, and came home on a single by Lauder.

The Huskies responded with a run in the bottom of the inning when West Loar reached on an error, stole second, and scored on an RBI double by Dennis Diegert.

Dick and Sean Wiltison opened Westmar's third inning with singles, Lough followed with a single to score a run, Dave Nash doubled, and Rick Goldsdsworthy and Greg Johnson followed with singles to make it 5-1.

The Huskies added a run in the bottom of the third when Loar walked, stole second, and scored on Diegert's second RBI double.

The Wildcats scored three times in the fourth inning as Fred Pritts and Dick each drew walks, advanced on a fielder's choice by Wiltison, and Lough drew a walk to load the bases. Lauder then doubled home Pritts and Dick and Nash followed with a single to score Lough.

Each team added single runs in the seventh inning, but it was too little, too late for the young Huskies.

Besides the hitting of Lauder and Lough, Nash finished with a double and a single and Dick and Goldsworthy each rapped two singles for Westmar.

Jon Houser stroked two singles for the Huskies.

The win upped Westmar's record to 5-1-1.

The Huskies were to have played Meyersdale yesterday, however no details of that game were available at presstime.

Nine-Pin Tourney Results Noted

Results after the third week of competition in the pin tournament at Par-Matt Lanes to benefit the Garrett Community College Foundation were announced this week.

In the women's eight-pin event, Marolyn Johnson rolled an 807 series to lead, while Martha Reams followed with a 763, and Mary Liller and Anna Bishop each rolled a 758. One of Johnson's games was a 300, which qualifies her for a 300 post-tournament roll-off.

In the men's nine-pin competition, Paul Viraugh again led with an 844, followed by Larry Black, 787, Frank Teter, 754, and John Sharpless, 751.

Others qualifying for the post-tournament 300 roll-off, the winners of which will be awarded various prizes, are Martha Reams, Anna Bishop, and Paul Viraugh.

The tournament will conclude this Sunday afternoon. There are a total of 55 entries in the event, 36 men and 19 women.

There will be a special squad held this Saturday, April 28, at 7:30 p.m. Any person wishing to bowl is welcome to enter at this time.

There may also be an extra squad Sunday night at approximately 9:30 p.m., depending upon interest.

Lakers Split Doubleheaders With Catonsville And Prince George's

The Garrett Community College Lakers gained no ground this week, but they also lost none, as they split doubleheaders with a strong Catonsville CC team on Sunday and Prince George's CC on Tuesday. The Lakers lost the first game to Catonsville, 9-8, and won the nightcap, 5-1, then defeated Prince George's in the opener, 9-8, before being edged in the second game, 8-7.

The Lakers will host Frostburg today, entertain Hagerstown Junior College in a doubleheader on Friday, play two at CCAC-South in Pittsburgh on Saturday, and host Rockville in a doubleheader this Sunday.

It appeared that the Lakers would win the first game, their home opener, on Sunday against division leading Catonsville, as they held a 7-1 lead after five innings of play. But the Cardinals came back to score eight runs in the top of the sixth.

The score was tied at 1-1 until GCC recorded six runs in the bottom of the fifth. Steve Ujcic walked, Chris Miller reached on a mishandled bunt, and Dwayne Woodring loaded the bases with a bunt single. Ujcic then scored on a sacifice fly by Tony Warner, which was dropped by the right fielder.

Buddy Leichliter then smacked a two-run double and Mick Bayle followed with a two-run homer to make it 7-1.

Although Catonsville recorded just five hits in the entire game, Laker pitcher Mike Berlin hit the first batter in the sixth inning, allowed a walk and a bloop single to score the Cardinals' first run of the inning. An error and two bases-loaded walks followed to score two more runs before Shifflet singled home two more and Ude tripled in a pair to give Catonsville a 9-7 lead.

The Lakers finished with seven hits, including Bayle's fourth homer of the season, and a double and a single by Leichliter. Garrett pitchers allowed 11 walks and the Lakers also committed four errors.

Carmen Moon fired a three-hitter in the second game for the Lakers to defeat the 28-5 Cardinals and raise his personal record to 4-4. He struck out seven batters and retired the final 12 batters in order.

The only Catonsville run was scored in the first inning and the Lakers recorded all they needed in the fourth with two runs. Leichliter led off with a double and scored on a single by Bayle, who later came home on a two-out single by Pat Staley.

Three insurance runs were added in the fifth frame when Woodring walked and scored on a double by Warner, who came home when Leichliter reached on an error. A single by Bayle moved Leichliter to third and he then scored on a sacrifice fly by D.G. Largent.

Bayle and Woodring each singled twice in the Lakers' six-hit effort and the GCC defense had no errors.

Tony Warner led the Lakers' hitting in the first game against Prince George's, as he finished with four hits and scored on a two-out single by Leichliter in the bottom of the seventh to give the Lakers their 9-8 win.

Bayle also went four-for-four, including a pair of home runs, a double and a single to account for three RBI, while Warner was four-for-five with a double and three singles. Leichliter added a double and two singles in the 15-hit attack.

The Lakers took a 4-1 lead in the bottom of the first when Warner and Leichliter hit back-to-back doubles and Bayle followed with a two-run homer. Staley also scored after he singled, moved to third on a walk to Harbaugh and a single by Irvin Johnson, and came home on a passed ball.

PG came back to score four runs in the top of the third to take a 5-4 lead, but GCC added single runs in the third, fourth, and fifth frames before the Owls scored three runs in the sixth on two singles, a walk and two errors to take an 8-7 lead.

Bayle's leadoff home run in the sixth tied the score at 8-8 and set the stage for Leichliter's winning single in the seventh. Warner started the rally with a two-out single, stole second, and scored on Leichliter's hit. The Lakers were seven-for-seven in stolen base attempts.

The Owls took a 6-0 lead in the first inning of the second game, but the Lakers came back with runs in the second, third, fourth, and fifth innings to tie the score at 6-6. PG recorded two more runs in the top of the seventh and then stopped a Laker rally in the final frame.

A triple by Cajetan Stepanic and a run-producing single by Staley cut the Owl lead to 6-2 in the second inning. Then Leichliter singled and scored on a balk to make it 6-3 in the third.

Garrett made it 6-4 in the fourth when Stepanic led off with a single, stole second and scored on a sacrifice fly by Johnson. Stepanic went four-for-four in the game.

Warner and Leichliter rapped back-to-back solo homers in the sixth to knot the score in the fifth.

A bases-loaded walk and a fielder's choice gave PG their final two runs of the game, before Bayle and Stepanic led off the bottom of the seventh with back-to-back doubles. With the tying run at second and the winning run at first, Johnson smacked a line drive that was picked off by the Owls' second baseman to end the game.

SHS Jayvees Win

Gary Upole scattered six hits in going the distance for the Southern High junior varsity Monday afternoon, as the Rams blanked host Union, 8-0.

Kenny Green went three-for-four for the Rams, Joe Healey smacked a solo home run, Jeremy Bosley added a triple, and Bill Bittinger hit a double in Southern's nine-hit performance.

Union pitcher John Qualls accounted for half of his team's hits, rapping two singles and a double.

Southern Girls Softball Team Improves To 5-2

The Southern High School softball team opened the 1990 campaign with a pair of losses to Hyndman, 3-1 and 7-5, but the Lady Rams have come on strong over the past few weeks, winning their last five games and improving their record to 5-2.

Coach Jane Wildesen's team crushed Turkeyfoot in a doubleheader, 29-3 and 22-12, with Melinda Evick recording both wins on the mound.

Then the Rams took a pair from Meyersdale last Wednesday, 12-9 and 13-3, as Jenny Moats tossed both games for Southern.

Their latest win was Tuesday afternoon, a 17-4 trouncing of Berlin. They will meet Tri-Valley, Pa., High School in a doubleheader this Saturday.

Going into the Berlin contest on Tuesday, the leading Ram hitters were Melinda Evick, who has reached base 22 of the 26 times she has batted, Jenny Moats, who is 20 for 26, Missy DiSimone, 18 for 27, and Tracie Dawson, 13 for 21.

Rams Nip Petersburg Before Losing Doubleheader To Berkeley Springs

The Southern High varsity baseball team edged a strong Petersburg team Friday afternoon, 5-4, in a Potomac Valley Conference clash in Oakland, but the Rams then dropped both ends of a doubleheader to Berkeley Springs, another PVC foe, on Saturday, 6-4 and 18-11.

The Rams will put their 7-4 record on the line this afternoon at home against Keyser.

A single by Kevin Green in the Rams' four-run fifth inning sent home what was to be the winning run against Petersburg on Friday.

The Rams took a 1-0 in the third inning when Mike Fulmer singled, advanced to second on a steal, and scored on a double by Shawn Ryan.

The Vikings came back in the third to take a 2-1 advantage when Jeff Whetzel rapped an RBI double and Chad Raines singled home Whetzel.

The Rams won the game in the fifth, scoring four runs on one hit and three bunts, two of which were successful squeeze plays.

Fulmer led off with a single, moved to second on a sacrifice by Ryan, and went to third as Charlie Plauger made it to second on an error. Rice squeezed in Fulmer to knot the game at 2-2 before Green rapped a single to score Plauger. John Stem followed with another squeeze bunt for a run and Dave Upole drew a bases-loaded walk to conclude the Rams' scoring.

The Vikings came back to narrow the game to 5-3 with a run in the sixth and an RBI single by Whetzel in the seventh made it 5-4. The Vikes had the tying run at third and the go-ahead run at second before Rice recorded the final out on a grounder.

Rice upped his pitching record to 4-2 with the complete game win. Raines was the losing pitcher, although he and Ryan Harman gave up a total of only five hits.

Fulmer had two of the Rams' five hits, both singles. Raines led Petersburg's offense with two doubles and a single, while Whetzel added two singles.

The loss dropped the Vikings to 7-4.

In the first game against Berkeley Springs on Saturday, Southern pitcher Kevin Green scattered just six hits, but the Indians took advantage of several Ram miscues and all six of their runs were unearned.

Berkley recorded four runs in the second inning before the Rams cut the advantage to 4-3 with three runs in the third. Garth Glotfelty drew a bases-loaded walk, Fulmer followed with an RBI single, and Dave Upole added a sacrifice fly.

The Indians added two more unearned runs in the third before John Stem concluded Southern's scoring in the fifth with a solo home run.

Mike Banks paced the Indians' hitting with two singles and a pair of RBI.

The second game was a dream that turned into a nightmare for Coach Jim Bosley and the Rams, as Southern had built a 10-1 lead after five innings behind the two-hit pitching of Bobby Evans.

Then the Indians erupted for five runs in the fifth and 12 more in the sixth to record an easy win. Strong hitting and seven Ram errors paved the way for the Berkeley win.

Matt Clem's two-run homer in the fifth tied the score at 10-10 and the Indians proceeded to record nine hits and four walks, coupled with three Southern errors, all in the sixth inning.

The game featured a total of 30 hits in the second game, with Southern recording 14 of them. Rice led with a double and two singles, Fulmer had three singles, Stem smacked a two-run double, and Green added a two-run single.

The pair of wins improved Berkeley Springs' overall record to 10-5 and 5-0 in the Division I PVC standings.

Northern Girls Win A Pair In Tennis, Boys Lose Two

The Northern High girls' tennis team racked up a pair of big wins this past week, edging Beall on Friday, 4-3, in Frostburg and then topping visiting Fort Hill yesterday, 4-2. The victories improved the Huskies' season mark to 3-1.

Meanwhile, the Northern boys dropped both of their contests, being shut out by Beall, 7-0, and nipped by Fort Hill, 4-3.

The Northern teams will entertain Beall today.

In the girls' match against Beall, Pam and Tammy Brenneman and Kristin Edwards all recorded singles wins and the Brennemans teammed up to take a doubles victory.

Against Fort Hill, Edwards, Tammy Brenneman, and Tracy Murray were singles winners for the Huskies, while Kim Green and Molly Ramsey won in doubles.

Katie Jackson and Mary Beth Pannone had singles wins for the Sentinels.

In boys' action against Fort Hill, Jim Stevens and Dave Brenneman recorded singles wins for the Huskies, and then Stevens teamed with Mike Bishop to win a doubles point.

Tim Larsen, Aaron Nelson, and Tom Evans won singles matches for Fort Hill, and Chris Cole and Blair St. Armand won the deciding point in their doubles match.

Gale Bosley Participates In National Finals

Gale Bosley, of Garrett County, recently competed in the National Reebok Women's Aerobic Championships in Atlanta, Ga., an event that will be broadcast over ESPN Sports Network television on Monday, April 30, at 8:30 p.m.

Miss Bosley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Bosley, Table Rock, was one of 10 regional champions, having captured first place in the Mid-Atlantic Regional competition to advance to the national finals.

Northern Girls Mash Rockwood, Lose To Blazers

The Northern High School girls softball team rolled over Rockwood, 16-5 and 20-12, in recent action, but they dropped a pair of contests to powerful Clear Spring, 16-2 and 12-2.

In the first game against Rockwood, Northern took a 2-0 lead in the first quarter on RBI singles by Michele Beeman and Karen Wilhelm. Rockwood tied it at 2-2 in the bottom of the first on three singles, but the Huskies tallied six runs in the second inning on run-producing singles by Stephanie Thomas, Diane Fike, and Traci Beitzel, plus an RBI double by Becky Leight.

Rockwood answered with two runs in the bottom of the second, but Northern responded with four in the fourth on singles by Stephanie Thomas, Audra Speicher, and Leight, and a double by Fike to make it 12-4.

The Huskies put the game away in the fifth with four more runs, scored on a double by Cara Wachter, singles by Beeman and Wilhelm, and a fielder's choice.

In the second game, sophomore April Slagle pitched her first varsity contest and went the distance, giving up nine hits, walking seven, and striking out five.

Rockwood scored four runs in the first inning, however, on just one hit, two walks and an error. Northern responded with a run in the second, as Laurie Stanton's single scored Wilhelm.

The Huskies took a 5-4 lead with four runs in the third on a bases-loaded walk, a two-run double by Teats, and another RBI single by Stanton. However, Rockwood regained the lead with three runs in the bottom of the third on hits by Christy Sanner and Becky Ulderich.

Northern tied the score with two unearned runs in the fourth before Rockwood went ahead again with a single run in the bottom of the inning.

Then the Huskies exploded for eight runs in the fifth on RBI singles by Wachter, Leight, and Teats, three walks, and a two-run triple by Stanton. They padded their lead in the sixth with five more runs on three walks and singles by Beeman, Wilhelm, Teats, and Stanton.

Rockwood scored three times in the sixth and once in the seventh, but could get no closer.

The Huskies were outmatched by Clear Spring this past week, as Northern coach Bob Yunker described the two Blazer pitchers as "the fastest I've seen in eight years of softball competition."

Clear Spring's three-run first inning was highlighted by a two-run homer by Crissy Miniter. An RBI single by Becky Leight in the bottom of the inning made it 3-1, but the Blazers added four runs in the second and six in the third, using a combination of singles, walks, and Northern errors.

The Huskies recorded their final run in the fourth as Becky Leight, who singled, advanced to second on a passed ball, and stole third scored on an infield out.

Blazer pitcher Christy Cline allowed only three hits, walked three, and struck out 11.

Clear Spring continued its hot hitting and pitching in the second contest, scoring six runs in the first inning on four singles, three walks, and two Husky miscues. They added a single run in the third and the Huskies recorded their only two runs of the game in the bottom of the third on RBI singles by Leight and a catcher's interference call that allowed Wachter, who had reached on an error, to score.

The Blazers added a single run in the fourth and four more in the fifth to record the win for Misty Hornbaker, who yielded only four hits, walked three, and fanned seven Northern batters.

The Huskies are slated to play at Berlin on Monday.

Southern Girls Win Two Of Three Matches, Boys Lose Three

The Southern High School girls' tennis team won two of three matches this past week to improve their season mark to 4-4; however, the Southern boys lost all three of their encounters and are still looking for the first win after eight starts.

The Lady Rams rolled over Petersburg last Thursday, 6-1, on the Vikings' courts, edged Keyser, 4-3, at home on Monday, and were nipped by Beall yesterday, 4-3, also in Oakland.

The Southern boys were edged by Petersburg, 4-3, and flattened by both Keyser and Beall, 6-1 and 7-0, respectively.

Nancy Alvarez, Ingrid Carlson, and Beth Heatherman all recorded singles victories for the Southern girls against Petersburg, while the doubles teams of Alverez and Tammy Rosenthal, Carlson and Heatherman, and Bridgette Clickener and Liz Savage won their matches.

Jodie Landis earned the Vikings' only win.

In boys' action, Rory Bernard won in singles for the Rams and the doubles teams of Manfred Bustmante and Bernard, and Brian Boal and Doug Stewart were victorious.

Jeff Kimble, Clint Nelson, and Chris Frye were singles winners for the Vikings.

Alvarez, Rosenthal, Erin Dabney, Carlson, and Heatherman all won their singles matches against Keyser. Savage and Shannon Mahoney, and Bridgette Clickener and Sheila Butt captured doubles wins.

The only win by the Southern boys was by Bernard in singles.

Dabney, Rosenthal, and Carlson won their singles matches against Beall yesterday to record the only Southern points of the afternoon.

The win by the Beall boys team was their seventh in as many starts, while the Beall girls improved to 4-3.

Southern is slated to host Petersburg this Friday.

good forest management. "There has been a lack of public relations and I think this needs to be improved upon."

Braskey stated that the recent Citizens' Conference on Forests and Forestry held in Baltimore the first part of this month attempted to address that problem.

Farm Pond Program

The Commissioners also anounced this week that a letter has been sent to Maryland Department of Agriculture Secretary Wayne Cawley Jr. in an effort to alleviate the continuing problem that Garrett County has experienced over the last year or so in obtaining permits to construct farm ponds.

Chairman Ernest Gregg stated in the letter, "It is safe to say that many members of our farm community, including our local Soil Conservation staff, continue to find this whole process frustrating and non-productive."

He continued, "We realize that our pond problem is not shared by the majority of the farmers of Maryland. We apologize for having trout streams in our county, but we think your agency should still be very concerned about the Garrett County farm community and subsequently be acting on their behalf to resolve this issue."

Commissioner Groves stated, "It has always been our position that a farm pond is a positive asset to the property, the community and to the watershed. However, another perspective exists concerning the impact on fisheries. We think the program is out of balance and too restrictive to those who want to construct farm ponds."

Commissioner Braskey added, "We're being punished because we have trout streams. We know how to take care of those streams and we don't believe that farm ponds damage the trout streams. If they had, then all our streams in Garrett County would not be trout streams."

According to Gregg, Maryland Department of the Environment is "taking the shotgun approach on some really nebulous information," and, he added, "Here is a classic example of a regulatory agency focusing on a single issue and not on the entire environment."

Recycling Committee

The formation of the Garrett County Recycling Committee was announced this week by the commissioners, who have named Gary Yoder, Western Maryland liaison with the Department of Natural Resources, as chairman of the committee.

Commissioner Groves indicated that Garrett County was among the first counties to submit their recycling plan to the Maryland Department of the Environment, and Commissioner Gregg pointed out that Garrett County has been "very much in the forefront in the state in developing a recycling program and making plans for the future."

The group, said Groves, was formulated to examine and review the many issues that will be involved in developing a "realistic and viable" recycling effort in Garrett County.

Members of the committee include Wendell Keaton, municipal government representative; Lee Thorne, county government; Perry Petersheim, commissioner appointee; Janna Naylor, commissioner appointee; Wendy Bauer, general public, and Brooks Hamilton, general public.

pay deferred payments to the court. Deputy J.D. Murphy made the arrest. House was later released on $375.

Robert Walker McCracken, 38, McHenry, was arrested Friday on a warrant charging him with violation of probation. He was later released on $100 bond.

Jackson Samuel Green, 53, Lonaconing, was arrested April 17 and charged with driving while intoxicated (DWI). Deputy Murphy made the arrest along Route 546 at Beall School Road. Green was also found to be driving with a revoked license and while suspended in the state. He was later released on his own recognizance.

Herbert Blake Paugh Jr., 20, Oakland, was arrested Saturday and charged with DWI. Deputy Murphy made the arrest along Route 42, south of Friendsville. Paugh was also charged with driving with a revoked license. He was released into the custody of a friend.

Donald Roy Jenkins Sr., 49, Frostburg, was arrested Sunday and charged with DWI. Deputy Murphy made the arrest along Route 40, east of Meyersdale Road. He released Jenkins into the custody of a friend.

Celebration Of The Outdoors Set At Canaan

The National Celebration of the Outdoors will be observed April 27-29, at Canaan Valley Resort State Park. John Northeimer, Canaan's naturalist, has planned a weekend of programs that will be giving a special tribute to natural resources and why they must be protected.

The highlight of the weekend will be the special exhibits that are being provided by the West Virginia Department of Natural Resources. The topics of the five exhibits will be the natural resources, endangered species, acid rain, solid waste, and ground water. The exhibits will be on display in the Nature Center throughout the weekend at Canaan Valley Resort.

One of the programs scheduled for the weekend will be a wildlife awareness program. This program is designed to make the public aware of what animals need to survive and how a decrease in available habitat can effect their health and population.

For more information on this program and other programs that are scheduled, persons may contact John Northeimer at 1-800-CALL-WVA (ask for Canaan Valley) ext. 2688.

Puppett Show Set At Blackwater

Theatre West Virginia will present "Aladdin and Magic Lamp," a puppet show, at Blackwater Falls State Park this Saturday, April 28, at 7 p.m. The puppet show will be held in the Park Recreation Building and admission will be $2 for adults, $1 for children (6-12), and children five and under will be admitted free with an adult.

Persons may contact Blackwater Falls State Park for further information at (304) 259-5216 or toll-free: 1-800-CALL WVA and ask for Blackwater Falls.

This program is being assisted with an Arts and Humanities Grant from the Department of Education and the Arts, Division of Culture and History.

The Aurora Fire Hall will be the location for a ramp dinner on Sunday, April 29, with serving beginning at noon and continuing until 4 p.m. Sponsored by the Aurora VFD and Auxiliary, donations for the dinner will be $4.50 and $2.50 for adults and children, respectively, and there will be the usual dinner of ham, fried potatoes, cornbread and beans plus dessert to accompany the ramps.

BROOKSIDE REVIVAL

The Rev. Charles Teets will be holding a revival at the Brookside Church of the Brethren at 7:30 p.m. on the evenings of May 3, 4 and 5. On May 6 there will be a love feast and communion service, also at 7:30 p.m. The public is invited to all of these services and there will be special music each evening.

MAY FELLOWSHIP

Church Women United will meet at the Amboy United Methodist Church on May 4 to observe May Fellowship Day. A carry-in dinner will be served at noon and a program, the theme for which is "Justice With All Your Might," will begin about 1 p.m. The host church provides bread and beverage. All are asked to bring their covered dish and table service and join with the women of the district in this fellowship.

NEW BABIES

Ronnie and Kathy Jones of Parsons are announcing the birth of their first child, a girl, named Kerstin Mechial on April 3. Born at Davis Memorial Hospital, Elkins, the baby weighed seven pounds, nine ounces. John Gribble of Parsons is the maternal grandfather, Virginia Jones of Stemple Ridge the paternal grandmother, and Carl Cummings of Stemple Ridge is the great-grandfather.

On April 18, Floyd and Ginger Massey of Silver Lake became the parents of their second child and daughter. She was born in Garrett County Memorial Hospital, is named Danielle Nicole, and her birth weight was six pounds, two ounces. She has an older sister, Crystal. Maternal grandmother is Carol Sue Roth of Silver Lake and paternal grandparents are Spencer and Betty Massey of Asheville, N.C. Mrs. Grace Roth of Horse Shoe Run is a great-grandmother.

HOMEMAKERS MEET

Dean Sisler was hostess for the April 17 meeting of the Aurora Extension Homemakers. Leading devotions for the evening was Bonnylin Lantz, who used the theme of Friendship and enlarged on it by reading, "The Love of Friends" and a poem, "Strangers Are Friends We've Never Met." Her scripture was taken from the book of Proverbs.

Tickets for the 50/50 drawing need to be in by April 30. Four members, Betty Fint, Mary Jane Hanline, Virginia Martin and Martha Bolyard, attended the Demonstration Day held at Kingwood. They report that crafts demonstrated were muzzle loader construction, scrimshaw carving, pottery making, quilt history and exhibits, woodcrafting of musical instruments including mandolin and guitar which were also used in singing accompaniment.

Opal Myers reported on the national conference concerning health care which she recently attended in Washington, D.C. The NHEC and AARP were both involved in this effort.

Craft Day will be held May 31 at Aurora in the United Methodist Memorial Building. The next meeting of the Aurora Extension Homemakers will be on May 15 with Opal Myers the hostess and Dean Sisler the lesson leader.

Mrs. Sisler showed her new rug and new chair as her special feature. The pig-in-the-poke went to Mildred Kovalck. Betty Fint had provided the video, "Forks of Cheat" to replace the lesson and this was viewed by the group assembled. This video gives a glimpse into the beginnings and meanderings of the Cheat River and its surrounding countryside.

Attending were the above mentioned members except Mrs. Fint and the following: Ernestine Sisler, Wilda Wilt, Sue and Malinda Mayne, Fern Jamison, Maxine Hauser, and guest, Pat Stemple.

MOTHER-DAUGHTER DINNER

On Saturday evening, April 21, a Mother-Daughter dinner was held at the Maple Spring Church of the Brethren with about 75 mothers, daughters, grandmothers, and guests in attendance. The theme for the evening was "Pattern for Living" which was promoted by "pattern" envelopes containing the program pattern, suggestions for patterning one's daily living, song sheets and craft ideas.

The pink and white color scheme was enhanced by small, decorated cakes, pink paper dolls on the tables and the cakes were given as door prizes. Four men provided clean-up while the ladies adjourned to the church sanctuary to complete the program. Guest for the evening was Mary Streets of Kempton, an elementary teacher at Red House School, who entertained everyone with her story of "Why the Mosquito Is a Pest."

There was recognition of some present including Mildred Wilt, the oldest mother; Marcia Spaid, mother of the youngest child; Kiley Feather who had the most grandmothers; Virginia Bolyard who had the most daughters, plus others.

The dinner was sponsored by the church Nurture Committee and planned by a committee composed of Mary Rembold, Norma McCombs, and Linda Lewis. Ham, rolls and beverage were provided with the remainder being a carry-in affair.

FFA BANQUET

On Friday evening, April 20, the East Preston FFA held its annual banquet for members, parents, honorary members and guests. Presiding at the opening ceremony was Allen Metheny, president of the chapter, and the dinner for the approximately 250 in attendance followed.

Introductions were followed by the Creed presentation by Sally Huffman and the speech presentation by Melissa Evans. Advisor Terry Hauser assisted the chapter officers in awards recognition. David Hardesty of Aurora was recipient of awards in Agricultural Sales and Service, Sheep Production, Crop Production and was named Star Chapter Farmer. David is the son of David Hardesty of Gassaway and of Sharon and Robert Wotring, Aurora. Alan Roth, son of Willard and Dorothy Roth, Silver Lake, is chapter treasurer and received the Agriculture Mechanics and B.F. McConnell awards. Swine Production award went to Daniel Fint, son of John and Connie Fint, Aurora. Named Star Greenhands were Amos Sisler and Dayton Bolyard. Dayton is the son of Betty and Dayton Bolyard of Eglon. An award in Established Farming went to Bill Wolfe, poultry production to Tim Bullett, Extemperaneous speaking to Carla Lewis and she also was named Chapter Sweetheart. Named Most Active Freshman was Don Sharps, Most Active Sophomore was Paul Teets, and Most Active Member was Allen Metheny.

Received into honorary membership were Ronnie Metheny, Richard and Sue Corbin, former advisor Forrest Pennington, and Bob Jackson for Cecil Jackson Equipment and by his employee, Craig Durst.

PIONEERS HEAR TROOPER

West Virginia State Trooper, S.W. Cogar, was guest speaker at the April 9 meeting of the Aurora Pioneer 4-H Club. His talk concerned drugs and alcohol, their abuse, and methods of control in Preston County.

Devotions were led by Michelle, Shawn and Michael Sisler. Demonstrations were by Carla Fint, How to Make Pizza Using Refrigerated Biscuit Dough; Christina Slaubaugh, Peanut Butter Cookies; and Jessica Lantz, How to Color Easter Eggs.

Upcoming events announced were County 4-H Day April 21 at Bruceton; Style Show June 15 at West Preston; Field Day June 16, followed by club picnic at Cathedral State Park, 6 p.m.; club bowling party May 6 (members to meet at school at 1 p.m.).

Community projects discussed were flower bed planting at Trotter Park and Aurora School, but nothing was finalized. The club will send $25 to the Preston County 4-H Foundation for membership.

The pizzas made by Carla Fint were used as refreshments along with others provided by Opal Myers. Those who attended were Chad Arnold, Charlie Blamble, Missy Callahan, Meghan Durst, Kimberly Fike, Carla and Tina Fint, Courtney, Joey Fint, Darrell Fint, Joe and Beth Hauser, Heather and Tony Hebb, Jessica Lantz, Malinda Mayne, Michael, Shawn and Michelle Sisler and Christina Slaubaugh.

MOUNTAINEERS MEET

Opening devotions for the April 9 meeting of the Eglon Mountaineer 4-H Club were provided by Mark Utterback, Beth Evans, Lisa Moats and Rebecca Wotring. Present to show his slides of Africa and his hunting expedition there was J. Rogers Fike of Mtn. Lake Park.

John Utterback reported that there were 48 adults and four children served at the Mtn. Lions' Club dinner on April 5. Amy Moats reported on the club tour to Mt. Top Veterinary Hospital on March 29.

April 21 was Preston County 4-H Day at Bruceton High School and club participants were Mark and Katie Utterback, Brian Corbin, Elizabeth and Rebecca Wotring.

The club decided to adopt a cabin at the 4-H camp for which each club has been asked to provide $150 for the construction of toilet facilities and ventilation at the cabins.

First Year Camper weekend will be May 11-14 and planning to attend are Tom Teets, Rebecca Wotring, and Lisa Moats.

Trash pickup day was postponed to April 16 at 9 a.m. With that and the former pickup day, a total of 21 bags of trash were collected from Rt. 24.

Talks were: "4-H Today" by Lisa Moats; "4-H Camping" by Tommy Teets; "Proper Way to Recite the 4-H Pledge" by Rebecca Wotring and demonstrated; "Learn to Lead Songs" by Katie Utterback; "History of 4-H" by Kelly Kowalkoski; "West Virginia Trees" by Rhett Beckman; "Beethoven", Elizabeth Wotring; and "Colors" by Rebecca Snyder.

The Lewis and Utterback families served refreshments. Members in attendance were Rhett Beckman, Brian and Kevin Corbin, Beth and Melissa Evans, Jeremiah Feather, Tim Harsh, Emily Lewis, Amy and Lisa Moats, Don Rinehart, Michelle Shaffer, Regina Shaffer, Becky Snyder, Tom Teets, John, Katie, Mark and Matt Utterback, Elizabeth and Rebecca Wotring. Adults present were Linda Lewis, Elaine Roth, Linda Snyder, Sue Corbin, Jean Rinehart, Judy Shaffer, Mary Harsh and Mary Utterback.

PERSONAL MENTION

Franklin and Wilda Blamble and their son, Charles, of Stemple Ridge visited in Ohio for the Easter weekend, the main purpose of their visit being to see their new grandchildren. On April 11, their oldest daughter, Brenda, and her husband, Jeff Thayer, of Brunswick had their first child, a son weighing seven pounds, three ounces. On April 14, their son, Gary Blamble and his wife, Sherry, had their third daughter, a seven-pound, nine-ounce baby. Both babies were born in a Medina hospital.

Local great-grandparents are Viola Harsh and Elwood and Hazel Blamble. While in Ohio, the Blambles also visited another daughter, Doris Blamble, in Brunswick.

Stanley and June Waybright of Brookside spent last weekend, Friday to Monday, visiting in Hopewell, Va., with friends, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Glotfelty.

Quality for Everyone

The time for good nutrition is NOW. The way to start your program of good nutrition is with "BARLEY GREEN" — your salad in a glass. Great care has been taken to ensure the highest quality for BARLEY GREEN. The barley is grown organically in soil that has not been polluted with chemical fertilizers, pesticides or other harmful treatments. Great care is also taken at harvest time to gather the barley when it contains the widest spectrum of naturally occurring nutrients. The barley leaves are put through a special juicing and air-drying process which preserves the nutritive value of the young barley plant. The barley powder is then mixed with small amounts of brown rice and kelp to stabilize the product and enhance our diets.

The Mission Festival service at St. John's Lutheran Church, Missouri Synod, will be held Sunday, May 6. The time of the service will be changed for the one Sunday only, when Sunday School will begin at 9:30 a.m. and the worship service will begin at 10:30 a.m. followed by a covered dish dinner at noon in the church social room. The speaker for the occasion will be a missionary teacher, Dale Busse, a teacher in New Guinea for 32 years. He plans to go to Nigeria soon as a teacher. Communion services at St. John's in May will be on Mother's Day, May 13, and on confirmation Sunday, May 27, at the regular time of 9 a.m. for the worship service at 10 a.m. for the Sunday School session.

The Cove Kids 4-H Club met on Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Long. The group will be gathering trash along Cove Road on Saturday, May 5, beginning at the intersection of Route 219 and Cove Road. The group also decided to save aluminum cans and other items to recycle. For those needing items picked up or for more information the president, Vernon Paugh, may be called at 826-8782 or another member of the club may be contacted. The next meeting will be Thursday, May 10, at 7:30 p.m. at St. John's Lutheran Church, Missouri Synod.

NMS Students, Faculty Conduct Tree Plantings

Northern Middle School's faculty, staff, and students celebrated Earth Week last week by planting 12 Dogwood trees, one of which was donated by Joe McKenzie and family, and various hardwood trees donated to the school by the Forest Conservancy District Board. The students also planted 50 disease-treated blue spruce trees donated by Westvaco.

In addition to these activities, a "living garden" was dedicated to a NMS student, Michael Vitez, who was killed in a car crash earlier this year. The "living garden" consists of a Dogwood tree, two pink Rhododendron, two dwarf Alberta, two Gold Thread Cypress, five Blue Rug Juniper, two dwarf purple Rhododendron, two Cotton Easter, and two Roseum.

The following businesses and individuals contributed to the project: Joe McKenzie, owner of McKenzie's Nursery, who designed the garden and supplied the plants and trees; Dan Puffinburgh, of Keystone Lime Company, who donated the stone that went around the trees and garden; Blue Marucci, of Garrett County Memorial Gardens, who purchased the plaque that was mounted on a rock; Kenneth Buckle, from the Garrett Peat Bog, who donated the peat that was used, and Frankie Custer, of Stewart Funeral Home, who donated his time and truck to pick up the rock and mount the plaque in the rock.

The following people also donated time and energy: Cheryl Glotfelty, Linda Youmans, John Helmick, Becky Brenneman, Steve Brenneman, Larry Lewis, Rita Robinson, Wilda Massi, Elmer Redinger, Jack Settle, Von Mosser, Roy DeVore, Norman Livingood, Bill Klotsbaugh, Tim Sines, Vaughn Vitez, and the students in section 7-1.

GOP Lincoln Day Dinner To Be Held

Over 150 people are expected to attend the annual Lincoln Day dinner, Saturday, at 6:30 p.m. at the Deer Park Fire Hall to hear guest speaker Republican gubernatorial candidate Bill Shepard.

Many state and local elected officials will be attending, including the Chairman of the Maryland Republican Party, Joyce Lyons Terdes and the Republican National Committeeman, Richard Taylor.

Susan Crawford Inspector General for the Secretary of Defense, will also be present and will present a plaque to the Republican of the year. This person has been chosen by the Republican Central Committee to be honored for outstanding service to the Republican party over the years.

Jack Jones, of Marvin's Mens Wear, will serve as master of ceremonies. Jones is a former member of the Republican Central Committee and president of GOBA. The dinner is being sponsored by the Republican Central Committee.

who would have had a birthday April 27, but passed away January 15, 1989.

You are never out of our hearts,
Never far from mind,
You are with us all the time.
You may be gone, but not forgotten,
And never without our love.

We Miss You
Your Loving Family

Dear Family & Friends of

Mary Frances Paige

Joan, Jean and I want to take this opportunity to thank all the many friends of our mother for their overwhelming concern for her while she was a patient at the Cleveland Clinic. We're very happy to say she is now home recovering in Mtn. Lake Park.

None of us expected all the complications Mom encountered after her bypass surgery, but she never gave up, and proved to all what a strong and optimistic person she is. We're very proud of her.

All of us, especially our mother, would like to thank everyone for their many cards and flowers. But we especially thank everyone for their many prayers. To all the churches who had her on their prayer list, we thank you. We know without these prayers and the grace of God, she wouldn't be home right now. We're very grateful.

I'd like to thank some special people here at home who made a very difficult time for our family a lot easier for me — Liz, Greta and Pam — without your love and understanding I don't think I could have coped. And to my friends and co-workers at GNB, you've really made things a lot easier for me. Thanks for your patience and understanding. And to Tom — there are no words to express how much your love and support meant to Mom and me. I love you very much.

Again, Mom, Joan, Jean and their families and Tom and I thank you from the bottom of our hearts.

people, thereby making a larger amount of the proceeds available for the community.

Roberts Bros. Circus is on its 17th annual tour. It leaves its home in Sarasota, Fla., in March, travels through 18 states, arrives in its northernmost state, Maine, in mid-summer, and then tours back home again, usually ending its tour in early November.

As a part of the ticket sales campaign, area businesses and professionals will be asked to purchase discount tickets which will be distributed to children, senior citizens groups, and others who might miss the circus unless someone helped them with a ticket. The circus committee is compiling a list of such people and groups at this time and is accepting requests for consideration.

Roberts Bros. Circus has the sponsorship of a wide variety of organizations in the 200 communities it visits during its tour. Service organizations like Lions, Kiwanis, Rotary and exchange clubs, volunteer fire/rescue companies, chambers of commerce, schools and churches make up much of the list. In each town the sponsoring organization makes the most on their advance sale of tickets, although they participate in the proceeds from every ticket sold in their community.

To the Editor:

For the past several years I have been active in Church Women United.

I have seen it dwindle down from the attendance of 60+ to about 30+ at the present at each yearly observance.

I know that several of the ladies have "aged" and are no longer able to attend due to health reasons and the "younger" ones have to work. But there are still a lot of you out there who are able to come if you are willing to do so.

This year in March we held our World Day of Prayer Service at the Lutheran Church in Oakland. Only the six ladies who served refreshments were the ones attending from the whole Oakland-Mtn. Lake area. Where were all the rest of you? Why don't you try to attend one of the three yearly observances? We miss you.

There are some denominations that either don't believe in CWU's programs or who are just too "self-centered denominationally" to come.

Which is it, ladies?

Usually our regular attending ladies are from the United Methodist, Lutheran, Mennonite and a couple of other denominations.

Ministers, you should encourage the ladies of your churches to attend.

We do have a notice in The Republican and on the radio two weeks before each observance. We have the meetings the first Fridays of March, May and November. They seldom vary unless we postpone them due to inclement weather. (Reserve these dates so you can attend).

We hope to see more of you attend. We'll look for you on May 4 at Bittinger.

Will you be there? I sincerely hope so.

Sincerely yours,
Charlotte Mousch
Garrett CWU President

To the Editor:

Lets take a look at ourselves. As a nation? As a people? Two hundred some million. Does each of us count, or just some? How do we categorize haves and have nots? Persons, non-persons? Sometimes it seems we only count as necessary cogs in the machine. It is a very big machine our country, and it seems to be much like Frankenstein's monster: A man-made creation running amuck. Does it have a heart, really?

Back to the beginning. Why look at ourselves? Why not? The rest of the world is watching us, with envy, anger, and outrage in some cases. Things are just a bit awry, not only at home, but all over the world. Violence and destruction are two major themes of modern life. These are not new themes, but today they are overwhelming, considering total destruction is a possiblity.

What is the point of this letter? I'm just expressing a bit of my view in the public forum. I hear the bad news every day. I read about it. It overwhelms me, what people are doing. And the denial. What (our?) people in government are doing to other people. What people? "These people aren't my people. They don't matter to me." Some people believe that "these" people aren't people at all. They're peasants, subhuman, animals. Speaking of animals, what about them? They don't seem to matter, except as to how much profit can be made from them, and of course, how they taste as a dish. Well, wake up! Every living thing on this planet is incredibly sensitive and aware, right down to the earthworm that shrinks away from the slightest touch, or even flashlight beam. Every day of the week nine million chickens, turkeys, pigs, calves, and cows meet violent deaths. They are aware of the impending violence. They smell it. They feel it. They fear it. They see it. They struggle futiley to avoid it. To look at slaughter as "processing" is to look away from the truth of it. Animals are conscious beings. Everything in creation is divine. Human beings are profaning the sacred.

What is needed is respect, love, and affection for all things. That is why I've quit eating meat. That is why the meat counsel does not "trust people who don't eat meat," as they said in one commercial. That is why they spend millions to portray meat as "good for you" and "necessary for good health." Bologna! Vegetarianism is a threat to the business, a threat to the profits. It is a small threat, but one that is growing as people learn the truth about the industry. The industry will say anything to keep people buying and eating dead flesh. Does this make you feel uncomfortable, angry, or guilty? Or are you completely desensitized to feeling for the pain and suffering of others (animals specifically)?

My hope in sharing these thoughts is to point out what I see as some of the fundamental flaws in the world we are making (messing up)! So much of the "disfunction" in society — lunacy, rebelliousness, violence, depression — is due to an awareness of these realities, lurking just below the conscious threshold, eating away at anyone with an ounce of compassion in them.

Much physical and mental illness is being linked to the typical American diet, consisting largely of meat and sugar (a great threat to health in its own right) foods.

Most people's priority in life is to survive, but they must fit within a livable world. We as a leader nation need to make the priority a livable world for all. Otherwise, it is going to get much more ugly for the beautiful little children inheriting it. If you would like to learn more about the far reaching effects, both personal, and ecology-wise of the meat based agri-industry, obtain a copy of John Robbin's, Diet For A New America, Still Point Publishing, Box 640, Walpole, NH 03608. You can call 1-800-847-4014 for ordering information.

Foot note No. 1 was taken from that book. It is a hard book to read, because it sets us face to face with ourselves, and our food choices.

Sincerely,
Jaime Alvarez

To the Editor:

I wonder how long it will be before the gullible public wakes up to the fact that it is being taken through the wasteful use of paper by advertisers? No wonder we have to haul paper away by the truckloads to clutter our precious landfills! Our mails are choked with junk blatantly extolling a lot of questionable products most of us have little use for. I realize that it is very tempting for a printer to turn down a half or full page spread when it comes along, but our magazines and newspapers are full of wasteful, practically empty spreads that say little or nothing except the advertiser's logo.

The average magazine today, with a few exceptions, contains over 75% advertisement and little worthwhile reading matter. Some newspapers are filled with whole sections of pure, unadulterated space consuming advertisements that could be vastly reduced to cut down on paper. Who pays for this waste of paper? The gullible public does — every time it buys a periodical!

First, newsprint continues to get in shorter supply and higher in price by over demand and it costs the publishers money to waste advertising space. Secondly, the production of so-called reading matter is one of the most highly inflated items in our economy. It costs the public 10 to 15 times the original amount for a periodical, chiefly to pay for the advertising, when it should be the advertisers paying the public instead. It's like Tom Sawyer charging someone else for the privilege to whitewash his fence! If my face is dirty, are you going to pay me a dollar to wash it? But, essentially, that is what the public is blindly led into. Thirdly, time was when those who turned in papers and magazines for recycling realized a little for the resale that furnished a little incentive against dumping, but now have to pay to have the scrap hauled away. Again, we are paying for the excesses of the advertisers.

I believe in simple concise advertisement, not blatant waste of space. Tobacco and liquor advertisements have long been especially guilty of excess advertising space. Automobile ads are not far behind. Lately, the large full-page telephone ads with little but blank pages are prominent examples of waste.

If we take a few of our large prominent magazines which used to contain a good amount of entertaining and intelligent information (and now contain upwards of a pound each), cut them apart and separate the ads from the actual reading matter, we find that we have three-fourths more weight in advertising material. Then we can begin to realize just how silly it is to pay for all those ads in order to get a little reading material. A lot of the smaller magazines are just as bad. Moreover, some of it is repetitious in the same issue. As bad as blank spaces is over illustration which is simply redundant.

As far as all this excessive advertising goes, it is as if the public is being blasted with a huge propaganda campaign and the public is pay for the generated waste from the mailbox and newsstand to the dumpster! Even a fifty percent saving in waste would help — but it could be more!

To the Editor:

On April 14, 31 members of the West Marva District Youth, along with 11 adult advisors converged on the Cumberland-LaVale area with one mission: to wash as many cars as possible for free! We set up at three different locations, and the demand for this service was so great we could hardly keep up. In approximately six hours our groups had washed a total of 225 cars.

Most patrons graciously donated to our group, and we tried our best not to miss spots (though we know we did). We'd like to thank those who were willing to trust their vehicle to our sponges. Your participation in these kinds of events make it possible for teenagers to do things they never thought would be possible. For a lot of teens, trips or other activities are out of reach because of the cost involved. Our District of Churches endeavors to provide opportunities to all its youth regardless of financial resources. As patrons to activities such as this, you are helping these youth reach their worthy goals.

This particicular event will help us send many of our youth to a National Youth Conference at Colorado State University in August of this year. All youth who participated in this event will receive financial assistance with this trip.

Also, as a District coordinator, I would like to recognize the importance of volunteer Area leaders who graciously give of their time, and also worked very hard along with the youth. Area leaders who helped were: Roxy Whitacre, Dale and Jean VanMeter, and Ellen Lewis from the Cumberland Area; Jerry Cathel from the Keyser Area; Jeanne Whitehair from the Oakland Area; Craig Howard, Steve Blaisdell, Roy Musser Jr., and Sally Pownell from the Petersburg Area.

Only with this kind of cooperation between churches, civic groups, businesses, and government, can we provide meaningful opportunities for our youth. Thank you, and see you next time!

Yours sincerely,

To the Editor:

It may surprise you, in this day of modern medicine, to learn that a study for the Department of Health and Human Services shows that 25 percent of the U.S. population has tried at least one unproven remedy. People with arthritis, hoping to reduce their chronic pain, are particularly likely to try remedies that are not scientifically proven to be safe or effective. In fact, the Arthritis Foundation estimates that most of these 37 million Americans with arthritis have tried one or more unproven remedies for arthritis.

Some of these unproven arthritis remedies are harmless, such as copper bracelets and mineral springs. Others have unknown effects, such as bee venom, fish oils or special diets. Still other remedies have been proven harmful and should not be taken, such as large doses of vitamins, snake venom, DMSO, and drugs from other countries with hidden ingredients. In fact, according to the above study, one in 10 people with arthritis trying an unproven remedy report harmful side effects. Also, 58 percent reported being introduced to an unproven remedy by well-meaning family or friends.

May is National Arthritis Month. During this month the Arthritis Foundation is encouraging people with arthritis, their family and friends to learn more about the arthritis remedies they hear about before deciding to try one or even tell others about it. We encourage people to make informed choices by talking to a doctor or calling the Arthritis Foundation's Maryland Chapter at 561-8090 to get more information about arthritis treatment.

A free brochure is available from the Arthritis Foundation about how to spot an unproven remedy and what you should be aware of before trying one. The Foundation also provides a number of proven programs and services to help people with arthritis cope with the disease and its pain. Arthritis does not have to take control of a persons life. The Arthritis Foundation offers proven help and hope.

Sincerely,
Bruce E. Alexander, Esq.,

To the Editor:

I'm writing about the rules and regulations at Southern Middle School, where I'm a student. I'm 12 years old and just got back home with my dad from a foster home. I've been suspended three times this year for things I was blamed for doing in school or on the bus. I did not get a chance to defend myself. The principal said I did it and that was that.

It is no wonder that students want to drop out of school as soon as they are 16. These teachers and the principal are supposed to be our leaders, but we don't need these kind of leaders. The law says that a person is innocent until proven guilty, but at the Middle School you are just guilty. Once a student gets in any kind of trouble, then they are blamed for anything that is told on them, if it's true or not and I don't think this is fair.

On teacher went as far as to have my sister put in a foster home by pulling and prying and putting words in her mouth, and telling my sister that she could have it good in a foster home. I know this, cause this teacher tried the same thing with me until I walked out of her class.

Sincerely,
Junior Lloyd

As the debate on the pros and cons of abortion rages on, I would like to share the following prodigy of an unborn fetus. I hope that this will touch the hearts of everyone who reads it.

DIARY OF AN UNBORN CHILD

October 5: Today my life began. My parents do not know it yet, but it is I already. And I am to be a girl. I shall have blond hair and blue eyes. Just about everything is settled though, even the fact that I shall love flowers.

October 19: Some say that I am not a real person yet, that only my mother exists. But I am a real person, much as a small crumb of bread is yet truly bread. My mother is. And I am.

October 23: My mouth is just beginning to open now. Just think, in a year or so I shall be laughing and later talking. I know what my first word will be: MAMA.

October 25: My heart began to beat today all by itself. From now on it shall gently beat for the rest of my life without ever stopping to rest! And after many years it will tire. It will stop, and then I shall die.

November 2: I am growing a bit every day. My arms and legs are beginning to take shape. But I have to wait a long time yet before those little legs will raise me to my mother's arms, before these little arms will be able to gather flowers and embrace my father.

November 12: Tiny fingers are beginning to form on my hands. Funny how small they are! I'll be able to stroke my mother's hair with them.

November 20: It wasn't until today that the doctor told mom that I am living here under her heart. Oh, how happy she must be! Are you happy, mom?

November 25: My mom and dad are probably thinking about a name for me. But they don't even know that I am a little girl. I want to be called Kathy. I am getting so big already.

December 10: My hair is growing. It is smooth and bright and shiny. I wonder what kind of hair mom has?

December 13: I am just about able to see. It is dark around me. When mom brings me into the world it will be full of sunshine and flowers. But what I want more than anything to see my mom. How do you look, mom?

December 24: I wonder if mom hears the whispering of my heart? Some children come into the world a little sick. But my heart is strong and healthy. It beats so evenly: tup-tup, tup-tup. You'll have a healthy little daughter, mom!

December 28: Today my mother killed me.

Respectfully,
M.L. Beckman

"astronaut overalls" and presented a lively session on life in space. Dan Carter of Fort Hill High School lectured on DNA spooling and Gel Electrophoresis. Dr. Boyd Holtan of West Virginia University demonstrated the construction of polyhedrons.

All of the workshops were presented as hands-on events that allowed the students to participate in science activities.

Thirty judges from across the region conducted interview sessions with all of the Expo participants. Award presentations were based on the judges' findings.

Expo 1990 was conducted under the direction of Mike Logsdon of Garrett Community College, Dr. Glenn Workman of Allegany Community College and Frank Peto of RESA. Expo 1991 is slated for early April on the campus of Frostburg State University. Dr. Francis Tam will serve as coordinator for the event.

Expo 1990 was presented by the Regional Education Service Agency of Western Maryland in cooperation with the RESA member institutions: Allegany Community College, Allegany County Board of Education, Frostburg State University, Garrett Community College, Garrett County Board of Education, Hagerstown Junior College, University of Maryland and Washington County Board of Education.

The event was co-sponsored by local McDonald's restaurants, First Federal Savings Bank of Western Maryland, Bausch & Lomb, Inc., and RESA.

February State, County Jobless Rates Announced

In February 1990, nearly 72,000 more people were employed in Maryland than in February 1989, according to recent statistics released by the Maryland Department of Economic and Employment Development (DEED). Since February 1989, nearly 67,000 additional people joined the labor force combined with 5,038 previously unemployed persons, to fill new jobs created over the year.

During February 1990, the statewide jobless rate edged down from 4.1 percent in January to 3.9 percent.

More than 31,000 jobseekers entered the labor force in February. Statewide employment, due to recall activity, rose by 35,266 people to reach 2,440,611.

The February jobless rate in Garrett County was 9.6 percent, up slightly from the January rate (9.4 percent); however there were 194 more people employed in February than in January. The February workforce totalled 13,428, compared to 13,186 in January. Of those totals, there were 12,136 with jobs in February and 11,942 employed in January.

The drop in Maryland's unemployment rate was consistent with the nation's unemployment figure which showed joblessness in the country falling from 5.9 percent in January to 5.8 percent in February.

Maryland's unemployment rate for February was the third lowest in the nation after Nebraska at 2.8 percent and Hawaii at 3.1 percent. Maryland tied with North Carolina at 3.9 percent.

"Once again Maryland has seen the results of a strong economy as indicated by increases in both the labor force and employment. This is particularly evidenced by our February unemployment count as it dropped below 100,000 for the first time for any February since 1974," said J. Randall Evans, secretary of DEED.

Schools reopening after semester breaks was responsible for job gains in state and local government. In the manufacturing sector, workers returning to General Motors following a three week layoff caused a rise in payrolls. Income tax season caused an increase in hiring in personal services, while employment was also up in health and amusement services.

Unemployment was down in all four regions in the state. Western Maryland showed the most improvement, with joblessness dropping from 7.9 percent to 7.1 percent.

Gorman Area Raises $306.85 For Heart Fund

A total of $306.85 was collected in the Gorman area during the recent Heart Fund Drive, according to Evelyn Steyer, chairman.

The area covered by this portion of the drive included Gorman, Steyer, Rt. 560, King Wildesen Road, LeMoyne King Road, White Church Road, Steyer Mine Road, and Bethlehem.

Ms. Steyer and the other coordinators, Carolyn Shreve and Eileen Steyer, noted their appreciation to the residents of these areas for their generosity.

Diabetes Assoc. Will Disband

The Garrett County Chapter of the American Diabetes Association will disband because of a lack of participation and interest, according to Terry Knotts, president of the organization.

Persons interested in continuing operation of the chapter are asked to contact Linda Cole at 1-800-277-8427.

"We want to thank all of those persons who have supported our chapter over the past 12 years," Knotts said.

Other officers of the chapter are: Wendy Wakefield, vice president; Sandra Irving, secretary; and Delores Raynovich, treasurer.

Billy Walton and Theresa Norman, Baltimore, were visitors of Mrs. Ocie Rush.

Mrs. Lori Olander, Frederick, was a Sunday dinner guest of her mother, Mrs. Renelda Frazee. In the afternoon, they visited the latter's mother, Mrs. Anna J. Thomas, a resident of Goodwill Mennonite Home, Grantsville. They took her for a car ride and refreshments.

Mrs. Lillian Bates and Miss Lucille Fike arrived at Baltimore-Washington Airport Saturday after a two-week visit with their brother, Glen L. Fike at El Segundo, Calif. They were met by the former's son, Richard Bates, who brought them to their home here Saturday night. Rick remained here overnight. Sunday evening visitors of Lucille and Lillian were Mr. and Mrs. Ross Selby.

Miss Tonja Hook and Mrs. Carolyn Cogley, Oakland, were Sunday afternoon guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Hook.

Mrs. Katharine Chisholm, Baltimore, is visiting here with relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Schlosnagle were Sunday visitors of her brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Nicklow, at Oakland.

Mr. and Mrs. G.R. Friend visited on Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Donald Friend and son and Mr. and Mrs. William Burow, Blooming Rose.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Colflesch, Monroe, N.C., spent several days with his sisters, Mrs. Mae Fike and Mrs. Pearle Bittner.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Fike, Mt. Airy, were weekend guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Selby. On Saturday the Fikes attended the wedding of their niece, Miss Linda Fike, Accident, to Earl Meyers, Addison, Pa., at St. Paul's Lutheran Church at Accident.

Local residents interested in getting their GED certificates may call 334-8304.

The GED, or General Educational Development test, is a high school diploma equivalency test. Persons who pass the test are given the equivalent of a high school diploma.

If enough people from a specific location in Garrett County show an interest in taking the preparation course for the test, a course will be offered in that area.

Good Food and how to prepare it!

APRIL IS CANCER CONTROL MONTH

THE GREAT AMERICAN FOOD FIGHT AGAINST CANCER.

AMERICAN CANCER SOCIETY®

FOURTH IN A SERIES

The following recipes are from the American Cancer Society Cookbook

DESSERTS

DESSERTS are where we can really go astray when it comes to reducing the fat content in our diet. Most cookies are deadly, and mousses, chocolate desserts, and lovely whipped-cream confections are filled with fat. However, don't despair. This doesn't mean you have to deprive yourself forever of these delicious desserts. Just be aware of their high fat content and savor them in moderation. Save them for special occasions, enjoy small servings, and select low-fat dishes for the rest of the meal.

This section has many delicious desserts that are not high in fat. Remember that fresh strawberries, juicy peaches, and sweet cherries are among the delights of summer. And what tastes better after a two or three-course dinner than a homemade fruit sorbet?

Many of the dessert recipes in this book are fruit desserts. They are low in fat, yet full of flavor. They are also high in vitamins, minerals, and fiber. You'll find them a delight to both the eye and the palate!

PEACHES WITH RASPBERRY-YOGURT SAUCE

4 fresh ripe peaches
Rasperry-Yogurt Sauce:
1 cup frozen unsweetened raspberries
½ cup low-fat yogurt
1 tablespoon granulated sugar or honey
Garnish:
Fresh raspberries or mint

Peel peaches (blanch in boiling water to make peeling easier) and slice.

Raspberry-Yogurt Sauce: In food processor or blender, process raspberries, yogurt, and sugar until smooth. Refrigerate until needed. Spoon peaches into individual dishes and spoon sauce over peaches. Alternatively, spread sauce on plates and arrange peaches on top. Garnish with fresh raspberries or mint. Makes 4 servings.

RASPBERRY SORBET WITH STRAWBERRY PUREE

2 9-ounce packages frozen sweetened raspberries, thawed
1 cup water
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 cup Strawberry Puree

In food processor, puree raspberries. Stir in water and lemon juice.

Freezing Instructions:

Method 1 — Ice Cream Machine: Follow manufacturer's instructions.

Method 2 — Food Processor: Freeze in metal pan or bowl until hard. Process in food processor until mixture is a hard slush. Return to freezer until needed.

Method 3 — Hand Method: Freeze in metal pan or bowl until barely firm. Beat by hand or electric mixer until slushy. Return to freezer until needed.

To Serve: Sorbet should not be rock-hard. If necessary, transfer to refrigerator 15 minutes before serving or process in food processor. To serve, spoon into individual dishes or stemmed glasses and pour sauce over. Alternatively, spoon some sauce onto dessert plates and spoon a scoop or two of sorbet on top of each plate. (This looks very attractive when different kinds of sorbets are served on each plate and are garnished with fresh raspberries or other fresh fruits). Makes 8 servings.

FRESH STRAWBERRY SORBET

1 cup water
1 cup granulated sugar
4 cups ripe strawberries, washed and hulled
Juice of 2 oranges
Juice of 1 lemon
Fresh Strawberries for garnish

Bring water and sugar to a boil, stirring, to dissolve sugar; boil for 2 minutes and let cool. In food processor or blender, puree strawberries. Combine strawberries, syrup, orange juice, and lemon juice, mix well. Freeze and serve according to instructions in Raspberry Sorbet recipe. Garnish each serving with fresh strawberries. Makes 8 servings.

OLD-FASHIONED PEACH COBBLER

½ cup packed brown sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon grated lemon or orange rind
1 tablespoon lemon juice
4 cups sliced, peeled peaches
¾ cup all-purpose flour
½ cup whole wheat flour
1 tablespoon baking powder
¼ cup butter or margarine
¼ cup granulated sugar
1 egg, lightly beaten
½ cup low-fat milk
½ teaspoon vanilla

Lightly butter an 8-cup baking dish. In large bowl, combine brown sugar, cinnamon, grated lemon rind, and lemon juice, mix well. Add peaches and toss to mix, transfer to baking dish. Combine flours and baking powder. In mixing bowl, cream butter and granulated sugar until light and fluffy, beat in egg. Add dry ingredients alternately with milk. Add vanilla, mixing just until combined. Drop batter by spoonfuls over peach mixture. Bake in 375°F oven for 25 to 35 minutes or until peaches are tender and top is golden brown. Serve warm. Makes 8 servings.

APPLESAUCE WHOLE WHEAT CAKE

1¾ cups granulated sugar
¼ cup butter, at room temperature
1 egg
½ cup low-fat yogurt
2 cups applesauce
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
1 teaspoon vanilla
1½ cups all-purpose flour
1¼ cups whole wheat flour
3 tablespoons bran
2 teaspoons cinnamon
2 teaspoons baking soda
1 cup raisins

Butter and flour a 10-inch bundt pan. In mixing bowl, combine sugar and butter, beat until mixed. Add egg and beat until light in color. Add yogurt and beat until mixed. Beat in applesauce, orange rind, and vanilla. In another bowl, combine flours, bran, cinnamon, baking soda, and raisins, stir to mix. Pour dry ingredients over applesauce mixture and stir just until combined. Pour into prepared pan and bake in 325°F oven for 70 to 80 minutes or until toothpick inserted in center comes out clean. Remove from oven. Let cool on rack for 20 minutes, then remove from pan and place on wire rack to finish cooling. Makes 16 slices.

CINNAMON COFFEE CAKE

1 cup low-fat yogurt
1 teaspoon baking soda
¼ cup butter or margarine
1 cup lightly packed brown sugar
1 egg
1 teaspoon vanilla
1½ cups all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
Topping:
½ cup lightly packed brown sugar
1 tablespoon cinnamon

Grease and flour a bundt pan or 9-inch square baking pan. In small bowl, combine yogurt and baking soda, mix well and set aside. (Yogurt mixture will increase in volume). In large mixing bowl, beat butter with sugar until well mixed. Add egg and vanilla, beat well, about 2 minutes. Sift together flour and baking powder; add to butter mixture alternately with yogurt mixture.

Topping: Combine sugar and cinnamon, mix well. Spread half the batter in prepared pan. Sprinkle with half the topping. Cover with remaining batter and sprinkle with remaining topping. Bake in 350°F oven for 45 minutes or until toothpick inserted in center comes out clean. Let cool for 10 to 15 minutes in pan, then invert onto wire rack. Makes 12 servings.

RASPBERRY OR STRAWBERRY PUREE

In blender or food processor, puree 1 9-ounce package frozen raspberries or strawberries. If using unsweetened berries, add confectioners sugar to taste. Makes about 1 cup sauce.

FROZEN LEMON CREAM

3 cups low-fat yogurt
2 teaspoons vanilla
4 teaspoons grated lemon rind
¼ cup lemon juice
½ cup granulated sugar

Combine all ingredients and mix well. Freeze and serve according to instructions for Raspberry Sorbet.

APPLE CINNAMON SORBET WITH RASPBERRY PUREE

1 cup finely grated, peeled, and cored apples
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 tablespoons Calvados or apple brandy (optional)
½ teaspoon cinnamon
2½ cups water
1 cup granulated sugar
2½ cups apple juice
1 cup Raspberry Puree

In skillet, combine grated apple, lemon juice, Calvados (if using), and cinnamon; cook over medium heat, stirring, until apple is tender, about 3 minutes. In saucepan, bring water and sugar to a boil and cook, until sugar is dissolved. Remove from heat, stir in apple mixture and apple juice. Freeze and serve according to instructions for Raspberry Sorbet. Serve with fresh fruit such as grapes, sliced kiwi, or strawberries, plus a fresh mint leaf, or drizzle with Raspberry Puree. Makes 8 servings.

LEMON AND FRESH BLUEBERRY TART

Meringue Crust:
2 egg whites
Pinch cream of tartar
½ cup granulated sugar
¼ teaspoon cornstarch
½ teaspoon vanilla
Lemon Filling:
½ cup granulated sugar
5 tablespoons cornstarch
1½ cups hot water
2 egg yolks
Grated rind and juice of 1 large lemon
Grated rind of ½ orange
Blueberry topping:
¼ cup granulated sugar
2 teaspoons cornstarch
⅓ cup water
1 teaspoon fresh lemon juice
2 cups fresh blueberries

Meringue Crust: Line an 8 or 9-inch pie plate with foil, butter foil lightly, sprinkle with flour, and shake off excess flour. In medium bowl, beat egg whites with cream of tartar until soft peaks form. Beat in sugar, 1 tablespoon at a time, until stiff glossy peaks form. Beat in cornstarch and vanilla. Spread mixture into foil-lined pie plate, bring sides about ½-inch higher than pan. Bake in 300°F oven for 90 minutes or until firm and dry, let cool slightly on rack. While still warm, remove meringue from pie plate and peel off foil. Return meringue shell to pie plate.

Lemon Filling: Grate rind from the lemon and ½ orange. Squeeze juice from lemon (you should have about ⅓ cup). In nonaluminum heavy saucepan, mix sugar and cornstarch. Stir in water and bring to a boil over medium heat, stirring constantly. Reduce heat and boil gently for 3 minutes, stirring constantly. In small bowl, beat egg yolks lightly. Whisk a little hot mixture into egg yolks, then slowly pour yolk mixture back into saucepan, stirring constantly. Cook over medium-low heat, stirring constantly, for 2 minutes. Remove from heat. Stir in lemon juice and grated rinds. Let cool slightly, pour into prepared pie shell.

Blueberry Topping: In heavy saucepan, combine sugar and cornstarch. Stir in water and lemon juice. Cook, stirring, over medium heat until mixture thickens, comes to a boil, and becomes clear. Remove from heat and add blueberries, stirring to coat well. Spoon blueberries over lemon filling. Refrigerate for at least 30 minutes before serving. Makes 8 servings.

INCLUDE MEDICINE CABINET IN YOUR SPRING CLEANING

When the robin red breast reminds you spring has finally arrived and the good news stirs you into an energetic round of spring cleaning, don't forget the medicine cabinet. It's unwise to keep prescription drugs "on hand" after the specific condition for which they were ordered has been cured, especially if you've been collecting them for years. You would not want to take patent medicines without your doctor's advice, self-diagnosis can do more harm than good.

The less crowded your drug storage area is the less chance for a mistake when reaching for a bottle. If you like, you can bring us any drugs you wish to discard and we'll be glad to dispose of them safely.

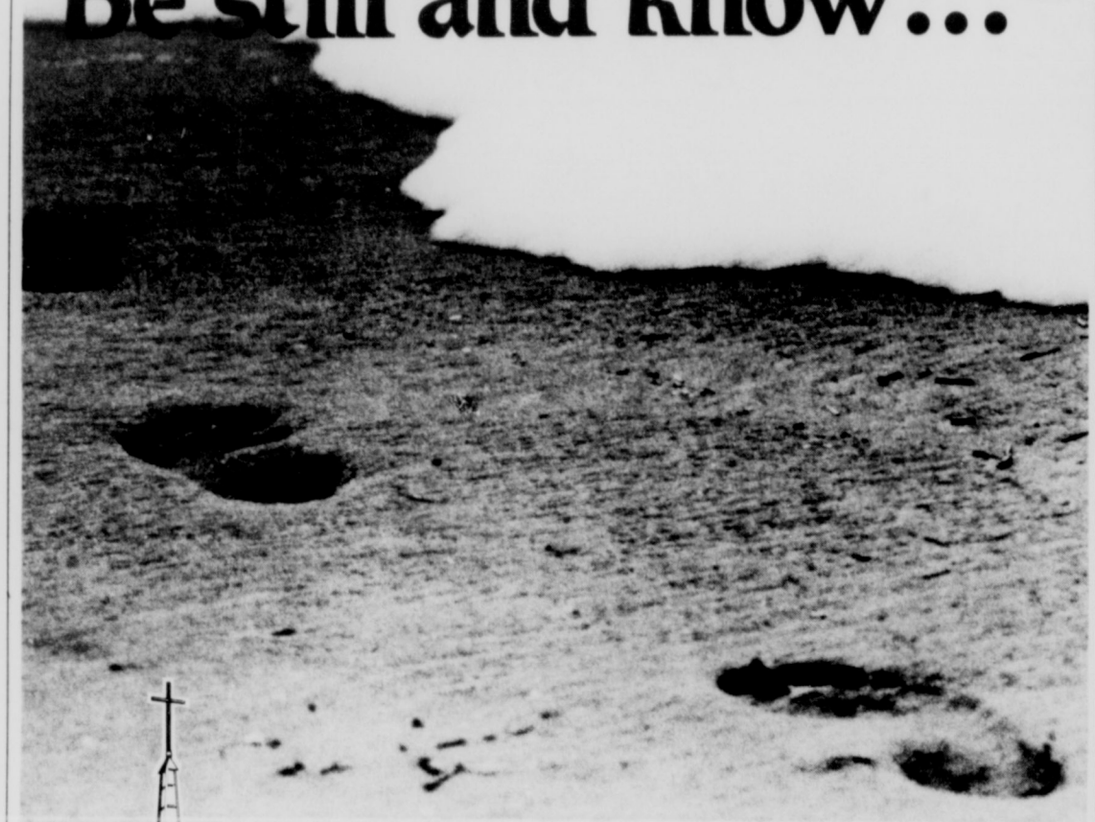
Be still and know...



It is early morning at the shore. I venture out alone to watch the sun rise orange over the sea. As I walk I leave a track of footprints in the sand. I stop and listen. It is perfectly quiet. But as I look farther out to sea, the water is starting to swell until it can no longer contain itself. A mighty wave erupts and crashes on the shore.

Again, all is quiet. I turn and walk back the way I came. My footprints are no longer there. I start over, leaving new footprints.

As a wave quietly builds, then crashes on the shore, wiping away old footprints, God's quiet strength can wipe away old mistakes and regrets. You can start anew.

This week, worship God in prayer and meditation. In His Word, we are encouraged to . . .

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

A HERESY OF DEEDS

April 29, 1990

Background Scripture: 1 John 2: 18-29.
Devotional Reading: 2 Corinthians 13:5-14.

I'll have to confess that I struggled with this text for a long time before it said anything to me - or before I heard it say something to me. John's concern in this passage, in fact most of the letter, seems far removed from our own situation today. He is steamed up over former Christians who have become heretics. I wouldn't suggest for a moment that heresy is not a problem today for the Church, but that it doesn't rank at the top of our concerns. What John was concerned about was a heresy called Docetism, a name taken from the Greek word 'dokein,' meaning to seem or to appear. To make a rather complex situation simple, the Docetists believed that Jesus was not really a physical human being, but only "seemed" or "appeared" to be. It was as if God had donned a human disguise in order to come among us. This was because they regarded as the incompatible an incorruptible and spiritual God becoming a corruptible and material person.

THE INCARNATION

Orthodox (meaning approved, conventional, or approved) Christianity held that in Jesus both the divine and human were manifest -"fully God and fully man." The central mystery of Christianity has always been the paradox of God and humanity in one person. The early Christians firmly believed that Jesus was not God pretending to be human, anymore than he was a human pretending to be God.

Actually, my experience in the church - which, of course, is that of just one person - has been that, although Docetism long ago was denounced as hersey, it is still very much with us today. Many of the depictions of Jesus - in print, in art, on film, and even in sermons -are Docetic: that of a God who only appears to be a man. Popular conceptions of Jesus always, it seems to me, stress his divinity at the expense of his humanity.

DIVINELY IRRELEVANT

Does that matter? I believe it does, because a Docetic Christ is largely irrelevant to human life. If we overemphasize the divinity of Christ, we make him so different from us that nothing he did or said seems applicable to us. Jesus loved even the "worst" of people, but we can say, "Of course, but then he was divine!" and that removes that obligation from us who are merely human. If Jesus is to be relevant to us, he must have known what we know and experience what we experience, including the terrible pull of temptation.

But Jesus made it clear that his disciples are to do all that he did, if need be, to lay down our lives for others. Actually, the bottom line of John's teaching is that deeds are even more important than beliefs. "If you know that he is righteous, you may be sure that everyone who does right is born of him" (1 John 2:29). "Does right" takes precedence over "thinks right," although both do better when they are equal in our lives.

Ideas and beliefs are important, because they motivate us in the choices we make. Heretical ideas can be very harmful, but even worse is the heresy of unrighteous deeds.

Movie depicts tumultuous years of the Beach Boys

Group gets around despite tragedies

By Anne Wheeler

Of the five Beach Boys, drummer Dennis Wilson was the one who most personified the easy-going, free-spirited image the group tried to capture in its music. He loved surfing, women and rock 'n roll.

His was also the most tragic story of the tight-knit rock 'n roll group. Drowned in a swimming accident at age 39 in 1983, Wilson's story and that of the famed group is told in the unauthorized biography The Story of the Beach Boys: Summer Dreams, Sunday, April 29, on ABC.

The drama highlights some of the events in the group's history. Made up of brothers Brian, Carl and Dennis Wilson, cousin Mike Love and good friend Al Jardine, the Beach Boys got off to a quick start under the guidance of the Wilsons' father, Murry. His tyrannical pursuit of perfection and his jealousy toward Brian's genius, however, turned the musicians against him, causing a rift that would take years of therapy for some of the sons to accept and understand.

The Story Of The Beach Boys: Summer Dreams not only delves into the intense emotions between the boys and their father, but also explores Brian and Dennis' dependency on drugs which led to the band's split up in the '70s.

Back together now, the Beach Boys have proven that their love for each other and for their music is much stronger than the overwhelming circumstances that kept pulling them apart.

Mister Frisky a leading contender for Kentucky Derby

By Jeff Thompson

For the 16th consecutive year, ABC will present live coverage of the Kentucky Derby from historic Churchill Downs in Louisville, Ky. on Saturday, May 5. Coverage will be presented during ABC's Wide World of Sports.

"The Run for the Roses," the first leg of horse racing's prestigious Triple Crown, is in its 116th year. This year's top contender is Mister Frisky, a horse with a Puerto Rican owner and a Cuban trainer. The 3-year-old horse has won 16 consecutive races, the most recent being the Santa Anita Derby in early April. The past two Kentucky Derby winners were also winners at Santa Anita—Sunday Silence and Winning Colors.

Although his sire and dam are not in the top-of-the-line breeding catalogues, Mister Frisky is obviously quite valuable to the people of Puerto Rico. When he was shipped to the United States to race in January, 2,000 fans accompanied him to the airport.

Mister Frisky will try to become the first unbeaten horse to win the Kentucky Derby since Seattle Slew in 1977. However, he faces stiff competition from three other thoroughbreds—Summer Squall, Unbridled and Champagneforashley.

"I don't have to worry about beating anyone," said Mister Frisky's trainer Laz Barrera. "They have to worry about beating Mister Frisky. You can run, but you can't hide."

CHILDREN'S CHOICE

Cartoon characters revert back to childhood in fall

By Anne Wheeler

There are Muppet Babies and Disney Babies, The Flintstone Kids and even a Pup Named Scooby Doo. Kid-size facsimiles of some of the biggest names in cartoons are coming in the fall to ABC and FOX.

The 50-year-old cat and mouse team of Tom and Jerry are going to turn back the clock to their teens when they premiere in Tom and Jerry Kids, coming to Saturday mornings on FOX.

Bugs Bunny and his friends will have younger counterparts, too, when Tiny Toon Adventures begins airing in syndication. Although the characters will not be Bugs Bunny, Daffy Duck, Porky Pig and Sylvester the Cat, per se, Buster Bunny, Plucky Ducky, Hamton Pig and Furr Ball become students at Loon University, where they are taught by none other than Elmer Fudd.

One of the biggest names in real-life comedy is also going to be featured as a kid-sized, animated cartoon character. Roseanne Barr will provide the voice for Little Rosey, featuring the comedienne as a 10-year-old girl. Stories will offer Rosey's rules for surviving as a child in an adult world.

"We already do Roseanne in primetime," said Jennie Trias, vice president of children's programming at ABC. "We don't want to do the same show on Saturday mornings; we want something that's more kid-relatable."

PERSONALITY PORTRAIT

Gary Cole knew at young age acting would be his forte

By Shelia Odak

Gary Cole, Jack Killian on NBC's Midnight Caller, never doubted that he would become anything but an actor. Born in Park Ridge, Ill., the son of a school administrator and a director of finance, Cole was already lip-syncing to Bill Cosby comedy albums when he was 8.

His first big break came in the 1983 feature film Heart Of Steel in which he played an ex-steel worker. His 1984 role as Dr. Jeffrey MacDonald, the ex-Green Beret accused of brutally murdering his wife and children, in the telefilm Fatal Vision really brought his talent to national attention. He went on from there to portray a homicide investigator in the miniseries Echoes In The Darkness and a drug-addicted surgeon in Vital Signs.

Cole attended Illinois State University where he was a theater major. He dropped out after three years and moved to Chicago. There he worked at a variety of odd jobs, including tending bar and painting houses. He also worked occasionally for the renowned Steppenwolf Theatre Company.

In 1979 he helped form the Remains Theatre, but left it in 1986 to become an ensemble member of Steppenwolf. Some of his theater credits include productions of Cat On A Hot Tin Roof, Orphans, True West and Mother Courage.

Midnight Caller is Cole's first TV series.

Tim Conway stars in Tim Conway's Comedy Camera, to be broadcast Sunday on ABC.

Nana Visitor plays Bryn Newhouse, Tess' supervisor, in Working Girl, Monday on NBC.

Lee Horsley and Bruce Boxleitner were honored recently with stars on the Western Walk of Fame in Santa Clarita, Calif. They join past past honorees Gene Autry, John Wayne, Tom Mix, Tex Ritter, Chuck Connors, Ben Johnson and Roy Rogers and Dale Evans.

"I learned how important, and funny, it was to catch people in the act of being themselves," says Allen (Candid Camera) Funt, "when I was an Army private in World War II." One of his assignments was to record soldiers' voices for the folks back home. "I discovered that the toughest G.I. became tongue-tied in front of a microphone. I realized that people are at their best when they don't realize they're 'on.'"

Sharon Gless and producer Barney Rosenzweig, both two-time Emmy Award winners for their work on the CBS series Cagney & Lacey, will reunite for a new dramatic series for CBS' 1990-91 season. The series, tentatively titled Renewal, will with a woman in her early 40s who has just weathered a difficult divorce and reenters the work force.

"My mother always wanted me to be a doctor. This is the closest I will ever come," says illusionist David Copperfield about Project Magic, a physical rehabilitation program he developed seven years ago. It is now implemented in more than 1,000 hospitals in 30 countries, using simple sleight-of-hand magic to strengthen dexterity and motor reflexes in disabled patients, and improve the patients' self-esteem.

HOROSCOPE

April 29 through May 5

By A. Murphy

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20)
Before indulging in a luxurious vacation, pay off any debts you have. There is rest and relaxation right around the corner. You don't have to travel somewhere exotic.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20)
Don't be pulled down by ill moods around you. Take a one-day trip to escape stress. You don't need a lot of money for romance; a flower and a walk in the park will do.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22)
Quick decisions are exciting until commitment begins. Take time and consult with others first. Opportunity may get away, but more are around the corner.

LEO (July 23 - August 22)
When disappointed, go for a brisk walk or jog. Do not speak before you have thought clearly through the situation. Physical exertion will aid in the sorting-out process.

VIRGO (August 23 - September 22)
Get up with the sun this week and really see the morning. Find something new every day. Treat visiting travelers with your specialty dish and your best china.

LIBRA (September 23 - October 22)
Meditate carefully about what is beyond the superficial in every situation. Declare your independence from the emotions that imprison you.

SCORPIO (October 23 - November 21)
Do not let yourself become involved with dishonest schemes of any sort. Always be honest in every area of your life, especially with yourself. Watch your health this week.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 - December 21)
You have the power to forgive and forget. Be sure that your actions back up your words. Look for the advantage in every situation. Your personal growth will reward you.

CAPRICORN (December 22 - January 19)
Great enthusiasm can enhance every part of your life. Even when insulted, grasp your opportunity to show your amazing strength and intelligence.

AQUARIUS (January 20 - February 18)
Plant trees, vegetables, and/or flowers in order to celebrate the gifts of the earth this week. Consider the treasures that surround you that no money could possibly buy.

PISCES (February 19 - March 20)
Practice your art every day if it brings you peace and pleasure. Get in touch with an old friend you haven't heard from lately. Always avoid empty and vicious rumoring.

ARIES (March 21 - April 19)
Be giving and loving to relatives and friends. Make a list of the benefits you receive when you volunteer to help those less fortunate. Personal growth surprises you.

'Cat On A Hot Tin Roof' to star Kathleen Turner

By Steven Alan McGaw

This sounds good to me! ABC will produce, they say, a TV version of the new Broadway revival of Tennessee Williams' Cat On A Hot Tin Roof, starring Kathleen Turner...

Some things just don't make sense. The 1986 film Highlander, starring Christopher Lambert and Sean Connery, wasn't much of a box office success; director Russell Mulcahy was criticized for his relentless, MTV-style camerawork, reviews of the film were never very positive (and some were outright pans), and even its defenders admitted the film made very little sense. So, why are they making a sequel? I don't know, but Highlander 2: The Quickening is already in production, with Lambert, Mulcahy and Connery all reprising their duties from the original. Budgeted at $20 million, the film will be out this Christmas. Oh boy...

Show biz and real life had an unpleasant collision recently for one New York City purse snatcher. Right after the thief grabbed a woman's handbag (and cut her arm in the process), he ran around the corner and right into the production site of ABC's series H.E.L.P. A policeman assigned to the set quickly apprehended and arrested the culprit. H.E.L.P., you'll recall, is about a law enforcement group trying to clean up NYC streets.

Stephanie Zimbalist stars as mysterious woman

Drama shows kids' roles in '50s

By Mary Ann Townsend

Stephanie Zimbalist stars as a mysterious young woman who turns a household upside down in Caroline?, airing Sunday, April 29, on CBS.

Zimbalist plays Caroline Carmichael, a debutante thought to have died in a plane crash in the mid-1940s. She ironically resurfaces just as an inheritance from her grandmother (Dorothy McGuire) is about to mature and pay off. George Grizzard plays her father, Paul Carmichael, and Pamela Reed his young wife, Grace. Jenny Jacobs and Shawn Phelan portray her half brother and sister. Patricia Neal plays Caroline's former finishing school teacher, who doubts she is who she says she is.

Although Caroline seems to have reappeared for greedy reasons, she winds up helping her half-brother, who, between his domineering mother and his physically impaired sister, has no life of his own.

"You're left to wonder," Zimbalist said of whether or not her character is the missing young woman. "But that is not the hook of the story. It's not what keeps you watching the screen. The story is really told through the eyes of a little boy and how he comes to find this person who helps him find himself."

The actress said Caroline? has an underlying message.

"The children could only watch from behind doors, they had their place, they were told what to say, they were told what to do, they were told where to go, they were told how to dress. They had their little place," she said. "This film makes a comment on that."

Hank Williams Jr. wasn't too young for movie about dad

By Polly Vonetes

Q: I sure hope you can settle an argument that my uncle and I have recently had. The movie Your Cheatin' Heart about Hank Williams Sr. was recently shown on TV. I say the movie came out in the early '60s and had Hank Williams Jr. doing the soundtrack. My uncle insists the movie came out in the mid-'50s shortly after Hank's death, and that Hank Jr. was too young to do the songs. Who wins this "family feud" of ours? —Danny Vaughn, Gaffney, S.C.

Hank Williams Jr.

A: I hope your uncle is a good loser, because Danny, you win. Your Cheatin' Heart was released in 1964 with Hank Williams Jr. dubbing in the soundtrack. Born in 1949, he was 15 years old at the time.

Q: I hope you can answer two questions for me. My husband and I disagree on them both. Could you tell me how old Angela Lansbury is and her date of birth? Also, I would like to know about the best comedian in the world, Red Skelton, date of birth and where he was born. —J. Clough, Hillsdale, N.Y.

A: Angela Lansbury will be 65 years old on Oct. 16. She was born in London, England in 1925. Red Skelton will celebrate his 80th birthday on July 18. He was born in Vincennes, Ind. in 1910. I hope you are right on at least one of these dates.

Q: Could you please help me? I would really like to know more about Nicole Eggert who plays Jamie Powell on Charles In Charge. I would like to know her age, her fan club and her address. Any information about her would be terrific. Please answer my letter. —Jerry Olesen, Grass Valley, Calif.

A: I bet you thought I'd never answer your questions. I am sorry it took so long. It all began for Nicole when she was five years old and entered the "Miss Universe Petite Division Pageant," where she stole the hearts of the judges and the title. She also caught the eye of a well-known casting director who advised she should sign with an agency immediately. She did, and before she knew it she was appearing in television commercials. With more visibility she has kept working steadily ever since in films and on television. In her free time, 18-year-old Nicole enjoys a healthy, southern California lifestyle. She enjoys biking to the beach in the summer and skiing in the winter. She is also an accomplished tap and jazz dancer. She plans to attend college, preferably the Royal Academy of Dramatic Arts in London. Write to her c/o Charles In Charge, MCA-TV, 100 Universal City Plaza, Universal City, Calif. 91608.

Please send your questions about television past and present to: Polly Vonetes, TV Pipeline, P.O. Box 17748, Fort Worth, Texas 76102-0748. Because of the volume of mail, only questions of general interest will be answered.

Drama depicts Bakkers' rise and fall

Bernadette Peters, Kevin Spacey star

By Shelia Odak

Their scandal shocked the nation and destroyed the foundation of televangelism. Now, the story of the rise and fall of Jim and Tammy Faye Bakker is chronicled for television in the NBC film Fall From Grace, which airs Sunday, April 29. Kevin Spacey (The Murder Of Mary Phagan) and Bernadette Peters (Pennies From Heaven) star.

Heading up the supporting cast is Beth Grant. Grant, whose most extensive work has been in the theater, found herself vaulted into the limelight of film with an appearance in the award-winning Rain Man. That launched her into a number of roles including the soon-to-be-released Child's Play II and The Boyfriend School, starring Steve Guttenberg and Shelley Long. She has also just started filming Love Field opposite Michelle Pfeiffer.

Grant portrays Paulene, Tammy Faye's best friend and back-up singer. "She's somebody who kind of got stuck in the '60s and never got past it," Grant explained with a soft Southern drawl. She states that her character is really a composite of several friends that Tammy had.

The actress firmly believes in the importance of researching a role and in doing so, harkened back to a time when she was working on a play in Charlotte, N.C., and the cast would watch the PTL Club between rehearsals. "It was kind of, 'Let's watch Tammy cry; eat tuna fish and watch Tammy cry,'" Grant laughed. "But, as we watched the show, I have to say, I really grew to kind of like her in a certain way.

"In my church, everything was very dignified and solemn and there wasn't much fun, and this was. These people were fun. There was a refreshing kind of quality, so I can really understand why people were attracted to them because it was certainly more fun than I was used to."

Bernadette Peters and Kevin Spacey star in Fall From Grace, a powerful drama based on the true story of Jim and Tammy Faye Bakker. It will be telecast on NBC Sunday Night at the Movies, April 29.

Fall From Grace very much tries to humanize the story of the Bakkers. It tries to take apart the caricature that has been built up around them. Grant sees them as people who came from a poor background and suddenly found themselves wealthy beyond their dreams. "When it first started happening, they had no idea what it was like to have that kind of success. It was just overwhelming to them, and then, of course, greed probably got the best of them.

"You've got to approach characters like, 'this is another human being,'" she explained. She firmly believes that even when the people involved have done wrong, you can't look at them as being totally bad. The point is to discover how they got to that situation. "You can't say, 'This is a bad person who did something wrong,'" she said.

"I looked 'sins' up while I was doing this too," Grant noted thoughtfully, "and the word sin comes from Greek. It means missing the mark, and when you think of a sin that way, we're all human, aren't we?"

Comedy films set lighthearted tone for beginning of May

By Shelia Odak

The month starts off with a laugh when the Gene Wilder/Richard Pryor comedy See No Evil, Hear No Evil debuts on HBO May 1.

The two pair up once again as a deaf man and a blind man who witness a murder and inadvertently become the prime suspects. They then go on the lam in order to prove their innocence.

This is the third time Wilder and Pryor have teamed up. The first time was in 1976 in the film Silver Streak, and the second was in 1980 in Stir Crazy, in which the two were also falsely accused of a crime, but had all their faculties.

Wilder is also credited, along with four others, as a writer for See No Evil, Hear No Evil.

May 5 dishes up three premieres, all of which are guaranteed to leave you laughing.

HBO offers Bill Murray, along with a cast of thousands, in the film Scrooged. This is, of course, a remake of the classic A Christmas Carol. Murray plays a television executive who loves Christmas because it's cold outside and people stay in and watch television. He decides to stage a live broadcast of Dickens' classic story, and he plans to scare everyone into watching it.

In order to try and drum up some of the real Christmas spirit in this cold-hearted corporate captain, three ghostly spirits come for a visit. The Ghost of Christmas Past appears in the form of a scruffy cab driver (pop star David Johansen); the Ghost of Christmas Present (Carol Kane) is a fairy with a vicious left hook; and the Ghost of Christmas Future (John Forsythe) looks like he could have come out of Dawn Of The Dead. Each tries to remind Murray that there is more to Christmas than ratings.

Gene Wilder

Also on May 5, Showtime premieres Three Fugitives. Martin Short stars as a bumbling bank robber who is only in the business to support his little girl. During a heist, he takes Nick Nolte as a hostage. Little does Short know that Nolte is himself a notorious bank robber who just got out of prison. Of course the police think that Nolte single-handedly engineered the robbery, and so he finds that, once again, he is wanted by the police.

This is the first American film directed by Francis Veber, and was adapted from his French farce Les Fuitifs. The film also stars James Earl Jones.

Also that night, Showtime presents Jeff Altman: Sweet and Meaty. This manic young comic is featured in his own special where he introduces the audience to some of his most endearing characters, including "Uncle Carl," the howling "Dog Man" and even his own father. Known as the all-American guy who goes "a little nuts," Altman performs at Atlanta's Funnybones Comedy Club.

SOAP TALK

'Days' gets super couple back on show

By Candace Havens

Days Of Our Lives' fans are celebrating the return of their favorite super couple, Bo and Hope. Peter Reckell has signed a two-year contract, but Kristian Alfonso is slated for a short-term appearance due to her pregnancy.

Dear Candace: I am writing to let you know how angry I am about the new Jack Abbott (Peter Bergman) on Y&R! Who ever said he could act must have been deaf, dumb and blind! There is no way he can come close to the old Jack (Terry Lester). By the way, what happened to the old Jack? The show is not the same without him.

This Katherine Sterling storyline has got to go! They must be running out of stuff to put something like this in the show. It's being carried on too long.

Also about As The World Turns, they have got some very ugly acting people on that show. The new Franny has got to go. Since when was she blonde? How about poor Lilly? I don't know what is going on with these programs, but they're starting to stink. The new actors can't cut it. So, get them off the show. —An Unsatisfied Watcher, Pendelton, Ore.

Dear Reader: Terry Lester now stars as Mason Capwell on Santa Barbara.

I want to hear from you! If you have a favorite soap scenario you would like to sound off about, or a question about the soaps, write to Candace Havens, Soap Talk, P.O. Box 17748, Fort Worth, TX 76102-0748.

Potomac Edison Notes Its Many Free Services

April 22-28 is National Consumers Week and Potomac Edison is observing the occasion by reminding its customers of the many services available to them free of charge.

Customers can contact Potomac Edison representatives to receive information on Energy Assistance Programs, which help customers pay their electric bills during the winter heating season. Customers may also want to sign up for the Average Payment Plan which levels out payments over 12 months to help make bill paying easier.

WRAP, or Weatherization Residential Assistance Program, helps low-income customers weatherize their homes. Potomac Edison and local assistance agencies provide funds for this program, which adds such energy-saving measures as insulation, water heater jackets, electrical outlet draft seals, door sweeps and low flow showerheads.

Elderly customers have been assisted by Potomac Edison employees who participate in the Gatekeeper Program. Employees have been trained to use their eyes and ears to identify older people who may be in potential trouble. PE has worked in partnership with local agencies on aging to assist these people. PE also provides special life-support system and third-party notification plans which work toward helping elderly customers with their special needs.

Customers can also pick up a variety of brochures and publications on energy conservation, safety, electricity, appliances, reading the meter at home, tree care and right-of-way maintenance, the energy-saving heat pump, insulating the home and other electric utility issues. Plus, consumers are always welcome to contact residential services representatives at their local Potomac Edison office to receive information on ways to cut their energy bill, energy-efficient appliances or to have an energy audit done at their residence.

Potomac Edison also provides services for commercial and industrial customers and for builders and electrical contractors. Energy and technical audits can be conducted by customer service representatives and engineers. These surveys of energy use can help cut energy bills and make the business more profitable through the use of new electro-technologies, PE says. Builders rely on Potomac Edison for Miss Utility, a toll-free number that handles requests for locating underground cable and electrical equipment. Potomac Edison also provides free training programs for electrical contractors on updates in the National Electric Code, and provides information on energy-saving appliances such as the heat pump.

Schools can use Potomac Edison as a great resource for teaching children about electrical safety and how electricity is made and distributed. Films, videos, educational literature and classrom speakers are all resources that teachers can use at no charge. PE speakers bureau members are also available for service organizations and other group meetings. Speakers can present a variety of programs to fit a variety of needs.

Potomac Edison has also extended its hours to provide greater service to all customers. Customer Service representatives are now available from 8 a.m. to 11 p.m. Monday through Friday, and from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday. The company has also added a toll-free telephone number: 1-800-654-3317.

THE EISENHOURS & CO., of Keyser, W.Va., will appear in gospel concert at 7 p.m. this Sunday, April 29, at the New Life Christian Church, located three miles north of Oakland off Route 219 on the Nest Lick Road. The Eisenhours & Co. have traveled throughout the Tri-State area, ministering in both evangelistic crusades as well as concerts. The group originated in 1979 with three family members, and has since grown to include five vocalists backed by a five-member band. Best known for their informal style of ministry, the group's present repertoire includes a variety of musical styles, including one of the local area's favorites, "The Party's Over." The appearance will mark the first of two appearances scheduled in Garrett County this year.

Gospel Concert Slated At Lake Ford UMC

The band and chorus of the Zion School of Christian Education and Zion Christian Academy, Grantsville, will present a gospel concert, "The Children of the Kingdom" this Sunday, April 29, at 7:30 p.m. at Lake Ford United Methodist Church, Cranesville Road, Oakland.

The Rev. Berlin H. Wilhelm, pastor, invites the public to attend this special service.

Employees Of DEED To Attend Session Friday

All offices, statewide, of the Maryland Department of Economic and Employment Development (DEED) will be closed this Friday, April 27, to accommodate a one-day, in-service training conference for all DEED employees. The conference, called "A Great Day InDEED," will be held at the Baltimore Convention Center.

"This conference is an opportunity to strengthen the commitment and enhance the delivery of service of our employees through a day of comprehensive training, " said DEED Secretary J. Randall Evans. "Already, because of our employees' sincere commitment to the customers who need our services, from business development and state financing to unemployment insurance, Maryland has taken the lead, nationally, in many economic development arenas."

Focusing on professional and personal development, the conference will feature work-related exhibits and workshops on stress management, dealing with conflict, financial management, developing a positive self-image, personnel rules, health maintenance and interpersonal communications.

Governor William Donald Schaefer will provide the welcoming address to an estimated 1,400 DEED employees with U.S. Congressman Kwiesi Mfume as the keynote speaker at lunch. DEED Secretary J. Randall Evans will follow with a special address to the employees.

Anyone anticipating a need for DEED services on April 27 should contact their local office prior to that date for assistance.

Md. Ranks Fifth In Decline Of Business Failures

Susan Engeleiter, administrator of the U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA), announced this week that business failures in Maryland declined by 46.5 percent in 1989 compared to 1988, giving the state the fifth highest percentage decrease in business failure rates in the nation.

"The nation's 20 million small business entrepreneurs continue to have a positive impact on the U.S. economy," Engeleiter said. "Small businesses generate two of every three new jobs, train two-thirds of our workers, and create more than half of our nation's technical innovations."

"Small business growth in Maryland remains a bright spot in our nation's economy," she said.

Engeleiter further noted that new business incorporations in Maryland increased by 2.6 percent during the same time period. Most business incorporations are filed by new small businesses.

The SBA's Office of Advocacy, in an analysis of data provided by Dun & Bradstreet Corporation, showed that nationally, new business incorporations declined by 1.1 percent while business failures dropped by 12.9 percent. South Carolina recorded the largest percentage decrease (53.8 percent) in business failures.

MVA Distributes Tree Seedlings

Employees of the Maryland Department of Transportation (MDOT) will distribute 100,000 seedlings to Marylanders who are interested in protecting the environment. The department began the month-long project of packaging and distributing the pine tree seedlings Monday at the Glen Burnie Motor Vehicle Administration (MVA) headquarters.

"We feel that this program has a two-fold environmental benefit," said Transportation Secretary Richard H. Trainor. "Since most of the seedlings will be available at emission standards, Marylanders will insure that their cars meet emission standards and receive a tree to plant to help take excess carbon dioxide out of our air. I hope those who accept a seedlings package will indeed plant them."

MVA Administrator Marshall V. Rickert is particularly pleased to have the MVA headquarters as the packaging site. "Marylanders know our Glen Burnie facility is a driver and vehicle 'processing center.' In recent years we have come a long way in improving customer services. This environmental project planned around Earth Day demonstrates MVA's commitment to the total picture of employee responsiveness to our customers and environmental responsibility to our state and country," said Rickert.

"The packaging will last until May 17 and will utilize approximately 15 volunteer employees per day to accomplish. It is expected that each volunteer will pack about 400 seedlings each day to distribute," he added.

This seedling distribution is one of many MDOT environment initiatives taking place during April and May. Others include various activities at all MDOT facilities/locations such as flower, shrub and ivy plantings; landscaping efforts; recycling measures and air pollution demonstrations.

A HEART HEALTHY MEAL — The American Heart Association netted over $200 from a recent "heart healthy dinner" promotion which was held during the month of February at the Silver Tree Inn. Each time a featured was selected, a dollar was donated to the heart research and community and public programs which assist in the fight against cardiovascular disease. Elaine McDonald, of the Silver Tree Inn Restaurant, left, presents Karen Giffin, development specialist for the American Heart Association, with a check which encompasses the proceeds of the event.

"Small Business Finance" Class Slated By GCC

Obtaining needed financial resources is vital for anyone starting a new business, and a new class scheduled to begin on May 7 at Garrett Community College will help prospective business owners learn the basics about obtaining SBA loans. The two-session class will focus on: types of financing available; how to apply for an SBA loan; and how to meet the criteria established by the agency. The class will meet May 7 and May 14 from 6:30 and 9 p.m. at the McHenry Campus of GCC.

This is the final class in a series which have addressed the issues vital to starting a small business. The classes have been especially designed for those who are now starting or considering starting a business. The classes are co-sponsored by the Continuing Education Division of GCC, the Small Business Administration, and the Western Maryland Small Business Development Center.

Anyone wishing to register for this course or obtain additional information, should call Sandy Major at the Continuing Education Division of the college at 387-6666, ext. 169.

Farmers Home Beginning New Loan Program

The Farmers Home Administration is extending its guaranteed loans to community program projects, thereby expanding its lending ability, FmHA State Director G. Wallace Caulk said this week.

Until now, all of FmHA's loans for water and sewer systems, fire stations, health clinics and other community facilities, have been direct loans from the agency to the borrower.

"With the addition of guaranteed loans, we can now assist communities that are able to qualify for commercial loans with the support of an FmHA guarantee," Caulk said.

Under this program, FmHA guarantees a loan made by a bank, savings and loan, insurance company, Federal Land Bank or other qualified lender against a certain percentage of loss. Since the mid-1980s, guarantees have become the major component of FmHA's farm loan program, accounting for more than 50 percent of all farm loans.

The 1990 fiscal year appropriations bill authorizes $74.5 million in guaranteed loans for water and waste disposal loans and $23.9 million for other community facilities on a national basis.

Prospective borrowers and lenders interested in the program should contact the Farmers Home Administration State Office at 2319 South DuPont Highway, Dover, Del.; telephone (302) 697-0323.

SHOW YOUR CHILD WHERE TO DRAW THE LINE

If you're like most parents, you may wonder at what age your child should be told about sexual abuse. How to approach the subject. What words to use. And how to teach your child to distinguish between affectionate or "good" touch and unwelcome "bad" touch.

But perhaps most difficult of all, is how to warn your youngster without frightening him or her when you find the subject so scary yourself.

The truth is that your child is never too young to learn some very basic ideas that can provide a lot of protection.

One concept that a two-year old can understand is that any part of his or her body that is covered by underwear are "private parts" and that no one has the right to touch him or her there.

It is also important that your son or daughter be encouraged to bring any "touchy" situations to your immediate attention.

While avoiding the issue won't make the problem sexual abuse go away, open discussion with your child can prevent a lifetime of heartache. So take a moment to help safeguard your child today.

Child Safety. It's a matter of show and tell.

AREA RESIDENTS WHO WANT TO QUIT SMOKING have been receiving special attention at the Garrett County Health Department during the months of March and April. A free booklet provided by the American Lung Association, "Freedom From Smoking for You and Your Family," is being distributed to interested families. The booklet includes a step-by-step guide for smokers who are getting ready to quit. The introduction explains how smoke is harmful to everyone who inhales it. Pictured above is Cathy Sanders from the Health Department sharing this information with the Johnson family: Regina, Gary and their children, Brittney and Kristie. Smoke free family materials are still available by calling 334-8111.

Named National Award Winner

Jackie DeWitt, a student at Northern Middle School, has been named a United States National Award winner in science by the United States Achievement Academy.

Mrs. Glotfelty, science teacher, nominated DeWitt for the award.

The academy selects winners upon the exclusive recommendation of teachers, coaches, counselors or school sponsors and upon the standards of selection set forth by the academy. The criteria for selection are a student's academic performance, interest and aptitude, leadership qualities, responsibility, enthusiasm, motivation to learn and improve, citizenship, attitude and cooperative spirit and dependability.

She is the daughter of Jack and Ellie DeWitt, McHenry.

Right To Life Meeting Slated

The Allegany County Chapter of Right to Life will hold its next meeting on Tuesday, May 1, at 7 p.m. at Faith Presbyterian Church, 418 N. Centre St., Cumberland.

Anyone who attends "Rally for Life '90" in Washington, D.C., on Saturday, April 28, is urged to come to share their impressions, and to learn how to continue in their efforts "to save the lives of innocent, preborn children."

Babysitting will be provided.

Settlement Reached In Injury Case

A case arising from a single motor vehicle accident which was scheduled for a jury trial in late March was settled out of court. According to the claimants' attorney, Paul C. Sullivan, the claim of Randy L. Streets, Swanton, was settled with Teacher's Insurance Company for an undisclosed amount.

According to documents filed in the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Streets was a passenger in a vehicle driven by Roger R. Shupp, Crellin, on November 17, 1986. Shupp was travelling west on State Route 39 at an excessive rate of speed, lost control of the vehicle, leaving the left side of the roadway and ended up in a ditch. Streets was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by a private individual, having suffered neck, back, hand and leg injuries. He now works at Bausch and Lomb.

As the case was settled favorably to the claimant, the defendant is required to pay the costs of the preceedings in addition to the settlement amount to Streets. Shupp was represented by William M. Rudd, Cumberland.

State Bar Offers Free Legal Advice On Law Day

Free legal advice will be available at the Maryland State Bar Association on Law Day, May 1. During the hours of 9 a.m. and 5 p.m., Maryland citizens may call toll-free, 1-800-962-1170, to receive free legal advice on any legal matter. A phone bank of volunteer lawyers will answer questions and refer callers to attorneys who have volunteered to give free legal advice over the phone on May 1.

Every year, hundreds of attorneys across the state volunteer to participate in the Bar's "Ask A Lawyer" program in conjunction with Law Day. This public service program, sponsored by the Maryland State Bar Association, gives Maryland consumers the opportunity to obtain free advice and have legal questions answered at no cost by qualified attorneys.

In addition to "Ask A Lawyer," the Maryland State Bar Association is also expanding legal activities to include information booths at shopping malls and legal programs in area schools. Members of the bar, the bench, and police department will visit high schools and perform mock trials relating to drunk driving arrests and trials. Volunteer attorneys will distribute information and answer legal questions at shopping malls located in Hagerstown, Cumberland, and Salisbury.

The Maryland State Bar Association is a professional, non-profit voluntary membership association comprised of more than 14,500 attorneys across the state of Maryland, which monitors judicial and legislative issues in the state, offers legal education opportunities and promotes leadership within the legal profession. MSBA says it develops and sponsors public service programs to ensure the delivery of quality legal services to all citizens and is committed to furthering the efficient administration of justice and equality for all under the law.

Local Artist Wins Award In Kenny Art Show

Ron Metz, Mtn. Lake Park, won second place in the Oils and Acrylics Division at the 27th Annual Sister Kenny International Art Show by Disabled Artists in Minneapolis, Minn., with a painting entitled "Three Bar Girls."

More than 490 works of art, created by 310 artists were displayed at this year's show, including work in watercolor, oil and acrylic, pen and ink, charcoal, pastels, photography and sculpture. All entries were judged and $3,200 in prize money was awarded.

To be eligible to enter the Art Show an artist must have a disability that is a physical or mental impairment which substantially limits one or more major life activities. Metz's impairment is his eye sight.

The Abbott Northwestern Sister Kenny Auxiliary (ANSK) and Sister Kenny Institute sponsor the annual Art Show to provide a forum for the creative talents to people with disabilities; to give artists an outlet to sell their work; and to show that disability does not affect artistic talents.

Sister Kenny Institute is a 39-bed comprehensive rehabilitation facility that specializes in inpatient and outpatient care for people recovering from disabling conditions as traumatic brain injuries, spinal cord injuries or strokes.

Bambacus To Speak At LWV Get-Together

District One Senator John N. Bambacus will be the guest speaker at a wine and cheese get-together to be held Friday, May 4, at the Martha Jachowski residence in Sky Valley. The event is being sponsored by the Garrett County League of Women Voters, the American Association of University Women and the Women's Civic Club.

Senator Bambacus will present a brief summary of the last session and be available for questions.

Bambacus has been representing Western Maryland since 1982, and is currently completing his final year of the last two terms he served as senator. President of World Championships, Inc., which will host events in Western Maryland this summer and fall, Bambacus has resumed his position as special assistant to the president at Frostburg State University now that the 1990 legislative session has ended.

Bambacus is also a member of the political science teaching staff, teaching courses in state and local government, as well as inter-government relations.

Anyone wishing to make reservations, is asked to call 334-3826 (answering machine).

Adolescent Health Grant Awarded To Area Center

The Cumberland Area Health Education (CAHEC) recently was awarded a two-year grant to initiate a multi-faceted health professional training program in adolescent health. The grant from AHEC Division of the Department of Health and Human Services, Bureau of Health Professions will begin in the Fall of 1990. The project, called Rural Training Initiatives in Adolescent Health, is designed to 1) improve clinical responsiveness to the medical and health care needs of adolescents, 2) increase adolescent outreach programming by health professionals, and 3) improve multi-disciplinary coordination in adolescent care.

The program will provide the health professional community with update training in many topics including substance abuse, depression, suicide prevention, AIDS counseling, and prevention of teen pregnancy. Efforts will be aimed at increasing adolescent comfort in seeking medical care and in confiding in the medical profession. The initiatives also include the establishment of model school-based services with incorporate physician participation and the development of an adolescent consumer health education campaign.

The initiative was developed with the input and support of many Western Maryland health professionals and educators. Don Spencer, executive director, said "When the concepts for this program were being zations/agencies, two adoles- Interdisciplinary Health Education Council convened a round table to discuss adolescent needs and services. The 24 participants in the discussions included four physicians, two county health department representatives, two board of education representatives, two psychologists, the chairman of an AIDS task force, nine representatives of community and adolescent service organizations/agencies, two adlescents, and two CAHEC staff members. From these meetings and many hours of research and consultation the training initiative was designed."

Implementing the adolescent health training initiative will involve physicians, health professionals, educators, public health officials and many community agencies.

CAHEC is an organization in the Maryland Statewide Medical Education Training System. In cooperation with the University of Maryland at Baltimore, the Center provides rural health professional experiences for medical and health care students and residents. The Center also provides off-campus education programs, offers continuing education for health professionals, conducts health promotion and community education projects, creates interagency networks and maintains a learning resource center.

For information on the adolescent training initiative or CAHEC, persons may call (301) 777-7150.

Judge Jack Turney Fines Man $500 In Court Case

A Frostburg man was fined $500 for a charge of performing an unauthorized act in non-tidal waters by Judge Jack Turney during recent trials at Garrett County District Court.

Howard Lester Hunter, 63, Frostburg, was found guilty of a charge of performing an unauthorized act in non-tidal waters. He was fined $500 and placed on 12 months unsupervised probation. The charges were filed by Officer John Melbourne, Department of Natural Resources, after an incident which occurred November 13 on the Green Lantern Road.

Michael Alan Williams, 23, Keyser, W.Va., was found guilty of a charge of possession of a controlled dangerous substance (marijuana). He was fined $50 and sentenced to 30 days in the Garrett County Jail. Judge Turney then suspended all of the sentence except 48 hours and placed Williams on six months unsupervised probation.

A charge of possession of CDS paraphernalia was not prosecuted. The charges were filed by Tfc. R.T. Wilson, Maryland State Police, after an incident which occurred in Mt. Lake Park on October 28.

Charges of theft and trespassing against William Edwin Herring Jr., 37, Friendsville, were placed on the stet docket. Charges of destruction of property and three counts of breaking and entering were dismissed at an earlier trial as there was no probable cause. The charges were filed by Joseph Lynn Hutzel, Friendsville, after an incident which occurred September 14.

Grantsville

Ray Lohr is a patient in Meyersdale Community Hospital.

Mrs. Mary Yoder is a surgical patient in Sacred Heart Hospital, Cumberland.

The Woodmen of the World Ranger Lodge No. 128 spent Sunday afternoon at the Star-Lite Roller Rink. There were 40 individuals in attendance. There were 31 skaters and nine guests, including parents, friends and counselors. Tom Bender drove the bus, and on the way home the group stopped at McDonald's Restaurant.

The next meeting is planned for Friday, May 18, at 7 p.m. All members are encouraged to attend.

The Grantsville Senior Citizens are planning a bus trip to Toby's Theater on May 23 to see "Pirates of Penzance." The bus will leave Grantsville at 7:30 a.m. Those interested in going should call Lulu Brown at 895-5092.

Mrs. Lulu Brown and Mrs. Ruth Harning attended the Spring Conference at Westminster for the Grantsville Firemen's Auxiliary on Thursday and Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Younkin attended the Area on Aging dinner and program at the Will O' the Wisp on Thursday as Senior Life Enrichment Volunteers.

Local residents interested in getting their GED certificates may call 334-8304.

The GED, or General Educational Development test, is a high school diploma equivalency test. Persons who pass the test are given the equivalent of a high school diploma.

If enough people from a specific location in Garrett County show an interest in taking the preparation course for the test, a course will be offered in that area.

Spring Choral Concert Set At Frostburg State

The Frostburg State University Department of Music will present its annual spring choral concert this Sunday, April 29, at 3 p.m. at the Frostburg United Methodist Church, 48 West Main St., Frostburg and at 8 p.m. at the Emmanuel Episcopal Church in Cumberland.

The program will feature Collegium Musicum and the University Chorale under the direction of Karen Soderberg. Featured selections by the Collegium Musicum will be French composer Garviel Faure's "Cantique de Jean Racine," accompanied by organist Kim Andrews; J.S. Bach, and Swedish composers Hugo Alfven and Lars Edlund.

The University Choral will perform works by Renaissance composers Hans Leo Hassler and William Byrd's "Ave Verum Corpus," the Classical composer Franz Joseph Haydn's "Missa Brevis St. Joannis deDeo" for Soprano Solo, Organ and String Trio. Featured performers will be: soprano, Carole Rheinsmith; organist, Kim Andrews; violinists, Patricia Corbett and Jeffrey Avey; and cellist, Lee Ann O'Brien.

Eleventh Grade Students Visit GCC Campus

A plan to enable high school students to experience a taste of college life has been carried out this semester at Garrett Community College. Five days were set aside for visits by eleventh grade students from Northern and Southern High Schools, during which the high school students attended two college classes and participated in other special activities.

Upon arriving at the McHenry campus, the visitors were welcomed by Dr. Steve Herman and other college officials, then taken on a tour of the campus by members of Phi Theta Kappa honorary society. During the day they attended classes of their choosing, had lunch in the cafeteria, and heard from student leaders about various college clubs and other activities.

A special fitness assessment program was conducted for them by members of Ann Wellham's physical education class, and a video presentation on adventure sports of whitewater canoeing and rafting was given by Mike Logsdon.

The day's activities were planned and coordinated by Joan Crawford, director of enrollment development; Darlene Tressler, admissions assistant; and Jo Ann Vent, career employability counselor for the Board of Education.

"We hope that these visits have helped eleventh graders in our county schools get a better understanding of just what goes on in college during a typical day," Crawford stated. "We have tried to give them a student's eye view of our campus activities."

GOBA TEAM WINS AGAIN — The Greater Oakland Business Association (GOBA) team earned its third consecutive championship title Friday at the eighth annual Community Feud, held at 7 p.m. at Dennett Road Elementary School. GOBA competed against seven other area teams who tried in vain to unseat the champs. The event is sponsored each year by the Junior Woman's Civic Club. The winning team is pictured in the photo above. Shown left to right are Rhonda Short and Theresa Feather, GOBA's "police officers"; Terry King; Tracy Jones, GOBA police; Cathy Gibson, the GOBA Bow; and the "penitent thief", GOBA President Jack Jones, sporting a prisoner's outfit courtesy of The Costume Shop.

First Federal Is Awarded Top Five-Star Rating

Bauer Financial Reports, Inc., a Coral Gables, Fla., research firm has announced that First Federal Savings Bank of Western Maryland has been awarded a five-star rating, an indication that this institution is one of the safest, most credit-worthy savings banks in the United States.

The award is based on a zero to five-star rating assigned by BFR based on its analysis of December 31, 1989, financial data as filed with federal regulators.

A five-star rating, for the safest institutions in the country, indicates that the bank's tangible capital exceeds 6.0 percent of tangible assets, that there are no excessive delinquencies or repossessed assets and that the institution is not heavily invested in "uncertain" assets, like junk bonds. "Historically," notes Paul A. Bauer, president, "the five-star rating has been awarded to traditional institutions that write conventional single-family mortgages, serve the local community, and watch their bottom line."

Bauer Financial Reports, Inc., analyzes and compiles data on all U.S. banks, thrifts and credit unions.

Riders, Sponsors Being Sought For Bike-A-Thon

Bike-a-thon coordinator Beverly Spiker has asked area residents to join the St. Jude Children's Research Hospital "Wheels For Life" bike-a-thon, slated for May 12 in Kitzmiller.

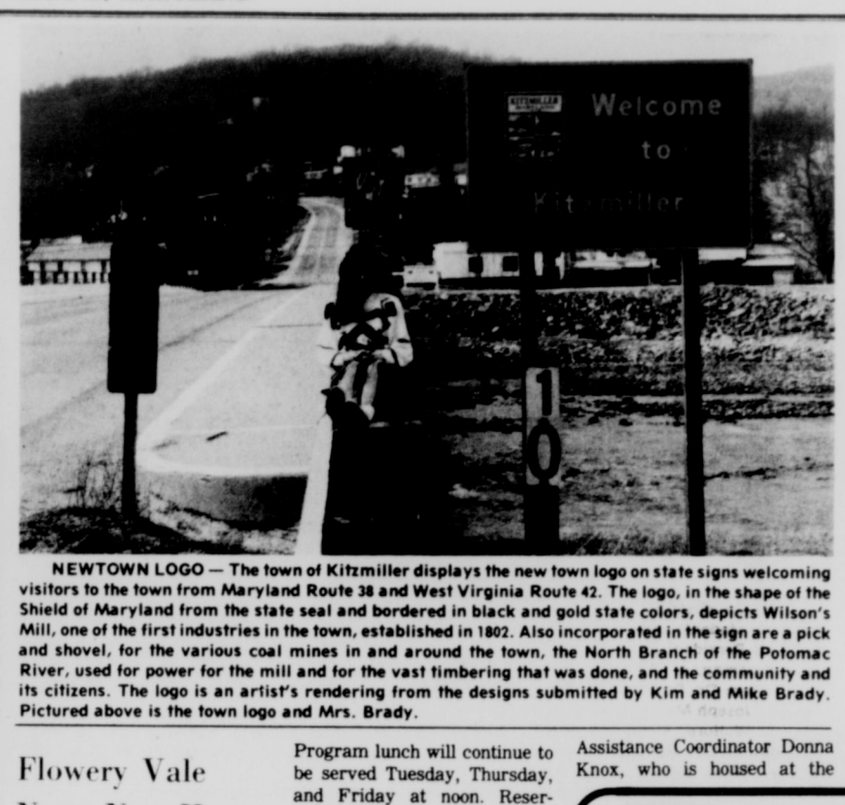
Mrs. Spiker said this ride honors Ellen Marie, a solid tumor patient at St. Jude. "With every turn of the wheel, riders become 'spokes'-men for all the kids with cancer, like Ellen Marie." Mrs. Spiker said, "This ride is a vital part of the fight against childhood cancer at St. Jude. Riders are really needed. They make or break a bike-a-thon."

Riders sign up sponsors who promise to make a donation based on each mile completed. All riders turning in money will receive a certificate. Those who raise $25 receive a certificate and a St. Jude T-shirt. When $75 is raised, the rider receives a barrel tote bag, a T-shirt and a certificate.

In addition to these prizes, one girl's and one boy's 10-speed bike will be awarded to the riders between the ages of 6 and 12 who earn the most money. A new bike will also be presented to the rider in the tricycle class who brings in the most money.

Sponsor forms may be obtained by contacting Beverly Spiker (453-3529) or Nancy Rhine (453-3193). Forms may also be picked up at Crosco's Service Station or Ruth Enlow Library at Kitzmiller School.

EASTER EGG HUNT WINNERS — The Kitzmiller Civic Association recently sponsored an Easter Egg Hunt at the school grounds and town park, with approximately 50 participants, in all age groups up to 12 years of age. Each child received a prize for participating and each age group had a winner for a prize egg, and received a basket filled with Easter goodies. Also, each group had a "most-eggs gathered" winner. Pictured above are the winners, front row, left to right, Alisa Davis, Jesse Woods, and Jason James. In the back row, same order, are Allen Brady, Will Anderson, and Amanda Armstrong. The Kitzmiller Civic Association will be sponsoring a ramp dinner, Saturday, May 5, from 4-7 p.m. at the Kitzmiller Fire Hall. The menu includes ramps, ham, beans, fried potatoes with or without ramps, cornbread, rolls, beverage and dessert. The price is $5 for adults and $2.50 for children 12 and under.



NEWTOWN LOGO — The town of Kitzmiller displays the new town logo on state signs welcoming visitors to the town from Maryland Route 38 and West Virginia Route 42. The logo, in the shape of the Shield of Maryland from the state seal and bordered in black and gold state colors, depicts Wilson's Mill, one of the first industries in the town, established in 1802. Also incorporated in the sign are a pick and shovel, for the various coal mines in and around the town, the North Branch of the Potomac River, used for power for the mill and for the vast timbering that was done, and the community and its citizens. The logo is an artist's rendering from the designs submitted by Kim and Mike Brady. Pictured above is the town logo and Mrs. Brady.

Local Student Inducted Into Phi Beta Kappa

A Garrett County student at Western Maryland College will be inducted into Phi Beta Kappa this Sunday, April 29, in Baker Chapel.

Sara Lynn Roberson, daughter of Douglas L. Roberson, Kitzmiller, is an English major with a minor in education. She is a member of Lambda Iota Tau, the literary honor society. She is a graduate of Southern High School.

Phi Beta Kappa, the national honorary scholarship society for liberal arts, established the Delta Chapter of Maryland at Western Maryland College in 1980. Its purpose is to recognize and encourage scholarship, liberal culture and good character. Students are elected by resident members of Phi Beta Kappa, and the awards are made at the college's annual Investiture and Honors Convocation.

Western Maryland College is a private, independent college, located in Westminster that stresses high standards and achievement in the liberal arts.

Dr. Runkle To Lecture At FSU

The Frostburg State University Departments of Biology and Geography are co-sponsoring a guest lecture by Dr. James Runkle, associate professor of biological sciences at Wright State University, Dayton, Ohio, on Tuesday, May 1. The lecture, which is free and open to the public, will begin at 7 p.m. in room 232, of Tawes Hall on the University campus.

Runkle, who formerly served as a visiting scientist for the Forest Research Institute in Christchurch, New Zealand, will speak on "Windfall Profits in Old-Growth Forests."

Having earned his Ph.D. in ecology from Cornell University, Runkle has been a member of the faculty at WSU since 1979 when he joined the biological sciences department as an assistant professor.

He has written a number of grants on ecological concerns while at WSU and has given seminars throughout the U.S. and New Zealand. In addition, he has published more than 30 journal articles, book chapters, abstracts and book reviews, covering topics such as vegetation growth in treefall gaps, gap dynamics in climic mesic forest and virgin mesic forests, methods for determining fraction of land area in treefall gaps and guidelines and protocol for sampling forest gaps.

He has taken an active role in WSU community, having served for two years as the president of the WSU chapter of the American Association of University Professors.

Originally from Grove City, Pa., he is a member of Phi Beta Kappa and Pi Mu Epsilon (math honorary) and is listed in the Marquis' Who's Who in Frontier Science and Technology, Personalities of America, and Dictionary of International Biography.

Runkle also is a reviewer for the Canadian Journal of Botany, Bulletin of the Torrey Botanical Club, National Science Foundation, Vegetatio Ecology, Canadian Journal of Forest Research, Journal of Ecology, American Midland Naturalist, USDA Competitive Research Grants, Natural Sciences and Engineering Research Council in Canada, and Oikos.

He is a member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, American Institute of Biological Sciences, American Society of Naturalists, British Ecological Society, Ecological Society of America, Ohio Academy of Science and Torrey Botanical Club.

For additional information, persons may contact Dr. Ron Barry, FSU biology department, at (301) 689-4167.

Church To Break Ground Sunday For New Building

The congregation of the Loch Lynn Evangelical Free Church will be celebrating an historic moment as they break ground for a new church facility Sunday, April 29.

"The public is invited to join us for this event," stated Pastor Russell Hamilton.

Immediately after the 10:45 morning worship service, the congregation will travel from the present church in Loch Lynn to the new property, known as the "Old Mountain Lake Hotel property," for the ground breaking ceremony. The property is seven acres along Route 135 across the street from the Mountain Lake Park Town Hall. The ground breaking is set for 12:15 p.m.

Fellowship Day Plans Announced By Church Women

The May Fellowship Day planning meeting was held recently and the day was set for Friday, May 4, at the Emmanuel Lutheran Church, Bittinger.

Registration will begin at 11 a.m. and a business meeting will be held from 11:30 a.m. until noon. A covered dish dinner is scheduled from noon to 1 p.m., with a worship service "Justice With All Your Might" then being held. The service was written by six members of Church Women United in Hartford, Connecticut.

Offering of the Least Coin will be observed.

Attending the planning meeting were: Helen Keller, Ferne Beachy, Hazel Margoff, Audrey Brenneman, Martha Glotfelty, Charlotte Mousch, Helen Sibler and Evelyn Steyer.

The Fellowship Day is sponsored by Church Women United. The public is invited.

First United Shareholders Meet At Wisp Hotel

The shareholders of First United Corporation, a multi-bank holding company headquartered in Oakland, held their annual meeting at Wisp Hotel, Tuesday, April 17.

Horace P. Whitworth Jr., general counsel, chaired the meeting and Robert W. Kurtz was secretary.

Richard G. Stanton, president, presented a report highlighting changes in the banking industry during the 1980's, a review of 1989 performance, and general strategy for the remainder of 1990. He reported that the market value of First United Corporation's stock grew $4.50 per share, or 15.52% during 1989. In addition, shareholders received a 7% stock dividend paid on September 5, 1989.

Courtney R. Tusing officially retired as chairman of the Board at the shareholders meeting. He also gave some remarks on his 24-year association with First United.

Gordon Barnes, president of Heber, Fuger & Wendin, Inc., was the guest speaker. He gave a talk on how global markets affect the local economy.

Bonnie J. Fedde and William L. Graham served as proxy agents for the meeting. Ralph M. Burnett, of Burnett, Eiswert & Janes, P.A., acted as judge of the election. Dorothy B. Cathell, assistant vice president and trust officer; Shirley E. Fitzwater, assistant vice president and trust officer; and Debra L. Aher, trust assistant, served as clerks.

With 1,318,975 shares, or 81.97% of the total number outstanding, represented in person and by proxy, the following directors were elected: David J. Beachy, Donald M. Browning, John L. Conway, Clay E. Durrett, Gerald L. Glass, Bowie Linn Grant, Robert W. Kurtz, Andrew E. Mance, Donald E. Moran, Robert A. Reinhard, Irvin R. Rudy Jr., James F. Scarpelli Sr., Richard G. Stanton, and Horace P. Whitworth Jr.

The following proposals were approved: to increase the authorized shares of common stock from 4,000,000 to 8,000,000 shares; Charter amendment to limit the liability of directors and officers; and ratification of Ernst & Young as the independent accountants of First United Corporation.

A reception followed iwth light refreshments.

First United Corporation has two banking subsidiaries: First United National Bank & Trust and The First National Bank of Piedmont. As of March 31, the Corporation posted assets of $348.2 million, total deposits of $311.4 million, and capital resources of $30.9 million.

Contractors To Attend Building Trades Luncheon

Local contractors are being invited to join the staff and students of the JTPA building trades program for a unique luncheon on Wednesday, May 2. The day will provide an opportunity for students to demonstrate the thoroughness of their training which has been offered by Garrett Community College in cooperation with the Western Maryland Consortium. Local employers are encouraged by GCC officials to take advantage of the occasion to learn more about the students works and training and to consider them for employment in the building trades.

Students, who range from 18 to 50, began their studies by learning basic math for carpenters, building trade terms, blueprint reading and retail selling fundamentals. After "hands on" learning in frame carpentry, they specialized in either masonry, wiring or finish carpentry. Throughout the 16-week, 500-hour training program, they have been learning building techniques by constructing a small building which will soon be for sale. During the luncheon, contractors will be able to inspect the building and the construction site and meet with instructors and students. They also will view a video which provides an overview of all phases of the training.

Once students have demonstrated competencies in all areas, they are ready to join the local work force as carpenter helpers, masonry helpers, and electrician helpers. Some will be ready to assume employment as carpenters. They also are prepared to function in retail sales associated with the building trades and in the manufacturing of building materials as well as in service, remodeling and maintenance positions.

"A number of extremely well qualified applicants are seeking immediate employment," stated a GCC official. Employers who would like to review resumes and learn more about the students' capabilities or attend the luncheon are encouraged to contact Sue or Sandy at 337-6666, ext. 169.

Chestnut Grove To Serve Dinner

The Youth Group of the Chestnut Grove United Methodist Church will be having a turkey dinner this Friday, April 27, in the church basement. Serving will begin at 4 p.m. and continue until food is gone.

The menu consists of turkey dressing, mashed potatoes, gravy, green beans, cole slaw, rolls, dessert, and beverages.

There is no set price for the menu; donations will be accepted. Take-outs will be available.

DAR Selects Officers For Glades Chapter

The Youghiogheny Glades Chapter of the DAR (Daughters of the American Revolution) met recently to vote on officers.

The nominating committee presented a slate of officers and the chapter voted to accept the officers as presented. Officers are as follows: Mrs. John Reckner, regent; Mrs. Charles Garman, vice-regent; Mrs. Ralph Lee, recording secretary; Mrs. Charles Briner, corresponding secretary; Mrs. William Stemple, treasurer; Mrs. William Stemple, chaplain; Mrs. George Porter, registrar; Mrs. Randall Kahl, historian; Mrs. Hugh Echard, librarian.

The chapter will take part in the Memorial Day Observance at the Oakland Cemetery, scheduled for Saturday, April 28. The graves of deceased members will be marked and the memorial ritual will be used.

Terry DeWitt, Department of Natural Resources technician, presented a program on black bears to the chapter. DeWitt has worked with the DNR for 25 years and has spent the last ten years working on the black bear program.

DeWitt presented a slide program and lecture on the black bear and its habitat. Approximately 150 black bears inhabit Garrett County and much attention is given to the eating habits, denning and reproduction of the animal. The DNR keeps track of the bears by radio collars, which are helpful with keeping track of when they give birth and for keeping records of bear cubs. A ranger must be skilled in trapping bears and preparing it for removal if it becomes a problem at garbage sights or farmer's beehives.

DeWitt credited Gary Ault for his support of the black bear program.

Mrs. Luther Parrack read letters from the principal and a fifth grade pupil of Crellin Elementary School. The letters thanked the DAR for its support of the trip to the Chesapeake Bay.

Mrs. Richard Sherwood read the President General's message in which Mrs. Yochim mentioned the 100th birthday of the DAR, which is being observed at the Continental Congress April 16 to 20.

Mrs. Gerald Sanders mentioned an article from the National Defense magazine about George Washington. The article was written by William Freeman.

The DAR will meet for dinner on May 21 at 6 p.m. at the Will O'the Wisp. Mrs. Kovach and Mrs. Gonder are in charge of arrangements.

SUNNYSIDE-UNDERWOOD

The Ladies Bible study group met Thursday afternoon in the home of Mildred Peterson. The meeting opened with prayer by Bessie Canan. Mrs. Jane Kope was the instructor, closing prayer was by Elaine Beckman, and table blessing was by Jane Kope. Arlena Dilley also attended. This week's meeting will be in the home of Bessie Canan.

The "Helping Hands" meeting was held Friday evening in the Underwood Social Room, with Hazel Upole presiding. An election of officers was discussed, but postponed until a later date. Several songs were sung and Earl Friend and George White sang a duet.

George and Hazel White spent a Sunday afternoon visiting Georges sister, Mrs. Nellie Swartzentruber, who has been ill for some time, but is recuperating in her home.

Bessie Canan spent a few hours on Sunday evening visiting Mary Rinehart.

Wendell and Carol Waybright of Providence, R.I., have returned to their home after spending last week in the home of Wendell's parents, Noah and Wilma Waybright, Brookside Road.

Jeanette Tracey, Deer Park, was an evening guest of her friend, Bessie Canan.

Local residents interested in getting their GED certificates may call 334-8304.

The GED, or General Educational Development test, is a high school diploma equivalency test. Persons who pass the test are given the equivalent of a high school diploma.

If enough people from a specific location in Garrett County show an interest in taking the preparation course for the test, a course will be offered in that area.

Governor Notes State Employee Photo Contest

Governor William Donald Schaefer invites Maryland State Employees to "Take Your Best Shot" in the Third Annual State Employees Photo Contest. Sponsored by "Maryland You are Beautiful" Program, the Maryland Department of Transportation, and Ritz Camera Centers, Inc., the contest is open to any current Maryland State employee. The theme for this year's contest, "Maryland's Pride at Work," can be reflected in each of the entry categories: Maryland's people, architecture, landscape/scenic, animals, action/sports, Marylanders at work, and humor.

Each contestant may submit up to seven recent photographs, one per category, with an entry form between Tuesday, May 1, and Friday, May 25, 1990 to the Public Affairs Division, Maryland Department of Transportation, P.O. Box 8755, BWI Airport, MD 21240. Entry forms and guidelines are available through the public affairs office in each state agency or by calling the Department of Transportation at (301) 859-7309 or "Maryland You are Beautiful" at (301) 974-3085.

All winners will join the Governor for a ceremony and reception this summer in Annapolis. "Certificates of Excellence" and prize ribbons will be presented at the event in the State House.

The "Best of Contest" prize winner will receive an evening dinner cruise for 15 aboard the Governor's yacht, "Maryland Independence," a $500 cash prize and overnight accommondations at an Annapolis bed and breakfast inn. Each first place category winner will receive $125 and second place winners will receive $75.

Honorable mentions, ten contestants in all, will receive Marion Warren's historical photographic essay, Maryland Time Exposures. All participants will receive a "Certificate of Recognition" from the Governor and coupons for two complimentary photo enlargements available at any Ritz Camera store.

Selected winners' photos will be featured in a traveling exhibit beginning in the fall of 1990 and a limited number of photos will be printed in the 1991 edition of the State of Maryland Telephone Directory.

An independent panel of judges, including professional photographers and experts in the field, will select the winners by mid-June.

For more information, persons may contact: Barbara Buchleitner, (301) 974-3085, or Karen Lyon, (301) 859-7309.

Williams Play To Be Staged At Frostburg State

Often termed "one of the playwright's most searching works," "Small Craft Warnings," by Tennessee Williams will be presented as a student production at Frostburg State University on Thursday, May 3. Curtain time for the play is 8:15 p.m. in Compton Studio Theatre on the University campus. There is no admission charge.

Produced through the Department of Communication and Theatre Arts, the Williams' play is being directed by FSU senior Jason R. Hoffman. Hoffman, who will graduate in May with a bachelor's degree in theatre with a concentration in directing, notes he chose "Small Craft Warnings" for its strong characters. He explains that the play basically revolves around a group of degenerates who patronize a seaside bar in Los Angeles, all of which have a problem and must find a way to deal with it. "I feel Tennessee Williams called it 'Small Craft Warnings' because each character is like a small craft fighting to get through this hard wind and unseen force," remarks Hoffman.

However, the director cautions that the play contains strong language which may not be suitable for all audiences. "I caution that people who are easily offended will be offended easily. There is harsh language, but it (the play) is written that way for a reason. My goal is not to offend anyone. My goal is to make people think," he said.

Hoffman directed this spring's first-ever student dinner theatre, "Baby With The Bathwater" and last spring's student production, "The Diviners." He appeared this season with the University Theatre in "Can-Can" and "The School For Wives." He is known to local audiences for his performances as Eugene in "Brighton Beach Memoirs" and "Broadway Bound" with the Cumberland Summer Theatre.

Cast members include Jeffrey "Cori" Schlegel, Katie Raible, Andrew Letzsch, Tamela Frazier, Micheal DeGarmo, Steve Miotto, and Chris Godesky. Darren Ebron is stage manager.

Melissa DeWitt CAC Employee Of The Week

Melissa DeWitt has been named Employee of the Week for the Garrett Transportation Program of Community Action. Melissa has been employed by the agency for three years as bookkeeper.

Mrs. DeWitt is a graduate of Frostburg State University with a B.S. degree in accounting. In regard to the transportation department, Melissa keeps accurate records of revenue and expenses for the program. She also maintains ledgers and prepares budgetary financial statements for directors and auditors.

According to Melissa, she finds satisfaction in her job. "I enjoy working with the transportation staff. The job keeps me very busy, but it is worthwhile to help Garrett County residents with their transportation needs."

Linda Green, program director, commented, "The Transportation Department is appreciative of the work that is done by the finance department, and by Melissa in her capacity as bookkeeper. It is obvious that accurate bookkeeping is a high priority operation to our function. I am confident that my department's records are in competent hands, and it sets me at ease to know that I can depend on Melissa to be able to produce any report that is required. We are fortunate to have her working with us."

Mrs. DeWitt resides in Oakland with her husband and two small sons. For leisure, Melissa enjoys the outdoors, and activities that are centered around her family.

4-H CLUB NEWS

MONTE VISTA

The monthly meeting of the Monte Vista 4-H Club was held April 5. There were 12 members, three guests, and one new member, Christy DeWitt, present.

Jennifer Savage gave a report on public speaking. Representing the county, from the club, at district public speaking will be Jennifer Bernard, junior; David Jones, intermediate; and Jessica Teets, senior. Club members discussed achievement night. Plans were begun for a club trip in the summer. The club also discussed participation in Earth Day, April 22, at Garrett Community College.

Kelli Slaubaugh, Kristi Harvey, and Jennifer Savage gave a demonstration on chocolate covered pretzels. Jessica Teets and Melanie Miller gave a demonstration on pepperoni rolls.

NORTH STAR
by Brett Fratz, reporter

We met on April 10 with 12 members present. The club has two new members and a total membership of 17.

Kista Knox gave a report on Achievement Night. Members recognized from our club were Becky Klotz, Christy Keller, Luke Keller, Kista Knox, and Kanya Knox. Kanya Knox gave a report on the bowling party on the afternoon of March 25 and stated that about 25 persons attended.

Christy Keller gave a demonstration on making "snacker-crackers." Our guest speaker was Tom Mercuro of Casselman Veterinary Services of Grantsville.

He gave us much useful information on having our project animals healthy for the county fair.

We had a very successful bake sale as a fundraiser. Members of the club donated many items of baked goods which we sold on Saturday, April 21, outside the entrance to the Accident IGA.

Two members of our club were winners in the contest for registered collie puppies. Kanya Knox placed second and Luke Keller placed fourth.

Male Chorus To Perform At St. Paul's

The McKendre Male Chorus, Cumberland, will perform in concert at St. Paul's United Methodist Church in Oakland, Sunday, April 29, at 7 p.m. The concert, sponsored by the Work Area of Religion and Race at St. Paul's, will follow a covered dish dinner, to begin at 5:30 p.m.

The chorus, widely known for its repertoire of "light gospel" music, comes from the McKendre United Methodist Church, Cumberland, and has performed at several conferences for the church throughout Maryland and for numerous charity events.

"Although John Powell and William Colbert are contacts for the group, it is understand that there is no one director," stated Frances Acton, coordinator of communications at St. Paul's. She added, "The music is a spontaneous and total committment of individual talents molded into a total musical experience from the heart. Their accompanist, a 'young' man in his eighties, plays entirely by ear."

The public is invited to both the covered-dish dinner and to the concert.

DNR Introduces Courtesy Life Jacket Program

The Maryland Natural Resources Police has announced plans to implement a "Courtesy Life Jacket" Program in Maryland in time for the 1990 boating season starting in May.

Natural Resources Police Officers will have available a quantity of personal flotation devices (life jackets) while on patrol, to be loaned to boaters who do not meet the proper life jacket requirements.

Cpl. Ralph Parker, spokesman for the police, explained the importance of the program. "In 90 percent of all fatal boating accidents, the victims die as result of drowning. In the majority of these accidents, the victims either were not wearing a life jacket or one was not available. We want to increase public awareness of the importance of both having life jackets and wearing them," he said.

The Courtesy Life Jacket Program is part of the Natural Resources Police "Tie One On For Safety Campaign," encouraging all boaters to wear life jackets. The program will be implemented on the non-tidal portion of the Potomac River and Deep Creek Lake in Western Maryland, and the Anne Arundel County area. Other target areas will include the Ocean City and Kent Narrows area.

Parker said the Agency wants to extend the Program throughout the state. Anyone wishing to donate life jackets to the Courtesy Life Jacket Program should contact Cpl. Parker in Annapolis at (301) 974-2247.

Wagner Accepted Into ACC Fall Nursing Program

Kendra Wagner, daughter of Dale and Donna Wagner, Oakland, was recently notified that she has been accepted into the fall semester at Allegany Community College, Cumberland. While there, she will major in nursing, specilizing in pediatrics.

Kendra is currently a senior at Southern High School and is an honor-roll student, a member of the National Honor Society, a Who's Who recipient, a Maryland Distinguished Scholar Program finalist, and co-captain of the girls' volleyball team.

She is employed at Super-Valu grocery store, Oakland, as a cashier.

Miss Wagner is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Savage, McHenry, and Mr. and Mrs. Claude Wagner Jr., Oakland.

Improving Health Topic Of Speech By Nutritionist

A nutritionist will speak on "Improving Health Through Good Nutrition" at St. Mark's Lutheran Church on Wednesday, May 16, at 7:30 p.m.

Amy Shuman, nutritionist at the Allegany Health Department, will offer guidelines to improving health through good nutrition, with a question and answer period to follow her talk.

The discussion will also include the nutritional benefits of vegetables, whole grains, carbohydrates and vegetable protein. She will also include ways to enhance the diet with new and different foods.

Refreshments and informational literature will be available and the public is invited.

St. Mark's Lutheran Church is located at 6 South Second Street, Oakland.

Heart Healthy Dinners Raise $200 For AHA

The American Heart Association netted over $200 from a recent "heart healthy dinner" promotion which was held during the month of February at the Silver Tree Inn. Each time a featured dinner was selected, a dollar was donated to AHA's heart research and community and public programs which assist in the fight against cardiovascular disease.

Recipes for the dinners were taken from the American Heart Association's Low-Fat, Low-Cholesterol CookBook. The book is designed to be the guide for those individuals who want to keep track of their daily fat and cholesterol allowance.

"Officials of the American Heart Association are proud of the results from the Silver Tree Inn's dinner promotion, because it made individuals aware of the fact that they are able to eat in restaurants, and simultaneously, stay in their healthy dietary guidelines," stated Karen Giffen, development specialist for the AHA.

For more information on the promotion or on how to obtain a cookbook, persons may call the American Heart Association at (301) 724-4011.

Storm Awareness Week Proclaimed

Governor William Donald Schaefer has proclaimed April 22 through 28 as Severe Storm Awareness Week in Maryland. The Governor's proclamation underscores the need to heighten public awareness and understanding of the dangers associated with spring and summer storms.

"We want to make sure that we are doing everything we can to provide people as much information as we can prior to a storm," said David McMillion, director of the Maryland Emergency Management Agency. Appearing on the Maryland State Police Radio Program, a weekly public service radio broadcast, McMillion said communications and cooperation are critical elements of an effective response to storm related emergencies. "We are prepared on a 24-hour basis," added McMillion.

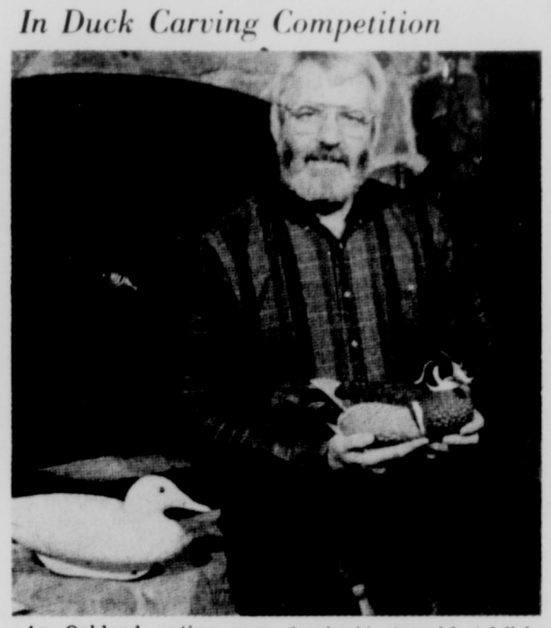
Nationally it is estimated that 200 Americans die every year in floods. According to national statistics, an estimated 7,000 people die every year on the nation's highways in storm related accidents which also injure 600,000 others.

"Almost all deaths and injury due to storms can be avoided by taking proper safety precautions and being prepared," said James D. Belville, meteorologist in charge of the National Weather Service Forecast Office in Washington, D.C. "Sixty percent of the flash flood deaths occur among people driving their cars through deep water," Belville added. The National Weather Service in Washington and at Baltimore Washington International Airport work cooperatively with the Severe Storm Center in Kansas which monitors potentially violent weather patterns.

"Overall, we estimate our forecast accuracy at 90 percent," stated Belville.

The Maryland State Police Radio Program is a weekly public service radio broadcast carried on approximately 50 radio stations in Maryland and the District of Columbia. The program is supported by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration and the Maryland Department of Transportation.

Oakland Native Takes Third Place In Duck Carving Competition



An Oakland native was featured in the April issue of Frederick Magazine for his success as a world class creator of duck decoys, as well as being an outstanding educator.

Harold Mosser, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Mosser, Oakland, lives in Frederick, where he is employed as principal of Brunswick Middle School. In his spare time, he carves decorative duck decoys at home.

In April, 1989, he won third place in the novice wood duck category of the Ward World Championship carving competition, held in April in Ocean City. It is the largest carving competition in the world.

Mosser received The Washington Post's Educational Leadership Award last fall for being the outstanding principal in Frederick County.

Having started carving in 1983, last year's competition was his first. Mosser felt he was at a disadvantage since he was entering a carving of a male duck. Apparently, female ducks are more popular. Mosser's duck was in competition with 27 other decoys in the novice duck category.

He is currently experimenting with carvings of hunting decoys, a screech owl and a fish. He plans to enter more competitions, although competing is not as important as improving his style and technique.

With plans to retire from the school system in eight to 10 years, he will take up carving full-time at that time. Mosser lives in Frederick with his wife, Barbara, and their two children, Jennifer and Matthew.

GCC Offering Private Pilot Ground Training

Private Pilot Ground Training will be offered by the Continuing Education Division of Garrett Community College in cooperation with Lakeside Aviation, Inc. The course, which is scheduled to begin on May 1, will meet in the Center for Community and Continuing Education at the McHenry campus on Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 6:30 to 9:45 p.m.

This 10-session course is designed to familiarize students with the techniques necessary to pilot an aircraft. Specific topics will include aircraft aerodynamics, airplane performance, navigation, weather and applicable regulations. Students who successfully complete the training should be able to challenge the Federal Aviation Administration written private pilot test.

The instructor, Thomas E. Glotfelty, is the chief pilot and flight instructor for Lakeside Aviation, Icn. He has over 14 years flying experience and holds current Commercial, Instrument, Multi-engine and Instructor certificates.

This course requires a minimum enrollment and individuals interested in participating should pre-register.

For more information, including fees, persons may contact the Office of Continuing Education at (301) 387-6666, ext 169.

Panels To Present Views May 6 On Animal Rights/Animal Agriculture

A Panel Presentation on Animal Agriculture is being sponsored by Frostburg State University on May 6, at 7:30 p.m. in room 201 of Lane Center on the FSU campus. The purpose of the panel presentation, which is open to the public, is to inform and educate.

The panel will be made up of a maximum of six panel members representing animal agriculture and a maximum of six panel members representing animal rights organizations. Each panel member will give a five-minute presentation on the branch of agriculture or the animal rights organization they represent. Following the presentations, the panel members will answer questions from the audience. The evening will end with a summary from each panel.

Delmar Yoder, president-elect of the American Veal Association (AVA) urges farmers from Garrett and Allegany counties to attend and show their support for animal agriculture. "Not just veal producers, but all phases of animal agriculture are being affected by the animal rights movement," Yoder said. "We need to know how animal rights activitists feel and what they are saying about the way we raise and care for our animals. We need to take advantage of forums like this to tell our side of the story to the general public, many of whom have never been on a farm or had close contact with farmers or farm animals."

Preston County Wool Pool Rejects Low Bid Price

Many Garrett County shepherds market their wool at the Preston County, W.Va., Wool Pool. This year, however, shepherds from both counties have rejected the price offered from major wool brokers at a recent bid sale. The low prices, they feel, reflect a dramatic downturn in the international wool market.

Dr. Richard Koes, West Virginia Extension sheep specialist, says that there is a combination of large supplies and a low market world wide. He also says the lower price of oil, which makes the manufacture of synthetics cheaper, and the exchange rate between the U.S. and the Australian dollar have a lot to do with the wool market. Australia is the world's largest producer of wool.

Last year, wool at the Preston County Wool Pool sold for about 85 and one-half cents a pound. The year before that the price was near a dollar a pound. The highest bid this year was just below 39 cents. Preston County Wool Pool President Phil Schenk immediately rejected the offer.

"We had seen the market going down and polled our producers," said Schenk. "We had overwhelming support for rejecting a price in the mid 40s. This 39-cent bid was ridiculous.

"As farm commodities go, wool is one of the easiest to do this with. It stores well and, as a percentage of total income for shepherds, wool sales are very small. We've held wool before, and ended up making more money in the long run. The price might not go up, and might even go down, but when it's this low, it really doesn't matter."

Preston County Extension Agent Tom McConnel added that the bid price is a gross price. "That amount wouldn't even cover the cost of shearing for some shepherds. Then the fee for bags and bookkeeping and loading is added on," McConnel said. He indicated that some buyers feel that things are moving in a direction that might mean higher prices by July.

The same prices were offered to shepherds in Virginia and Pennsylvania as well as to producers of the same type of wool in western states.

Farming In Maryland — Bernice Kepple, Farm Editor

More Corn, Less Soybeans Expected

Maryland farmers plan to plant more corn and fewer soybeans in 1990. A survey conducted by the Maryland Agricultural Statistics Service indicates 17 percent more corn will be planted in 1990 if March 1 intentions are realized. Translated into acres, this increase means a total of 560,000 acres will be seeded for corn production if March 1 plans are carried out as the planting season progresses. In 1989 Maryland farmers planted 480,000 acres of corn and 475,000 acres were finally harvested for grain or silage.

However, growers in the state plan to plant fewer soybeans this year — a decrease of two percent. The acreage devoted to soybeans will amount to 560,000 acres if March 1 intentions are realized, 10,000 acres less than the acreage planted to soybeans in 1989. The acreage of small grains and hay are expected to be down from last year. Nationally, based on March 1 climate and economic conditions, farmers plan to plant four percent more corn but two percent fewer acres of soybeans during 1990.

Consumers Like Organic Produce Until They See It

Eighty-four percent of the public would prefer to buy organically grown food if it were the same price as "non-organic," according to results of a Roper poll released recently. Of those surveyed, 52 percent said they would buy organic produce even if it cost more. But, what the public says and what it is prepared to do, may be two different things.

In responding to the survey results, Paul Bernish, a spokesman for the Kroger Company, said, "people like the idea of organic until they see what it looks like," Bernish said Kroger tried to sell organic produce in a dozen stores and was unsuccessful.

Jim Roberts, spokesman for Safeway, said his store tried to sell organic produce for three months, but quit because shoppers didn't go for it. "When you look at something that is not attractive and more expensive, it has to be really important for you to buy it," he added.

Organic produce typically costs an average of 35 percent more, according to Steven Harrison, an organic marketing specialist from Beltsville.

Alfalfa — Sclerotina Crown and Stem Rot

Alfalfa had a rough time again this year. A lot of alfalfa was lost over winter to a disease called Sclerotina. We lost two-thirds of our plants at the alfalfa variety demonstration plots at the Community College. The first symptoms occur in the fall as small brown spots on leaves and stems. The parts wilt and die, then the fungus spreads to the crown. In early spring the crown or basal part of the stem becomes soft and discolored. As the infected parts die, a white fluffy mass grows over the area forming hard, black bodies (sclerotia), which may adhere to the surface of or be imbedded in the stem or crown.

Garrett Weed Report

Pastures: Many of you are probably unfamiliar with a product called Ally. Now, Dupont has decided to position it in the grass pasture market. It has excellent activity on numerous broadleaf weeds, especially multiflora rose. Plus, Ally has no grazing restrictions. Numerous grass species have tolerance to Ally, although tall fescue may be suppressed. One note of caution, the rotational restrictions are very severe, so growers need to plan ahead. I have a copy of the label in my office.

Corn: Gramoxone Extra, Honcho, Landmaster, and Touchdown will eventually become common names in the no-till age. Let's take a look at these products.

Paraquat Formulations

Product	Lbs. Ai/Gal.	Lbs. Ai/1 Pt.
Paraquat	2.0	1 pt. = 0.25
Gramoxone Super	1.5	1 pt. = 0.187
Gramoxone Extra	2.5	1 pt. = 0.312

As many of you know, Paraquat has been increased in Active Ingredient. Last year some poor results were obtained by using Gramoxone Super. If you use 1 pt/acre of Gramoxone Extra, it is equivalent to applying 0.312 lb. Ai/A. For many situations this is all you need, and may actually provide over-kill. Yet, the label states that we use a minimum of 1.5 pints/A.

Glyphosate Formulations

Product	Ingredients	Lbs. Ai/Gal.
Bronco	Roundup + Lasso	1.4 + 2.6
Honcho	Roundup - Surfactant	4.0 (East. Shore of Md. only)
Landmaster II	Roundup + 2,4D Amine	1.2 + 1.0
Ranger	Roundup + Surfactant	2.7 (PA & NY only)
Roundup	Roundup + Surfactant	4.0

Since the patent is coming off of Roundup, I would anticipate seeing some generic glyphosate in the marketplace by July 1.

Finally, do not forget the Atrazine will become a restricted use herbicide later this year. Thus, all products and package-mixes with Atrazine will become restricted use products.

American Quarter Horse Association Celebrates 50th Anniversary

The Maryland State Quarter Horse Association has announced the 50th Anniversary of the American Quarter Horse Association. The AQHA was formally established on March 15, 1940, by a handful of breeders concerned about the survival of the American Quarter Horse. According to the organization's bylaws, the purpose of the AQHA is "to collect, record and preserve the pedigrees of Quarter Horses in America; to publish a stud book and registry; and to stimulate any and all other matters such as may pertain to the history, breeding, exhibiting, publicity, sale or improvement of this breed in America."

The AQHA has grown from 800 shares to a membership of 250,000 today. The Association has members in the United States and 62 foreign countries located in four continents. Maryland is proud to claim 1,500 of these members. In addition, AQHA sponsors and supports the American Junior Quarter Horse Association which boasts over 13,500 members worldwide who are 18 years of age or under.

The AQHA is the largest equine registry in the world with more than 2.9 million horses registered since its inception. The 3-millionth American Quarter Horse is expected to be registered this year. Currently, there are nearly 9,000 Quarter Horses registered in Maryland.

AQHA sanctions horse shows which provide competition in halter, English and western classes and is dedicated to the novice, youth and amateur exhibitor as well as the professional breeder and trainer.

Md. Agricultural Official Talks On Soviet Trade

Maryland Deputy Secretary of Agriculture Robert L. Walker spoke on the emerging opportunities for agricultural trade with the Soviet Union at a conference sponsored by the Baltimore-Odessa Sister City Committee and the Maryland Port Administration, April 6.

Deputy Secretary Walker will be accompanying Governor William Donald Schaefer as part of the Maryland delegation that will be visiting the Soviet Union as well as Hungary, Poland and Austria next month.

"The Soviets have enormous needs in the agricultural area. For Maryland businesses, the USSR offers great opportunities," Walker said.

Walker noted the Soviet interest in soybeans, feed grains, processed foods and meats, breeding stock to improve production and modern equipment to update harvesting and food processing.

While in Moscow, the Maryland delegation will be signing four agricultural agreements with the Soviet agricultural institutions. The agreements are with the Timiryazev Agricultural Academy, the USSR Agricultural Academy, the Institute of Agricultural Engineers and the Moscow Veterinary Academy.

"All of these agreements put Maryland in the forefront of agricultural cooperation with the Soviet Union," Walker said.

Walker concluded by urging Maryland agricultural businesses to take advantage of the new trade possibilities.

"We stand ready in the Maryland Department of Agriculture to assist food and agricultural firms interested in doing business with the USSR and Eastern Europe. Just give us a call," said Walker.

A New Farm Pond: Is It An Impossible Dream In Garrett Co.?

by Bernice Kepple

Building a new farm pond in Garrett County has become an impossible dream. Whether the main purpose of the pond is for the control of water run-off, for irrigation, to raise fish, to water livestock, or for aesthetics and recreational use, few permits have been granted to applicants in the last 15 months. According to Garrett Soil Conservation District Manager Shaun Sanders and USDA District Conservationist Garry Morfoot, the future for new farm ponds in the county does not look good. "We've stopped taking permit applications until we see if any solution or compromise can be worked out," Morfoot said.

According to the two Soil Conservation officials, approximately 15 months ago, pond permit applications began being denied because of the concern of the Maryland Department of the Environment (MDE) and the Maryland Chapter of Trout Unlimited. Their concern stems from alleged differences in the thermal temperatures of pond water and the water downstream from a pond. Any increase in downstream temperatures are said to be dangerous to trout, and this is significant in Garrett County where all the streams (with the exception of a small portion of the Casselman River) have been classified as Class III trout waters, whether there are, or ever have been, any trout in them.

The legal basis for the MDE's Water Quality Certification Program (WQC) is found in Section 401 of the Federal Clean Water Act and in the Environment Law of Maryland. Under this federal law, states are required to certify that federally permitted activities which may result in a discharge of materials into state waters or wetlands will not cause a violation of the applicable state water quality standards. Tidal waters, non-tidal waters and wetlands are all under the jurisdiction of this program, and these same areas are also under the jurisdiction of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers who regulate under Section 404 of the Clean Water Act.

Maryland's Water Quality Certification (WQC) certifies compliance with the state's Water Quality and Water Pollution Control Regulations and are based on four designated use classes of water. Class I waters are protected for the basic uses of recreation, water supply, fish, and wildlife. The standards for this classification are the lowest of all state water quality standards. Class II waters are protected for shellfish harvesting and have more stringent bacteriological standards than other waters. Class III waters are protected for the propagation of natural trout populations. These waters have more stringent dissolved oxygen, chlorine and temperature standards than other waters. Class IV waters are protected for recreational (put-and-take) trout populations. These waters have standards for temperature and chlorine which are more stringent than Class I standards and less stringent than Class III standards.

"THE BIG QUESTION IS: How can you have trout and ponds in the same place?" This is really a big question in Garrett County these days, where all streams have been rated Class III trout streams and permits for new ponds have been denied because of the possibility that an increase in thermal temperatures in water released from the pond might be harmful to trout downstream from the pond. The owner of the proposed pond site above has begun the permitting process, but it is unlikely that the agencies involved will agree about the environmental impact and grant a construction permit.

District Conservationist Morfoot explains that until December 1988, three permits were required before building a farm pond. These were a Garrett Soil Conservation District permit, the Department of Natural Resources Water Resources Administration (WRA) permit, and the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers permit. Since the establishment of the Department of the Environment, many of the permits issued by the Corps of Engineers must be forwarded to the MDE for a WQC permit before pond construction can begin. With the classification of all Garrett County streams as trout habitat, the MDE is telling permit applicants that warm water from a pond would be harmful to trout downstream and permits are being denied.

Morfoot says that after a number of permits had been denied, the MDE was asked to reconsider four permit applications and denied three of them. On the whole, he says, MDE issued three or four permits in the past year, all but one are for old ponds being rebuilt. The standards are a little more lenient for refurbishing old ponds, Morfoot says.

In Februaary 1989, MDE's JoAnn Watson, head of the Standards, Regulations and Policy Development Section of the Standards and Certification Division, addressed the Maryland State Soil Conservation Committee, explaining that when an impoundment on a natural stream is thought to impact water quality standards by its potential to affect temperature and dissolved oxygen levels, the MDE usually recommends alternatives to that pond construction. She also explained that ponds created within wooded wetlands are also thought to affect water quality, and although no studies have shown changes occurring as a result of pond construction, MDE wants to protect these areas.

After numerous complaints and a plea for help from the Garrett SCD, District I Senator John N. Bambacus and District IA Delegate George C. Edwards scheduled a meeting on April 18, 1989, in the Garrett SCD office with representatives from the MDE, DNR, SCS, Maryland Department of Agriculture (MDA) and Allegany SCD. The purpose of the meeting was to strive for coordinated review among agencies and to cut processing time to three months.

Until that time, Morfoot noted, permit applications were taking a year to 18 months to be issued or denied, with a great deal of confusion between the permitting agencies. "It's a real circus," Morfoot said at that time. "The Army Corps and the MDE are doing flip-flops. It's impossible for landowners to understand it all."

After the April meeting, Catherine Stevenson, of the DNR, explained to the State Soil Conservation Committee that MDE had been refusing water quality certification due to anticipated changes in temperature and dissolved oxygen, while the DNR was approving the same ponds under their review process after determining there would be no significant impact to living resources.

And, according to Morfoot, the confusion continued throughout the summer and fall. Then late in 1989, the Garrett and Allegany SCDs were notified by the DNR that no ponds could be built that would allow any summer discharge. Following that notification, in December 1989, they were told that ponds should also be designed to hold any discharge up to and including a 10-year storm event.

In a December 15 letter to the Allegany SCD from the DNR, they were told that in addition, "all runoff from the surrounding drainage should be diverted away from the pond to prevent it from overflowing and thus discharging warm water. No drawdowns should occur during the period of May through September of any year."

As an alternative to one specific pond permit application, they suggested a dugout, by-pass pond located off stream at the site. However, they explained, the bypass must be constructed so that once full-pond level is reached, all additional stream flow bypasses the pond.

"It's almost like they're trying to wear us down," Morfoot said. "They're not willing to find a middle ground. We're way over on their side — that's the law and there's nothing we can do."

Because nothing was changing — permit replys were still taking an unreasonably long time and there was no less confusion between agencies — Del. Edwards and Sen. Bambacus arranged another meeting in mid-December 1989. The senator said he wanted the SCS and MDE to get together and come up with some alternative pond designs to allow ponds to be built again.

Morfoot said this spring that everything is still on hold while the District deals with the MDE. "There's no solution yet," he said. "The District's number one concern is that the MDE is taking away the right of a property owner to build a pond on his own property without proof that what they're saying can happen is true. It's just not practical."

Meanwhile, the Garrett County Cooperative Extension Office is getting inquiries about aquaculture. Bass and other fish species love warm water. Delegate Edwards says that this is just another example of one state agency working against another. "The MDA is promoting aquaculture, but if the MDE and the DNR won't allow any ponds to be built, where will this fish farming take place?"

Morfoot also says that the Garrett ASCS Office has put in cost-share for shallow-water type ponds but he doesn't know if they will be able to use it now. He adds that he feels they are right back where they were 15 months ago. "We've tried to reason with people in these government agencies, but one problem is that most people in these jobs have no farm experience or perception of farming, and this affects us so much up here."

JoAnn Watson, of the MDE, says they are studying the situation. "At this point we're trying to be sure water temperature does not elevate to 68 degrees. We're looking at alternatives." She explained that her department is looking for demonstration sites on low-quality Class III streams to try alternative designs. She added that she hopes some of these alternative studies will be done in Maryland's two western counties. "Both Garrett and Allegany SCS are involved," she said. "We expect them to suggest some sites."

When asked why there is still such a long turn-around time for permits, Watson said that the turn-around time at MDE is 60 to 90 days. She believes turn-around time for the Army Corps of Engineers is up to a year, although she thinks that has improved recently to three-six months.

Webster Mcomber of the Army Corps of Engineers says that the Corps is short staffed. He explains that permit appli-

Commissioner Gregg Asks MDA For Assistance With Pond Issue

Garrett County Commissioner Ernest J. Gregg Jr. sent a letter last week to Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Wayne Cawley Jr. to obtain his department's position on the pond permitting issue as it relates to Garrett County. Gregg asked for assistance to the farmers of Garrett County for pond construction when discharging into Class III waters, based on the Maryland Department of the Environment's promise and lingering attempt to determine acceptable and non-acceptable pond construction and their latest "creative idea" to construct ponds which don't discharge water.

"It is safe to say that many members of our farm community, including our local Soil Conservation staff, continue to find this whole process frustrating and non-productive," Gregg wrote. "The Maryland Department of Environment continues to portray the impression that they are working towards a rapid and satisfactory resolution, while the design alternatives being presented to that agency are either found to be totally unacceptable or require several years of monitoring to determine whether they would be acceptable."

Gregg continued, "We realize that our pond problem is not shared by the majority of the farmers of Maryland. We apologize for having trout streams in our county, but we think your agency should still be very concerned about the Garrett County farm community and subsequently be acting on their behalf to resolve this issue."

In a phone conversation, Commissioner Gregg said: "The board of commissioners are not anti-environment, but this pond situation is unrealistic. We are trying to push for some realistic program to allow farmers to continue building ponds. We have not been shown that ponds have an adverse affect on the environment. and it seems that all alternative suggestions are being stonewalled. We're just trying to get this thing moved off dead center."

Farm Pond:

cations for 4,500 projects (not all of them ponds) were submitted last year. "This short staff plus a boom in construction, starting in 1987, has put us so far behind. We're bombarded with applications," Mcomber said. "Lately things have improved a little, although there is still a four-month turnaround time for permits."

Mcomber explains that the applicant goes first to their local SCS for pond design or advice. Permit applications are then sent to both the DNR's Water Resources Administration (WRA) and the Army Corps of Engineers (ACE). He says that once the ACE approves a permit they send it on to the MDE. Sometimes, however, the application qualifies for an agricultural exemption and doesn't need a MDE WQC permit. In this case, the applicant must show a demonstrated need for a livestock or irrigation pond.

"Sometimes we approve an application against our better judgement," Mcomber said, "if it is on a free-flowing trout stream or so on, knowing that because of state laws, MDE will deny it. We are starting to look at need more often. Garrett County is a sensitive area of the state. As Alaska is America's last frontier, so Garrett County is Maryland's last frontier.

"I hope everyone will try to think of the future a little more. What will it be like there in Garrett County in 50 years? Maybe county residents need to live in the east for awhile where it's too late to save the habitat in order to appreciate Garrett County."

Ken Pavol, DNR fish biologist in Garrett County, has been studying trout populations, and says that in some cases a pond would cause potential damage — in some cases it would not. He says that for the MDE it's not enough that trout are not present in a stream now. Their goal is to protect trout habitat. "I've seen examples where a pond would be a threat (to trout habitat)," Pavol said.

Pavol says that thermal testing he has done on Chisholm Run in Garrett County, above and below a beaver dam, show dramatic differences in upstream and downstream temperatures.

Ray Dintaman, of the Tidewater Administration's Environmental Review Department, has also been doing thermal testing in Garrett County. In tests last summer above and below a pond on the former Winter's Dairy property just outside of Oakland, tests showed upstream temperatures of 63 degrees (68 degrees is considered the maximum temperature for trout). The downstream temperatures at that pond were 80 degrees. Dintaman says he's not seeing many differences between ponds or thermal temperatures in Garrett County compared to Carroll or Frederick county ponds. He does say that downstate, flows coming into ponds are warmer, and also warmer going out.

Pavol says: "I think this thing can be worked out, but we're not at that point right now, unfortunately. Some ponds are definitely benficial. They keep sediment from traveling downstream, and the MDE can't reject a permit simply on the temperature question. The state needs some innovative procedures."

Dintaman says that innovative procedures are being studied. Bypass ponds that don't discharge and can hold a 10-year storm are considered safe. Dintaman says, however, that these ponds do become stagnant, though. He adds that bottom drainage only works well on large reservoirs like Jennings Randolph Lake on the Potomac River in Garrett County. For most ponds, he says, the first couple of storms in the summer eliminate the cold water in the bottom.

"A lot more study must be done," he says. "We feel natural trout streams are a natural resource and we are doing everything we can to preserve them. The big question now is: How can you have trout and ponds in the same place?"

Many local residents, however, question the fact that there are, or could be, trout in all Garrett County streams. One local fisherman who is familiar with several pond permit applications noted that he has not seen trout within 10 miles downstream from the perspective sites. Delegate Edwards said that at one of the SCS meetings he attended last fall, personnel reported that many ponds had been built in the past and there were still trout downstream, in some cases more trout than ever. One Garrett County pond permit applicant says that the MDE is concerned about the thermal temperature of the water, but adds: "There are trout in my other pond in August when the water coming into the pond and the water flowing from the pond dries up. No fish could live anywhere but in the pond. Isn't warm water better for trout than no water at all?"

As Mcomber of the Army Corps said, Garrett County is a special place, and residents here should appreciate that and try to preserve it. The fact that they are basing permit approval on need is important, too. But whose need? To farmers in this area, economic need is also important — extremely important. In an area where tourists and developers are buying up farmland at high prices, the struggle to make ends meet and comply with new and never-ending state and federal regulations makes those high prices a very real temptation to farmers. One pond permit applicant's story is a good example.

Jim Fitzwater went through all the proper channels. He discussed his plans with the Garrett SCD, and sent a joint permit application to WRA and the Army Corps of Engineers in August of 1988. He received a Section 404 approval letter from the Army Corps in November of that same year. "I went through all the bother of getting my neighbors' approval and advertising the permit application in the local paper. Everything looked good, very positive," Fitzwater said. Then in February of 1989 a field review of the site was conducted by the Army Corps and the MDE. Just two weeks later, Fitzwater received a denial letter from the MDE.

"I want to build the pond to irrigate," he said. "I have the farm rented to a potato grower and part of the deal was to build two ponds to irrigate. There is lots of water on the place, but it needs to be made available for irrigation.

"The leaser needs the water — needs to be able to irrigate. Like everything else farmers try to do, at every corner some screwball situation comes up to ruin your profit.

"This hinders my ability to keep my property up, to keep the taxes paid and make improvements. This was my family's farm and I want to keep my property, so I need to make an income from it. This hinders my ability to do that. If I was a little younger and a rebel, I'd just build the pond, but I'm afraid to.

"I mind the insinuations of young bureaucrats telling me I can't touch a stream which runs from a spring underneath my house. It's annoying — hard on my blood pressure. I understand preserving wetlands and everything — to a point. Everywhere I turn, for anything having to do with farms, there is another stupid regulation. I don't know where it will stop."

This past February, representatives from the MDA, MDE, DNR, SCS, MASCD, and Garrett and Allegany SCDs met again to discuss alternative pond design monitoring sites. Design alternatives were offered by SCS State Engineers John Mickley and Roger Thomas.

Suggested methods for controlling discharge include: bottom release from the pond combined with temporary storage for certain storm events; gravel cooling of normal release combined with temporary storage for certain storm events; and control of inflow, both temperature and volume, and a bypass system for all storm flows.

In answer to the MDE's request that the District offices "suggest some sites," Engineer Thomas has been instructed by the Garrett SCD to send to the MDE a package of six alternative and experimental pond plans. SCD officials say these same plans were presented to MDE by phone in February, but they were told (by phone) that they were not adequate, although reasons were not given.

This package of alternative pond plans Thomas will send includes plans for two pond sites in Garrett County, two sites in Carroll County and two sites in Frederick County. Sending the written plans to the MDE will require written relys from the MDE, giving the Garrett SCD an indication of what must be done next.

Delegate Edwards says this has him very frustrated, too. That after several meetings, they still can't get anybody to move on it. "SCS statewide has presented proposals but MDE won't try them. There is surely some way that a pond can be built and the temperature can be kept in range. There is always an answer, and we will keep working on it until we get some movement somewhere," Edwards promised.

Piney Creek Is Upgraded To A Class III Stream

In February, Delegate George C. Edwards discussed with officials of the Maryland Department of the Environment their intentions to "upgrade" Piney Creek to a Class III trout stream. During that discussion, Del. Edwards was told that the MDE was not going to change their position regarding the creek. The portion affected is below the dam from the confluence of Church Creek and Piney Creek to the Pennsylvania line. Del. Edwards requested the officials to send him a letter updating "where we are and where we are going" in reference to dam construction on Piney Creek. That letter was received by Del. Edwards on February 16 from MDE Secretary Martin W. Walsh, Jr.

In his letter Walsh states that the reclassification of Piney Creek to a Class III natural trout stream (from a Class IV "put and take" trout stream) was undertaken by the MDE because there are trout in Piney Creek. "Our regulation specifically states that if a waterway is attaining a use class higher than its designated use, the waterway is to be protected at the higher use designation," Sec. Walsh said.

"A public hearing was advertised in the "Maryland Register" on Friday, November 3, 1989, and held in Hagerstown on December 14, 1989, to explain this reclassification and accept comments on our proposed action. No comments were received on this action at the hearing or within the comment period," Walsh wrote.

Sec. Walsh stressed that the impact of this action will be most readily apparent should property owners in the watershed propose to construct ponds. "Both the MDE and the MDA are currently developing innovative designs to address the need for ponds and the need to protect trout resources," Walsh wrote. "In addition, MDE is evaluating computer models to determine what type of alternative designs may be appropriate."

Walsh went on to say that "additional environmental studies in Garrett and Allegany counties are planned by the MDE and the DNR to determine what impacts occur as a result of pond construction and how unwanted impacts such as thermal elevations can be minimized or eliminated. The USDA Soil Conservation Service is providing technical design criteria for alternatives to the currently proposed construction specifications. As suitable sites are identified, ponds will be constructed according to new designs. Monitoring by MDE and DNR will follow construction of these alternatively designed ponds."

Walsh stated that two Garrett County ponds were certified last year with monitoring requirements. To date, the ponds have not been constructed, so this monitoring has not been done, he said.

He informed Del. Edwards that the apparent conflict between MDE's requirement for no discharge from ponds and DNR's requirement for maintenance of base flow has been resolved by changing the DNR nontidal wetland regulations. The current language requires that farm ponds "not cause a violation of applicable state water quality standards." DNR's requirement for maintenance of base flows has been deleted, Walsh said.

Sec. Walsh concluded his letter to Del. Edwards by saying, "Aquaculture facilities can be developed in Garrett County as long as the facilities comply with all applicable regulations. Depending on the specific proposal, an Army Corps of Engineers permit, State Water Quality Certification, State Discharge permit and/or DNR permit may be needed."

Garrett Co. Herds Included In Md. DHIA's Top 10

The Maryland DHIA report presented here is for February. The information is listed by herd name, total number of cows in the herd and average production per cow on a 3.5 percent fat corrected milk (FCM) basis for all milking cows in the herd. All of the herds listed are on official DHI or DHIR test.

HOLSTEINS

All Holstein herds must consist of at least 10 cows averaging 60 pounds or more of 3.5 percent FCM per cow per day. Listed are the top Garrett County Holstein herds in the state.

Philip Beachy, 49, 79.2; Jonas Kinsinger, 24, 74.1; Tobie Kinsinger, 27, 73.6; Wayne Schrock, 43, 72.0; Paul & Henry Kinsinger, 73, 71.4; Carl Bender, 79, 69.1; John Doerr, 104, 68.9; Cleland Beitzel, 63, 68.6; Paul Yoder, 47, 65.2; Ernest & Dan Ganoe, 147, 63.6; Piney Run Farms, 122, 61.9; Menno Yoder, 35, 61.0; Daniel Lee Yoder, 36, 60.6; and Charles Mason Jr., 77, 60.6.

GUERNSEY

Of the top 10 Guernsey herds in Maryland, two are located in Garrett County. The Homer & Sadie Kinsinger herd of 17 cows placed fifth in the state with 47.8 average pounds per cow FCM. The 31-cow herd of the Marvin Kinsinger family place ninth with 42.0 average pounds FCM per cow.

JERSEY

Two Garrett County Jersey herds are also among the state's top ten for the breed. Homer & Sadie Kinsinger's 44 Jerseys placed third in the state with 53.9 average pounds FCM per cow, and the Paul & Naomi Petersheim herd of 26 animals placed fourth with 53.5 average pounds FCM per cow.

Maryland Reports Good IPM Results

The success of modern chemical pesticides has created a dilemma for Americans, both on and off the farm. Pesticides have helped increase agricultural production and quality dramatically. But they also have raised environmental, health and safety concerns.

So specialists with the University of Maryland's Cooperative Extension Service (MCES) are helping state residents reduce their dependence on chemical pesticides by supplementing them with a combination of biological, cultural and mechanical controls.

This blending of pest control techniques in a manner that controls pests while minimizing negative impact on human health and the environment is known as Integrated Pest Management (IPM). It involves knowing when and where to treat with what, and when to leave well enough alone.

Since 1972, just two years after the first Earth Day focused public attention on America's environmental problems, MCES has helped Maryland farmers reduce both crop damage and reliance on chemical pesticides through its agricultural IPM scouting program. Last year, university-trained scouts examined nearly 27,000 acres of cropland for weed, insect and disease infestation. Based on their data, Extension agents and specialists recommended effective, economical and environmentally sound control measures.

"By improving pesticide selection and the timing of application, participating farmers reduced the amount of pesticides they used while increasing crop yield and quality," explains Betty Marose, CES agricultural IPM coordinator. "And they received financial returns of $2 to $7 for each $1 invested in controlling pests."

Garrett County Extension Agent Jim Simms would like to know if farmers are interested in the development of an IPM program in this area. Interested farmers are asked to contact him at the Garrett County Cooperative Extension Office, 334-1990.

MARYLAND FIRST PLACE HORSE JUDGING TEAM — The Oakland FFA Chapter had the first place team in the State FFA Horse Judging Contest held during the 1990 Maryland Horse Fair on Saturday, April 21 at the Prince George's County Equestrian Center. The high scoring individual for the contest was Stephanie Wilt, FFA member at the Boonesboro FFA Chapter. The Southern Maryland Quarter Horse Association sponsored the contest as a special project of the Maryland FFA Foundation. The Boonesboro FFA Chapter took second place in the contest which featured classes including Morgans, Arabians, Quarter Horses, and a mixed class. The Oakland team members, left to right above, are: Dave Tracey, who placed third individually and received a gold medal; Jon Jackson, fifth place individually and a gold medal; Elaine DeBerry, 11th place individually and a bronze medal; Tammy Eisentrout, 14th place individually; and Steve Kisner, coach and FFA advisor. Not pictured are team alternates Bernie Stuber, who placed 15th individually and received a bronze medal; and Jim Roades, who placed eighth individually and received a silver medal. The second place Boonesboro team members, below left to right, are: Courtney Myers; Sue Lowery, coach; Stephanie Wilt; and Melanie Waechter. According to contest superintendent Mollie Maslin, who served as the official judge for the contest, there were four teams registered with 18 FFA members participating. Contestants were asked to place five classes of horses composed of four animals each and to prepare and present one set of oral reasons. A written exam consisting of breed and equipment identification as well as multiple choice questions on care, handling, feeding and diseases of horses was also completed by contestants. The other two teams participating were Linganore and Flintstone.

Reducing Risk Of Barn Fires Outlined In Book

Every year in the United States millions of dollars worth of livestock, farm equipment, and agricultural buildings are lost due to fire. Although accidents and lightning make it impossible to prevent agricultural fires entirely, sound construction and maintenance practices can help limit the size — and destructiveness — of fires that do start.

"Fire Control in Livestock Buildings," a new publication in the Farm Safety Series of the Northeast Regional Agricultural Engineering Service (NRAES), provides the information that farmers and builders need to ensure that their livestock buildings are constructed and equipped to minimize the danger from fires.

The first section of the 18-page bulletin covers building design, including the use of fire-retardant materials in construction and building management to omit fire spread. Fire walls and curtains to limit fire spread are also thoroughly discussed, including recommendations for spacing these fire barriers. An explanation of vent spacing and the importance of ventilation in removing toxic gases, enabling livestock to survive and firefighters to get closer to the blaze, rounds out the section.

Early warning devices and fire suppression are the topics of the second and third sections of "Fire Control in Livestock Buildings." The detailed information about different types of smoke and heat detectors and automatic sprinkler systems will help livestock building owners and others determine the fire control technology that is most suited to their facilities.

The fire suppression section also contains useful advice on how to make it easier for firefighters to combat fires in livestock buildings.

Simplesse Gets FDA Go-Ahead

After getting the Food and Drug Administration's go-ahead, the NutraSweet Co. will start selling Simple Pleasures this spring that uses Simplesse, a substitute for butterfat.

Simplesse, produced from milk protein and egg whites, is said to give the texture of fat without actually containing fat. A four-ounce serving of Simple Pleasures contains one gram of butterfat, compared to five grams in regular ice cream and 15 grams in super premium ice cream.

NutraSweet, a Monsanto subsidiary, also is seeking to use Simpleese in other dairy products. Industry sources estimated that Simplesse will have a $30 million advertising budget.

If FDA approves the use of Simplesse in other products, Kraft General Foods has already agreed to use the fat substitute in its mayonnaise and related products. Simplesse is expected to be positive for dairy product sales, but put even more pressure on the butterfat surplus.

TRUSTEE SALE OF ATTRACTIVE AND VALUABLE PROPERTY

situate in Election District No. 6, Garrett County, Maryland.

Under and by virtue of a decree of the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, passed on February 23, 1990, in the proceedings in No. 1319 Civil Action in said Court, wherein Charles R. Goss was the Plaintiff and Thomas E. Goss, et al, were the Defendants, the undersigned, being authorized and directed to sell the property hereinafter described, does hereby give notice that on:

Friday, the 4th day of May, 1990
at the hour of 10:00 a.m.

in the Rotunda of the Courthouse in the Town of Oakland, Garrett County, Maryland, we will offer and sell at public auction, all that lot, piece or parcel of land, situate, lying and being in Election District No. 6, Garrett County, Maryland, being part of a tract of land called "Gleanings" and described as follows, to wit:

BEGINNING for the same at a stake by the side of the County Road leading from Oakland to Sang Run; thence South 15 degrees West 6¾ poles to a stake; South 22¼ degrees West, 29 poles to a stake, South 28 degrees West, 29 poles to a stake; South 16 degrees West 34¼ poles to a stake corner to a division line with John Sines, South 70½ degrees West, 109½ poles (division line) to a stake, North 4½ degrees East, 10 poles to a stake; North 30 degrees East, 112 poles to a stake, North 75½ degrees East, 86½ poles to the beginning, containing 50 acres, and 74 poles, more or less.

ALSO, 7 acres of woodland, adjoining the above-described land, making a total of 57 acres and 74 poles of land hereby intended to be conveyed.

BEING the same as conveyed by Henry Sines to Elmer E. Goss and Hallie E. Goss, his wife, by deed dated September 6, 1932, and recorded in Liber No. 112, Folio 366, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland.

UPON the death of Elmer E. Goss the property vested in the late Hallie E. Goss.

The above described property is located on the County Road leading from Oakland to Sang Run and is improved by a one story four room frame cabin. This property has approximately 150 feet along the Oakland to Sang Run County Road, approximately 10 acres of woodland and the remainder is cleared. The property contains a dug well and two springs.

TERMS OF SALE: Fifteen percent (15%) cash on the day of sale and the remaining eighty-five percent (85%) upon ratification of sale and delivery of a deed for the property, or all cash, at the option of the purchaser. All taxes and other public charges will be adjusted as of the day of sale. The cost of documentary stamps and transfer tax will be shared equally. The property is being sold in an "as is" condition.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Deep Creek Watershed Board of Zoning Appeals will conduct a public hearing on May 3, 1990 at 7:30 p.m. in the Planning Commission meeting room, third floor Courthouse, Oakland, Maryland. The Board will review applications on the following docketed cases:

1) Docket VR-243; and application made by Mr. Greig Johnson on behalf of Arrowhead, Inc., for a Variance from the terms of the Zoning Ordinance as it affects the front yard setback requirement for retail businesses. Specifically, Mr. Johnson is requesting a Variance to allow construction of an addition to the Arrowhead Grocery which would extend to within one half foot of the front property line instead of the required ten (10) feet. The property is located on U.S. 219 in Thayerville (Zoned TC).

2) Docket VR-244; an application made by Mr. Dwight H. Jeffrey for a Variance from the terms of the Zoning Ordinance as it affects the front yard setback requirement for residences. Specifically, Mr. Jeffrey is requesting a Variance to allow construction of an addition to his residence which would extend to within twenty-nine (29) feet of his front property line instead of the required forty (40) feet. The property is located in the Turkey Neck Estates Subdivision (Zoned LR).

3) Docket SE-207; an application made by the Garrett County Sanitary District, Inc. for a Special Exception permit to allow the construction of a Sewage Holding Facility (storage tank) on the Sanitary District property located off the Glendale Road (Zoned TC).

4) Docket SE-208 and VR-245; an application made by Mrs. Elaine McDonald on behalf of Alpine Village, Inc. for a Special Exception permit and a Variance from the terms of the Zoning Ordinance to allow a minor expansion of an outdoor bar (The Harbor). Specifically, Mrs. McDonald is requesting a Special Exception to allow construction of a covered deck area to the Harbor business and a Variance to allow the covered deck to extend to within seven (7) feet of the rear property line. The property is located along Glendale Road in Thayerville (Zoned TC).

ORDINANCE 1990-2

SKATEBOARDS

WHEREAS, the Friendsville Mayor and Town Council is authorized by the Friendsville Town Charter to enact ordinances to protect the health, safety and welfare of residents and visitors to the Town of Friendsville; AND

WHEREAS, it has come to the attention of the Friendsville Mayor and Town Council that the operation of skateboards by persons on public ways within the Town constitutes a hazard to pedestrians and vehicular traffic, as well as to the operators of skateboards, AND

WHEREAS, the Town council believes that prohibiting the operation of skateboards on public ways within the Town limits will reduce and/or eliminate any existing hazard regarding the use and operation of skateboards within the corporate limits of Friendsville;

NOW, THEREFORE, be it resolved by the Friendsville Mayor and Town Council that, effective May 1, 1990, it shall be unlawful for any person to ride, propel, push, or otherwise operate a skateboard on any public way, street, alley, sidewalk, parking lot, or other public property within the corporate limits of Friendsville.

FURTHERMORE, any person(s) found to be in violation of the provisions of this ordinance shall be subject to a fine of $50.00.

The proposed operation occupies a 78.55 acre tract on the north and south side of the headwaters of Trap Run, 6 miles southwest of Friendsville in Election District No. 2, Garrett County, Maryland Grid Coordinates N: 653,359 E: 108,125. Access to the site will be from Trap Run Road ¼ mile northeast of the intersection of Trap Run Road and White Rock Road ¾ mile north of the intersection of Trap Run Road and White Rock Road.

The application proposes to mine within 100 feet of the right-of-way of Trap Run Road. The Maryland Grid Coordinates are N: 653,858, E: 108,270.

Surface of the area to be mined is owned by Donald F. Frazee, Edward G. Frazee, 601 East Main Street, Kingwood, WV 26537; Glenn and Chauncey Sisler, Friendsville, MD 21541 and the mineral to be mined is owned by F&M Coal Company, 601 East Main Street, Kingwood, WV 26537.

The permit area is within the U.S. Geologic Survey Sang Run 7.5 minute quadrangle boundary.

A copy of the application is available for public inspection at the Maryland Bureau of Mines, 69 Hill Street, Frostburg, MD, during normal office hours.

Written comment on the application will be received until June 13, 1990, by the Director, Maryland Bureau of Mines, 69 Hill Street, Frostburg, Maryland 21532 or call (301) 689-4136.

STANDING TIMBER FOR SALE

The Maryland Forest, Park & Wildlife Service is offering for sale sawtimber on 86 acres of Compartment 30, Potomac-Garrett State Forest. Said timber is estimated to cut 497,753 bd. ft., of sawtimber according to the International ¼" Rule, more or less. Timber is located approximately 1.3 miles North of the Fingerboard Road on Sanders Lane near Herrington Manor State Park. Sale consists of a selection marking. Timber is offered for sale subject to the following terms:

1. Timber will be shown on Friday, May 4, 1990, at 10:00 a.m. Persons interested in seeing this timber may meet at the entrance of Herrington Manor State Park, approximately 5 miles North of Oakland on Herrington Manor Road.

2. A bid security bond in the amount of $15,000.00 must accompany the bid upon submission to the Maryland Forest, Park & Wildlife Service. This bond will be returned to all unsuccessful bidders.

3. A performance bond in the amount $15,000.00 must be posted upon the acceptance of the contract by the State of Maryland.

4. The bidder must be a registered Forest Products Operator in Maryland for 1990 to bid on this timber.

5. Contract/Bid forms will be available at the showing, or may be obtained by writing or calling Potomac-Garrett State Forest, Route 3, Box 256, Deer Park, Maryland 21550. Phone (301) 334-2038.

6. Bids will be accepted up until 1:00 p.m. on Monday, May 14, 1990 at the Potomac-Garrett State Forest Headquarters at which time they will be opened.

7. All timber volumes noted in this offering are estimates. Parties bidding on this timber should determine such volumes to their own satisfaction. No adjustments on the basis of volumes will be made with the buyers.

PUBLIC NOTICES

NOTICE

Of availability of Hill-Burton uncompensated services.

Under its Hill-Burton obligation, Garrett County Memorial Hospital provides a reasonable amount of uncompensated services to persons eligible under applicable Community Services Administration guidelines. Hill-Burton uncompensated services are limited to Category A patients as defined in the regulations. Patient eligibility for Hill-Burton is determined by measuring family income against the income Poverty Guidelines established by the Community Service Administration.

The plan for allocation of service is as follows:

Services furnished to patients are restricted to the usual and customary services routinely provided by the hospital. All services furnished must be ordered by a member of the hospital's medical staff. It is the patient's responsibility to engage a physician on the staff to provide medical care. Services will be furnished to Category A patients without charge after applying all third party coverage. Applicants for such services must furnish complete information and verification as required to determine their eligibility.

Services will be furnished to eligible patients on a "first-come, first-serve" basis as they receive medical service at the hospital. The hospital reviews the ability to pay of every patient. Information indicating a potential for Category A patients will be specifically reviewed for Hill-Burton uncompensated services eligibility. The hospital will also investigate potential eligibility on request. Fiscal year 1991 available funds will be $222,000 on a first-come, first-serve basis. When all funds for the year are exhausted, there will not be any Hill-Burton Charity Care Funds available until the following fiscal year.

There are some new guideline changes for eligibility. For further information on eligibility, please contact your Hill-Burton Representative located in the Credit/Collection Office at the hospital. Phone 334-2155.

DID YOU KNOW?

by Kevin Liller

For years there was a moratorium on sewer taps in both Oakland and Mt. Lake Park. Many people who wanted to build in these areas, whether in the town limits or out of town, could not do so because of the moratorium. There is NO LONGER a moratorium in either Oakland or Mt. Lake Park.

In Oakland, sewer taps are "unlimited" at this time for properties that lie within the town limits. The exact number of taps available will not be known for certain until a flow test is done on the system. For properties outside of the town limits, taps are available but are restricted in number. In areas where taps are available, only one tap can be purchased per owner. The cost of the tap for a lot in town is $300 plus $728.72 for capital cost recovery. A tap for an out-of-town lot will cost $550 plus approximately $1136 (the capital cost recovery varies from area to area for out-of-town users).

In Mt. Lake Park, sewer taps are also "unlimited" at this time for both in town and out-of-town properties. The exact number of available taps is not known but a moratorium is not expected in the near future. The amount of growth in and around Mt. Lake Park will obviously affect the number of taps in the future. The cost of a tap for a property located in town is $750 and the cost for a property located out of town is $1500.

User rate fees for Mt. Lake Park are not the same as they are in Oakland. You can check the fees for both towns by calling their town offices. The number for Mt. Lake Park is 334-2250, and the number for Oakland is 334-2691.

It is exciting to see building activity in the Oakland-Mt. Lake Park areas again. There are plenty of new subdivisions and individual lots available in this area at this time. Contact one of our residential specialists for further details.

Sky Valley House Is Destroyed By Blaze Thursday

The cause of a fire that destroyed an A-frame summer residence along Sky Valley Road, Deep Creek Lake, late last Thursday night remains under investigation, according to Guy Carola, state fire investigator for Garrett and Allegany counties.

Fire fighters from Deer Park, Bittinger, and Deep Creek volunteer fire departments were called to the residence of Harvey F. Gratz, Houston, Pa., at 11:59 p.m. Thursday and found the structure fully involved in flames upon their arrival. According to Carola, Gratz had been at the house earlier in the evening and returned to find some 30 firemen on the scene.

The blaze was brought under control in about 45 minutes, however the entire dwelling and its contents, including a small boat in the basement, were destroyed. Carola estimated the loss to be $60,000.

Carola said that Gratz had no insurance on the property.

Also responding to the scene were the county air cascade vehicle, presently being housed at Bloomington VFD, and the Southern Rescue Squad. Oakland VFD sent a crew to stand by at Deer Park's station.

"PICK A LITTLE, TALK A LITTLE" is how the women of River City, Iowa, spend much of their time and Marion Pardoo, the young, attractive librarian is often the focal point of their discussion. This is a scene from "Music Man," just one of the six segments of well-known Broadway musicals that will be presented this weekend at Garrett Community College by the Garrett Choral Society. The "Best of Broadway" will be presented Friday and Saturday, May 4 and 5, at 7:30 p.m. and Sunday, May 6, at 4 p.m. in the GCC auditorium. Pictured left to right above are Tom Peterson, portraying Professor Harold Hill; and the ladies of River City, played by Hannah Sincell, Kay Carlson, Bea Crosco, Pat Compitello, and Bobbi Henderson. Other segments will be from "South Pacific," "H.M.S. Pinafore," "Fiddler on the Roof," "Wizard of Oz," and "My Fair Lady." Tickets are $5 for persons age 13 and over and $2.50 for those 12 and under. They may be purchased at Englander's Pharmacy, from any Choral Society member, or at the door. Persons who purchase advance tickets will be the first seated at each performance. Those who purchase tickets at the door will be admitted 15 minutes prior to the beginning of the program.

Two Charged With Child Sex Abuse

Two local men were recently arrested on separate charges of child sexual abuse, according to reports from the Garrett County Sheriff's Department.

Ronald Darvin Harrison, 28, Oakland, was arrested April 24 on a warrant charging him with child abuse, second degree sexual offense, third degree sexual offense, fourth degree sexual offense and battery.

Charges stemmed from an alleged incident that took place March 17 involving a female child under the age of 14.

Corporal L.E. Gnegy served the arrest warrant.

Harrison is currently being housed in the Garrett County Jail in lieu of $5,000 full cash bond.

In a separate case, Rocky Lee Hardesty, 26, Deer Park, was arrested Tuesday on a warrant charging him with child abuse, second degree sexual offense, perverted practice and battery.

Charges stemmed from an incident that allegedly took place February 2 involving a female child.

Deputy D.M. Stoner served the arrest warrant.

Hardesty is being held in the Garrett County Jail in lieu of $2,500 full cash bond.

G.C. Sanitary District Files Court Action Against Town Of Oakland

Garrett County Sanitary Commission Administrator, Wendell R. Beitzell, this week announced that the Sanitary District has taken action to ask the court to determine whether legal authority over the Cherry Glade Run Sanitary District sewer service is in the hands of the District or of the town of Oakland.

Beitzel stated, "This action is the result of a letter dated April 20 from the newly created Oakland Sewer Authority advising the District that they were going to deal directly with users located in this district."

Cherry Glade Run Sanitary District is located north of Oakland and was created by resolution of the Garrett County Commissioners and the Sanitary Commission in 1986 at the request of Oakland town officials in office at that time. According to Beitzel, the town wanted the county to be responsible for payment of the sewer system and to require property owners in that district to connect to the new systems.

In early winter, the Oakland Mayor and Town Council requested that the county abandon the system to the town's charge. That request was denied as the result of a public hearing in which a number of residents reportedly expressed their desire not to be abandoned by the county.

After the Sanitary District was notified by the town in late fall that the new system was ready for service, the users in the Cherry Glade Run area were notified by the District to connect to the system, said Beitzel.

The Sanitary Commission then borrowed $263,595 to cover the cost of the capital improvements for the Cherry Glade Run District and made payment to Oakland. According to Beitzel, the money was returned to the commission.

The letter states, "As negotiations between the Oakland Sewer Authority and the Garrett County Sanitary District, Inc. have broken down with respect to the Sanitary District's role in acting as the Authority's billing agent for the Cherry Glade area, the Oakland Sewer Authority has determined that it must begin to deal directly with the users of its system located in the Cherry Glade area."

The letter continues, "As you can see, we have permitted persons who have already paid a connection fee to the Sanitary District, Inc. to deduct that amount from the Town's collection fee. Therefore, we hereby make demand for any and all amounts you have collected from persons who are adjacent landowners to our system if these collections were made with respect to the sewer collector system owned and operated by the Oakland Sewer Authority."

Wendell Beitzel responded to the letter by stating, "The Sanitary Commission has repeatedly attempted to meet with Oakland in an attempt to resolve the issue. Oakland has declined to meet with the Sanitary Commission. In addition to sending a letter to the Sanitary District, the Town has sent letters and sewer bills to users in the Cherry Glade Run Sanitary District, and has demanded that the Sanitary District account for and pay to

Superintendent's Decision In Bus Driver Case Overturned By Board

The Garrett County Board of Education recently overturned the decision of Superintendent of Schools Dr. Jerome Ryscavage to dismiss a school bus driver.

The decision, rendered at the April meeting to the school board, followed an emotionally charged two-day appeal process led by Douglas E. Fitzwater, Deer Park, who received notification last August that his certification would not be renewed.

In May 1989 Michael Sines, supervisor of transportation, recommended that Fitzwater be removed from the position of bus driver.

On August 24, 1989, Dr. Ryscavage notified Fitzwater's wife, Susan, the school bus contractor, that Fitzwater's certification would not be renewed "due to incompetency as a school bus driver."

The Fitzwaters initiated the appeal process September 6, 1989.

During the recent appeal, school officials brought forth a variety of documented allegations against Fitzwater, dating from 1985.

Evidence included several allegations that the school bus driven by Fitzwater operated on an inconsistent schedule.

In 1986 a formal complaint was lodged against Fitzwater for the alleged negligent operation of a school bus.

The same year, Sines received complaints from several students regarding Fitzwater's alleged use of profanity.

Several conflicts involving Fitzwater and students who rode on his bus were documented in 1987 and 1988. These also involved Fitzwater's alleged use of profanity. This was also presented as evidence for the administration.

In October 1988, Sines drafted a letter to Fitzwater indicating that two separate bus drivers complained that he "deliberately pulled out in front of them and/or aggressively and intentionally crossed over into their lane of travel creating a dangerous situation".

The defense presented a great deal of testimony, much of it verbal. Many persons testified to the character and driving ability of Douglas Fitzwater. Verbal testimony was presented on behalf of the administration as well.

Among the written documentation given on behalf of the defense was a letter drafted by Charles A. Cantone, Ph.D., a neuropsychologist with whom Fitzwater underwent a five and one-half hour evaluation.

In his letter, Cantone stated, "There is no reason to believe from current psychological data that this patient should not be able to operate a school bus in a safe manner. He appears to be competent in this area. In addition, he does not appear to present any major danger to children. Thus (Fitzwater) appears to be psychologically capable of operating a school bus on a regular basis and to deal with children and adolescents in an effective, appropriate, competent manner."

Additionally Fitzwater presented a letter in support of renewing his certification that had been signed by 21 parents. In part, the letter stated, "We do not and have never felt that the safety and emotional well-being of our children is in danger when Mr. Fitzwater is operating the bus."

The Southern Garrett Band Boosters also voiced their support of Fitzwater.

Following the appeal process, the Board of Education voted three to one in favor of overturning Ryscavage's decision.

According to Dr. Ryscavage, the decision was to reinstate Fitzwater on a two-year probationary status that would require written evaluations to be given on his performance every 60 days.

When asked why he chose not to renew Fitzwater's certification Ryscavage noted Fitzwater's record of difficulties in dealing with some kids on his bus route and felt that he possessed a "less than satisfactory" driving record.

Commissioners Nix Regional Landfill Location

The Garrett County Commissioners this week announced their official and unanimous opposition to a proposal to locate a regional landfill in Garrett County, citing a lack of local control over the facility as the primary reason for the opposition.

Regional Waste Facilities, Inc., Cumberland, had reportedly proposed a Garrett County location (specifically, an area known as Franklin Hill near Bloomington) as the site for a regional landfill which would service Garrett and Allegany counties, as well as adjacent counties in West Virginia and Pennsylvania.

Commissioner Elwood L. Groves II explained the board's position, stating, "Garrett County cannot afford to become a dumping ground for other areas, and we intend to oppose this measure at all costs." He continued, "Control is the issue. It could become a situation where local people might actually have little access to the facility."

Commissioner John G. Braskey also voiced strong caution, stating, "Local government would have no control over the facility because it would be privately owned. We don't want that kind of facility in Garrett County."

Braskey added, "Several years ago, we had to fight the Baltimore sludge issue — and we're not going to go through that again."

According to Commissioner Ernest J. Gregg Jr., the board's stance on this issue is consistent with a position taken in the development of the county's own landfill, which is currently in the planning and permit stages. He stated that the options of owning or leasing the landfill were made available to the board, and the decision to own was taken because it would allow local government control over the facility.

Gregg stated, "It undoubtedly appears as though we're adopting a parochial stance but I think this is one of those issues where that position is the correct one."

Health Dept. Notes Rabies Clinic Schedule

The Garrett County Health Department has announced it will sponsor a full week of low cost rabies clinics for the vaccination of cats and dogs beginning Monday, May 7, and concluding Saturday, May 12. Area residents are encouraged to check the following schedule for exact times and locations of the clinics in their area:

Gorman Fire Hall, Monday, May 7, 5-6 p.m.; Friendsville Elementary School, Tuesday, May 8, 5-6 p.m.; Broadford Elementary School, Oakland, Wednesday, May 9, 5-7 p.m.; Accident Elementary School, Thursday, May 10, 5-7 p.m.; Bloomington Fire Hall, Friday, May 11, 5-6 p.m.; and Grantsville Elementary School, Saturday, May 12, 10 a.m.-noon.

Cost of the vaccination is $4 per animal at the clinics. Dogs should be on a leash and under the control of a responsible individual. Cats should be brought to the clinics in a wire

WILDLIFE VIOLATIONS TOTAL OVER 200 — The Maryland Department of Natural Resources police announced this week the arrest of eleven area residents, charged with a total of 210 counts of wildlife violations. The arrests were the result of a 12-month undercover investigation conducted by DNR police and headed by Cpl. Ralph Parker. Known as "Operation Red Fox," the investigation centered around Charles Blake Garlitz, Grantsville, charged with 62 counts of game violations, including the illegal dealing of live foxes. Shown in the above photo is Cpl. Parker who displays a piece of evidence confiscated during the search and seizure. Photo by Craig Speicher

Eleven Charged With 210 Counts Following Long DNR Investigation

A 12-month undercover investigation conducted by the Maryland Department of Natural Resources Police came to an end Sunday when DNR Police charged 11 people from three states with allegedly violating numerous state wildlife laws.

Ten DNR Police Officers, along with two agents of the United States Fish & Wildlife Service served criminal summons to persons from Maryland, Pennsylvania and West Virginia. Police executed search and seizure warrants, primarily in the Grantsville area, at that time.

"Operation Red Fox" was initiated in April 1989 and focused on the illegal dealing of live foxes, including trapping, buying and selling.

By Sunday, the DNR charged 11 defendants with approximately 210 counts of illegally taking, attempting to take or possessing bobcat, deer, fox, raccoon, grouse, rabbit, beaver, ducks, bear and turkey.

Charles Blake Garlitz, 47, Grantsville, was the focus of the undercover operation. He was charged with 62 game violations.

Three relatives of Garlitz were also charged with a total of 34 game violations.

Christopher Vernard Garlitz, 23, a son of Charles Garlitz, was charged with 22 violations. His brother, Robert Blake Garlitz, 25, was charged with 11 violations.

William Wayne Warnick, 45, a son-in-law of Charles Garlitz, was cited on one violation.

Two Buckhannon, W.Va., men were charged Sunday by authorities in that state.

Isaac Smith, 79, was charged with nine counts of importation of wildlife without a permit and five counts of purchasing live foxes. He allegedly bought young foxes from Charles Garlitz, raised them, then turned them loose on his 125-acre fenced-in property to be chased by his dogs. This was reportedly done to give his dogs exercise.

Raymond Fallen, 61, was charged with five counts of importation of wildlife without a permit.

David Daniel Maley, 24, Boynton, Pa., was charged with shooting at wildlife from a motor vehicle, two counts of hunting and possessing a grouse during a closed season, and failing to report a deer to a check station within 24 hours.

Rodney Taylor, 40, Biglersville, Pa., was charged with possessing a live fox without a permit and five counts of purchasing a live fox.

Clarence Oliver Richardson, 60, Grantsville, was charged with two deer hunting violations.

Wilmer Clarence Warnick, 36, was charged with four violations related to deer hunting.

Charges were also leveled against Ronald Joe Lavin, 23, Grantsville. He was charged with 15 counts of the sale of beaver pelts without proper tagging, 15 counts of trapping in excess of 10 beaver per trapping season, 15 counts of the sale of illegally taken furs.

MSHA Issues Orders Following Fatal Accident

The federal Mine Safety and Health Administration issued three orders against Mettiki Coal Corporation in connection with findings turned up from an investigation at the site of a fatal accident that occurred last month near Kempton.

Randy Shaffer, a 33-year-old Hutton resident, was fatally injured on April 11 by a roof fall in one of Mettiki's deep mines.

According to Barry Ryan, MSHA field office supervisor, the orders issued against Mettiki closed down an area of the mine from the time of the accident until April 17. The mine was closed at the site of the accident. The area was closed, according to Ryan, until proper action recommended by MSHA was taken to rectify current violations. Action taken included the retraining of all Mettiki employees, miners and supervisors alike.

According to Ryan, Mettiki was in serious violation of the Mine Safety and Health Act. The corporation was found to be in violation of a roof control plan that had previously been submitted to the federal safety organization. Mettiki was additionally found to be violating two aspects of federal roof control regulations.

Ryan stated that the report on the investigation is not officially completed and will not be released for two to three months.

World Championship, Inc., Will Sponsor Five Adventure Sport Events

World Championships, Inc., the civic sports organization that staged last year's successful World Whitewater Championships on the Savage River, announced this week that they will promote and operate five adventure sport events in Western Maryland during 1990.

WCI president State Senator John N. Bambacus (R-Allegany/Garrett) unveiled a five-event calendar that includes two mountain bike races in Green Ridge State Forest near Flintstone, scheduled for May and October, a triathlon in Oakland during late August, and the return of world class canoe/kayak whitewater racing to the Savage River World's site the first weekend in July.

"We are spreading out in 1990 to attract a broader range of 'young energetic' visitors to our region through the addition of mountain biking and triathlon to our calendar," Bambacus commented.

"Our goals are similar to the ones that preceded in 1989 World Whitewater Championships. We plan to concentrate on regional mountain bike and triathlon events and work toward becoming the venue for national and international events in both these adventure sports."

WCI event development director Fred Stemple, an established Garrett County businessman who earlier this year accepted full-time responsibility for expanding and developing new WCI events, detailed 1990 event plans.

They include:

— Dogwood Classic Mountain Bike Race, May 13, Green Ridge State Forest, Flintstone.

— US Whitewater Canoe/Kayak National Championships, July 6, Savage River State Forest, Bloomington.

— World Cup Canoe/Kayak Slalom Championships, July 7-8, Savage River State Forest, Bloomington.

— Maryland's "Best of the West" Triathlon, August 25-26, Broadford Recreational Park, Oakland, and Wisp Resort, McHenry.

— Maryland State Mountain Bike Championships, October

"OUR GREATEST OBSTACLE HAS BEEN FINDING SUITABLE PROPERTY at affordable prices," stated Duane Yoder at a recent annual meeting of the Garrett County Habitat for Humanity. Yoder is the president of the board of directors of that organization. With an announced intention of building three houses in 1990, Habitat is currently looking for lots on which to build. In the above photo, Meg Ellis, development director of Garrett Community Action and a Habitat board member, and Janie Nugent (right), housing counselor for Garrett Community Action, observe a property located on the southwest side of Route 560 at Steyer Mine Road. Three families who have been selected to receive homes this year have already earned their hours of "sweat equity" and are awaiting the location of building lots. Due to difficulties faced in obtaining suitable property, only one Habitat house was completed in 1989, bringing to 18 the total number of homes built in Garrett County since 1984. Don Little, chairman of the Building Committee, has been spearheading the effort to locate suitable property. Other members of the committee are Elmer Maust, Henry Diller and Clarence Stem.

Oakland Woman Sentenced To 12 Months In D.O.C.

An Oakland woman was sentenced to 12 months in the Department of Corrections by Judge Jack Turney during recent trials at Garrett County District Court.

Laura Lorraine Kisner, 28, Oakland, was found guilty of a charge of unlawful possession of a controlled dangerous substance (CDS). She was fined $100 and sentenced to 12 months in the Department of Corrections. She was found guilty of another charge of unlawful possession of CDS, for which she was fined $50.

The charges were filed by Deputy J.D. Murphy, Garrett County Sheriff's Department, after an incident which occurred November 19. John R. Toston represented Kisner.

John David Rittenhouse, 21, Rivesville, W.Va., was found guilty of a charge of felony theft. He was fined $150 and sentenced to six months in the Garrett County Jail. Judge Turney then suspended all of the sentence except 48 hours and placed Rittenhouse on six months unsupervised probation. The charge was filed by Tfc. D.W. Broadwater, Maryland State Police, after an incident which occurred January 13, when Rittenhouse reportedly stole a pair of skis from the Wisp Resort. John R. Toston represented Rittenhouse.

George Edward Beitzel, 41, Accident, was found guilty of performing an unauthorized act in non-tidal waters. He was fined $500. The charge was filed by Officer John Melbourne, Department of Natural Resources Police, after an incident which occurred November 9.

Probation before judgment was ordered for David Glenn Bicker, 45, Grantsville, for a charge of malicious destruction of property. The charge was filed by Barbara Lynn Bicker, Grantsville, after an incident which occurred February 22. John R. Toston represented Bicker.

Charges of wanton trespass and misuse of the telephone against Elizabeth Beaver Hasan, Cumberland, were placed on the stet docket. The charges were filed by John William Greathouse, Grantsville, after incidents which occurred January 7 and 24. John R. Toston represented Hasan.

Edward Junior Dragovich, 48, Bayard, W.Va., was found not guilty of charges of non-support of spouse and non-support of child. The charges were filed by Shirley A. Dragovich, Oakland, after an incident which occurred February 6. Suzanne Conger represented Dragovich.

A charge of assault against Douglas Dwight Bittinger, 41, Oakland, was not prosecuted. The charge was filed by Judith Ann Wildesen, LaVale, after an incident which occurred February 3.

A charge of battery and two counts of disorderly conduct on private property against Judith Ann Wildesen, 40, LaVale, were not prosecuted. The charges were filed by Douglas D. Bittinger, Oakland, after an incident which occurred in February in Oakland.

A charge of violating a junkyard ordinance against Karen E. Sines, Frostburg, was not prosecuted. The charge was filed by Joseph Howe, County Revenue Office, after an incident which occurred February 13.

"IT'S A PERFECT MATCH" says Yente, the local matchmaker in the Broadway production of "Fiddler on the Roof." Scenes from this and five other popular Broadway musicals will be presented this weekend at Garrett Community College by the Garrett Choral Society. Portraying Golda in the "Fiddler" segment is Lana Brenneman, pictured left, and playing Yente is Kay Carlson, who had the same role when the Choral Society presented the entire musical nearly eight years ago. Back to play the part of Tevye is Richard Morris. Performances are slated for Friday and Saturday, May 4 and 5, at 7:30 p.m. and Sunday, May 6, at 4 p.m.

Census Takers Begin Making Their Rounds

The focus of the 1990 census has shifted from a mailing campaign to door-to-door visits. Census takers began visiting households on April 26 and will continue through at least June 30.

Residents of Maryland who have received a census form and have not returned it, or have misplaced the form, should wait until a census taker visits them. Those who have not received a census form should call the toll-free assistance hotline (1-800-999-1990) immediately. A census taker will then visit them to collect the necessary information.

"It's easy to be counted," said Ronald M. Kreitner, director of the Maryland Office of Planning.

"The census taker will come to your front door; there is no need to go any where. You'll not even need a stamp or pencil. Just answer the questions asked by the census taker. It's that easy," he added.

Census takers are easily identified by their black brief cases with red, white and blue strips and the words "1990 Census" on the front. Each census taker will also be wearing a clip-on badge with their name; no photograph appears on the official census taker's identification badge. Residents are encouraged to carefully check the credentials of any census taker.

While the census taker asks some questions of a personal nature, the data they gather will be used to improve local community services over the next 10 years. The information provided will help federal, state and local governments make decisions such as where to locate schools, day care centers, hospitals, job training programs and affordable housing.

The information will also be used to plan for highways, mass transit systems and revitalizing homes and businesses in the coming decade.

Residents have until June 30 to be included in the 1990 census.

Census outreach and promotional activities for the state of Maryland are coordinated through the Maryland Office of Planning.

Man Charged By Md. State Police After Incident

A Hanover man was arrested by Maryland State Police after an incident which occurred at Checkers Lounge and Restaurant on Sunday.

Jerry Allen Stultz, 27, Hanover, was charged with destruction of property and disorderly conduct by Tfc. J.K. Moore on April 29.

Stultz reportedly became disorderly at Checkers Lounge and was asked to leave. After leaving, Stultz apparently returned and broke a window by punching it with his fist.

Harold Thomas Hauhn and a juvenile were arrested on April 28 by Tpr. S.W. Vincent and charged with theft.

Hauhn and the juvenile reportedly removed two rhododendron shrubs from the Youghiogheny Overlook Rest Stop, located on U.S. Rt. 48. The two were later stopped and charged with theft.

Events Slated For Memorial Day Celebration

The Broadford Lake/GOBA DAZE celebration is scheduled for Memorial Day weekend, May 26, 27 and 28.

GOBA (Greater Oakland Business Association) and the GOBA Garrett County black bear will be at the corner of Second and Alder Streets with treats for the kids at 10 a.m. and 2 p.m.

A coloring contest will be held May 10 to 24. For more information, contact the Book Market at 334-8778 or Englander's Pharmacy at 334-9455.

Persons interested in displaying crafts on Second and Alder Streets should contact Marvin's Men's Wear at 334-9211.

For more information on these and other events, contact Broadford Lake at 334-9222.

Sheriff Evans Announces Bid For Re-Election

Incumbent Garrett County Sheriff M. Van Evans announced this week that he would be a candidate for re-election in the September Republican primary.

Evans was appointed sheriff in 1985 to serve the remainder of the unexpired term of the late Frank Finch, and was elected overwhelmingly in November of 1986. Prior to assuming the duties of sheriff, Evans had served as chief deputy, assistant chief deputy and criminal investigator. He has been with the Garrett County Sheriff's Department since 1973.

Sheriff Evans graduated from Southern High School in 1969, and served in the United States Marine Corps from 1970 through 1973. He attended the Prince George's County Police Academy in 1974, and the Federal Bureau of Investigation National Police Academy in 1980. He also holds degrees from Garrett Community College (1979) and West Virginia University (1985).

In announcing his candidacy, Sheriff Evans stated, "The past five years have been both challenging and rewarding. Although the title is the same, the office has changed dramatically over the past 117 years, and when you take into account how much Garrett County has changed in just the past 20 years, I think it's easy to realize that the responsibilities and demands on the sheriff have increased dramatically.

"As we approach the 1990s, you'll see the sheriff wearing many hats, including that of an administrator of law enforcement and the corrections operation, and that of a person knowledgeable in both criminal and civil judicial proceedings.

"As I announce my candidacy, I pledge to you that I will continue to be a sheriff who has not only the training, but the willingness, to meet the demands of a changing Garrett County. I appreciate your support to date, and would be honored if you validate my performance with a vote for another four years in office."

Terry King, of Deer Park, will again serve as Sheriff Evans' campaign treasurer.

THESE BEAUTIFUL YOUNG CREATURES WERE RESCUED Sunday from almost certain cruelty. Young foxes such as these have allegedly been captured by Charles Garlitz, Grantsville, and sold to a Buckhannon, W.Va., man who allegedly turned foxes loose on his 125-acre fenced-in property so that his dogs could chase them, reportedly to give the dogs exercise.

Sheriff's Dept. Investigates Local Thefts

Several cases involving theft and property destruction are currently under investigation at the Garrett County Sheriff's Department.

Roger Ray Crosco, Fingerboard Road, reported the theft of a four-wheeler that occurred April 23 or 24. The vehicle was stolen from a neighbor's shed. The vehicle, estimated at $1,500, was described as a blue 1986 Honda Four-Track 250 R Four-Wheeler. Deputy D.C. Welch is conducting an investigation.

James Francis Schoen, Rockville, reported a property destruction that occurred last Thursday between 6 and 8:30 p.m. A Deep Creek Lake residence sustained $160 in damages to the front porch, front door and side entry door. Entry to the residence was not gained. Deputy R.P. Shaffer is conducting an investigation.

Noah Kinsinger, Paul Friend Road, reported the recent theft of a three-point hitch sprayer with a 150-gallon fiber glass tank from a storage barn located on his property. The piece of equipment is described as having red metal, white fiber glass and a yellow tank. Deputy D.M. Stoner is conducting an investigation.

State Police Investigate Rt. 219 Accident

Maryland State Police investigated several accidents which occurred over the past week, including one which occurred on Rt. 219 near Super Value, Oakland.

Pauline Mabel Lewis, 69, Friendsville, was northbound on Rt. 219 in a Plymouth Reliant at 4:10 p.m. last Friday when she attempted to make a left hand turn.

Robert Leroy Shultzaberger, 30, Deer Park, was southbound in a Datsun Stanza with three passengers, Debra VanMeter, 33, Deer Park; Stephine VanMeter, 15, Deer Park; and Heather D. Shultzaberger, 4, Deer Park. Shultzaberger took evasive action to attempt to avoid colliding with Lewis by skidding and steering to the right. There were approximately 30 feet of skid marks on the road from Shultzaberger's vehicle. The collision took place in the southbound lane.

Southern Garrett Rescue Squad responded and Lewis, Shultzaberger and the passengers in his vehicle were transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where they were treated and released.

Tfc. P.R. Brown investigated and Lewis was charged with failure to yield right-of-way. Shultzaberger was charged with driving an uninsured vehicle and failure to be restrained by seat belt.

James Ross Burns, 12, Mt. Lake Park, was taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by private vehicle after he lost control of a three-wheel all-terrain vehicle last Saturday around 6:30 p.m.

Burns was operating a Kawasaki 160 on private property near the Oakland-Sang Run Road when he attempted to make a turn. He lost control of the vehicle, striking a barbed wire fence. He jumped off the vehicle and the vehicle continued down an embankment and struck a tree.

Burns was treated and released at Garrett County Memorial Hospital. Tfc. D.W. Broadwater investigated. No charges were filed.

David Lee Bateman, 34, Deer Park, was treated and released at Garrett County Memorial Hospital following an accident which occurred in a wooded area near his home on Friday around 6 p.m.

Bateman was operating a Honda CB 100 when a small animal ran in front of his vehicle on his property near Boiling Springs Road. He swerved to avoid striking the animal and lost control of the vehicle. The vehicle flipped and ejected the driver.

Bateman was taken to the hospital by private vehicle. Tfc. P.R. Brown investigated. No charges were filed.

Help For Mentally Ill . . .

Garrett County, as with most rural areas, is often accused of living in the Dark Ages, and in some ways this description is probably accurate. While we are progressive in some areas, there are others in which we seem to lag way behind, both in attitude and in action.

One of these areas is the general attitude toward mental illness and those so afflicted. While Garrett County has done a marvelous job in providing care and opportunity for the physically and mentally handicapped, there has been relatively little done for those many persons whose lives are plagued with mental illness.

We have group homes and various programs for the handicapped, but we have no facilities whatsoever for the mentally ill. The average citizen's perception of mental illness is that of a crazed individual who is dangerous to society, and because of this fear and misconception, the problem is generally ignored. Perhaps, too, it is believed that mental illness is a rare condition, and that there are not enough persons so afflicted to warrant programs and facilities to care for them.

In fact, however, there is a lot of mental illness in our society, right here in Garrett County, and many of these people are not getting the treatment and the assistance that they need. Imprisonment, drug and alcohol addiction, and suicide are among the fates that await these people. The problem of child abuse and dysfunctional families is so apparent here in Garrett County — what do you suppose such negative environments do to the mental stability of the persons involved?

Our Garrett County Health Department has a mental health clinic that is booked solid with clients. They have good counselors and, in general, are doing a good job. But an hour counseling session per week is simply not enough for many who suffer from various forms of mental illness. Group homes are needed for those who require constant care and monitoring.

It is also a fact that the great majority of persons who suffer from mental illness are not dangerous to others, as the Alfred Hitchcock movies might lead one to believe. Most are quite docile persons who need lots of compassion and understanding.

There is state and federal money available for the establishment of such facilities for the mentally ill. However, the only way it will become a reality for Garrett County is for county government and citizens to push for such funds. Until that happens, many of our residents who desperately need help will remain lost souls, occupying our jail cells, and causing misery to themselves and others. These people need and deserve assistance.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

In today's ever changing health care environment, as a community, let us all pause and recognize all of our family members, friends and neighbors who are nurses.

National Nurses Day is Monday, May 7, and our national theme this year is "Together In Caring." Our nurses make a difference in the lives of the people they "care for" everyday. They continue to demonstrate a unique combination of qualities that include clinical knowledge in an ever widening array of technologies, sound judgment and compassion as the demand for nurses increases every day to meet the complex health care needs of our community and nation.

Let us all recognize our nurses, support them in their profession and recognize them for their uniqueness and the positive impact they have on all of those they care for on their day!

Sincerely,
Janet L. Elliott

To the Editor:

A few weeks ago, I read your editorial column with much interest. The article spoke concerning the great variance in sentencing set for crimes by our court judges. I and others, have noted that, more often than not, child abusers, rapists, drug dealers, and even murderers walk out of our court rooms with lighter sentences than those who stole something. Tis a sick court system, and society who places more value on possessions than on human lives! One only has to read this very paper week after week, to see this is true.

It is interesting to note how some individuals get the "book thrown at them," while others walk away time and again, with just a "slap on the wrist," for committing the very same crime! I have seen repeated offenders let out of jail, with a fine and suspended sentence so often, it literally leaves me speechless at times. Others get sent "down the river." Fair? I say "Do the crime — do the time." There should be more mandatory sentencing!

In this day there seems to be no justice. It seems it's who you know, and how much money you have, which determines your destiny within the court system. But one day there will be justice. There will be a judge who will not only see the evidence set before him, but one who knows the hearts of man, and who truly knows the whole truth. He will not be influenced by money, and cannot be intimidated or threatened. He will definitely have mandatory sentencing for all. His name is Jesus, I urge all to vote for him!

Sincerely,
Norma J. Rodeheaver

To the Editor:

The week of May 7-11 is National PTA "Teacher Appreciation Week." In conjunction with the National PTA "Teacher Appreciation Week," the National Education Association has selected Tuesday May 8, as TEACHER DAY. This time is set aside to honor America's teachers, the men and women who have devoted their professional lives to children.

We in the Garrett County Teachers Association believe we have many "A+" teachers and much to be proud of in our schools. We also believe we have, and want to continue, a good working relationship with our communities. During the week of May 7-11 we encourage students, parents, and the general public to take a few moments from their hectic schedule to "Thank a Teacher."

We touch the future. We teach.

Sincerely,
Jim Raley, President

The League of Women Voters of Garrett County wishes to thank Commissioners Braskey, Gregg, and Groves for their timely appointment of a county-wide recycling committee. With Earth Day, Earth Week, and Project Earth still fresh in the minds of the public, it is important that we all act now to protect our environment and to implement the three Rs of diverting solid waste from landfill: Reduce, Reuse, and Recycle.

Also, we offer our congratulations to those appointed to the recycling committee: Gary Yoder, Wendell Keaton, Lee Thorne, Perry Petersheim, Janna Naylor, Wendy Bauer, and Brooks Hamilton. The League stands ready to assist you in any way we can.

To the Editor:

Has anybody read the Clean Air Act? Do our Senators know they just voted to destroy the industrial base of the United States and to set our standard of living back to the Dark Ages! Now who profits most from such a vote? The Russians, of course. When Gorby addressed the U.N. in 1988, he stated that it was time for an organization with global powers to enforce environmental laws worldwide. Why would Russia promote such an idea? The reason: Russia can never compete with western know-how. They have brilliant scientists, but because of their culture, they are unable to assimilate the benefits spun-off from technological advances for their general well-being. Right now, they are starving, and desperate, hungry people have been known to go to war to assuage their misery.

So, how best to weaken us? Simple, get us to destroy ourselves! It is a brilliant idea, and led by a groveling President who wants to "hear no evil, see no evil, speak no evil" about his pal, the Gorby Clean Air Act zipped through the Senate!

Why the rush? Why the drumbeat of unproven assertions (among others) that the globe is warming, that all pesticides are harmful, that CFC's are dangerous? Is there a connection between the banning of CFC's and the fact that Dupont's Freon patent ran out? Also "professional" environmentalists don't tell you that currently active volcanoes spew more pollutants into the air daily than all the factories and cars in the world. Yet we've survived.

Sure, we must clean up our environment, but this bill could lead to your neighbor tattling to the EPA that you used your backyard barbecue! Outrageous? Yes, but zealots aren't rational.

Contact your Congressman and demand that he hold "economic impact" hearings on this bill with constituents throughout his Congressional district. The starting results will almost guarantee his "No" vote on this fascist, police-state legislation!

To the Editor:

I would like to comment on the Garrett County Commissioners' statements concerning timber cutting in our state forests. Unfortunately, the commissioners seem to be looking at the forest from only one point of view, that of the timber industry. Multi-use to them and to DNR seems to mean the value that can be gained from selling timber, and let the citizen-user take what's left.

The five-year plan they talk about had no public input or citizen participation to take into account users other than timbering. No one asked the hunters and fishermen, the skiers and hikers, the bird watchers and autumn glory visitors for input. No one asked those of us who live and enjoy the quality of life in Garrett County for our input.

The comparison in the article of a forest to a garden is too simplistic for a complex ecosystem of which the trees are only one part. The forest needs to be renewed by fallen trees, not constantly stripped by clear cutting, which damages the ecosystem.

The short-term benefits to be gained by present timber practices are short sighted. We must look at the long term benefits and uses of our forests to help this county and state. People don't visit Garrett and spend money here to see forest areas that have been abused. The visitors and residents want to see at least some older trees and undisturbed forest areas.

I believe we need to look at our state forests and see if they are being over-cut for purely short-term economic gain. I understand that 75% of timber sale money goes to a DNR discretionary (i.e. slush) fund that neither our elected officials nor the citizens of Maryland have any say-so about. This fund gives DNR an incentive to increase cutting.

I'm afraid that our commissioners are under the same pressure to cut to get their 25% of sales. There is an alternative method of funding the county. The State of Maryland should pay a yearly stipend based upon the acreage of state-owned land within the county and the county should charge users a fee. This would relieve the pressure on cutting timber in areas such as Herrington Manor just to generate income. This would make county government and taxpayers happy, make the recreational users of state forest and park land pay their share, and let the timber industry concentrate on private land. After all, over 90% of the timber cut in Maryland comes from private land.

I hope this letter generates some discussion on the management of our public forests. I hope the Commissioners listen in.

Sincerely yours,
Larry Bruch

To the Editor:

There were many interesting and impressive articles in your paper and the news generally this week. I commend you on the "accolades to George" editorial. He is a worker. Now if we could just get him and a few local people who could be "fireballs" to work in behalf of the "Group Home" for the mentally ill, I'd really believe, almost, in Santa Claus!

The article by Laurie Scott Bulka member of MHAC facts from the Mental Health advisory committee, "Does your child need mental health counseling," was indeed welcome. We desperately need more information and education in Garrett County in mental health.

I was very pleased to read the many intelligent letters to the editor which were so enlightening such as Marshall Stacy, Donna Aspinall, Eileen Schlosnagle, Diane Ray, Hazel Kyle, Jim Railey, Charlotte Mousch, Wayne Wolfe and so many, but Jaime Alvarez was a real go getter and so was the "Diary of An Unborn Child" by M.L. Beckman! I totally share the thought on abortion!

As I read the article by Linda Singer AHA Customer Service, "They've closed the lane again and no one is working — or are they?" I can tell you when so often you see the SH trucks with three to five men standing and talking at their truck, no one is working and often on SH jobs its only the private contractors who have the men hustling to do the job — not always, but too often; and the salt mess is a disgrace!

I don't know whether it was a private contractor or SHA employee on Route 219 near the Information Booth area this week, who used very rude language to me in the long lane of traffic, ill marked for the occasion, but I don't appreciate my tax dollars being paid to someone, who doesn't know or care who and where his pay originates and that's with the taxpayer!

I don't know what all an honorary chairman for the Handicapped's 14th annual Hike & Bike actually does but it got Commissioner Groves picture in a paper! I am all for the Mentally Retarded and Handicapped, but I often wonder if the term "Mentally Ill" could ever be accepted and recognized and someone at least go to our county jail and see come of our mentally ill who have no place else to go to since we have no group home, and no halfway house in Garrett County! Could any of the commissioners bother themselves at all in this greatly needed area? Are they uncomfortable with the subject? This is my opinion.

Thank you,
Mrs. Louise V. Harvey

Gov. Schaefer Speaks Out

CONSERVING WATER MAKES SENSE
FOR THE BAY AND FOR YOUR POCKET BOOK
By Governor William Donald Schaefer

We had a wonderful Earth Day in Maryland — the best in the nation. We planted trees and marsh grasses, helped clean up streams and open areas, and everyone got very interested in how they could help improve our environment.

Now that Earth Day is past, we face the challenge of keeping people interested. Protecting and preserving our environment is not something you do once a year and then forget. We need the help of every Marylander, everyday, if we are going to reach the goals we talked about on Earth Day.

Water conservation is a good example of the problem we face and how all of us can get involved to help solve it. Each of us can do something about saving water without ever leaving home. We can do something every day. And we don't have to spend a lot of money.

Why is saving water important? People understand why it is important when we are having a drought. And Marylanders have been great about cooperating during dry weather by not washing their cars or watering their lawns.

But many people do not realize that it is important to save water all the time. Every drop of water we use in our homes increases the load on our water treatment plants. The treated water goes back into the Chesapeake Bay and carries with it some of the chemicals used to clean it up.

The water put back into the bay from treatment plants is free of pollutants. But the process of treating water makes it harder for plants and marine life to survive in it. So if we use less water, treat less water, and preserve the fresh water we have in the bay, then there will be more plants and fish, crabs and oysters.

Many people do not realize just how much water they use in a day around their homes. The average home in Maryland with a family of four uses about 80 gallons of water per day. At this rate we need more than 25 million gallons of fresh water a day in Maryland for drinking, washing and industrial processes.

That is a lot of water. But we can get by with less. The Maryland Department of Natural Resources says that the average family of four can reduce water use as much as 40 percent just by using some simple water savings devices and practices. It is not necessary to give up bathing or anything like that. We only have to stop wasting water.

For just a few dollars you can install new water saving devices on the plumbing fixtures that really make a big difference. One device reduces by about one-third the water used when you take a shower, but it is designed to increase the water pressure so you don't even notice the difference. The device only costs about $13.

Another one cuts back on the amount of water used by toilets and there are other faucet devices that reduce the use of water in kitchens and bathrooms.

If you made these simple changes in your home and did a few other things — like turning off the water when you brush your teeth — a family of four could save about 24 gallons a day and up to $100 a year. We would be able to save as much as 50 million gallons of water a day if all new homes came equipped with these water saving fixtures and if enough existing homes had them installed. The devices are not expensive. There is a project under way right now in Aberdeen to refit 300 low and moderate income homes with these water saving devices. Water consumption will be cut by about 15,000 gallon a day and each home will actually save about $90 a year in water bills.

If this project was expanded to the whole town of Aberdeen and we got half the homes outfitted with water saving devices, we could save 48 million gallons of water a year.

The great thing about water conservation is that it not only helps the environment, we also save money. Home owners save money because their water bills are lower. Local communities save money because their treatment plants process less water and there is no need to keep building new and bigger plants. And the state saves money because the costs of protecting and restoring the Chesapeake Bay will be cut back.

At the Bay Fest coming up soon — May 6 — the Chesapeake Bay Trust in cooperation with Westinghouse Corp. will be handing out 5,000 water saving devices for faucets. Get one and try it. If everyone who gets one of these devices uses it, we can save more than 20 million gallons of water a year. If you are unable to get one of these water saving devices at Bay Fest, you can go to a hardware store and buy an aerator or a water saving shower head. They are not expensive, and each time you use water from a faucet that saves water, you will be keeping alive the good spirit and sense of commitment we all shared on Earth Day.

These are just a few ways of helping. If you have ideas or suggestions about how we can save water in Maryland, I want to hear from you. I hope you will write to me: Governor William Donald Schaefer, The State House, Annapolis, MD 21401.

LWV THE LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS

The public is invited to join the League of Women Voters, along with American Association University Women and the Women's Civic Club, in a wine and cheese social with Senator John N. Bambacus on Friday, May 4, between 7 and 9 p.m.

Senator Bambacus is finishing his second and final term for Western Maryland and will talk about the session and be available for questions.

These groups have opened the home of Martha Jachowski in Sky Valley and anyone wishing to attend may RSV to the League's answering machine (334-3826).

by Kathy Smith, president

"I can't grow anything in this cold climate" "We don't have enough warm weather to have pretty flowers outside." "What can I do to reduce pollution and waste?" "Where can I learn more about a butterfly garden?" "How can I attract more birds to my yard?" "I wish someone would take care of the yard at that public building!" "Where can I get a scholarship for my child who wants to be in forestry?"

These questions and statements are heard not only in Garrett County but everywhere in the world. The interest in the environment has never been as prevalent as it appears today. Because of that interest, a garden club was established locally in 1989 to learn more about the earth's resources and to share this knowledge with friends, schools, and the community.

The earth is precious to many and has been of interest to mankind since the beginning of time. Today, extensive media coverage has made everyone more aware of the numerous problems in the environment. Topics about pollution, waste material, deforestation, and preservation are in the news everywhere. All of these and more are of interest to, and a part of, a garden club. The first garden club in the United States was formed in Georgia in 1891. Garden clubs in Maryland became a state federation in 1926, and a member of the National Council of State Garden Clubs in 1929. All of these are service organizations dedicated to the development of gardening, beautification of the community, and educational exchange of ideas. The Mountain Laurel Garden Club in Garrett County is a small part of the more than three hundred thousand members worldwide.

Horticulture and conservation are two topics that all garden clubs are required to incorporate into their yearly programs. Members of a garden club are able to share with others their love for the natural environment through programs and classes in gardening, landscape design and flower arranging. Discovering what grows best and how to care for it are learned through horticultural programs. Conservation awareness has always been a major concern of garden club members. Protection from pollution and reduction of the misuse of natural resources are ongoing statewide and national projects. Members participate in programs and projects to preserve historic sites and places of importance in the community.

The future will, as always, be in the hands of today's children with the knowledge they gain from adults, Education is an important aspect of a garden club's focus. There are youth garden clubs in some areas, and numerous scholarship programs are available for college students planning a career related to horticulture or conservation.

The Mountain Laurel Garden Club has as its first project the beautification of the Ruth Enlow Library. They will also be working with Dennett Road School in developing a flourishing arboretum. Participation in Earth Day expressed the club's concern for the environment. Drawing upon their many and varied interests, the members of the Mountain Laurel Garden Club will be contributing monthly articles to The Republican. This is a part of our educational goal which we hope will increase the community's awareness about our priceless earth and its valuable resources.

Senior Citizens' Menus

The Area Agency on Aging/Garrett County Community Action Committee announces the Senior Nutrition Program menus for the week of May 7-11 as follows:

May 7 — V-8 juice, marcaroni and cheese, (hot dogs or ham; opt.), beets, white bread, and apple crisp.

May 8 — Purple plums, cup potato soup, ham salad on rye, sliced tomatoes on lettuce bed, and chocolate chip cookie.

May 9 — Cole slaw with carrots, barbequed chicken, boiled new potatoes, corn bread, and ice cream with peach sauce.

May 10 — Orange juice, spinach salad, spaghetti with meat sauce, garlic toast, and lime sherbet.

May 11 — Fish, baked potato with melted cheese, mixed vegetables, oat bread, and Jello with fruit cocktail.

Milk, coffee, and tea are served with all meals.

"Eating Together" sites that operate five days per week will be following the menu as is. Those that operate only two or three days per week have the option of choosing menus within the same week.

On occasion, a site may opt to make a substitution in the menu. Senior citizens who wish to eat at one of the "Eating Together" sites are asked to call the individual site to check the menu for the day and to make reservations.

Telephone numbers of individual sites are as follows: Flowery Vale Senior Center, Accident, 826-8824; Bull's Restaurant, Bloomington, 359-3035; Finzel Fire Hall, Finzel, 689-8388; Old Mill Grill, Friendsville, 746-5414; Old Mill Restaurant, Gorman, 334-4865; Casselman Restaurant, Grantsville, 895-5092; Jennings Community, Jennings, 245-4204; Kitzmiller Community Building, Kitzmiller, 453-3445; Oakland Senior Center, Oakland, 334-3399; and Swanton Community Building, Swanton, 387-9191.

Man Charged With Failure To Make Court Appearance

An Oakland man was arrested on the strength of two bench warrants charging him with failure to appear in court, according to reports from the Garrett County Sheriff's Department.

William Dale Mahaffey, 35, was arrested last Thursday and charged with failure to appear in court on April 24 to answer charges of possession of untaxed alcoholic beverages. Deputy C.C. Feller served the arrest warrant. Mahaffey was later released on $7,500 bond.

In an unrelated case, Wayne Golliday, 28, no address given, was arrested April 25 on the strength of five bench warrants charging him with failure to appear in the District Court of Maryland. The warrants were issued from both Garrett and Allegany counties. He was served an additional warrant charging him with uttering a bad check and theft. Deputy Feller served the arrest warrants. Golliday was later released on $4,500 bond.

In a separate case, Robert Lee Stark, 25, Oakland, was arrested Friday on the strength of three bench warrants charging him with failure to appear in court April 12. According to the arresting officer, Deputy R.P. Shaffer, he was picked up in Allegany County. Stark is incarcerated in the Garrett County Jail in lieu of $2,500, 10 percent cash, bond.

Charles Edward Stepp Jr., 31, Friendsville, was arrested last Thursday on a warrant charging him with possession with intent to distribute marijuana. The arrest stemmed from an investigation conducted by the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force. Stepp was later released on $1,000 bond.

Alvin Timothy Schrock, 36, an inmate in the Garrett County Jail, was arrested April 25 on the strength of a parole violation retake warrant issued by the Maryland Division of Parole and Probation. Det./Sgt. D.W. Tucker served the warrant. He was returned to the state penitentiary where he was previously serving a prison sentence.

RT. 219 WRECK — A wreck occurred last Friday afternoon on Rt. 219 near the Oakland Super Valu. Pauline Lewis, 69, Friendsville, was northbound in a Plymouth Reliant when she attempted to make a left hand turn. Robert Shultzaberger, 30, Deer Park, was driving a Datsun Stanza south on Rt. 219 and took evasive action by skidding and steering to the right. The two cars collided in the southbound lane. Southern Garrett Rescue Squad responded and Lewis and Shultzaberger, along with passengers in Shultzaberger's vehicle were transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where they were all treated and released. Tfc. Paul R. Brown, Maryland State Police, investigated, and charges were issued against drivers of both vehicles. See story for more complete details.

Robert Erwin McRobie, 34, Deer Park, was arrested April 24 on a warrant charging him with assault and battery. Deputy Feller served the arrest warrant. McRobie was later released on $300 bond.

Anthony Orlando Calvert, 24, Kingwood, W.Va., was arrested on three warrants charging him with 10 counts of uttering bad checks. He allegedly passed the checks in 1985. Detective P.J. Kelly served the arrest warrants. Calvert was later released on $100 bond.

Robert Walker McCracken, 39, McHenry, was arrested Monday on the strength of a bench warrant charging him with failure to appear in District Court April 24 to answer bad check charges. He was also charged with violation of probation. Chief Deputy H.S. Tichnell served the arrest warrant. McCracken was later released on $100 bond.

Brenda Lee Hutzell, 37, Meyersdale, Pa., was arrested April 25 on the strength of two bench warrants charging her with failure to appear in District Court April 24 to answer bad check charges. She was later released on an unsecured bond.

David Dale Thomas Jr., 27, Frostburg, was arrested Monday after a routine traffic stop and charged with possession of a controlled dangerous substance. Deputy J.D. Murphy made the arrest along Route 40. Thomas was later released on his own recognizance.

Shevin B. Kuperman, 24, Frostburg, was arrested Saturday on two warrants charging him with disturbing the peace, disorderly manner and indecent exposure. According to the arresting officer, Deputy C.P. Nolan, the charges stemmed from an incident that took place earlier that day at Pizzeria Uno, McHenry. Kuperman was later released on his own recognizance.

Terry Luther Wilson, 21, Oakland, was arrested Sunday on a warrant charging him with disturbing the peace and disorderly conduct. Charges stemmed from an alleged incident that took place the day before at the Highview Apartments, near Oakland. Deputy R.L. Sines made the arrest. Wilson was later released on his own recognizance.

Anna Artbutos Donahue, 29, Oakland, was arrested Sunday on a warrant charging her with disturbing the peace and disorderly conduct. According to the arresting officer, Deputy C.C. Feller, these charges also stemmed from an incident that allegedly occurred Saturday at the Highview Apartments. Donahue was later released on her own recognizance.

Carl David Ratliff Jr., 21, Mountain Lake Park, was arrested Saturday and charged with driving while intoxicated. Deputy C.C Feller made the arrest along Route 219 South. Ratliff was not taken into police custody.

FOOD SERVICE ASSOCIATION OFFICERS INSTALLED — The Garrett County Food Service Association, composed of cafeteria workers for the Board of Education, recently installed officers for 1990-91 at the organization's annual banquet, held this year at Northern Middle School. Pictured left to right above are: Richard Buckingham, food services director for the Board of Education; Mamie Reckart, treasurer; Wanda Tabler, secretary; Mary DeWitt, president elect; Gary Yoder, Bruce Carline, and Tim Baker, who represented Governor Schaefer's office and conducted the installation; and Delegate George Edwards.

GCC MAY ART SHOW will feature works by Robyn Price, art instructor at Allegany Community College, Cumberland, with an opening reception in the Garrett Community College Bausch & Lomb Art Gallery to be held Friday, May 11, at 7:30 p.m. The show will continue through the month of May and is open Monday, Wednesday and Friday, between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m., and Tuesday and Thursday, between 12 noon and 9 p.m. Price is near completion of a master's degree in art education and has served as coordinator of fine arts for ACC's Center for Continuing Education. She has also taught art courses for continuing education, the Allegany Arts Council, Humpty Dumpty Learning Center and Cumberland YMCA. She has worked as an artist for Stage Left Productions, creating set designs for the musical "Pippin." Recently, she served as an invited panelist for the Maryland State Art Council's regional meetings in which she addressed the topic of the State of the Arts in Maryland and Censorship, according to Ron Skidmore, GCC's gallery coordinator. Pictured above is an example of Price's work.

Help For Mentally Ill . . .

Garrett County, as with most rural areas, is often accused of living in the Dark Ages, and in some ways this description is probably accurate. While we are progressive in some areas, there are others in which we seem to lag way behind, both in attitude and in action.

One of these areas is the general attitude toward mental illness and those so afflicted. While Garrett County has done a marvelous job in providing care and opportunity for the physically and mentally handicapped, there has been relatively little done for those many persons whose lives are plagued with mental illness.

We have group homes and various programs for the handicapped, but we have no facilities whatsoever for the mentally ill. The average citizen's perception of mental illness is that of a crazed individual who is dangerous to society, and because of this fear and misconception, the problem is generally ignored. Perhaps, too, it is believed that mental illness is a rare condition, and that there are not enough persons so afflicted to warrant programs and facilities to care for them.

In fact, however, there is a lot of mental illness in our society, right here in Garrett County, and many of these people are not getting the treatment and the assistance that they need. Imprisonment, drug and alcohol addiction, and suicide are among the fates that await these people. The problem of child abuse and dysfunctional families is so apparent here in Garrett County — what do you suppose such negative environments do to the mental stability of the persons involved?

Our Garrett County Health Department has a mental health clinic that is booked solid with clients. They have good counselors and, in general, are doing a good job. But an hour counseling session per week is simply not enough for many who suffer from various forms of mental illness. Group homes are needed for those who require constant care and monitoring.

It is also a fact that the great majority of persons who suffer from mental illness are not dangerous to others, as the Alfred Hitchcock movies might lead one to believe. Most are quite docile persons who need lots of compassion and understanding.

There is state and federal money available for the establishment of such facilities for the mentally ill. However, the only way it will become a reality for Garrett County is for county government and citizens to push for such funds. Until that happens, many of our residents who desperately need help will remain lost souls, occupying our jail cells, and causing misery to themselves and others. These people need and deserve assistance.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

In today's ever changing health care environment, as a community, let us all pause and recognize all of our family members, friends and neighbors who are nurses.

National Nurses Day is Monday, May 7, and our national theme this year is "Together In Caring." Our nurses make a difference in the lives of the people they "care for" everyday. They continue to demonstrate a unique combination of qualities that include clinical knowledge in an ever widening array of technologies, sound judgment and compassion as the demand for nurses increases every day to meet the complex health care needs of our community and nation.

Let us all recognize our nurses, support them in their profession and recognize them for their uniqueness and the positive impact they have on all of those they care for on their day!

Sincerely,
Janet L. Elliott

To the Editor:

A few weeks ago, I read your editorial column with much interest. The article spoke concerning the great variance in sentencing set for crimes by our court judges. I and others, have noted that, more often than not, child abusers, rapists, drug dealers, and even murderers walk out of our court rooms with lighter sentences than those who stole something. Tis a sick court system, and society who places more value on possessions than on human lives! One only has to read this very paper week after week, to see this is true.

It is interesting to note how some individuals get the "book thrown at them," while others walk away time and again, with just a "slap on the wrist," for committing the very same crime! I have seen repeated offenders let out of jail, with a fine and suspended sentence so often, it literally leaves me speechless at times. Others get sent "down the river." Fair? I say "Do the crime — do the time." There should be more mandatory sentencing!

In this day there seems to be no justice. It seems it's who you know, and how much money you have, which determines your destiny within the court system. But one day there will be justice. There will be a judge who will not only see the evidence set before him, but one who knows the hearts of man, and who truly knows the whole truth. He will not be influenced by money, and cannot be intimidated or threatened. He will definitely have mandatory sentencing for all. His name is Jesus, I urge all to vote for him!

Sincerely,
Norma J. Rodeheaver

The week of May 7-11 is National PTA "Teacher Appreciation Week." In conjunction with the National PTA "Teacher Appreciation Week," the National Education Association has selected Tuesday May 8, as TEACHER DAY. This time is set aside to honor America's teachers, the men and women who have devoted their professional lives to children.

We in the Garrett County Teachers Association believe we have many "A+" teachers and much to be proud of in our schools. We also believe we have, and want to continue, a good working relationship with our communities. During the week of May 7-11 we encourage students, parents, and the general public to take a few moments from their hectic schedule to "Thank a Teacher."

We touch the future. We teach.

Sincerely,

The League of Women Voters of Garrett County wishes to thank Commissioners Brasley, Gregg, and Groves for their timely appointment of a countywide recycling committee. With Earth Day, Earth Week, and Project Earth still fresh in the minds of the public, it is important that we all act now to protect our environment and to implement the three Rs of diverting solid waste from landfill: Reduce, Reuse, and Recycle.

Also, we offer our congratulations to those appointed to the recycling committee: Gary Yoder, Wendell Keaton, Lee Thorne, Perry Petersheim, Janna Naylor, Wendy Bauer, and Brooks Hamilton. The League stands ready to assist you in any way we can.

To the Editor:

Has anybody read the Clean Air Act? Do our Senators know they just voted to destroy the industrial base of the United States and to set our standard of living back to the Dark Ages! Now who profits most from such a vote? The Russians, of course. When Gorby addressed the U.N. in 1988, he stated that it was time for an organization with global powers to enforce environmental laws worldwide. Why would Russia promote such an idea? The reason: Russia can never compete with western know-how. They have brilliant scientists, but because of their culture, they are unable to assimilate the benefits spun-off from technological advances for their general well-being. Right now, they are starving, and desperate, hungry people have been known to go to war to assuage their misery.

So, how best to weaken us? Simple, get us to destroy ourselves! It is a brilliant idea, and led by a groveling President who wants to "hear no evil, see no evil, speak no evil" about his pal, the Gorby Clean Air Act zipped through the Senate!

Why the rush? Why the drumbeat of unproven assertions (among others) that the globe is warming, that all pesticides are harmful, that CFC's are dangerous? Is there a connection between the banning of CFC's and the fact that Dupont's Freon patent ran out? Also "professional" environmentalists don't tell you that currently active volcanoes spew more pollutants into the air daily than all the factories and cars in the world. Yet we've survived.

Sure, we must clean up our environment, but this bill could lead to your neighbor tattling to the EPA that you used your backyard barbecue! Outrageous? Yes, but zealots aren't rational.

Contact your Congressman and demand that he hold "economic impact" hearings on this bill with constituents throughout his Congressional district. The starting results will almost guarantee his "No" vote on this fascist, police-state legislation!

To the Editor:

I would like to comment on the Garrett County Commissioners' statements concerning timber cutting in our state forests. Unfortunately, the commissioners seem to be looking at the forest from only one point of view, that of the timber industry. Multi-use to them and to DNR seems to mean the value that can be gained from selling timber, and let the citizen-user take what's left.

The five-year plan they talk about had no public input or citizen participation to take into account users other than timbering. No one asked the hunters and fishermen, the skiers and hikers, the bird watchers and autumn glory visitors for input. No one asked those of us who live and enjoy the quality of life in Garrett County for our input.

The comparison in the article of a forest to a garden is too simplistic for a complex ecosystem of which the trees are only one part. The forest needs to be renewed by fallen trees, not constantly stripped by clear cutting, which damages the ecosystem.

The short-term benefits to be gained by present timber practices are short sighted. We must look at the long term benefits and uses of our forests to help this county and state. People don't visit Garrett and spend money here to see forest areas that have been abused. The visitors and residents want to see at least some older trees and undisturbed forest areas.

I believe we need to look at our state forests and see if they are being over-cut for purely short-term economic gain. I understand that 75% of timber sale money goes to a DNR discretionary (i.e. slush) fund that neither our elected officials nor the citizens of Maryland have any say-so about. This fund gives DNR an incentive to increase cutting.

I'm afraid that our commissioners are under the same pressure to cut to get their 25% of sales. There is an alternative method of funding the county. The State of Maryland should pay a yearly stipend based upon the acreage of state-owned land

CONSERVING WATER MAKES SENSE FOR THE BAY AND FOR YOUR POCKET BOOK
By Governor William Donald Schaefer

We had a wonderful Earth Day in Maryland — the best in the nation. We planted trees and marsh grasses, helped clean up streams and open areas, and everyone got very interested in how they could help improve our environment.

Now that Earth Day is past, we face the challenge of keeping people interested. Protecting and preserving our environment is not something you do once a year and then forget. We need the help of every Marylander, everyday, if we are going to reach the goals we talked about on Earth Day.

Water conservation is a good example of the problem we face and how all of us can get involved to help solve it. Each of us can do something about saving water without ever leaving home. We can do something every day. And we don't have to spend a lot of money.

Why is saving water important? People understand why it is important when we are in a drought. And Marylanders have been great about cooperating during dry weather by not washing their cars or watering their lawns.

But many people do not realize that it is important to save water all the time. Every drop of water we use in our homes increases the load on our water treatment plants. The treated water goes back into the Chesapeake Bay and carries with it some of the chemicals used to clean it up.

The water put back into the bay from treatment plants is free of pollutants. But the process of treating water makes it harder for plants and marine life to survive in it. So if we use less water, treat less water, and preserve the fresh water we have in the bay, then there will be more plants and fish, crabs and oysters.

Many people do not realize just how much water they use in a day around their homes. The average home in Maryland with a family of four uses about 80 gallons of water per day. At this rate we need more than 25 million gallons of fresh water a day in Maryland for drinking, washing and industrial processes.

That is a lot of water. But we can get by with less. The Maryland Department of Natural Resources says that the average family of four can reduce water use as much as 40 percent just by using some simple water savings devices and practices. It is not necessary to give up bathing or anything like that. We only have to stop wasting water.

For just a few dollars you can install new water saving devices on the plumbing fixtures that really make a big difference. One device reduces by about one-third the water used when you take a shower, but it is designed to increase the water pressure so you don't even notice the difference. The device only costs about $13.

Another one cuts back on the amount of water used by toilets and there are other faucet devices that reduce the use of water in kitchens and bathrooms.

If you made these simple changes in your home and did a few other things — like turning off the water when you brush your teeth — a family of four could save about 24 gallons a day and up to $100 a year. We would be able to save as much as 50 million gallons of water a day if all new homes came equipped with these water saving fixtures and if enough existing homes had them installed. The devices are not expensive. There is a project under way right now in Aberdeen to refit 300 low and moderate income homes with these water saving devices. Water consumption will be cut by about 15,000 gallon a day and each home will actually save about $90 a year in water bills.

If this project was expanded to the whole town of Aberdeen and we got half the homes outfitted with water saving devices, we could save 48 million gallons of water a year.

The great thing about water conservation is that it not only helps the environment, we also save money. Home owners save money because their water bills are lower. Local communities save money because their treatment plants process less water and there is no need to keep building new and bigger plants. And the state saves money because the costs of protecting and restoring the Chesapeake Bay will be cut back.

At the Bay Fest coming up soon — May 6 — the Chesapeake Bay Trust in cooperation with Westinghouse Corp. will be handing out 5,000 water saving devices for faucets. Get one and try it. If everyone who gets one of these devices uses it, we can save more than 20 million gallons of water a year. If you are unable to get one of these water saving devices at Bay Fest, you can go to a hardware store and buy an aerator or a water saving shower head. They are not expensive, and each time you use water from a faucet that saves water, you will be keeping alive the good spirit and sense of commitment we all shared on Earth Day.

These are just a few ways of helping. If you have ideas or suggestions about how we can save water in Maryland, I want to hear from you. I hope you will write to me: Governor William Donald Schaefer, The State House, Annapolis, MD 21401.

THE LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS

The public is invited to join the League of Women Voters, along with American Association University Women and the Women's Civic Club, in a wine and cheese social with Senator John N. Bambacus on Friday, May 4, between 7 and 9 p.m.

Senator Bambacus is finishing his second and final term for Western Maryland and will talk about the session and be available for questions.

These groups have opened the home of Martha Jachowski in Sky Valley and anyone wishing to attend may RSV to the League's answering machine (334-3826).

Through the Garden Gate with the Mountain Laurel Garden Club

by Kathy Smith, president

"I can't grow anything in this cold climate" "We don't have enough warm weather to have pretty flowers outside." "What can I do to reduce pollution and waste?" "Where can I learn more about a butterfly garden?" "How can I attract more birds to my yard?" "I wish someone would take care of the yard at that public building!" "Where can I get a scholarship for my child who wants to be in forestry?"

These questions and statements are heard not only in Garrett County but everywhere in the world. The interest in the environment has never been as prevalent as it appears today. Because of that interest, a garden club was established locally in 1989 to learn more about the earth's resources and to share this knowledge with friends, schools, and the community.

Erwin McRobie, 34, , was arrested April 24 on a warrant charging him with assault and battery. Deputy Feller served the arrest warrant. McRobie was later released on $300 bond.

Anthony Orlando Calvert, 24, Kingwood, W.Va., was arrested on three warrants charging him with 10 counts of uttering bad checks. He allegedly passed the checks in 1985. Detective P.J. Kelly served the arrest warrants. Calvert was later released on $100 bond.

Robert Walker McCracken, 39, McHenry, was arrested Monday on the strength of a bench warrant charging him with failure to appear in District Court April 24 to answer bad check charges. He was also charged with violation of probation. Chief Deputy H.S. Tichnell served the arrest warrant. McCracken was later released on $100 bond.

Brenda Lee Hutzell, 37, Meyersdale, Pa., was arrested April 25 on the strength of two bench warrants charging her with failure to appear in District Court April 24 to answer bad check charges. She was later released on an unsecured bond.

David Dale Thomas Jr., 27, Frostburg, was arrested Monday after a routine traffic stop and charged with possession of a controlled dangerous substance. Deputy J.D. Murphy made the arrest along Route 40. Thomas was later released on his own recognizance.

Shevin B. Kuperman, 24, Frostburg, was arrested Saturday on two warrants charging him with disturbing the peace, disorderly manner and indecent exposure. According to the arresting officer, Deputy C.P. Nolan, the charges stemmed from an incident that took place earlier that day at Pizzeria Uno, McHenry. Kuperman was later released on his own recognizance.

Terry Luther Wilson, 21, Oakland, was arrested Sunday on a warrant charging him with disturbing the peace and disorderly conduct. Charges stemmed from an alleged incident that took place the day before at the Highview Apartments, near Oakland. Deputy R.L. Sines made the arrest. Wilson was later released on his own recognizance.

Anna Arthutos Donahue, 29, Oakland, was arrested Sunday on a warrant charging her with disturbing the peace and disorderly conduct. According to the arresting officer, Deputy C.C. Feller, these charges also stemmed from an incident that allegedly occurred Saturday at the Highview Apartments. Donahue was later released on her own recognizance.

Carl David Ratliff Jr., 21, Mountain Lake Park, was arrested Saturday and charged with driving while intoxicated. Deputy C.C Feller made the arrest along Route 219 South. Ratliff was not taken into police custody.

Help For Mentally Ill . . .

Garrett County, as with most rural areas, is often accused of living in the Dark Ages, and in some ways this description is probably accurate. While we are progressive in some areas, there are others in which we seem to lag way behind, both in attitude and in action.

One of these areas is the general attitude toward mental illness and those so afflicted. While Garrett County has done a marvelous job in providing care and opportunity for the physically and mentally handicapped, there has been relatively little done for those many persons whose lives are plagued with mental illness.

We have group homes and various programs for the handicapped, but we have no facilities whatsoever for the mentally ill. The average citizen's perception of mental illness is that of a crazed individual who is dangerous to society, and because of this fear and misconception, the problem is generally ignored. Perhaps, too, it is believed that mental illness is a rare condition, and that there are not enough persons so afflicted to warrant programs and facilities to care for them.

In fact, however, there is a lot of mental illness in our society, right here in Garrett County, and many of these people are not getting the treatment and the assistance that they need. Imprisonment, drug and alcohol addiction, and suicide are among the fates that await these people. The problem of child abuse and dysfunctional families is so apparent here in Garrett County — what do you suppose such negative environments do to the mental stability of the persons involved?

Our Garrett County Health Department has a mental health clinic that is booked solid with clients. They have good counselors and, in general, are doing a good job. But an hour counseling session per week is simply not enough for many who suffer from various forms of mental illness. Group homes are needed for those who require constant care and monitoring.

It is also a fact that the great majority of persons who suffer from mental illness are not dangerous to others, as the Alfred Hitchcock movies might lead one to believe. Most are quite docile persons who need lots of compassion and understanding.

There is state and federal money available for the establishment of such facilities for the mentally ill. However, the only way it will become a reality for Garrett County is for county government and citizens to push for such funds. Until that happens, many of our residents who desperately need help will remain lost souls, occupying our jail cells, and causing misery to themselves and others. These people need and deserve assistance.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

In today's ever changing health care environment, as a community, let us all pause and recognize all of our family members, friends and neighbors who are nurses.

National Nurses Day is Monday, May 7, and our national theme this year is "Together In Caring." Our nurses make a difference in the lives of the people they "care for" everyday. They continue to demonstrate a unique combination of qualities that include clinical knowledge in an ever widening array of technologies, sound judgment and compassion as the demand for nurses increases every day to meet the complex health care needs of our community and nation.

Let us all recognize our nurses, support them in their profession and recognize them for their uniqueness and the positive impact they have on all of those they care for on their day!

Sincerely,
Janet L. Elliott

To the Editor:

A few weeks ago, I read your editorial column with much interest. The article spoke concerning the great variance in sentencing set for crimes by our court judges. I and others, have noted that, more often than not, child abusers, rapists, drug dealers, and even murderers walk out of our court rooms with lighter sentences than those who stole something. Tis a sick court system, and society who places more value on possessions than on human lives! One only has to read this very paper week after week, to see this is true.

It is interesting to note how some individuals get the "book thrown at them," while others walk away time and again, with just a "slap on the wrist," for committing the very same crime! I have seen repeated offenders let out of jail, with a fine and suspended sentence so often, it literally leaves me speechless at times. Others get sent "down the river." Fair? I say "Do the crime — do the time." There should be more mandatory sentencing!

In this day there seems to be no justice. It seems it's who you know, and how much money you have, which determines your destiny within the court system. But one day there will be justice. There will be a judge who will not only see the evidence set before him, but one who knows the hearts of man, and who truly knows the whole truth. He will not be influenced by money, and cannot be intimidated or threatened. He will definitely have mandatory sentencing for all. His name is Jesus, I urge all to vote for him!

Sincerely,
Norma J. Rodeheaver

To the Editor:

The week of May 7-11 is National PTA "Teacher Appreciation Week." In conjunction with the National PTA "Teacher Appreciation Week," the National Education Association has selected Tuesday May 8, as TEACHER DAY. This time is set aside to honor America's teachers, the men and women who have devoted their professional lives to children.

We in the Garrett County Teachers Association believe we have many "A+" teachers and much to be proud of in our schools. We also believe we have, and want to continue, a good working relationship with our communities. During the week of May 7-11 we encourage students, parents, and the general public to take a few moments from their hectic schedule to "Thank a Teacher."

We touch the future. We teach.

Sincerely,
Jim Raley, President

The League of Women Voters of Garrett County wishes to thank Commissioners Braskey, Gregg, and Groves for their timely appointment of a county-wide recycling committee. With Earth Day, Earth Week, and Project Earth still fresh in the minds of the public, it is important that we all act now to protect our environment and to implement the three Rs of diverting solid waste from landfill: Reduce, Reuse, and Recycle.

Also, we offer our congratulations to those appointed to the recycling committee: Gary Yoder, Wendell Keaton, Lee Thorne, Perry Petersheim, Janna Naylor, Wendy Bauer, and Brooks Hamilton. The League stands ready to assist you in any way we can.

To the Editor:

Has anybody read the Clean Air Act? Do our Senators know they just voted to destroy the industrial base of the United States and to set our standard of living back to the Dark Ages! Now who profits most from such a vote? The Russians, of course. When Gorby addressed the U.N. in 1988, he stated that it was time for an organization with global powers to enforce environmental laws worldwide. Why would Russia promote such an idea? The reason: Russia can never compete with western know-how. They have brilliant scientists, but because of their culture, they are unable to assimilate the benefits spun-off from technological advances for their general well-being. Right now, they are starving, and desperate, hungry people have been known to go to war to assuage their misery.

So, how best to weaken us? Simple, get us to destroy ourselves! It is a brilliant idea, and led by a groveling President who wants to "hear no evil, see no evil, speak no evil" about his pal, the Gorby Clean Air Act zipped through the Senate!

Why the rush? Why the drumbeat of unproven assertions (among others) that the globe is warming, that all pesticides are harmful, that CFC's are dangerous? Is there a connection between the banning of CFC's and the fact that Dupont's Freon patent ran out? Also "professional" environmentalists don't tell you that currently active volcanoes spew more pollutants into the air daily than all the factories and cars in the world. Yet we've survived.

Sure, we must clean up our environment, but this bill could lead to your neighbor tattling to the EPA that you used your backyard barbecue! Outrageous? Yes, but zealots aren't rational.

Contact your Congressman and demand that he hold "economic impact" hearings on this bill with constituents throughout his Congressional district. The starting results will almost guarantee his "No" vote on this fascist, police-state legislation!

To the Editor:

I would like to comment on the Garrett County Commissioners' statements concerning timber cutting in our state forests. Unfortunately, the commissioners seem to be looking at the forest from only one point of view, that of the timber industry. Multi-use to them and to DNR seems to mean the value that can be gained from selling timber, and let the citizen-user take what's left.

The five-year plan they talk about had no public input or citizen participation to take into account users other than timbering. No one asked the hunters and fishermen, the skiers and hikers, the bird watchers and autumn glory visitors for input. No one asked those of us who live and enjoy the quality of life in Garrett County for our input.

The comparison in the article of a forest to a garden is too simplistic for a complex ecosystem of which the trees are only one part. The forest needs to be renewed by fallen trees, not constantly stripped by clear cutting, which damages the ecosystem.

The short-term benefits to be gained by present timber practices are short sighted. We must look at the long term benefits and uses of our forests to help this county and state. People don't visit Garrett and spend money here to see forest areas that have been abused. The visitors and residents want to see at least some older trees and undisturbed forest areas.

I believe we need to look at our state forests and see if they are being over-cut for purely short-term economic gain. I understand that 75% of timber sale money goes to a DNR discretionary (i.e. slush) fund that neither our elected officials nor the citizens of Maryland have any say-so about. This fund gives DNR an incentive to increase cutting.

I'm afraid that our commissioners are under the same pressure to cut to get their 25% of sales. There is an alternative method of funding the county. The State of Maryland should pay a yearly stipend based upon the acreage of state-owned land within the county and the county should charge users a fee. This would relieve the pressure on cutting timber in areas such as Herrington Manor just to generate income. This would make county government and taxpayers happy, make the recreational users of state forest and park land pay their share, and let the timber industry concentrate on private land. After all, over 90% of the timber cut in Maryland comes from private land.

I hope this letter generates some discussion on the management of our public forests. I hope the Commissioners listen in.

Sincerely yours,
Larry Bruch

To the Editor:

There were many interesting and impressive articles in your paper and the news generally this week. I commend you on the "accolades to George" editorial. He is a worker. Now if we could just get him and a few local people who could be "fireballs" to work in behalf of the "Group Home" for the mentally ill, I'd really believe, almost, in Santa Claus!

The article by Laurie Scott Bulka member of MHAC facts from the Mental Health advisory committee, "Does your child need mental health counseling," was indeed welcome. We desperately need more information and education in Garrett County in mental health.

I was very pleased to read the many intelligent letters to the editor which were so enlightening such as Marshall Stacy, Donna Aspinall, Eileen Schlosnagle, Diane Ray, Hazel Kyle, Jim Railey, Charlotte Mousch, Wayne Wolfe and so many, but Jaime Alvarez was a real go getter and so was the "Diary of An Unborn Child" by M.L. Beckman! I totally share the thought on abortion!

As I read the article by Linda Singer AHA Customer Service, "They've closed the lane again and no one is working — or are they?" I can tell you when so often you see the SH trucks with three to five men standing and talking at their truck, no one is working and often on SH jobs its only the private contractors who have the men hustling to do the job — not always, but too often; and the salt mess is a disgrace!

I don't know whether it was a private contractor or SHA employee on Route 219 near the Information Booth area this week, who used very rude language to me in the long lane of traffic, ill marked for the occasion, but I don't appreciate my tax dollars being paid to someone, who doesn't know or care who and where his pay originates and that's with the taxpayer!

I don't know what all an honorary chairman for the Handicapped's 14th annual Hike & Bike actually does but it got Commissioner Groves picture in a paper! I am all for the Mentally Retarded and Handicapped, but I often wonder if the term "Mentally Ill" could ever be accepted and recognized and someone at least go to our county jail and see come of our mentally ill who have no place else to go to since we have no group home, and no halfway house in Garrett County! Could any of the commissioners bother themselves at all in this greatly needed area? Are they uncomfortable with the subject? This is my opinion.

Thank you,
Mrs. Louise V. Harvey

Gov. Schaefer Speaks Out

CONSERVING WATER MAKES SENSE FOR THE BAY AND FOR YOUR POCKET BOOK
By Governor William Donald Schaefer

We had a wonderful Earth Day in Maryland — the best in the nation. We planted trees and marsh grasses, helped clean up streams and open areas, and everyone got very interested in how they could help improve our environment.

Now that Earth Day is past, we face the challenge of keeping people interested. Protecting and preserving our environment is not something you do once a year and then forget. We need the help of every Marylander, everyday, if we are going to reach the goals we talked about on Earth Day.

Water conservation is a good example of the problem we face and how all of us can get involved to help solve it. Each of us can do something about saving water without ever leaving home. We can do something every day. And we don't have to spend a lot of money.

Why is saving water important? People understand why it is important when we are having a drought. And Marylanders have been great about cooperating during dry weather by not washing their cars or watering their lawns.

But many people do not realize that it is important to save water all the time. Every drop of water we use in our homes increases the load on our water treatment plants. The treated water goes back into the Chesapeake Bay and carries with it some of the chemicals used to clean it up.

The water put back into the bay from treatment plants is free of pollutants. But the process of treating water makes it harder for plants and marine life to survive in it. So if we use less water, treat less water, and preserve the fresh water we have in the bay, then there will be more plants and fish, crabs and oysters.

Many people do not realize just how much water they use in a day around their homes. The average home in Maryland with a family of four uses about 80 gallons of water per day. At this rate we need more than 25 million gallons of fresh water a day in Maryland for drinking, washing and industrial processes.

That is a lot of water. But we can get by with less. The Maryland Department of Natural Resources says that the average family of four can reduce water use as much as 40 percent just by using some simple water savings devices and practices. It is not necessary to give up bathing or anything like that. We only have to stop wasting water.

For just a few dollars you can install new water saving devices on the plumbing fixtures that really make a big difference. One device reduces by about one-third the water used when you take a shower, but it is designed to increase the water pressure so you don't even notice the difference. The device only costs about $13.

Another one cuts back on the amount of water used by toilets and there are other faucet devices that reduce the use of water in kitchens and bathrooms.

If you made these simple changes in your home and did a few other things — like turning off the water when you brush your teeth — a family of four could save about 24 gallons a day and up to $100 a year. We would be able to save as much as 50 million gallons of water a day if all new homes came equipped with these water saving fixtures and if enough existing homes had them installed. The devices are not expensive. There is a project under way right now in Aberdeen to refit 300 low and moderate income homes with these water saving devices. Water consumption will be cut by about 15,000 gallon a day and each home will actually save about $90 a year in water bills.

If this project was expanded to the whole town of Aberdeen and we got half the homes outfitted with water saving devices, we could save 48 million gallons of water a year.

The great thing about water conservation is that it not only helps the environment, we also save money. Home owners save money because their water bills are lower. Local communities save money because their treatment plants process less water and there is no need to keep building new and bigger plants. And the state saves money because the costs of protecting and restoring the Chesapeake Bay will be cut back.

At the Bay Fest coming up soon — May 6 — the Chesapeake Bay Trust in cooperation with Westinghouse Corp. will be handing out 5,000 water saving devices for faucets. Get one and try it. If everyone who gets one of these devices uses it, we can save more than 20 million gallons of water a year. If you are unable to get one of these water saving devices at Bay Fest, you can go to a hardware store and buy an aerator or a water saving shower head. They are not expensive, and each time you use water from a faucet that saves water, you will be keeping alive the good spirit and sense of commitment we all shared on Earth Day.

These are just a few ways of helping. If you have ideas or suggestions about how we can save water in Maryland, I want to hear from you. I hope you will write to me: Governor William Donald Schaefer, The State House, Annapolis, MD 21401.

by Kathy Smith, president

"I can't grow anything in this cold climate!" "We don't have enough warm weather to have pretty flowers outside." "What can I do to reduce pollution and waste?" "Where can I learn more about a butterfly garden?" "How can I attract more birds to my yard?" "I wish someone would take care of the yard at that public building!" "Where can I get a scholarship for my child who wants to be in forestry?"

These questions and statements are heard not only in Garrett County but everywhere in the world. The interest in the environment has never been as prevalent as it appears today. Because of that interest, a garden club was established locally in 1989 to learn more about the earth's resources and to share this knowledge with friends, schools, and the community.

The earth is precious to many and has been of interest to mankind since the beginning of time. Today, extensive media coverage has made everyone more aware of the numerous problems in the environment. Topics about pollution, waste material, deforestation, and preservation are in the news everywhere. All of these and more are of interest to, and a part of, a garden club. The first garden club in the United States was formed in Georgia in 1891. Garden clubs in Maryland became a state federation in 1926, and a member of the National Council of State Garden Clubs in 1929. All of these are service organizations dedicated to the development of gardening, beautification of the community, and educational exchange of ideas. The Mountain Laurel Garden Club in Garrett County is a small part of the more than three hundred thousand members worldwide.

Horticulture and conservation are two topics that all garden clubs are required to incorporate into their yearly programs. Members of a garden club are able to share with others their love for the natural environment through programs and classes in gardening, landscape design and flower arranging. Discovering what grows best and how to care for it are learned through horticultural programs. Conservation awareness has always been a major concern of garden club members. Protection from pollution and reduction of the misuse of natural resources are ongoing statewide and national projects. Members participate in programs and projects to preserve historic sites and places of importance in the community.

The future will, as always, be in the hands of today's children with the knowledge they gain from adults, Education is an important aspect of a garden club's focus. There are youth garden clubs in some areas, and numerous scholarship programs are available for college students planning a career related to horticulture or conservation.

The Mountain Laurel Garden Club has as its first project the beautification of the Ruth Enlow Library. They will also be working with Dennett Road School in developing a flourishing arboretum. Participation in Earth Day expressed the club's concern for the environment. Drawing upon their many and varied interests, the members of the Mountain Laurel Garden Club will be contributing monthly articles to The Republican. This is a part of our educational goal which we hope will increase the community's awareness about our priceless earth and its valuable resources.

Senior Citizens' Menus

The Area Agency on Aging/Garrett County Community Action Committee announces the Senior Nutrition Program menus for the week of May 7-11 as follows:

May 7 — V-8 juice, marcaroni and cheese, (hot dogs or ham; opt.), beets, white bread, and apple crisp.

May 8 — Purple plums, cup potato soup, ham salad on rye, sliced tomatoes on lettuce bed, and chocolate chip cookie.

May 9 — Cole slaw with carrots, barbequed chicken, boiled new potatoes, corn bread, and ice cream with peach sauce.

May 10 — Orange juice, spinach salad, spaghetti with meat sauce, garlic toast, and lime sherbet.

May 11 — Fish, baked potato with melted cheese, mixed vegetables, oat bread, and Jello with fruit cocktail.

Milk, coffee, and tea are served with all meals.

"Eating Together" sites that operate five days per week will be following the menu as is. Those that operate only two or three days per week have the option of choosing menus within the same week.

On occasion, a site may opt to make a substitution in the menu. Senior citizens who wish to eat at one of the "Eating Together" sites are asked to call the individual site to check the menu for the day and to make reservations.

Telephone numbers of individual sites are as follows: Flowery Vale Senior Center, Accident, 826-8824; Bull's Restaurant, Bloomington, 359-3035; Finzel Fire Hall, Finzel, 689-8388; Old Mill Grill, Friendsville, 746-5414; Old Mill Restaurant, Gorman, 334-4865; Casselman Restaurant, Grantsville, 895-5092; Jennings Community, Jennings, 245-4204; Kitzmiller Community Building, Kitzmiller, 453-3445; Oakland Senior Center, Oakland, 334-3399; and Swanton Community Building, Swanton, 387-9191.

Man Charged With Failure To Make Court Appearance

An Oakland man was arrested on the strength of two bench warrants charging him with failure to appear in court, according to reports from the Garrett County Sheriff's Department.

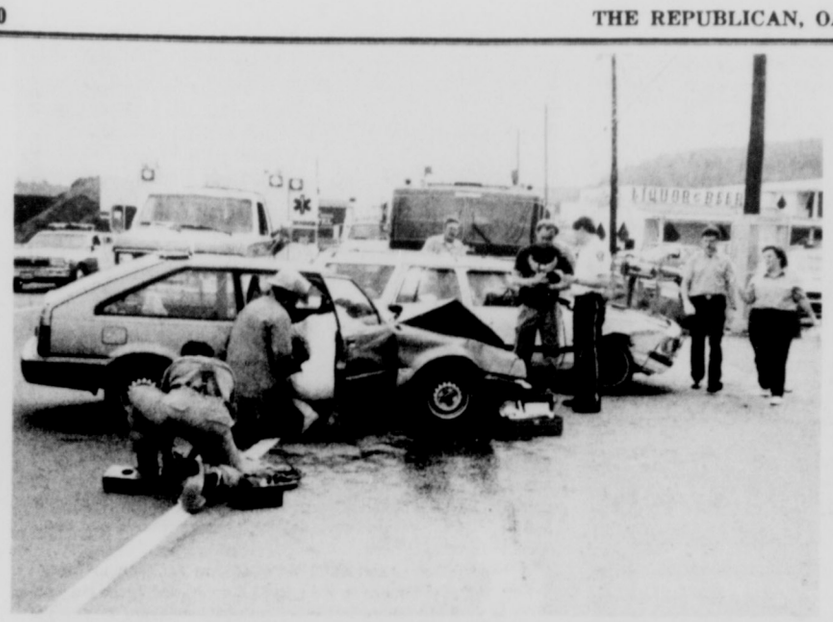
William Dale Mahaffey, 35, was arrested last Thursday and charged with failure to appear in court on April 24 to answer charges of possession of untaxed alcoholic beverages. Deputy C.C. Feller served the arrest warrant. Mahaffey was later released on $7,500 bond.

In an unrelated case, Wayne Golliday, 28, no address given, was arrested April 25 on the strength of five bench warrants charging him with failure to appear in the District Court of Maryland. The warrants were issued from both Garrett and Allegany counties. He was served an additional warrant charging him with uttering a bad check and theft. Deputy Feller served the arrest warrants. Golliday was later released on $4,500 bond.

In a separate case, Robert Lee Stark, 25, Oakland, was arrested Friday on the strength of three bench warrants charging him with failure to appear in court April 12. According to the arresting officer, Deputy R.P. Shaffer, he was picked up in Allegany County. Stark is incarcerated in the Garrett County Jail in lieu of $2,500, 10 percent cash, bond.

Charles Edward Stepp Jr., 31, Friendsville, was arrested last Thursday on a warrant charging him with possession with intent to distribute marijuana. The arrest stemmed from an investigation conducted by the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force. Stepp was later released on $1,000 bond.

Alvin Timothy Schrock, 36, an inmate in the Garrett County Jail, was arrested April 25 on the strength of a parole violation retake warrant issued by the Maryland Division of Parole and Probation. Det./Sgt. D.W. Tucker served the warrant. He was returned to the state penitentiary where he was previously serving a prison sentence.



RT. 219 WRECK — A wreck occurred last Friday afternoon on Rt. 219 near the Oakland Super Valu. Pauline Lewis, 69, Friendsville, was northbound in a Plymouth Reliant when she attempted to make a left hand turn. Robert Shultzaberger, 30, Deer Park, was driving a Datsun Stanza south on Rt. 219 and took evasive action by skidding and steering to the right. The two cars collided in the southbound lane. Southern Garrett Rescue Squad responded and Lewis and Shultzaberger, along with passengers in Shultzaberger's vehicle were transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where they were all treated and released. Tfc. Paul R. Brown, Maryland State Police, investigated, and charges were issued against drivers of both vehicles. See story for more complete details.

Robert Erwin McRobie, 34, Deer Park, was arrested April 24 on a warrant charging him with assault and battery. Deputy Feller served the arrest warrant. McRobie was later released on $300 bond.

Anthony Orlando Calvert, 24, Kingwood, W.Va., was arrested on three warrants charging him with 10 counts of uttering bad checks. He allegedly passed the checks in 1985. Detective P.J. Kelly served the arrest warrants. Calvert was later released on $100 bond.

Robert Walker McCracken, 39, McHenry, was arrested Monday on the strength of a bench warrant charging him with failure to appear in District Court April 24 to answer bad check charges. He was also charged with violation of probation. Chief Deputy H.S. Tichnell served the arrest warrant. McCracken was later released on $100 bond.

Brenda Lee Hutzell, 37, Meyersdale, Pa., was arrested April 25 on the strength of two bench warrants charging her with failure to appear in District Court April 24 to answer bad check charges. She was later released on an unsecured bond.

David Dale Thomas Jr., 27, Frostburg, was arrested Monday after a routine traffic stop and charged with possession of a controlled dangerous substance. Deputy J.D. Murphy made the arrest along Route 40. Thomas was later released on his own recognizance.

Shevin B. Kuperman, 24, Frostburg, was arrested Saturday on two warrants charging him with disturbing the peace, disorderly manner and indecent exposure. According to the arresting officer, Deputy C.P. Nolan, the charges stemmed from an incident that took place earlier that day at Pizzeria Uno, McHenry. Kuperman was later released on his own recognizance.

Terry Luther Wilson, 21, Oakland, was arrested Sunday on a warrant charging him with disturbing the peace and disorderly conduct. Charges stemmed from an alleged incident that took place the day before at the Highview Apartments, near Oakland. Deputy R.L. Sines made the arrest. Wilson was later released on his own recognizance.

Anna Artbutos Donahue, 29, Oakland, was arrested Sunday on a warrant charging her with disturbing the peace and disorderly conduct. According to the arresting officer, Deputy C.C. Feller, these charges also stemmed from an incident that allegedly occurred Saturday at the Highview Apartments. Donahue was later released on her own recognizance.

Carl David Ratliff Jr., 21, Mountain Lake Park, was arrested Saturday and charged with driving while intoxicated. Deputy C.C Feller made the arrest along Route 219 South. Ratliff was not taken into police custody.

FOOD SERVICE ASSOCIATION OFFICERS INSTALLED — The Garrett County Food Service Association, composed of cafeteria workers for the Board of Education, recently installed officers for 1990-91 at the organization's annual banquet, held this year at Northern Middle School. Pictured left to right above are: Richard Buckingham, food services director for the Board of Education; Mamie Reckart, treasurer; Wanda Tabler, secretary; Mary DeWitt, president elect; Gary Yoder, Bruce Carline, and Tim Baker, who represented Governor Schaefer's office and conducted the installation; and Delegate George Edwards.

GCC MAY ART SHOW will feature works by Robyn Price, art instructor at Allegany Community College, Cumberland, with an opening reception in the Garrett Community College Bausch & Lomb Art Gallery to be held Friday, May 11, at 7:30 p.m. The show will continue through the month of May and is open Monday, Wednesday and Friday, between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m., and Tuesday and Thursday, between 12 noon and 9 p.m. Price is near completion of a master's degree in art education and has served as coordinator of fine arts for ACC's Center for Continuing Education. She has also taught art courses for continuing education, the Allegany Arts Council, Humpty Dumpty Learning Center and Cumberland YMCA. She has worked as an artist for Stage Left Productions, creating set designs for the musical "Pippin." Recently, she served as an invited panelist for the Maryland State Art Council's regional meetings in which she addressed the topic of the State of the Arts in Maryland and Censorship, according to Ron Skidmore, GCC's gallery coordinator. Pictured above is an example of Price's work.

Two Found Not Guilty Of DWI In District Court

Judge Jack Turney found two persons not guilty of charges of driving while intoxicated during recent trials at Garrett County District Court.

Gary Wayne Cook, 39, was found not guilty of driving while intoxicated.

Laura Lorraine Kisner, 28, was found not guilty of driving while intoxicated.

Mark Edward Whitacre, 21, was found guilty of driving while intoxicated. He was fined $1,000 and sentenced to 12 months in the Garrett County Jail. Judge Turney then suspended six months of the sentence and placed Whitacre on 12 months probation.

Dennis Allen Grove, 38, was found guilty of driving while intoxicated. He was fined $1,000 and sentenced to 12 months in the Garrett County Jail. Judge Turney then suspended all of the sentence except 30 days and placed Grove on 18 months probation.

Michael Alan Williams, 22, was found guilty of driving while under the influence. He was fined $500 and sentenced to 30 days in the Garrett County Jail. Judge Turney then suspended all of the sentence and placed Williams on 12 months probation. He will receive a $300 refund upon completion of DWI school in West Virginia.

Michael David Wolfe, 20, was found guilty of driving while intoxicated. He was fined $500 and sentenced to 30 days in the Garrett County Jail. Judge Turney then suspended the sentence and placed Wolfe on 12 months probation. He will receive a $300 refund upon completion of DWI school.

Ernest Ray Welch, 55, was found guilty of driving while intoxicated. He was fined $500 and sentenced to 60 days in the Garrett County Jail. Judge Turney then suspended the sentence and placed Welch on 18 months probation.

Russell Eugene Upole, 34, was found guilty of driving under the influence. He was fined $500 and sentenced to 30 days in the Garrett County Jail. Judge Turney then suspended the sentence and $300 of the fine and placed Upole on 12 months probation.

Tina Marie Wheeler, 42, was found guilty of driving while intoxicated. She was fined $500 and sentenced to 30 days in the Garrett County Jail. Judge Turney then suspended the sentence and placed Wheeler on 12 months probation. She will receive a $300 refund upon completion of DWI school in West Virginia.

Barry Ray Alexander, 25, was found guilty of driving while intoxicated. He was fined $500 and sentenced to 30 days in the Garrett County Jail. Judge Turney then suspended the sentence and $300 of the fine and placed Alexander on 12 months probation.

John Robert Holliday, 57, was found guilty of driving while intoxicated. He was fined $500 and sentenced to 30 days in the Garrett County Jail. Judge Turney then suspended the sentence and placed Holliday on 12 months probation. He will receive a $300 refund upon completion of DWI school.

Terry Wayne Sharpless, 29, was found guilty of driving while intoxicated. Judge Turney ordered a pre-sentence investigation.

William Orville Nicholson, 44, failed to appear for a charge of driving while intoxicated. Judge Turney issued a bench warrant and bond was preset at $1,000.

Douglas Edward Halterman, 27, failed to appear for a charge of driving while intoxicated. Judge Turney issued a bench warrant and bond was preset at $2,000.

George Frederick Wright Jr., 31, failed to appear for a charge of driving while intoxicated. Judge Turney issued a bench warrant and bond was preset at $500.

Thomas G. Trugillo, 27, failed to appear for a charge of driving while intoxicated. Judge Turney issued a bench warrant and bond was preset at $1,000.

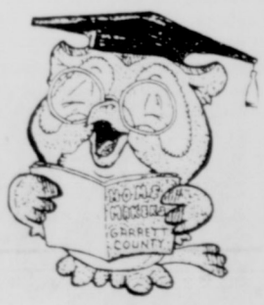
Whoo's News



by Loretta Wotring
Public Relations chairman

The Spring showers did not keep the Bittinger Homemakers from "cleaning-up" last month. On April 20 the women got busy and; armed with garbage bags, work gloves, and raincoats, they took to the ROAD! This club is among two in the county that are participating in the governor's efforts to clean up our state highways.

Now that their homes are in order, the road is cleaned-up, and the May flowers are blooming, the Homemakers will be glad to relax a bit and attend the Annual Homemakers Council Spring Meeting. It is scheduled for May 7, 7:30 p.m., at Garrett Community College and is in conjunction with the National Extension Homemakers Week — May 6-12. The special guest for the evening is Ken Hodgdon, who will give a presentation on "Winter Survival for Animals." Everyone is welcome.

The Maryland Extension Service Programs are open to all citizens without regard to race, color, sex, handicap, religion, age or national origin. The Extension programs are designed to educate the public on topics that affect our everyday living. Some programs are designed to teach skills in leadership and communication.

The Maryland Extension Homemakers Council (MEHC) just received a $50,000 grant from the W.K. Kellogg Foundation to implement a project to strengthen the leadership skills of Maryland residents. This project, called the Family Community Leadership (FCL) project, is designed to teach families skills necessary to increase their involvement in leadership in community affairs and the ability to work with groups. It will provide people with the skills they need to become actively involved in public policy issues. The Foundation's goal is to encourage people to take a greater role in shaping today and tomorrow. The W.K. Kellogg Foundation, established in 1930 to "help people help themselves," has distributed more than $1.2 billion in support of programs in agriculture, education and health. You will be hearing more about this FCL (Family Community Leadership) program in the future from the co-coordinator of FCL, Mrs. Ella F. Smart, who is also the Maryland Cooperative Extension Service Volunteer/leadership coordinator at the University of Maryland System in College Park.

All of our programs, grants, information, and training projects, come from the University of Maryland System-Extension Service. Each year they offer College Days in June to acquaint the Homemaker members with the College System more thoroughly. This year the event will be June 12-14. Everyone who is interested in attending should contact the Extension Office at 334-1990.

TEACHER, ASSISTANT OF THE MONTH — Daniel Taylor and Thelma Humberson were recently named the April Teacher and Assistant of the Month, respectively, at Friendsville Elementary School. Taylor has taught music at Friendsville for six years and also teaches at Red House, Bloomington, and Loch Lynn schools. A graduate of Brigham Young University, he resides in Keyser, W.Va., with his wife, Becky, and daughters, Ariel and Courtney. He is a member of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints. He enjoys participating in church league basketball and also has a recording studio in his home, Taylor Productions, with which he composes and produces commercial jingles and is currently working on an original album of children's music. He is presently sharing his expertise and equipment with his fifth grade students so they can write and record their own musical compositions. Mrs. Humberson has been the media assistant at Friendsville School for 12 years. She attended Morgantown Business College and formerly worked at Matthieson Chemical Corporation, Morgantown. She is a member of the Selbysport United Methodist Church, the Friendsville PTA, and Grove 6043, Woodmen of the World. She was married to the late Jack Humberson and she has three children: Mrs. Gina Freeman, Morgantown, W.Va.; Ivan Jay Humberson, Gaithersburg; and Dana Humberson, Friendsville. She also has two grandchildren. She enjoys traveling, reading, embroidering, and T-shirt painting.

A BLACK BEAR IN OAKLAND? GOBA (Greater Oakland Business Association) President Jack Jones heard that a Garrett County black bear had been spotted on the streets of Oakland. The bear is reportedly to arrive at the corner of Second and Alder Streets on May 26 at 10 a.m. and 2 p.m., but details have not been confirmed. Watch The Republican for details on Broadford Lake/GOBA DAZE.

COVE

There will be holy communion Sunday, May 6, at St. John's Lutheran Church, ELCA, during the worship service at 9 a.m., followed by the Sunday School session.

The time of the worship service for Sunday, May 6, at St. John's Lutheran Church, Missouri Synod, will be changed. The Sunday School session will begin at 9:30 a.m. and the mission festival worship service will begin at 10:30 a.m., followed by a covered dish dinner at noon in the church social room.

The speaker for the occasion will be Dale Busse, a missionary-teacher in New Guinea for 32 years. At the conclusion of his furlough, he plans to begin a new teaching ministry in Nigeria.

Communion services at St. John's in May will be on Mother's Day, May 13, and on Confirmation Sunday, May 27. An Adult Bible Class will be held each Wednesday evening beginning on May 2, at 7:30 p.m. to continue the study of the life of St. Paul. Everyone is invited to attend these sessions.

The Cove Homemakers Club met on Monday evening at the home of Mrs. James Margroff. Mrs. Chester Yoder presented the topic "Children, Drugs and Alcohol." Mrs. Earleena Tressler, Grantsville, county council president, was a guest.

Plans were finalized for the County Spring Meeting at Garrett Community College, McHenry, scheduled for Monday, May 7, at 7:30 p.m. The Cove Homemakers Club will be the hostess club.

Esther Kellner, Accident, joined the club. The next regular monthly meeting will be on Monday, May 28, at the home of Mrs. Betty Moran, McHenry.

Mrs. Sonya Golden will present the topic, "Salt: Too Much or Not Enough," assisted by her daughter, Miss Sherri Golden, a clinical dietician at Sacred Heart Hospital, Cumberland.

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Long and family were among those attending the wedding of Miss Linda Fike, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Fike, Accident, and Earl Meyers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Meyers, Addison, Pa., at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Accident, on Saturday, April 21, and the reception at the Deep Creek Fire Hall.

The Longs were Saturday evening visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Rick Malcomb, Accident. They attended the Ramp Dinner on Sunday at the Gorman Fire Hall and were afternoon visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Ricky Cosner, Mt. Storm, W. Va. A visitor of Mr. and Mrs. Long several times during the week was Pete Martino, Baltimore. Miss Beth Long was a Saturday visitor of Amanda Stone at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. Charlene Stone, McHenry.

Mrs. Richard Bernard, Swanton; Herbert Ringer, Grantsville; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ringer and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Ringer were among those attending the 50th wedding anniversary dinner at the Lutheran Church at Confluence, Pa., honoring Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Richter, Uniontown, Pa., on Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Donald Ringer were guests of the Eastern Garrett County Volunteer Firemen at their annual banquet on Saturday evening at the fire hall at Finzel.

Saturday afternoon visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Richter were Mrs. Iva Maki, Seville, Ohio; Mrs. Eva Richter, Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio; and Dennis Margroff. Vernon was admitted to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, Oakland, late Saturday night where he remains a patient in the intensive care unit. Mrs. Richard Travis, Oakland, and Mrs. Vernon Richter were among those calling at the Lutheran Church at Confluence, Pa., to congratulate Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Richter on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary.

Ryan Charles Needer, 5 day old son of Mr. and Mrs Charles Needer, Timonium, was baptized on Sunday at St. John's Lutheran Church, Missouri Synod, with Rev. Ernest Lindner, officiating. Sponsors were Col. and Mrs. Gary Gilbert, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Miss Lynette Johnson, Cumberland; and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hanft spent Saturday with the Needer family. Accompanied by Mrs. Ruth Needer, Baltimore, they all attended the North-South Shiai American Ju-Jitsu Association tournaments at Towson that day, where Charles Needer and daughters, Teresa and Laurie were participants. Teresa was a first place winner in her group and Laurie was a third place winner in the group. Charles holds a black belt.

Mrs. Lenora Lewis, Baltimore; Mrs. Ruth Needer and the Charles Needer family were overnight guests of the Hanfts, here. Additional Sunday dinner guests were Col. and Mrs. Gary Gilbert and family, Pittsburgh; Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Hanft and daughters, Addison, Pa.; Juanita Johnson and daughter, Scott Jewell, Cumberland; Elizabeth Sabre, Timonium; Karl Oester, Meyersdale, Pa.; Rev. and Mrs. Ernest Lindner and son, Mrs. Esther Margroff and Elmer Hanft.

Supper guests were the Gilberts, Needers, Carrol Hanfts, Juanita Johnson and daughter, Elizabeth Sabre, Scott Jewell and Karl Oester.

The 8th birthday anniversary of Laurie Needer that occurred on Monday, April 23, and the 11th birthday anniversary of Teresa Needer that occurs on Thursday, May 3, were celebrated during the day. Mr. and Mrs. Hanft and Karl Oester were evening visitors of Miss Mildred Wucik and the four of them were visitors of Mrs. Virginia Fike, Confluence, Pa.

Monday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Glover were Mr. and Mrs. Bob Appel, Oldtown. Mr. and Mrs. Glover attended revival meetings several evenings last week at the Oak Grove Church of the Brethren, McHenry. Lawrence has been confined to his home for a few days with the flu. His sister-in-law, Mrs. Newton Griffith, LaVale, remains a patient at Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, in the intensive care unit suffering a broken hip in a fall at her home and is also recuperating from a heart attack.

Corey Yoder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Yoder, was an outpatient at Sacred Heart Hospital, Cumberland, on Monday, where he underwent surgery to have tubes put in his ears.

Westvaco Will Sponsor Solo Piping Event

The Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council has announced that Westvaco, the largest manufacturer in Allegany County and one of the nation's largest producers of fine papers, will sponsor the Solo Piping Competitions for the third annual McHenry Highland Festival at the Garrett County Fairgrounds on Saturday, June 2. Competitions between musicians of the bagpipe have been a major, traditional component of national and international highland festivals for hundreds of years. The Promotion Council noted that, because of Westvaco's support, these competitions will be held for the first time in Garrett County in 1990.

Westvaco's sponsorship of the Solo Piping Competitions is "especially exciting" to the festival committee, because the history of the founding of Westvaco began in Scotland, according to a committee spokesman. John Luke, the father of the founder of Westvaco, began his paper mill at Crook-of-Devon in Scotland after receiving his papermaking certificate in 1826. William G. Luke, his son, came from Scotland in 1852 and helped finance and found what is now the Westvaco Corporation. He served as its first president when the mill opened in 1888. Today, David L. Luke III serves as chairman of the board of Westvaco Corporation, which operates on six of the seven continents of the world, and John A. Luke serves as its chief executive officer.

The Luke mill of the Westvaco Corporation has a strong tradition of commitment to civic and environmental projects in neighboring communities within Maryland and West Virginia, the spokesman said. Besides enabling the Promotion Council to offer the Solo Piping Competitions, Westvaco has also purchased the first $500 patron sponsorship for the 23rd Autumn Glory Festival in October of this year.

"We are grateful for Westvaco's support of these community celebrations and look forward to sharing it with the community in the form of high-quality events that local and visiting families and individuals can enjoy together," said Elizabeth Rees Gilbert, events coodinator for the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council.

"Imagimime" Performs At Garrett County Schools

The mime duo of David Geyer and Denae Chandler will perform "Imagimime" at seven Garrett County schools this week.

The duo will perform 45 minute mime presentations that contain a variety of mime selections with taped musical accompaniment and audience participation.

The program is devised to present a myriad of movement styles, from traditional pantomime to mask mime. Many audience members are included in the duo's onstage antics.

Geyer's background includes training in theatre, dance and education. He has a degree in theatre/dance from Eastern Michigan University, where part of his education included an intense study Laban Effort Training.

Chandler graduated with a Bachelor of Fine Arts degree from Texas Tech University. She has attended the summer session of the National Shakespeare Conservatory of New York and studied at Folger's Theatre in Washington, D.C. In her eight years of performing, she has appeared in commercials, videos and in theatre and dinner productions.

The couple combine to form "Imagimime," and have performed at numerous festivals and childrens festivals in eastern United States, as well as on such television programs as "Evening Magazine" and "Lifestyles."

"Imagimime" performed at Red House and Friendsville Elementary schools on Wednesday. They are performing at Northern Middle School and Broadford Elementary today. Tomorrow they will perform at Dennett Road and Grantsville Elementary. The duo will perform at Accident Elementary at 7 p.m. Friday for students and parents at Family Fun Night.

Funding for "Imagimime" is being provided in part by the Garrett County Arts Council, the Maryland State Arts Council and the PTA's at the seven schools that are hosting performances. Accommodations are being provided by the Will O'the Wisp and a Welcome Basket was furnished by Aunty Emm's Catering Kitchen, located at Plaza Deli.

"Imagimime's" visit to Garrett County was coordinated by the Garrett County Council PTA.

Lakers Win Five Of Seven, Need Three More Wins To Make Playoffs

The Garrett Community College Lakers have had a busy week, playing seven games in the past seven days, winning five of them and improving their overall record to 27-16.

The Lakers will need at least three more wins in their final seven games in order to secure an at-large bid into the regional tournament. They are scheduled to play a single game today against the Frostburg State University jayvees in Frostburg and then they have doubleheaders with Charles, Dundalk, and Essex.

The results from this past week were: an 11-0 win over the FSU jayvees last Thursday at GCC; a split with Hagerstown Junior College on Friday, winning the first game, 13-12, and losing the nightcap, 13-9; a sweep of CCAC-South on Saturday in Pittsburgh, 8-3 and 13-6; another defeat of the FSU jayvees on Tuesday at GCC, 9-6; and a loss to visiting Montgomery-Rockville yesterday, 7-6.

Tony Warner smacked a triple and two doubles, while Chris Miller rapped a two-run homer for the Lakers against the FSU jayvees last Thursday.

Brian Dillon gained the win on the mound, his second in three starts, by firing a three-hitter.

It appeared as though the Lakers would drop both games to Hagerstown on Friday, as they trailed 12-1 in the first game before scoring a dozen runs in the final three innings.

Buddy Leichliter led the Lakers with a homer and two singles, Mick Bayle added a homer and a single, Chris Miller finished with a double and two singles, D.G. Largent recorded a double and a single, and Mike Harbaugh added two singles.

The Lakers led 7-5 going into the seventh inning of the nightcap, but the Hawks erupted for seven runs to take the lead for good.

Leading the Lakers' hitting were Scooter Browning, who homered and hit three singles, Dwayne Woodring, who hit a homer and a single, Leichliter with a double and a single, and Largent and Warner with two singles each.

Mick Bayle, who is one of the nation's leading hitters, paced the Lakers in their sweep of CCAC-South on Saturday, as he collected eight hits, three RBI, and scored three times on the afternoon.

Woodring added six hits and Harbaugh finished with five.

D.G. Largent went the distance on the mound for the Lakers in the first game, while Bucky Riggleman gained the win in the second contest after taking the mound in the fourth and shutting down the CCAC bats.

Bayle continued his hot hitting streak on Tuesday against the FSU jayvees by going four-for-four and driving in four runs.

Bayle entered the game with a .504 average and came within one hit of GCC's single-season record for hits.

FSU took a 6-2 lead in the top of the sixth, but the Lakers scored once in the bottom of the sixth and six times in the seventh to take the lead for good.

Bayle finished with a double and three singles, and Steve Ujcic added a double and a single to lead the Lakers' eight-hit effort.

The game was halted after 7 and one-half innings because of drizzle and fog.

A solo home run in the ninth inning by Montgomery-Rockville's Rick Weber resulted in the Lakers' loss yesterday afternoon.

Rockville took a 1-0 lead in the top of the first inning, but Garrett came back to take a 2-1 lead in the bottom of the inning on a two-run single by Cajetan Stepanic.

Rockville tied it in the second, but GCC took a 4-2 lead in the bottom of the inning on a two-run double by Woodring.

Rockville knotted the score again with two runs in the third and then added single runs in the fourth and sixth to make it 6-4.

The Lakers tied the score in the seventh with a run-producing double by Bayle and a sacrifice fly by Stepanic. Bayle's hit set a new GCC record for single-season base hits with 65, breaking Benny Shreve's mark of 64 set in 1985.

Weber's home run broke the tie and ultimately won the game for Rockville, although the Lakers did threaten in the bottom of the ninth when Bayle reached on an error and Chapman walked. But Rockville pitcher Tony Long recorded the final out.

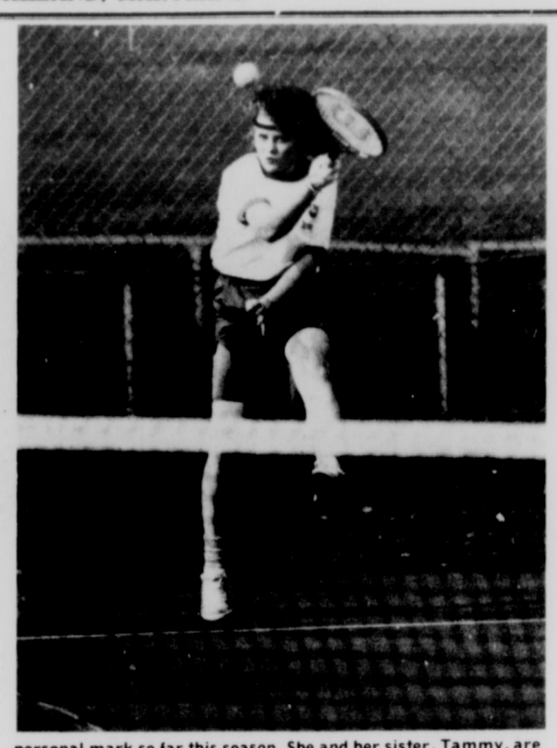
A FOUR-HITTER AGAINST SALISBURY and an eight-hitter against Hyndman were recorded this past week by Audra Speicher for the Northern High girls' softball team. The Huskies, coached by Bob Yunker, won both doubleheaders to improve their season record to 6-3. In girls' tennis action, Pam Brenneman, pictured right, is the Huskies' number one player and holds a 6-1 personal mark so far this season. She and her sister, Tammy, are the defending Bi-County champions in doubles and have a perfect mark (6-0) so far this year. As a team, the Northern girls are 5-1.



Huskies Drop A Pair Before Rolling Rockwood

The Northern Huskies were crushed twice this past week, falling to host Meyersdale last Wednesday, 16-5 and being embarrassed by visiting Mount Savage Tuesday, 19-3, but then came back yesterday to rip Rockwood, 12-0. The results leave Coach Phil Carr's young team with a 2-7 record.

Leading Northern's hitting against Meyersdale were Doug Brenneman and Harrison Foy, who each rapped two singles, and Richard Schofield, who added a two-run single.

Mt. Savage scored in every inning against the Huskies, as Denny Skidmore, Scott DeHaven, and Jay Burkett each smacked home runs. The Indians finished with 13 hits as they recorded their ninth win in 11 games.

Dave Yoder and Chad Sines finished with two hits each for the Huskies.

Jon Houser was the hero for the Huskies against Rockwood yesterday, as he tossed a three-hitter from the mound and drove home four runs with a homer and a single.

The Huskies scored one run in the first inning on an RBI single by Yoder, added two in the second on singles by Rich Schofield and Doug Brenneman and an error by Rockwood, and then recorded six more runs in the third inning.

Harrison Foy hit a two-run single in the third, while Houser stroked an RBI single and Chad Sines added a run-producing double.

Houser rapped a three-run homer in the fourth and the game was called after four and one-half innings because of the 10-run rule.

John Sechler hit two singles for Rockwood.

Nine-Pin Benefit Tourney Concludes At Par-Matt

The nine-pin tournament being held at Par-Matt Lanes for the past several weeks to benefit the Garrett Community College Foundation concluded Sunday afternoon, with the exception of the 300-game roll-off competition, which will be at Par-Matt on Sunday, May 13.

Four more 300 games were rolled Sunday, by Debbie Taylor, Barb Sweitzer, Judy Reams, and Bill Jones, who will join Martha Reams, Paul Viragh, Anna Bishop, and Marolyn Johnson in the post-tourney roll-off.

The top finishers in the women's competition were: Marolyn Johnson, 807; Brenda Jenkins, 779, Debbie Taylor, 769; Martha Reams, 763; and Barb Sweitzer, 759.

Winning the men's event was Paul Viragh with an 844, followed by: Larry Black, 787; Frank Teter, 754; John Sharpless, 751; Carl Ratliff, 726; Bill Jones, 720; Brad Reams, 713; Hunk Cogley, 697; and J.R. Glotfelty, 689.

Fifty-one persons participated in the tournament.

Organizers of the event noted their appreciation to all of the bowlers who participated and to The Republican Newspaper for publishing the results each week of the tournament.

Senior League To Begin Play

The Oakland area Senior Citizen Bowling League will begin its summer league schedule, Thursday, May 10.

Senior citizens who have already registered for the summer league and others who wish to participate are asked to report to Par-Matt Lanes in Oakland at 10 a.m. that date. Bowling will begin following a short organizational meeting.

Northern Girls Record Four Straight Wins

The Northern High girls' softball team upped its season mark to 6-3 with four victories this past week, including a doubleheader sweep of Hyndman, 12-9 and 4-3, and single game victories over Salisbury, 21-4, and Berlin, 16-10.

Northern took a 2-0 lead in the first inning of the first game against Hyndman on a two-run single by Diane Fike. Hyndman knotted the score in the bottom of the first, but the Huskies scored two more in the second on a sacrifice by Tracy Teats and an error.

Hyndman tied it again at 4-4 in the second and then took a 7-4 lead in the third before Northern came back in the fourth for four runs on a bases-loaded walk to Laurie Stanton, a fielder's choice, and another two-run single by Fike.

RBI singles by Audra Speicher, Becky Leight, Stanton, and a run-producing triple by Fike accounted for Northern's final four runs.

Speicher went the distance for the Huskies, yielding eight hits and seven walks.

April Slagle tossed a one-hitter for the Huskies in the second game, a two-run single in the first inning. Renee Sager pitched as well for Hyndman through the first three innings, not allowing a single Northern hit.

However, the Huskies finally scored in the fourth inning on a single by Karen Wilhelm to make it 2-1.

Hyndman added a run in the top of the seventh before the Huskies came back in the bottom of the inning with three runs to win the game. The inning included a pinch-hit triple by Tracie Beitzel, an RBI single by Cara Wachter, and a two-run double by Michele Beeman.

Salisbury held a brief 1-0 lead over the Huskies before being shut down by Audra Speicher on the mound.

The Huskies recorded three runs in the second inning on an RBI single by Slagle, a sacrifice fly by Wachter, and an error.

After an unearned run by Salisbury in the third, the Huskies responded with a run on an RBI single by Slagle.

Salisbury took a 4-3 lead in the fourth on RBI singles by Kris Wengerd and Lana Yommer, but Northern came back for six runs in the fourth to take the lead for good. The inning featured a two-run triple by Teats, a two-run homer by Beitzel, and an RBI single by Slagle.

RBI singles by Stanton, Wilhelm, and Teats yielded three more runs for Northern in the fifth.

They added eight more runs in the sixth on RBI singles by Speicher, Leight, Wilhelm, Slagle, and Beitzel.

Speicher allowed only four hits while the Huskies recorded 18 hits.

The Huskies wasted no time scoring against Berlin, jumping out to a 7-0 lead in the first inning on singles by Michele Beeman, Wilhelm, and Beitzel.

Berlin responded with seven runs in the bottom of the inning, however, aided by five Husky errors.

Northern took an 8-7 lead in the second on a single by Teats and added another run in the third on a sacrifice fly by Leight that scored Wachter.

The Huskies added two more runs in the fourth on an error and a single by Wachter.

After a single run by Berlin in the fourth, the Huskies added three scores in the fifth on a ground-out by Wilhelm, a single by Beitzel, and an error.

The Huskies added two insurance runs in the seventh on RBI doubles by Beitzel and Teats.

Berlin came back for two runs in the bottom of the seventh, but it was not enough as Speicher retired the side.

NHS, SHS Track Results Noted

In local track and field action this past week, the Northern High teams placed third in a triangular meet Friday against Beall and Bishop Walsh, and also placed third in another tri-meet at Southern on Tuesday behind Keyser and Southern.

The results of Friday's meet in boys competition was Beall, 75 points; Bishop Walsh, 58; and Northern, 40. In girls' action the final results were: Beall, 110; Bishop Walsh, 59; and Northern, 6.

In the tri-meet in Oakland on Tuesday, the Keyser boys won with 82 points, followed by Southern, 57, and Northern, 32. Girls' results were: Keyser, 92, Southern, 76, and Northern, 5.

The highlight for the Northern boys in Friday's meet was a double win by Darren McKenzie in the 100- and 200-meter dashes. Jerry Buckel won the 3,200-meter run.

McKenzie also won the 100- and 200-meter dashes in Tuesday's meet and was on the winning 800-meter relay team.

For Southern, Tonya Shreve won the long jump, triple jump, 200-meter dash, and was on the 400-meter relay team, while Cindy Drefhall won the high jump and was on the winning 1,600-meter relay team. Krystie Browning won the 300 hurdles and was on the winning 400 relay team.

Southern's Dave Wildesen won the long jump and was on the winning 400-meter relay team. Brett Glotfelty won the discus.

The Southern teams will compete in the Potomac Valley Conference championships today at Hampshire.

In a four-team meet this past week against Keyser, Petersburg, and Union, the Southern boys and girls placed second with 72 and one half points and 86 and one-half points, respectively.

Keyser won both the boys and girls competition, while the Petersburg teams placed third and Union teams were fourth.

Jim Pysell won the 200-meter dash for the Rams, while the Southern 400 and 800 relay teams were also victorious.

Tonya Shreve was a triple winner, capturing the 200-meter dash, long jump, and high jump. Krystie Browning won the 300 hurdles.

Husky Lifters Finish Second In Bench Press

The third annual Northern Garrett Bench Press Contest was held recently at Northern High School, involving youth from five area high schools.

Meyersdale High won the competition, despite the fact that the Northern Huskies won more first places. Northern placed second, followed by Allegany, Southern, and Beall.

Among those placing first in their respective weight divisions were: Jason Smith, 125-pound, Jamie Boyce, 135-pound, Jason Moore, 155-pound, and Doug Robertson, 195-pound, all of Meyersdale; Chris Jenkins, 145-pound, Darren McKenzie, 165-pound, Jonathon Mickle, 175-pound, Brock Yommer, 185-pound, and Blain Bowser, 210-pound, all of Northern; and John Forrest, unlimited, Allegany.

Runners-up included: Jason Imler, 135-pound, Mike Bittner, 145-pound, Joe Roadman, 155-pound, and Lenny Lottig, 165-pound, all Meyersdale; Mike Stewart, 185-pound, and Brett Glotfelty, unlimited, of Southern; Jason Weaver, 175-pound, and Scott Goss, 195-pound, Allegany; and Todd Vogtman, 125-pound, Beall.

Third places went to: Chris Rowe, 125, Mark Gay, 145, Stacy Fike, 185, and Rick Perando, 195, all of Northern; Randy Livengood, 155, and Ted Sweitzer, 175, of Southern; and Dave Gomer, unlimited, Meyersdale.

Plaques were awarded to the top three lifters in each weight class and a team trophy was presented to the Meyersdale Red Raiders.

The Northern weightlifters noted their appreciation to the sponsors of the tournament.

Wisp Golf Club To Host First Scottish Scramble

The highlands of Western Maryland will be the setting for the first McHenry Highland Festival Scottish Scramble for teams of four golfers with split handicaps (maximum 30) on Sunday, June 3. For a $50 entry fee, each golfer will receive his or her greens fees, cart, and favors that will include a brass ball marker and pitch repair tool commemorating the St. Andrew's Golf Course in Scotland, the home of golf. This festive tournament will begin with a shotgun start at 12:30 p.m. Entries are limited to the first 144 golfers, so all interested golfers should contact the festival headquarters immediately at 301-334-1948.

Over $1,000 in Scottish prizes will be awarded to the individuals on each of the first through fourth place winning teams of four, and to the winners of the Best Drive Closest to Centerline Contest, Nearest the Pin Contest, and Nearest the Pin Second Shot Contest.

The Third Annual McHenry Highland Festival, of which this golf tournament is a part, will take place Saturday, June 2, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Garrett County Fairgrounds in McHenry. Admission is $4 for anyone 12 years and over, and includes Open Athletic Games, Solo Piping Competitions, storytelling, continuous music and dance, sheepdog exhibitions, Highland Marketplace; harp, hammered dulcimer, and bagpipe presentations, Scottish foods, and more. A ceilidh (party), hosted by Wisp Ski Resort, will begin at 8 p.m. on Saturday night in the McHenry House at Wisp Ski Resort (admission $3).

This festival is sponsored and hosted by the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council, Westvaco, and Wisp Ski Resort. It is funded in part by the Garrett County Arts Council, Maryland State Arts Council, Maryland Humanities Council, and the National Endowment for the Humanities. For more information, persons may contact the McHenry Highland Festival, Courthouse, Oakland, 21550; telephone (301) 334-1948.

Rams Edge Keyser, Roll Past Westmar, Then Upset Allegany

The Southern Rams have been playing outstanding baseball of late, winning nine of their last 11 games, including a 4-3 victory over Keyser last Thursday in Oakland, a 9-3 whipping of Westmar on Friday, also on the Rams' diamond, and a 13-3 upset over Allegany yesterday, also in Oakland.

The 10-4 Rams will face a difficult test today when they travel to Elkins (18-2); however, the win over Allegany greatly increased the Rams chances for a spot in the playoffs. Going into the Allegany game they were ranked fifth in the Region I standings and Allegany was third. The top four teams in each region qualify for the playoffs.

A suicide squeeze bunt by Mike Fulmer in the sixth inning scored Garth Glotfelty and gave the Rams their win over Keyser last Thursday.

After Shawn Ryan scored for the Rams in the first inning on an error, Keyser took a 2-1 advantage in the third inning.

Britten Martin tied the score with an RBI single in the fourth that scored John Stem. The Rams took the lead in the fifth when Charlie Plauger came home on a single by Brett Rice.

Keyser tied it again at 3-3 in the sixth with a single run and had the opportunity to take the lead, as they had the bases loaded with no outs. However, the Ram defense turned a double play and Keyser managed to score just one run.

Rice took the win on the mound, yielding eight hits and three walks, while Mangold absorbed the loss.

In jayvee action, Southern whipped Keyser, 10-5.

Kevin Green led the Rams to their win over Westmar on Friday, as he scattered seven hits and struck out seven on the mound, while aiding his own cause with three hits and two RBI.

The win avenged an earlier 1-0 loss to the Wildcats.

Westmar held a 2-0 lead until the bottom of the second when James Bateman rapped a double and Fulmer and Rice followed with RBI singles to tie the score.

Dave Nash broke the tie for Westmar in the fourth when he doubled and came home on a single by Greg Johnson, but the Rams responded by scoring six runs in the bottom of the inning.

The inning featured RBI singles by Rice, Green, and Martin.

Plauger concluded the Rams' scoring with a double in the fifth to score Rice who had singled.

The loss dropped the Wildcats to 5-3-1.

The Rams really needed just one inning to totally dispose of the Allegany Campers yesterday, as they scored 10 runs in the fourth.

Brett Rice earned the win on the mound as he allowed just five hits, struck out three, and walked one to improve his personal mark to 6-2.

The Rams took a 1-0 lead in the first when Garth Glotfelty walked with the bases loaded.

They made it 3-0 in the third when Martin squeezed home Plauger and Glotfelty singled to score Green.

Southern led off the big fourth inning by loading the bases on Allegany errors. Plauger then smacked a three-run triple and came home on a single by Green. Glotfelty's squeeze then scored Green, Rice followed with a three-run triple, and Plauger then singled home Rice.

Allegany recorded its three runs in the fifth inning on a three-run homer by Steve Milburn.

Plauger finished with three hits and four RBI for the Rams, while Green added two singles.

In other action since the PVC tourney, the Southern boys and girls defeated Hampshire on Monday, the boys winning 4-3 and the girls, 5-2.

Bustamonte, Bernard, and Shawn Gregory all won in singles, and Dan Nordeck and Bernard won their doubles match for the deciding point.

Rosenthal, Carlson, and Heatherman were singles winners for the girls and the teams of Alvarez and Rosenthal, and Savage and Heather Hinebaugh won in doubles.

Both Southern teams were defeated yesterday by visiting Allegany, as the boys lost 5-2 and the girls were blanked, 7-0.

Bustamonte won in singles for the Southern boys while the doubles team of Doug Storck and Andy Helbig registered a doubles win.

The Southern boys are 1-9 on the season and the girls are 5-5. They will host Fort Hill this Friday.

Southern Girls Win Conference Tennis Title

The Southern High School girls' tennis team captured the Potomac Valley Conference championships Saturday at Keyser, while the Southern boys placed third in the event.

Nancy Alvarez, Ingrid Carlson, and Beth Heatherman all won individual championships in singles, while Sheila Butt and Lyz Savage won a doubles title. Alvarez and Tammy Rosenthal won a tie-breaker over a Hampshire team to give Southern the overall championship.

Mansford Bustamonte and Rory Bernard won singles titles for the Southern boys.

The Keyser boys team won the PVC title, Petersburg placed second, and Hampshire was fourth behind Southern.

The Hampshire girls were tied with Southern until the tie-breaker win by Alvarez and Rosenthal.

Northern Girls Win A Pair, Boys Lose Two

The Northern High girls' tennis team edged Beall last Thursday in Accident, 4-3, and then rolled over visiting Keyser on Monday, 6-1, giving them a 5-1 record for the season.

The Northern boys did not fare as well, however, as they were blanked by Beall, 7-0, and fell to Keyser, 5-2, to remain winless on the season.

Pam and Tammy Brenneman and Kristin Edwards won their singles matches against Beall and the Brennemans teammed up to win their doubles match.

Against Keyser, the Brennemans won their singles matches plus another doubles match, Valerie Hamilton won in singles, and the teams of Edwards and Kim Green, and Heather Golden and Molly Ramsey won in doubles.

In boys' competition, Kirby King was victorious in singles for the Huskies and Mike Bishoff and Jim Stephens earned a doubles win.

The Huskies are slated to play at Allegany today.

SHS Girls Lose To Tri-Valley, Sweep Uniontown

The Southern High School girls' softball team lost a pair of games to Tri-Valley, Pa., on Saturday, 7-6 and 8-1, but then rebounded for a double win over a triple-A school, Uniontown, on Monday, 12-1 and 15-2.

Coach Jane Wildesen said her team played poorly against Tri-Valley, but played very well against Uniontown, turning four double plays and committing only one error.

Melinda Evick is currently leading the Rams in hitting with a .830 average, followed by Jenny Moats with a .680 mark and Missy DiSimone at .590.

Southern was to have played Rockville yesterday, however results of that game were not reported. They are slated to host Northern in a doubleheader on Monday.

WCI officials explained that spectators and whitewater enthusiasts will recognize the 1990 Savage River canoe/kayak races, being promoted under the title "Maryland InternContinued from Page A-1 ssic II," as being very similar to 1989 World's competition and the 1988 Maryland International Canoe/Kayak Classic that was organized by WCI as a full-scale dress rehearsal for the world championships.

"The Savage River site preparation, the quality of our competition, plus bus and train transportation will be very similar to the 1989 World's," Stemple explained.

He noted that good reviews from Savage River World's competitors and coaches will help ensure the return of the world's best racers to the site of the triumphant '89 championships. Many competitors will be vying for spots on their countries' 1992 Olympic teams.

Organizers expect as many as 25 countries to send teams to the weekend World Cup Slalom event. As in past events, whitewater event tickets for the banks of North America's best competition whitewater river are limited to 6,000 per day for the three day competition. Ticket order forms will be available in early May with price incentives planned for three-day attendance and early purchase.

Information about whitewater race tickets or participation as a competitor, sponsor, concessionaire or vendor can be obtained by calling WCI's McHenry office at (301) 387-4282.

WCI mountain bike racing activities are being developed and coordinated with the Maryland Forest Park and Wildlife Service of the Department of Natural Resources and a Network of local enthusiasts.

"Our first goal in mountain biking, as it was earlier in whitewater racing, is to appeal to the needs and requirements of competitors. Building on our experience in course design, safety, timing and event operation we will point toward bigger, more heavily promoted events," Stemple said.

The mountain bike events scheduled for May and October may be a prelude to a WCI organized Maryland State Championship Series in 1991. Organizers noted that competition mountain biking is currently best organized in the Western United States and that WCI hopes to become a leader in the development of East Coast events with the ultimate goal of hosting both national and international championships in the growing outdoor sport.

Just as the Savage River is uniquely attractive for competition whitewater, Green Ridge State Forest is becoming known as an ideal mountain biking area because of its long, challenging trails, according to WCI.

WCI, in conjunction with the Garrett Sports League of Oakland, will also assume organizational tasks for the "Best of the West" triathlon, an existing Garrett County event. Officials described triathlon as an allied sport, popular with many of the same individuals who have recreational interests in adventure sports.

Volunteers interested in any of WCI's adventure sport activities are welcome to contact WCI to become involved in 1990 events.

Earlier this year, WCI hosted an adventure sports symposium that explored plans to create a Western Maryland push toward an organized adventure sports industry. Symposium speakers spoke about a growing population of individuals and families that are seeking new kinds of recreational activity.

The conclusion of panelists was that Western Maryland has a unique location and natural resources "that could vault the region into destination status for a variety of outdoor adventure sports and activities."

NATIONAL HOSPITAL WEEK, May 6-12, was recognized by the Garrett County Board of Commissioners this week during a proclamation signing. The theme for the week will be "Count On Us To Care," and the citizens of Garrett County are encouraged to pay tribute to the staff of Garrett County Memorial Hospital for its "many contributions of care, programs and service to the community." Shown above, seated, left to right, are Garrett County Commissioners, Ernest J. Gregg Jr., Elwood L. Groves II, and John G. Braskey. Standing, in the same order, are Ben Rosenthal, associate administrator of Garrett County Memorial Hospital; Kathy Greaser, associate director of GCMH foundation; Charlotte Bock, R.N., director of nursing at GCMH; and Larry Beck, GCMH administrator.

Gypsy Moth Suppression Program For County Updated By Task Force

The Garrett County Gypsy Moth Task Force recently completed the sign-up phase of the county-sponsored gypsy moth spraying cost-share program. Seven hundred and seventy-three applications were submitted, totaling 60,861 acres. Except for the acres owned by Pennelec around Deep Creek Lake, the insect growth regulator Dimilin will be used as the spraying agent. Because it is restricted around open water, Penelec's buffer zone will be sprayed with b.t.

Spraying will begin in approximatelly two weeks after the oak leaves have reached the appropriate stage. As gypsy moth caterpillars grow, they go through several molts, Dimilin must be ingested for it to be effective. It works by preventing the caterpillars from completing its next molt — the new skin as well as the old erupts, killing the caterpillar.

Spraying will be done by High Tech Applications, Inc., using several helicopters of different sizes. Care will be taken to avoid sensitive areas like school yards, school bus stops, etc., during high use times. Although it will be impossible to individually notify applicants when their acres will be sprayed, the local radio stations, WXIE (FM 92.1), WMSG (AM 1050), and WFRB (AM 56), FM 105) will air daily updates of those areas scheduled for spraying the next day. WMSG and WXIE will air updates at 6:59 a.m., 11:59 a.m., and 4:20 p.m. WFRB will air update at 6:45 a.m., 12:30 p.m., and 4:20 p.m. An answering machine on the Extension office telephone 334-1988 will provide the same information.

Dimilin and its active ingredient diflubenzuron have been studied extensively since the 1970s. Test have shown no evidence that Dimilin causes birth defects, prenatal difficulties, cancer, genetic changes or other long term health effects. As a spray from the helicopters, it will be applied at the rate of 2 oz/gallon of water/acre of ground. It settles in 15 minutes and dries in about an hour. When the insecticide eventually reaches the soil, it binds with the soil and is quickly broken down by bacteria. Because it is not water soluble, it does not percolate through the soil to reach ground water or run off into streams. Dimilin is not absorbed through the leaves or roots of plants. Any spray that reaches early fruits and vegetables can be washed off. Any that is ingested by mammals is excreted within 72 hours and does not build up in the system. Because of the continued unseasonably warm weather, the gypsy moth caterpillars have already started hatching throughout the county. Spraying cannot begin until the oaks and other forest trees have leaved out enough to hold the spray. In the meantime the caterpillars will be a nuisance. Homeowners can use Dipel (b.t.) or Sevin to protect small fruit and ornamental trees and shrubs that are in leaf or use insecticidal soap to deter the caterpillars. Use caution with Sevin around flowering trees and shrubs to avoid harming bees and other pollinators. Follow label directions. Handling the caterpillars can cause skin irritation, so avoid direct contact. The Extension Office also has material on banding trees to prevent young caterpillars from reaching the upper branches.

Tom O'Neal, consulting forester for High Tech, anticipates that spraying will begin approximately the beginning of the third week in May. He emphasized that the spraying will generally not cause an immediate caterpillar kill. The caterpillar must eat the leaves with the insecticide and will not die until it tries to undergo its next molt. When it dies, it will still adhere to the leaf surface. People should not expect to see large numbers of dead caterpillars on the ground but should look carefully at their trees for dead caterpillars hanging from the leaves. O'Neal also cautioned that those trees that were severely defoliated last year, especially those that produce a second leaf late in the summer, may not have survived.

If you have any questions about the spray program, contact the Garrett County Extension Office at 334-1988.

Spadaro To Be Guest Conductor For SHS Band

Peter J. Spadaro, instrumental music director and Music Department chairman at Central Catholic High School, Pittsburgh, will be the guest conductor for the annual spring concert of the Southern Garrett High School Concert Band, slated for next Thursday, May 10, at the school.

Spadaro holds both bachelor's and master's degrees in music theory from Indiana University, where he was a member of the IU Symphonic Wind Ensemble, the IU Marching Hundred, and the IU Brass Choir. He also performed with the Morehead State Marching and Symphonic bands and has studied theory, composition, orchestration, and arranging with a number of noted professionals.

Most recently he has also been the arranger (brass) for the Ventures All-Girl Drum and Bugle Corps in Ontario, and the arranger for the Steel City Ambassadors Senior Drum and Bugle Corps, Pittsburgh.

He has also been a marching band arranger for numerous universities and high schools, including Southern High School. He is a member of the Pennsylvania Federation of Contest Judges and has served as a judge for dozens of major marching championships.

He is a member of a number of professional music and music educators' organizations.

The Southern High concert will begin at 8 p.m. Ten selections will be presented and there will be a presentation of annual awards to band members, including the John Philip Sousa Award, midway through the program.

Richard Clever is the director of the band.

GCC Board Of Trustees Hears Good News About Student Default Rate

The Board of Trustees for Garrett Community College met Tuesday for the regular April meeting to receive good news on the default rate for guaranteed student loan holders. The meeting had been delayed due to scheduling conflicts.

Dr. Stephen J. Herman, president of GCC, stated that the default rate for students holding guaranteed student loans was 5.8 percent. The college has received a letter of commendation for this low rate from the U.S. Office of Education.

"We are proud of this accomplishment by the financial aid office," said Dr. Herman.

VISITOR

Terry LaRocco, manager with the American Council of Education (ACE) in Washington, D.C., will spend the fall semester at Garrett Community College.

Ms. LaRocco has ten years experience with ACE. She will spend the semester involved in various projects, including teaching German, a fund-raising plan for the GCC Foundation, the College and Me Program and other projects.

She is taking a sabbatical from her employment with ACE and has volunteered her services at GCC.

DEDICATIONS

The college has just completed a series of dedications of rooms. Rooms have been dedicated to Bausch and Lomb, Garrett National Bank, First United National Bank and Trust and Mettiki Coal Corporation.

McDonald's and the Beitzel Corporation will soon have rooms dedicated.

HIRING POLICY

An amendment to GCC's hiring policy was approved by the Board.

"We are adding this amendment so that at every stage along the hiring policy in which cuts are made, employees of the college with like backgrounds are able to compete reasonably. We will not pass people along by courtesy, but whenever a current employee is virtually equal with an applicant, we will hire the current employee," said Dr. Herman.

COURSE SCHEDULE

Summer and fall course schedules have been published and distributed and registration is currently underway for both semesters.

Students are urged to schedule as early as possible for courses for the fall and summer semesters, to avoid problems with courses being filled.

AWARD GIVEN

Rich Schick, plant manager at Bausch and Lomb, will receive the Award for Outstanding Contributions to GCC.

Schick will be presented the award at the commencement ceremonies.

The regular May meeting has been scheduled for May 15.

Eleven Charged

Search and seizure warrants executed at the Charles Garlitz residence led to the confiscation of a black bear rug, a bobcat pelt, a meat grinder, a Pentera 5000 Arctic Cat snowmobile, a mounted bobcat and turkey, parts of fox, pheasant, turkey and rabbit. Four rifles and four shotguns were also seized.

Garlitz reportedly told police he had been illegally dealing in a variety of wildlife species, some of which are endangered, for roughly 30 years.

Warnick's Taxidermy, Grantsville, was the site of another search and seizure that was executed on Sunday. A variety of mounted animals were seized at that time.

According to DNR officials, further charges are pending by the U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service, the West Virginia DNR, and the Pennsylvania Game Commission.

Federal charges are pending on the following persons: Charles Garlitz, 23 counts; William Warnick, 7 counts; Rodney Taylor, two counts; Isaac Smith, 4 counts; Raymond Fallen, one count.

Federal charges are scheduled to be prosecuted by Assistant U.S. Attorney Jamie Bennett, Baltimore.

All state charges will be prosecuted in the District Court of Maryland, Garrett County. Court dates have not yet been set.

A&A FEUD TEAM DONATES WINNINGS — The A&A Realty/Better Homes and Gardens team that participated in the annual Community Feud, sponsored by the Junior Woman's Civic Club, did not win the event, but racked up the most points in the first round of the competition and won $40. The monies were then donated to Hospice of Garrett County. The "Vacation Experts" included, pictured front, Rodger Ware; second row, left to right, a blond Karen Spiker, Cindy Evans, and Bill Weissgerber; and back row, Bob Custer, Terry King (master of ceremonies); and Patty Manown.

Family Trail Days Scheduled At Blackwater

Blackwater Falls State Park and Canaan Valley State Park are sponsoring Family Trail Days, May 4-6, at Blackwater Falls State Park. According to a park spokesman, this event has been planned so that families can enjoy outdoor, nature oriented activities at West Virginia State Parks.

The theme of Family Trail Days this year is "Earth Day 1990." Activities will be highlighted by an eight-mile "walk between the parks" which will begin at 10 a.m. on Saturday, May 5. Walkers will stop for lunch on top of Canaan Mountain and buses will return walkers from Canaan Valley State Park back to Blackwater Falls. Participants completing the walk will receive a special patch.

Other activities will include evening programs, conservation displays and bird walks. A registration fee will cover the patch, lunch, bus service and door prizes.

Blackwater Falls State Park will offer special rates on lodge rooms for Family Trail Days participants. Lodging will also be available at Canaan Valley State Park. Camping is available at both Blackwater Falls and Canaan Valley.

To make reservations or for more information on this event, persons may call toll-free, 1-800-CALL WVA.

Earns Award From Achievement Academy

The United States Achievement Academy has announced that Christopher J. Reckart, a student at Bruceton Mills High School, Bruceton Mills, W.Va., is the recipient of an award in the category of science. He was nominated for the award by Debra A. Hemler, science teacher.

The Academy selects award winners in various categories upon various criteria, including academic performance, interest and aptitude, leadership qualities, responsibility, motivation to learn, citizenship, dependability, and a recommendation from a teacher or other school official. The biographies of all award winners appear in the Academy's yearbook.

Christopher is the son of Peggy J. Gittere, Friendsville, and Douglas R. Reckart, Oakland.

"West Virginians" To Give Concert In Terra Alta

"The West Virginians," a nationally recognized show choir from Alderson-Broaddus College in Philippi, W.Va., will be performing on Friday, June 15, in a 7:30 p.m. concert at the Community Building in Terra Alta.

This group of college musicians has performed for audiences throughout North America in over 1,700 concerts.

"The West Virginians" perform a wide variety of secular and sacred music — Broadway, pop, show, patriotic, country jazz, gospel, contemporary Christian, and classical. Their performances combine dance, colorful costumes, full instrumentation, and humor and worship into a concert.

"The West Virginians" have produced several television specials, three full-length albums and cassettes, and a fessionally created, 30-minute video tape.

"The West Virginians" have been designated "Official Ambassadors for the state of West Virginia" by Governors John D. Rockefeller IV, Arch Moore, and Gaston Caperton. The members are selected each year by audition on the basis of their character and their multi-talented musical abilities. They are under contract ten and a half months a year and spend the equivalent of three and half months traveling each season to represent Alderson-Broaddus College.

In its thirteenth year, the group is under the direction of Clyde Thompson, assistant professor of music at A-B College.

Alderson-Broaddus, an independent liberal arts college, is located in north central West Virginia and is affiliated with the American Baptist Churches/USA. Nearly 800 students from 31 states and nine foreign countries major in 52 different areas of concentration.

Alex Bain and Amy King of "The West Virginians" are student admission representatives. Prospective students and parents will have the opportunity to meet with them.

Proceeds olf the concert will benefit the residents welfare account of Hopemont Hospital, Terra Alta. Advance tickets are now on sale and cost $6.00 for adults and $4.00 for children under 12. Anyone wishing to purchase tickets may call Connie Grove, Volunteer Services at Hopemont Hospital, Ext. 263.

Union Student Attends Hugh O'Brian Seminar

An outstanding sophomore from Union High School was selected to attend the Hugh O'Brian Youth Foundation (HOBY) West Virginia Leadership Seminar.

Mary Ann Jones, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kermit E. Jones, was selected for her potential leadership ability, cooperation with others, sensitivity to the needs of others, the ability to relate to new pursuits and acquaintances, and the desire to learn and share knowledge with others.

Miss Jones, selected in competition open to all sophomores at the school, attended a four-day expense-paid Hugh O'Brian West Virginia Leadership Seminar March 22-25 at Jackson's Mill in Weston, W.Va. The seminar brought together sophomores from 160 schools all over West Virginia to discuss "America's Incentive System" with prominent leaders in business, government, education, the professions and the volunteer sector. The format is one featuring brief introductory segments with an intensive question and answer session following each presentation.

At the state leadership seminar, one boy and one girl were selected to attend the HOBY International Leadership Seminar (ILS) to be held July 27-August 4, at the Twin Cities of St. Paul and Minneapolis, Minnesota. The seminar will be coordinated by the College of St. Thomas.

The event will bring together sophomore representatives from all 50 states, the District of Columbia, and some 20 foreign countries.

The selection process at Union High School was coordinated by Mark Nicol, the school's principal, and Larry Hedrick, counselor. The Kiwanis Club provided financial sponsorship for her attendance at the West Virginia Hugh O'Brian Leadership Seminar.

The beginning of the Hugh O'Brian Youth Foundation came in 1958, after O'Brian, then appearing on TV's Wyatt Earp," spent nine days in Africa with Dr. Albert Schweitzer. O'Brian was so motivated by the experience that he began the foundation the same year. The West Virginia seminar began in 1978.

Miss Jones's other accomplishments for this year include. U.S. Achievement Academy, Who's Who Among American High School Students, Voice of Democracy Winner, and Student of the Month. She is on the Union High Student Council, secretary/treasurer, a member of Beta Club, and a Varsity cheerleader. She is also a member of the Mt. Storm United Methodist Church and 4-H.

AURORA-EGLON NEWS

MAY FELLOWSHIP DAY

Church Women United will meet Friday, May 4, at the Amboy United Methodist Church to observe May Fellowship Day. A covered dish dinner will be served at noon. Women are asked to bring a covered dish and table service; bread and beverage are provided. The theme for the 1 p.m. program will be "Justice With All Your Mite," a service prepared to show the use of the "mite" given in the form of the least coin, an offering received at this May event. All are invited to attend.

AURORA PTO RESUMES

After a winter hiatus and postponement, the Aurora PTO resumed regular meetings on April 17.

Terri McWilliams, first grade instructor, showed a video and spoke about the Write-to-Read program being used in kindergarten and first grade classes and she and the other instructors answered questions concerning the program.

Because no major trips had been planned for the remaining school year, the PTO has requested that the teachers plan annual trips for first, third, and fifth grades next year which will be financed by the PTO. The eighth grade will receive a donation from the PTO for a planned Washington, D.C., trip this year.

Since plans for building are uncertain, the Playground Committee has tabled all decisions for next year.

With 140 pre-sold, there are only three yearbooks left. Volunteering to chair the effort for next year are Lori Durst and Betty Fint, but no committee was formed.

Stacy Fint reported that the Book Fair, held in April, was a success which resulted in both cash for the school and an accumulation of bonus points in the amount of $1,000. A committee to decide on purchases will be composed of Lori Durst, Krista Hayes, and Betty Fint.

The PTO donated $800 to the school for a copier and is making a $500 contribution to the East Preston Scholarship Fund. Lori Durst and Stacy Fint will serve on the selection committee. They will also serve as a nominating committee for the election of officers.

Planning for a Spring Carnival will be done by Teresa Jones, Krista Hayes, Terri McWilliams, Justine Calcamp, Brenda Hartsell, Cynthia Bachtel, Mrs. Cochran, and Renee Mullenax.

Several members of the PTO attended a RESIA meeting held in Buckhannon on April 2. They were Terri McWilliams, who made the report, LaDeana Teets, Sue Corbin, Robin Feather, Betty Bolyard and Judy White.

The attendance banner went to Mrs. Cochran's class. The next PTO meeting will be Wednesday, May 9, at 7 p.m. (because of primary elections). All are encouraged to attend this meeting, when officers for the upcoming year will be elected.

MOTHER'S DAY SMORGASBORD

On Mother's Day, May 13, there will be a smorgasbord served at Mt. Grove Community Building on U.S. 219 south of Silver Lake. Donations for the meal will be $5.00 for adults, $2.50 for children under 12, and tots eating free.

PERSONAL MENTION

Artenis Harsh accompanied his grandson, Gary Flory, to Ohio on April 19 where he visited with his son-in-law and daughter, Merrill and Joy Flory. They returned him to his Eglon home this past weekend and were joined here by Joy's brothers, Leroy and Doris Harsh, and Susan of Bridgewater, Va., and Robert Harsh of Crellin.

Homer Mullenax returned last week to his home at Horse Shoe Run after being a patient in Ruby Memorial Hospital.

Hilbert Allman of Eglon, son of Ruth Readd, has been a patient in Garrett County Memorial Hospital this past week.

Friday afternoon guests of Ron and Avenell Parsons at Eglon were his grandson and family, Brent, Leslie and Brandon Skipper of Bel Air, Md.; Shirley Parsons and Sandra Hauser of Aurora, Mary and Craig Rembold, Eglon; and Carleton Skipper, the baby's grandfather, of Kingwood.

Ellis and Marie Teets of Silver Lake spent the weekend in Virginia where they visited their daughter and family, Merlin and Martha, Micah, Matthew and Marilyn Reish, Harrisonburg.

Saturday visitors with Bruce and Mary Rembold, Shawn and Craig, at Eglon were his parents, Bob and Eileen Rembold, of Pittsburgh.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Vance and their daughters of Harman were Sunday evening guests at the Maple Spring Church where he, as Westmarva District Disaster Coordinator, showed slides of the work in Copahee, S.C., and explained how the Church of the Brethren responds to disasters, both local and those on state or national level.

CORRECTION

Stanley and June Waybright visited with the Gary Golightlys, not the Glotfeltys, as stated in last week's news.

SPRING SMORGASBARD

On Saturday evening, May 12, the annual Spring Smorgasbord will be held at the Aurora United Methodist Memorial Building from 4:30 until 7 p.m. Donations will be $5.00 for adults and $2.00 for children under 12. Everyone is welcome.

Davis Couple Will Celebrate 50th

Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Davis, Tallmadge, Ohio, who will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary on May 9, will be the guests of honor this Saturday, May 5, at a reception in the Fellowship Hall of Tallmadge United Methodist Church. The event has been planned by the couple's children.

Robert Clifton Davis, a native of Bayard, W.Va., and Anna Abigail Harvey, a native of Kitzmiller, were married in Oakland on May 9, 1940. They were residents of Kitzmiller and Vindex for a number of years before moving to Ohio. The couple now reside at 57 North Village View Road, Tallmadge, Ohio, 44278.

Mr. Davis is retired from the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company.

Friend-Fox Couple To Wed

Tina Friend, daughter of Jack and Linda Friend, Oakland, announces her engagement and forthcoming marriage to Charles Francis Fox, son of Sue M. Fox, Fresno, Calif., and the late John J. Fox.

Ms. Friend is a 1982 graduate of Southern High School and is employed as a day shift line cook at The Gathering restaurant at the Wisp Ski Resort, McHenry.

Rabies Clinic

cage or tightly secured box with air holes.

According to Dr. Rex Archer II, Garrett County Health Officer, the vaccination of dogs and cats is one of the most critical measures which should be taken by pet owners in protecting their families and themselves from possible exposure to the rabies virus. This is of particular importance this year, added Dr. Archer, as the number of reported cases of wildlife rabies in Garrett County is on the increase.

During the first four months in 1990, the Environmental Health Services section of the Health Department has documented eleven confirmed cases of rabies in Garrett County racoons and skunks. This compares to a total of six cases during the entire year of 1989.

Garrett County experienced its worst outbreak of wildlife rabies to date in 1984 when 23 animals were confirmed for this disease. Eighteen cases of rabies were also reported during 1983 when the presence of terrestrial wildlife rabies was first noted in the county. This was also the year in which records indicate the largest attendance at the county-sponsored rabies with 2191 dogs and cats being vaccinated in 1983 alone. Since that time attendance at the clinics has declined to an approximate average of 1100 animals receiving vaccinations per year. This fall-off in attendance is of real concern to local Health officials as wildlife rabies has continued to be present in Garrett County and has recently dramatically increased, according to Health Department officials.

Dr. Archer expressed concern with the recent number of dogs and cats which had to be destroyed to protect their owners after they were exposed to rabid animals. In all but a few of the cases investigated thus far in 1990, pets which were exposed to the rabid wild animals are either not vaccinated or their vaccination had expired, necessitating the destruction of those animals. This measure could have easily been prevented had their owners only kept their vaccinations current, according to Archer.

Due to the wide geographical distribution of rabies seen thus far in 1990, no dog or cat being kept in Garrett County can be considered safe from exposure to the disease. Pet owners are highly encouraged to check the expiration date on their pet's rabies certificate to determine the need for re-vaccination at one of the upcoming clinics or at a local veterinarian's office. While Maryland law requires dogs and cats over four months of age to have the required vaccination against rabies, animals at least three months of age can be brought to the clinics and adequately protected by vaccination.

Shuman-Bajus Couple To Wed

Cathrine (Martin) Shuman, Fairmont, W.Va., formerly of Eglon, W.Va., has announced the engagement and forthcoming marriage of her daughter, Kellie Lane, to Thomas George Bajus, son of Helen Bajus, Mannington, W.Va., and the late John H. Bajus.

The bride-to-be is a 1985 graduate of East Fairmont High School and a 1987 graduate of Fairmont State College with an associate degree in early child care and development. She is currently employed by Morgantown Early Learning Facility. She is the daughter of the late Jess R. Shuman, formerly of Fairmont.

Mr. Bajus is a 1982 graduate of North Marion High School. He attended Fairmont State College and is employed by Bausch & Lomb, Inc., Oakland.

The wedding will take place June 2 at 1:30 p.m. at the Grace Lutheran Church, Fairmont. Friends and relatives are invited to attend.

WINNERS COMPETE IN DISTRICT COMPETITION — Winners of the Garrett 4-H Public Speaking Program competed in the district competition recently. The winners were selected at a county contest held in early April. All contestants were named co-champions in the prepared speech category. David Jones was county intermediate champion in extemporaneous and will compete at the district level in this area. Pictured above, front row, left to right, are Adam Herbert and Jennifer Bernard, junior division; and Jessica Teets, senior division. Second row, same order, are: Chris Herbert, senior division; David Jones and Heidi Hauser, intermediate division; and Alice Hevner, Extension agent, 4-H.

Mary J. Gnegy CAC Employee Of The Week

Mary Jane Gnegy, director of Administration and Finance, has been selected as the employee of the week for the Garrett Transportation Program of Community Action.

Mrs. Gnegy has been employed by the agency since 1978. She was first hired as executive secretary and was later promoted to Director of Administration and Finance.

Duane Yoder, executive director for Community Action, said, "The director of Administration and Finance is responsible for overseeing the function of both the administrative and financial aspects of the agency's operation.

"Mary Jane is a long time, loyal employee. She works harder than anyone I know, putting in more hours than required and keeping a constant vigil over the agency's best interest. In an era when we have experienced a 200 percent growth, Mary Jane has proven herself to be a financial manager capable of producing even in adverse circumstances. For instance, it is interesting to know that in the midst of our expansion, Mary Jane was able to pilot her program with less actual staff members than had previously been employed at the programs' initiation. In summary, I suppose the most impressive statement to be made is that during her tenure we have experienced no serious financial management problems and that just about says it all."

Linda Green, transportation director, said, "I both appreciate and admire Mary Jane's abilities. She is a sure anchor for the Transportation Department's financial operatives. Her dedication to a job well done is constant. I have found that I can always depend on Mary for a quick, decisive answer. This is an opportune time to simply say thank you."

When notified of her selection as Employee of the Week, Mrs. Gnegy said, "The workload involved with our department demands accuracy and requires excessive handling of paperwork, therefore, the chore would be impossible without competent staff, and that is exactly what I have. My staff is superior, offering me the backup I need to get the job done."

Mrs. Gnegy is affiliated with the St. John's Lutheran Church at Redhouse. She has served as church organist since 1954. Her hobbies include gardening, sewing and needlework.

She and her husband reside on Gnegy Church Road, where they maintain the family farm. They have one son and two daughters.

Mountain Anthems Mixed Chorus To Perform May 12

Lyme Disease Bacterium Found Throughout Most Of The State

A recent collaborative study involving seven state and federal agencies shows the bacterium that causes Lyme disease has been found virtually throughout the state of Maryland, with the exception of the four westernmost counties and Caroline County on the Eastern Shore.

The study, entitled the "1989 Maryland Deer Tick Survey," involved the efforts of the Maryland Cooperative Extension Service, the Maryland Department of Agriculture (MDA), the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene (DHMH), the Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR), the United States Army Environmental Hygiene Activity-North, the Centers for Disease Control (CDC), and the University of Maryland. Funding for the study was provided by all 23 Maryland counties as they all participated in the study.

Lyme disease is transmitted by the deer tick — a very small arthropod that is hard to detect, unlike the larger and more commonly recognized wood tick. An immature deer tick is so small, it is not much larger than the period at the end of this sentence. Fully engorged (fed) females may be larger than a kernel of corn.

In November 1989 the collaborative study began with the collection of deer ticks to determine their distribution throughout the state. The ticks were collected from deer brought into a designated DNR checking station in each county during the state's deer hunting season. They were then analyzed for the bacterium causing Lyme disease.

Deer ticks were found in each county except Garrett and Washington. They were most abundant in the counties surrounding the Chesapeake Bay, moderately abundant in central Maryland, and least abundant in the western counties.

Lyme disease bacterium was isolated from deer ticks in every county except Garrett, Allegany, Washington, Frederick, and Caroline.

"This shouldn't give Marylanders living in those areas the impression that Lyme disease can't be contracted in those counties," said Adele Wilzack, secretary DHMH. "Although the risk in the western part of the state may be less, residents in those area should take efforts to avoid tick bites," she said.

"The 1989 study will give us crucial baseline information to evaluate future tick surveys and to monitor the spread of the deer tick in Maryland," added Craig S. Oliver, Ph.D., director, Maryland Cooperative Extension Service, who has been involved in the tick survey since its inception.

"This project is an excellent example of many state, county, and federal agencies working together to assess the potential health risks of Lyme disease to people in Maryland. I am pleased with the efforts of all people involved in the cooperative project," said Wayne A. Cawley Jr., Maryland secretary of agriculture.

The deer tick distribution found in the study corresponds to the pattern of reported human cases of Lyme disease in Maryland. The DHMH recorded 138 cases of Lyme disease in Maryland in 1989. Eighteen cases were reported in Baltimore County, followed by Montgomery County with 16, Anne Arundel with 14 and Charles with 13. Kent and Queen Anne's counties each reported 11 cases; Calvert and Prince George's counties each reported eight cases. Seven cases were reported in Cecil County, six in Baltimore City, and four in Harford County. Dorchester, Frederick, Howard, and Saint Mary's counties each reported three cases with Caroline, Talbot, Wicomico, and Worcester counties each reported two cases. One case each was reported in Carroll and Washington counties.

So far, in 1990, about 10 cases of Lyme disease have been reported in Maryland.

Personal protective measures remain the best means of reducing the risk of Lyme disease. These measures include the following:

*Use a tick repellent containing permethrin on clothing as directed on the label.

*Wear light-colored clothing to make detection of ticks easier.

*Tuck pant legs into socks or tape pant legs to top of boots to prevent ticks from getting under clothing.

*Make frequent "tick checks" and remove ticks promptly.

Carefully remove attached ticks with fine tweezers, grasping the tick as close to the skin as possible and pulling firmly. Disinfect the bite with antiseptic and save the tick for future reference. Note the date of the bite on a calendar in case symptoms develop.

Early symptoms of Lyme disease may include a reddish expanding rash at the site of the tick bite and/or flu-like symptoms such as headache, fever, chills, muscle or joint aches. Anyone developing symptoms following a tick bite should consult a physician promptly.

Also perform frequent tick checks on your pets, as dogs and other animals can contract Lyme disease. They cannot, however, pass the disease on to humans.

Lyme disease can be treated with antibiotics. In most cases, early treatment will prevent the development of significant cardiac, neurologic, and arthritic problems.

Most tick bites occur from April to October when immature stages of the deer tick are active. Deer ticks are usually found in woods and brushy areas.

For more information on Lyme disease, interested persons may call a physician, veterinarian, county Extension agent, or local or state public health officials.

"PUTTING IT ALL TOGETHER" — The theme for the annual spring dance and gymnastics revue presented by the students at Brenda's Body Shop is "Putting It All Together." Brenda and Company will present two shows on May 12 and 13 at 3 p.m. at Garrett Community College. The show will feature highlights of the past six recitals. "I relied heavily upon the superintendent's recommendation because he is very learned and has a lot of expertise in this area. I also know that he is very conservative and very fair and felt that he would not have made this recommendation if it were not just.

"In my opinion the transportation department has often gone out of its way to help the bus drivers.

"I recently met with auditors of the Maryland Transportation System and was told that we had one of the best transportation systems in the state. I was told that it has vastly improved since Sines took over the department.

"As superintendent, Dr. Ryscavage is very aware of the legal aspects of this case and I do not feel that he would have made this decision capriciously."

Carol Clark, Beverly Sines-Murphy and Rodney Durst voted to overturn the superintendent's decision.

When asked why she made the decision she did, Clark issued the following statement: "I voted to reinstate Doug as a bus driver because in the appeal that was heard it was stated repeatedly that he was a very competent driver, and the safety of the children was very important to him, and he enforced the safety rules. As far as I'm concerned these are the key issues in driving a bus, competency and safety. I felt that his dismissal was unjustified."

Beverly Sines-Murphy declined to comment on her vote.

Rodney Durst issued the following statement concerning his decision in the case: "Doug Fitzwater's ability to drive and operate a school bus was never in question. He was dismissed because the administration believed that Doug was too strict with the children on his bus and that he lacked the ability to get along with them and their parents.

"After hearing two nights of testimony the administration failed to convince me that this was the case. If the administration believes that a failure to get along with everyone is a good reason to fire an employee then maybe the supervisor of transportation should be the first to go.

"Think about it. For in the way you judge, you will be judged; and by your standard of measure, it will be measured to you. He who has ears to hear let him hear."

The fifth school board member, Charles Teets, removed himself from the proceedings because of possible bias due to his children having been transported on Fitzwater's bus.

ACC INSTRUCTOR FEATURED IN LOCAL ART SHOW — Shown above is one example of the art work of Robyn Price, an art instructor at Allegany Community College, Cumberland, whose works will be on display at Garrett Community College's Bausch & Lomb Gallery throughout the month of May. According to GCC Assistant Professor of Art and gallery co-ordinator, Ron Skidmore, "The show will consist of ideas, themes and media of the past to a recent transition into oils and expressive and emotional themes in art." Price's two most recognized works, "Venus" and "Portrait of Karen," will be part of the exhibition. "Venus" recently appeared in "New Art Examiner," an art periodical. An opening reception is scheduled for Friday, May 11, at 7:30 p.m. The public is invited to attend.

Maryland State Police investigated several breaking and entering and theft cases over the past week.

Carl Mattern, Johnstown, Pa., reported that someone broke into his cottage located on the Mayhew Inn Road and stole household and fishing items.

Tfc. R.T. Wilson is continuing the investigation.

Edison Durst, Accident, reported to Tfc. R.M. Hershberger on April 28 that someone had entered Durst's home and removed two rifles and 18 quarts of canned goods. The theft is believed to have occurred on April 18.

Earl Railey, Red House, reported that someone removed the registration plates, MD No. 867-505, from his truck while the vehicle was parked on his property on April 28. Tfc. R.T. Wilson is continuing the investigation.

LIFE UNDERWRITERS COMMEMORATED — The Garrett County Board of Commissioners proclaimed this week as "Life Insurance Week In Maryland" to celebrate the 100th anniversary of the National Association of Life Underwriters. The proclamation commended the association's members, past and present, for "their tireless work for the good of their profession and their community." The proclamation further stated, "More families own life insurance than any other form of personal protection, and the insurance institution has given generations of Americans a systematic and practical method on which to build individual, family and business economic security." Shown above, left to right, are Commissioner Ernest J. Gregg Jr.; Jeffrey L. Fratz, McHenry, chairman of Health and Employee Benefits Committee of the Cumberland Life Underwriters; Elwood L. Groves II, and John G. Braskey, commissioners.

State School Superintendent Calls For Overhaul Of Public Education

State School Superintendent Joseph L. Shilling last week presented to the State Board of Education his plans to overhaul the state's public education system to "ensure success of all students" and meet the challenges of the 21st century.

Governor William Donald Schaefer has endorsed the "new thinking" contained in the plan. "I think it's great," the governor said. "We'll push as hard as we can."

The plan proposes 10 goals that raise the expectations for achievement by Maryland students. The plan also proposes far-reaching strategies to reach the goals, including extending the school year from 180 days to 200 days and requiring students to attend school until they reach the age of 18 or graduate from high school.

"These goals are ambitious, but they are ones we must meet if we are to provide Maryland's youth with the kind of education they need to become responsible citizens and to enjoy productive lives," Dr. Shilling said.

Board members praised the plan for its focus on student results and bold action to achieve the results. Though no dollar figure was attached to the plan, Board President Wilson Parran said the focus on measurable student outcomes should help gain support for the funds needed to achieve the goals.

The 10 state goals encompass the six national education goals set by the President and the nation's governors following their education summit last September.

The plan also incorporates recommendations of the Sondheim Commission, the Commission for Students At Risk, and other state education studies. The State Board has reviewed several such studies in recent months and last December approved the Maryland School Performance Program to implement the Sondheim Commission recommendations. The Department of Education and local school systems are currently developing performance measures and an accountability system as called for by the Sondheim Commission.

The new plan and strategies unveiled Wednesday seek to ensure that all students are adequately prepared for post-secondary study or meaningful employment. Currently, nearly a quarter of high school students drop out before they graduate, while another quarter pursue general courses of study that do not prepare them for college or skilled employment.

The plan establishes these 10 goals to be reached by the year 2000:

1. 95% of students beginning first grade ready to learn.
2. Maryland ranking in the top five states in student achievement and other measures of success.
3. 100% functional literacy among students in reading, writing, math, and citizenship.
4. 95% of students achieve satisfactory levels on state tests in math, reading, science, social studies, and writing/language arts.
5. 50% of students achieve excellent scores of the state tests.
6. 50% increase in the number of students pursuing post-secondary studies in math, science, and technology.
7. 95% of students achieving a high school diploma prepared for post-secondary education or employment.
8. 90% of dropouts achieve diploma by the age of 25.
9. 100% literacy among citizens.
10. Drug-free schools that are safe environments for learning.

The plan proposes 15 major strategies to achieve the goals, including the longer school year and compulsory attendance until the age of 18 or graduation. Other strategies include:

- Pre-kindergarten for all disadvantaged four-year-olds.
- Mandatory kindergarten attendance for all children.
- Increasing the number of computers to one for every 10 students.
- Flexible school organization to allow students who must work to attend school evenings or Saturdays.
- A new effort to train teachers in math, science and technology to improve student performance in these areas.
- New efforts to improve teaching and school management, including assessments of teachers and administrators.
- New Efforts to involve Parents and communities in education.
- Eqitable funding to increase educational opportunities in low-wealth districts.

At its meeting Wednesday, the State Board endorsed the six national education goals that are encompassed in the state goals. The board will discuss the state plan in greater detail at its meeting May 29-30.

Municipality Update

The town of Deer Park will hold its municipal election on Tuesday, May 8, from 2-7 p.m. at the Town Hall.

Up for election will be the offices of mayor and two councilpersons.

Jack Hinebaugh is up for re-election for the office of mayor. No one has filed to run against Hinebaugh.

No persons have filed for the office councilpersons.

The next meeting of the Mayor and Town Council of Deer Park will be held May 14. The Garrett County Commissioners are scheduled to attend the meeting.

Continuing Ed. Courses Offered

A variety of courses is presently being offered by the Continuing Education Division of Garrett Community College. Persons wishing to register for these none-credit classes or desiring more information about, including fees, may contact the Continuing Education Division at 387-6666, extension 169.

HORSESHOE PITCHING

The Continuing Education Division of Garrett Community College, in cooperation with the Town of Accident, will offer a course in Horseshoe Pitching from Tuesday, May 8, through Thursday, May 24. The class will meet for six sessions from 5:30-7 p.m. and will be held at the Accident Community Park-East on South Street.

The instructor, Cecil Holtschneider, a member of the Accident community, has been very active in the county's horseshoe pitching association and has been a state champion. He also provided assistance to the Town of Accident in the layout of these professional courts.

MEXICAN COOKING

The Continuing Education Division of Garrett Community College will offer a class in Mexican cooking on Monday, May 14, and Wednesday, May 16. The May 14 session will be held from 6-8 p.m. and the May 16 class from 6-9 p.m. Both classes will be held at the McHenry campus cafeteria.

This class will introduce the student to the basics of Mexican cooking and entertaining.

Enrollment is limited and registrations must be made by May 10.

OFFICIAL RECOMMENDATION, MARYLAND DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH & MENTAL HYGIENE

For dogs and cats 3 months old and over:

Puppies and Kittens (under 1 year): Vaccinate 3 months of age and revaccinate after 12 months.

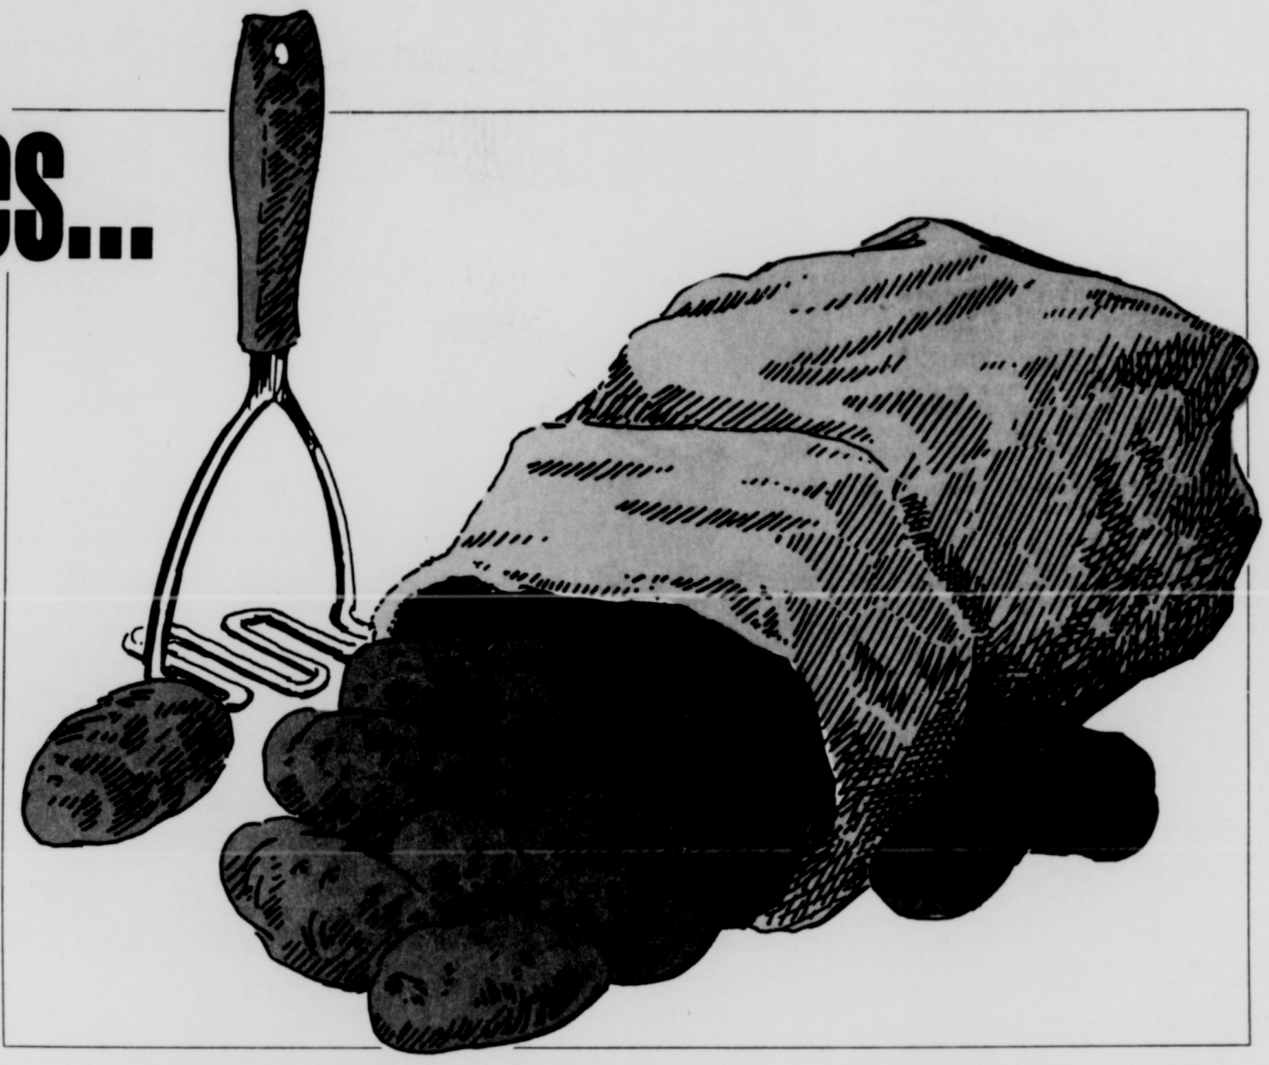
Dogs and Cats (over 1 year): Vaccinate every 3 years after initial series has been completed.

Protect your pet . . . and your family against the threat of rabies. Bring your dogs and cats to a rabies clinic and show your pet the love and protection it deserves. $4 per animal.

Only pets under the control of a responsible person may be brought to the clinic. Dogs should be on a leash. Cats should be in a wire cage or tightly secured box with air holes. No other animals will be vaccinated.

Good Food and how to prepare it!

One Potato, two potatoes...



CREAMY CHEESE POTATOES

6 slices bacon
6 baking potatoes, peeled and cubed (about 4 pounds)
¼ cup water
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon seasoned salt
⅓ cup chopped onion
2 cups (8 ounces) shredded Cheddar cheese
2 cups (8 ounces) diced process American cheese
2 teaspoons all-purpose flour
1 (8 ounce) carton commercial sour cream
½ cup milk
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Place bacon on a rack in a 12x8x2-inch baking dish, cover with paper towels. Microwave at HIGH 5 to 7 minutes or until bacon is crisp. Drain bacon, reserving 1 tablespoon drippings, set bacon aside. Combine potatoes, water, and salt in a large microwave-safe mixing bowl. Cover with heavy-duty plastic wrap, microwave at HIGH 16 to 18 minutes or until tender, stirring every 4 minutes. Remove from microwave, and drain. Sprinkle with seasoned salt, keep warm. Place reserved bacon drippings in a 1-quart glass measuring cup, microwave at HIGH 1 minute or until hot. Stir in onion, microwave at HIGH 1 to 1½ minutes or until onion is transparent. Stir in cheeses and flour, cover with heavy-duty plastic wrap, and microwave at HIGH 3½ to 4 minutes or until cheeses melt, stirring after 2 minutes. Add sour cream, milk, and Worcestershire sauce, stir with a whisk until smooth. Pour over potatoes, tossing gently to coat, cover and microwave at HIGH 1 minute or until thoroughly heated. Transfer to a serving dish, if desired, crumble bacon, and sprinkle over top. Yield: 8 to 10 servings.

CHRISTMAS POTATOES

3 pounds potatoes
2 large onions, thinly sliced
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup butter or margarine
3 tablespoons all-purpose flour
2 cups milk
¾ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon white pepper
½ cup chopped fresh parsley
1 (2-ounce) jar diced pimiento, drained
Fresh parsley sprigs (optional)
Tomato rose (optional)

Peel and cut enough potatoes into ¼-inch slices to measure 8 cups. Combine potato slices, onion, and ½ teaspoon salt in a large Dutch oven, add water to cover. Bring to a boil, cover, reduce heat, and cook 5 minutes. Drain and set aside. Melt butter in a heavy saucepan over low heat, add flour, stirring until smooth. Cook 1 minute, stirring constantly. Gradually add milk, cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture is thickened and bubbly. Stir in ¾ teaspoon salt and next 3 ingredients. Spoon potato mixture into a lightly greased 12x8x2-inch baking dish, pour sauce over potato mixture. Bake at 375° for 40 to 45 minutes. If desired, garnish with fresh parsley and a tomato rose. Yield: 8 servings.

HERB POTATOES

½ cup butter or margarine, melted
2 tablespoons chopped fresh chives
2 tablespoons chopped fresh parsley
¼ teaspoon paprika
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon fines herbs
4½ pounds potatoes, unpeeled and cut into ¼-inch slices
Grated Parmesan cheese (optional)

Combine first 7 ingredients in a large bowl, add potatoes, tossing to coat. Cover and bake at 425° for 1 hour, stirring at 15-minute intervals. Top with Parmesan cheese, if desired. Yield: 12 servings.

BRUNCH FOR A BUNCH

1 pound hot bulk pork sausage
3 cups frozen hash brown potatoes, thawed
½ teaspoon salt
3 cups (12 ounces) shredded Cheddar cheese
½ cup chopped green pepper
12 eggs, beaten
2 cups milk

Cook sausage in a skillet until browned, stirring to crumble, drain. Place hash browns in a lightly greased 13x9x2-inch baking dish, sprinkle with salt. Layer sausage, cheese, and green pepper. Combine eggs and milk, stirring well, pour over green pepper. Bake at 350° for about 50 minutes. Yield: 8 to 10 servings.

CARIBBEAN POTATO SALAD

To make this light and flavorful salad even easier, boil or steam your potatoes ahead of time. Serve it with shrimp and scallop kabobs for a mouthwatering meal everyone will enjoy!

¾-pound potatoes, cut into ½-inch cubes, boiled just until tender, cooled
¾ cup halved cherry tomatoes
1 cup cubed papaya or cantaloupe
½ green bell pepper, sliced into strips
1 celery stalk, sliced
1 green onion, sliced
¼ cup vegetable oil
2 tablespoons each lime juice, and mango chutney, chopped
1 tablespoon white wine vinegar
1 canned jalapeno pepper, minced
Salt to taste

In bowl combine potatoes, tomatoes, papaya, bell pepper, celery and onion. In small bowl combine remaining ingredients except salt. Pour over potato mixture, toss. Season with salt. Chill, serve. Makes 4 servings.

CHEESY HAM POTATO TOPPER

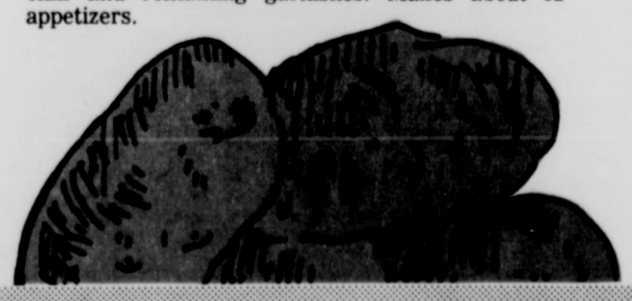
¼ cup chopped onion
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk
1 cup shredded cheddar cheese
1 can (6¾ oz.) chunk ham, undrained, flaked
1 cup cooked broccoli florets
4 hot baked potatoes
Parsley

In medium saucepan, cook onion in butter until tender. Blend in flour, cook stirring constantly, 1 minute. Gradually stir in milk, cook until thickened, stirring frequently. Add cheese, stir until cheese melts. Stir in ham and broccoli, heat thoroughly. Split potatoes, fluff centers. Spoon about ½ cup ham topping over each potato. Garnish with parsley, if desired. Makes 4 servings.

CRISPY POTATO RAFTS WITH CHILI

6 to 7 baking potatoes (4 to 5 inches long)
Vegetable oil
1 can (15 oz.) chili without beans, heated
Sour cream
Shredded Cheddar cheese
Canned sliced ripe olives
Chopped pimiento

Slice each potato lengthwise into ½-inch slices. Brush both sides of each slice well with oil. Arrange on greased baking sheets. Bake in 450°F oven 30 minutes until potatoes are lightly browned. Remove from baking sheet to cool slightly. Top each slice with chili and remaining garnishes. Makes about 32 appetizers.



CHARCOAL POTATOES

6 medium potatoes
½ cup plus tablespoons butter or margarine, softened
3 (.25-ounce) envelopes instant onion soup mix

Scrub potatoes, do not peel. Slice lengthwise into ½-inch slices. Arrange slices of each potato on a square of heavy-duty aluminum foil to make individual bundles. Combine butter and soup mix, mixing well. Divide mixture evenly, and spread on each potato. Fold foil edges over, and wrap securely. Grill over medium-hot coals 50 to 60 minutes, turning once. Yield: 6 servings.

POTATO AND SALAD BAR STIR FRY

Chopped vegetables from the salad bar and pre-cooked meat from the deli make this meal a snap.

¼ cup vegetable oil
1 pound potatoes, cut into 2-inch x ¼-inch sticks
1 cup water
1 tablespoon soy sauce
2 teaspoons sesame oil
1 teaspoon instant chicken bouillon granules
1 teaspoon ground ginger
1 clove garlic, minced
1 pound mixed salad bar vegetables of your choice: broccoli, cauliflower, carrots, mushrooms, baby corn, bell peppers, onions, cherry tomatoes, bean sprouts
½-pound cooked deli turkey or chicken meat, cut into ½-inch cubes

Heat oil on medium-high heat in wok or large skillet; add potatoes, cook, tossing occasionally, about 8 minutes. Add water, soy sauce, sesame oil, bouillon granules, ginger and garlic, cook 1 minute. Add remaining ingredients, bring to boil. Reduce heat to simmer, cover and cook about 5 minutes, stirring occasionally, until potatoes and vegetables are tender. Serve hot. Makes 4 servings.

TEX-MEX POTATO CORN PUDDING

A spicy, microwavable side dish perfect with marinated, grilled chicken breasts.

2 tablespoons butter
¾-pound shredded potatoes (about 2 cups)
2 green onions, sliced
1 cup milk
1 cup whole kernel corn
¼ cup canned mild green chiles, minced
¼ cup drained, marinated dried tomatoes, minced
2 eggs, beaten
1 tablespoon prepared barbecue sauce
½ teaspoon ground coriander
½ teaspoon salt
Cayenne, for dusting pudding top

In medium microwave-safe bowl, melt butter in microwave on HIGH 1½ minutes. Add potatoes and onions, cover with plastic wrap. Cook on HIGH 3 minutes. Mix in remaining ingredients except cayenne. Pour into greased microwave-safe 9-inch pie plate, dust with cayenne, Cook on HIGH 15 minutes until set and firm to the touch. Cut into wedges, serve hot. Makes 4 servings.

COLDS ARE ALWAYS IN SEASON

There's nothing worse than a warm weather cold, just ask the person who has one. A quick change in temperatures can result in a cold that lingers on for weeks and makes you really miserable. And all of this suffering occurs just when spring has sprung and you want to be feeling great.

It's a good idea to remember that just as quickly as it gets warm one day, it may get cold again the next. Don't be too quick to put sweaters into storage. If a cold does cross your path, we can recommend medication to help you feel good as new.

DECISIONS and CHOICES

God chooses to give us life. That is God's decision. How we live it and what we decide to do with it, that is our choice.

God is for us. He loves us. God is on our side. He cares for us. Even though God asks some hard, sometimes incomprehensible things of us, we should trust God's wisdom, power and greatness. We may not always totally understand God's final decisions or the difficult choices we have to face.

Each of us is responsible for his or her own actions. It is important that we make the right decisions and choices. It is a test of deciding and choosing right from wrong. The decisions we make today will ultimately be the choices we will have to live with tomorrow.

Let your relationship with God be your guide. Choose to worship in His house this week.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

THE MURDERER AMONG US

May 6, 1990

Background Scripture: 1 John 3:11-24.
Devotional Reading: Galatians 6:1-10.

The writer of 1 John has gone too far, hasn't he? It is one thing to proclaim, as he does, that "we should love one another." It is no less fitting that he should remind us not to "be like Cain who was of the evil one and murdered his brother" (1 John 3:11,12). Both of those admonitions make us feel rather comfortable, because, as Christians, we subscribe to love and we haven't murdered our brother.

But John goes much too far afield when he says, "Anyone who hates his brother is a murderer, and you know that no murderer has eternal life abiding in him" (3:15). That is a hard passage to swallow. (Not that you and I "hate," mind you; we're too Christian for that.) One can hate quietly, inwardly, or, at worst, with fierce looks and harsh words. Hatred will make the person hated feel badly, but will not necessarily cause him any physical harm. The murderer, on the other hand, commits violent physical injury and takes away that person's life. Surely there is a wide, wide gap between hatred and murder!

SPEAKING IN METAPHORS

The writer of John, of course, is speaking metaphorically in this passage. He knows that there is a gap between hatred and murder. But, he is trying to help us understand that the gap is not nearly so wide as we think. Hatred and murder are inextricably linked and most murders begin with hatred. If there was no hatred in our world, there would be few, if any, murders. If, as Christians, we want to reduce the crime of murder in the world, we must begin by reducing the level of hatred.

John is also trying to help us understand that hate always "murders," even if not physically. You and I know lots of people whose lives have been heavily burdened and even ruined by the hatred that they have experienced from others. Physically their lives are still in tact, but figuratively, psychologically or spiritually they may have been "murdered." It is not true that "sticks and stones may break my bones, but names will never hurt me!"

SELF-INFLICTED WOUNDS

Worst of all, however—and this is the hardest thing for most of us to learn—hate usually "murders" the hater. I have known far too many people who spend their lives engulfed in bitterness because of what others have done or said. Logically, we might say that their anger is justified. Terrible things have been done and said to them and about them. But, by holding on to their bitterness, their resentment, no matter how righteous or logical, they have succeeded only in wounding their own spirits and perhaps killing their own souls. The person who hates is like the person who shoots himself in the foot.

There is not likely to be among our circle of associates a person who has taken the life of another human being. But in John's figurative sense, there is always a murderer in our midst. And often that "murderer" is us.

'Blue Velvet' perversely splendid

By Steven Alan McGaw

In my continuing quest to answer questions sent in by Barbara Smith of Jonesboro, Ind., let me offer that the movie in which James Garner "...was a navy frogman and there was a lot of night scenery where he was blowing up Japanese installations" was, I believe, 1959's Up Periscope. OK?

Blue Velvet (1986)

Since its release, there's no surer way to start an argument among a group of film-going adults than to bring up David Lynch's 1986 ode to weirdness, Blue Velvet. I loved the film, so did a lot of people (one of the year's most critically acclaimed), but few felt lukewarm about the work. Now, with Lynch's brilliant, bizarre series Twin Peaks on the air, I'm moved to urge you to see Blue Velvet, if you haven't. Peaks' Kyle MacLachlan stars as a bland college student, home for the summer, who stumbles into investigating a baffling mystery that involves a psychotic drug dealer (an electrifying performance by Dennis Hopper), a kinky nightclub singer (Isabella Rossellini) and a severed ear that MacLachlan discovers one sunlit afternoon while walking through the woods! Along the way, we get to see a mascara-laden Dean Stockwell do an unforgettable lip-sync to Roy Orbison's "In Dreams," MacLachlan enjoy a sexual encounter with Rossellini at knife-point and a terminally weird Brad Dourif serve drinks in what is definitely the screen's most depressing brothel. Does this sound strange enough for you? Believe me, I'm just scratching Blue Velvet's grimy, perversely hilarious surface. See it with someone you don't trust.

'Beauty and Beast' proceeds to basic cable, syndication

By Polly Vonetes

Q: I was very fond of Beauty and the Beast. To me it was a beautiful and thoughtful program. Very unusual to have classical music and poetry so well combined with a storyline. There were supposed to be 12 episodes this season—we only saw five. Why? Will the series go into re-runs? Are there plans for another portion of Vincent's story? Where can we write the cast to thank them for many hours of joy and anticipation? —Pauline Kowalke, Hope, Alaska

A: The "CBS Eye" took a dim view of the Beauty and the Beast ratings. Wary of what direction the series would take with Katherine gone, the show was canceled. However, Republic Pictures Television has sold its 56-episode off-network Beauty and the Beast package to the Family Channel for one year before releasing it in syndication for the 1991-92 season.

Q: I have been wondering if there are past Academy Awards ceremonies on video. If so, where would I be able to rent them? —Julian Howland, Atascadero, Calif.

A: There are two places you could write to inquire about the videos you requested; MPI Home Video, 15824 Rob Roy Drive, Oak Forest, Ill. 60452, or Home Vision, 945 Concord Place, Framingham, Mass. 01701.

Q: I doubt that you will consider this letter of "general interest" to be included in your column, but the little lady, the star of this subject, is of great interest to this writer. 1. If memory serves me, Eddie Fisher was also in Korea during Ms. Reynolds' tour in 1955. Is that correct? 2. Ms. Reynolds was not married to Mr. Fisher during her 1955 tour, was she? The answers to these two questions have plagued me for the past 35 years. Please forward the enclosed photos and letter to Ms. Reynolds. —Charles Pendleton, Chino Valley, Ariz.

Ron Perlman Beauty and the Beast

A: Sgt. Pendleton you will be happy to know the mission has been accomplished. Your letter and photos have been forwarded to Debbie Reynolds. Such devotion as yours must be recognized. The answers to your questions cannot be verified by the dates you have furnished. Eddie and Debbie were married in 1955, it is a good chance they were in Korea together.

Q: I would like to know if Jimmy Wakely is still living. If so where does he live and what is he doing? I remember he used to sing with Margaret Whiting. —Joseph Bay, Painted Post, N.Y.

A: Country and western singer Jimmy Wakely died in 1982 at the age of 68. He and his wife, Inez, married in 1936, were living in their home in the San Fernando Valley at the time of his death.

'Twin Peaks' like no other offerings on television

By Steven Alan McGaw

Are you watching ABC's incredible Twin Peaks? If this show is not brought back as a regular series next year, there's no justice. The twists and turns in this quirky nightmare by David Lynch and Martin Frost are beyond baffling; edgy performances by Kyle MacLachlan, Grace Zabriskie and others are terrific; and the show looks like no other on TV. Besides, how many other television offerings devote so much absurd attention to doughnuts and cherry pie? I love it...

Next year, the Family Channel will air a new children's series titled Dynamo Duck, billed as sort of like Wild Kingdom meets Indiana Jones. Who knows?...

Patrick Dempsey and Tracy Pollan will co-star in the suspense drama Run, for Australian director Geoff Burrowes...

Coming out this Christmas is a book called Rainbow's End: The Judy Garland Show, focusing on the tumultuous production of Garland's on again-off again series on CBS in the years 1961 to 1964. The publishers promise that it's a fair account. Here's hoping...

Belated condolences to the family and friends of the late Ryan White. How many of us, even for a few moments, could muster the courage that this boy exhibited for five long years in his battle with AIDS? Flights of angels, Ryan.

Actor breathes life into comic book character

Christopher Rich stars as Archie

By Mary Ann Townsend

Taking the role as the All-American comic strip character Archie Andrews was a tough decision for actor Christopher Rich, but he has never regretted accepting the challenge.

Rich brings Archie to life in Archie: To Riverdale And Back Again, airing Sunday, May 6, on NBC. But, he admits, it wasn't his own natural features that won him the role.

When the gang returns to Riverdale High for their 15th reunion, of course the band—with Archie as lead singer—jams for at least one song.

"I think it proved once and for all I have no musical talent. I think I've pretty well settled that issue," Rich said, confiding the song was not dubbed. "It's me, as you'll readily be able to tell. There's no musician in the world who could duplicate what I do with that song."

The good-natured, energetic actor had to change some physical attributes as well, to become Betty and Veronica's dream man. The blond actor learned what it was like to be a red-head.

"If you're a blond, people treat you like you're a surfer. If you're a red-head, people treat you like you're a leprechaun. I don't really know which I prefer," Rich said.

While the freckles are Rich's, one other physical trait didn't transfer from the comics to the screen.

"We didn't put any hash marks in my head. Have you ever noticed that Archie has these hash marks on his head? I don't have any of those."

Karen Kopins as Veronica, Christopher Rich as Archie and Lauren Holly as Betty (from left) star in Archie, To Riverdale And Back, on NBC Sunday.

David Crosby and Bob Dylan join the Byrds reunion during the Roy Orbison Tribute Concert, to benefit the homeless, airing Sunday on Showtime.

Peggy Lipton makes a return to series TV in 'Twin Peaks'

By Shelia Odak

From the years 1968-1973, Peggy Lipton was a household name. She starred as the dazzling blonde in the series The Mod Squad. Then just as abruptly as she gained stardom, she lost it. Now her face is reappearing in series television with her role as Norma Jennings in the ABC series Twin Peaks.

Lipton always knew that she wanted to escape the suburban life to which she was born, and by age 15 she was signed as a model with Eileen Ford. In between modeling assignments and attending private school, she also started taking acting lessons.

At 17, Lipton's family moved to Los Angeles. Not long after, she was put under contract to Universal. The head of talent there, Monique James, became her mentor. Afflicted with a severe stutter, she took speech lessons. She was soon working in TV shows and specials. She then was signed to star in The Mod Squad and her career took off. It was in the last year of that show that she met her future husband, record producer Quincy Jones.

During her marriage, Lipton gave up acting in order to raise a family. When the marriage ended, she stepped back in the spotlight with an appearance in War Party. She has also starred in the telefilm Addicted To His Love and the features Kinjite and Fatal Charm.

SOAP TALK

Caroline plans to stay on 'B&B'

By Candace Havens

Dear Candace: I hear that Caroline is leaving this month from the Bold And The Beautiful. I hate this, as we just got her and Ridge married. I really sweated that one. I hope that they don't have anything terrible happen to her. We want her to come back. She is very much like Grace Kelly, white gloves and all. —A "busy body" grandmother, A.L. Rigby, Marshall, Texas.

Dear A. L.: Joanna Johnson has changed her mind about leaving the show. At first she wanted to leave to pursue prime-time opportunities, but for some unknown reason she is staying on indefinitely.

Dear Candace: I have already stopped watching all soaps, except The Young And The Restless. It will soon be next.

I hate the character Leanna. I think she is absolutely stupid. She and Jack Abbott should pay for their dirty deeds. Nobody ever gets away with what they have.

I'm also sick of Miss Goody Two Shoes, Cricket. She is just too perfect. — Ila Stone, Grand Prairie, Texas.

Dear Ila: I must disagree with your views of Barbara Crampton (Leanna) on Y&R. She is one of the more talented actresses on daytime television. Her character is an incurable flirt and Crampton plays it to the hilt.

I want to hear from you! If you have a favorite soap scenario you would like to sound off about, or a question about the soaps, write to Candace Havens, Soap Talk, P.O. Box 17748, Fort Worth, TX 76102-0748.

Actor Ralph Waite, who played the hard-working father on The Waltons, announced his plans to run for Congress. Waite is hoping to win the Democratic nomination for the 37th District; his opponent likely would be incumbent Rep. Alfred A. McCandless, a Republican.

Larry Riley, who stars as Frank Williams on Knots Landing, has been involved in writing some of the musical scores heard on the show this year. "They gave me a chance to score an episode last season," says Riley, "and this year I've been heavily involved in five of them."

Beau Kayzer has returned to the daytime series The Young And The Restless, reprising the role of Brock Reynolds, the son of Katherine Chancellor Sterling (Jeanne Cooper). Brock, it seems, has been off in Africa fighting famine. Kayzer originated the role of Brock 16 years ago, and was last seen on the series in 1986.

Dolly Parton is buying radio station WSEV-AM/FM in her hometown of Sevierville, Tenn., and hopes to move its operations to her Dollywood theme park in Pidgeon Forge. Sentimental Dolly taped her first demo songs at WSEV when she was 9 years old.

SATURDAY: An NBA Basketball Doubleheader is scheduled for this afternoon on CBS.

Meredith Baxter-Birney and Derek de Lint star as a married woman and a married man who have a passionate affair in Burning Bridges, Sunday on ABC.

Meredith Baxter-Birney stars in 'Burning Bridges'

Couple forsakes family for affair

By Justin Marshall

Meredith Baxter-Birney sheds the wholesome persona she created during seven years as Elyse Keaton on Family Ties to star as a woman who tears two families apart when she succumbs to her mid-life crisis in Burning Bridges, airing Sunday, May 6, on ABC.

Baxter-Birney plays Lynn Hollinger, the mother of two young sons and wife of a college professor (Nick Mancuso) who gives up her sedate, yet secure, marriage when she falls in love with her doctor (Derek de Lint). A prominent member of their rural Maryland community, he is married to a wealthy woman (Lois Chiles), who is the mother of their 7-year-old daughter.

Feelings of guilt lead the lovers to admit their love for one another to their families, and they literally burn the bridges of their family lives behind them. However, those same guilty emotions soon destroy their relationship, and the one who suffers most is Lynn, when her family and friends refuse to forgive her.

Although the role of a woman in the midst of her first extramarital affair is a departure from Baxter-Birney's most recent role in Family Ties, it is by no means the actress' first dramatic part. Her feature film work includes Ben and All The President's Men, while her television movie roles have included a retarded woman in Winnie, a bulimic woman in Kate's Secret, an adopted woman searching for her real mother in The Stranger Who Looks Like Me, and many others.

CABLE OVERVIEW

Cable specials confront homeless problem head-on

By Shelia Odak

Whoopi Goldberg

According to a recent poll, homelessness is the No. 1 social issue in the country. This week that issue will be addressed by the entertainment industry during two specials designed to raise money and awareness for that cause.

On Sunday, May 6, Showtime presents The Roy Orbison Tribute Concert. This program is, of course, a star-studded tribute to the legendary singer/songwriter, but it is also a benefit concert for the homeless. Viewers can dial a toll-free number and make contributions to the Roy Orbison Homeless Fund. The proceeds will be distributed to homeless coalitions throughout the country.

Dean Stockwell (Blue Velvet and NBC's Quantum Leap) hosts the event, which features performances and appearances by some of the top names in entertainment. Among those featured are k.d. lang, Patrick Swayze, B.B. King, Pete Townshend, Ricky Skaggs, Johnny Cash, and Dwight Yoakum.

Also on Saturday, HBO will go live for four hours to present Comic Relief '90. This is the fourth such program to air and all proceeds go to the non-profit Comic Relief organization.

Billy Crystal, Whoopi Goldberg and Robin Williams host this night of laughs, which features performances from the comedic minds of Louie Anderson, Bob Goldthwait, Richard Lewis, Paula Poundstone, Rita Rudner, Bob Saget, Steven Wright and Robert Wuhl. Between the stand-up routines and skits will be footage from needy cases who could be helped by the donations received.

All of the comedians involved donate their time to this project, and HBO itself is assuming all of the production costs, thus ensuring that the money raised will indeed go to those who need it.

To date, the profit from the first three Comic Relief shows and the money gathered by the organization's year-round efforts, has totaled nearly $9 million and has been funneled to the homeless in 23 cities.

"When I first approached people with the idea several years ago," recalls Bob Zmuda, who co-created the show and the fund, "some doubted we could get comedians to work together, even for a half-hour benefit. Now we're looking at a four-hour event, and comedians come to us. Doing Comic Relief has become sort of a high water mark, a very prestigious event for the performers."

Zmuda also states that as important as is the raising of funds, it is just as important to raise awareness. "Homeless people are people, just like us. They're not statistics," he affirms.

Those wishing to contribute to the Comic Relief organization either on May 12 or anytime during the year may call toll free 1-800-528-1000.

Sherrill Milnes performs in the Richard Tucker All-Star Opera Gala, Friday on PBS.

HOROSCOPE

May 6 through May 12

By A. Murphy

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20)
Don't make important decisions when your emotions are stormy. Think hard about your qualifications and ask for a raise to ease those minor financial worries at home.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20)
Exercise your wisdom and patience when all seems to be in disarray. Make sure that you delegate responsibilities. Don't let everything rest on your shoulders alone.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22)
Do not be intimidated by your superiors. Practice your individuality and your independence. Enjoy your freedom: walk, read, travel, take pictures.

LEO (July 23 - August 22)
Let others take care of their own obligations. Don't always be a care-taker who absorbs the problems of others. Let them stand alone and learn how to deal with life.

VIRGO (August 23 - September 22)
Be demanding when it comes to your own well-being. You can give of yourself all that you want, but when you stop wanting to, maybe it's time to think of yourself.

LIBRA (September 23 - October 22)
Don't be completely dejected by a refusal once in a while. Think of your importance in your surroundings. Mistakes and hard times only make the good times better.

SCORPIO (October 23 - November 21)
Don't be afraid of a confrontation. It is much healthier to air one's fears, ideas and opinions than to keep them unvoiced. The resulting honesty is icing on the cake.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 - December 21)
Look at hurdles in your day and life as challenges and think of how you can grow by taking them on with a positive attitude. Do not put off that confrontation any longer.

CAPRICORN (December 22 - January 19)
Spending the day with a close friend is very healing for your stressful lifestyle. Smell flowers and feel the wind. It is springtime; are you missing it?

AQUARIUS (January 20 - February 18)
Don't let your emotions take control of you when there is important work to be done. Give your time to a cause you believe in. It's a great way to meet others.

PISCES (February 19 - March 20)
Put an unusual twist on something ordinary. Have dinner late and by candlelight. Keep the TV off and listen to the wind in the trees. Listen to a door-to-door salesperson.

ARIES (March 21 - April 19)
Remember that you can rely on close friends to listen. Taking chances is exciting but dangerous—you can get pleasure from a simple get-together with friends.

Public to pick favorites in nine areas of sports

By Jeff Thompson

Will Michael Jordan, Magic Johnson or Patrick Ewing be chosen as basketball's best this year? Or, in golf, what about Greg Norman, Curtis Strange or Jack Nicklaus? Will America select Joe Montana, Bo Jackson or Lawrence Taylor as the faves in football? Those questions will be answered when the American public picks its favorite professional athletes in the first ever All-Star Pro Sports Awards, airing live next month on ABC from the Universal Amphitheater in Universal City.

Twelve nominees have been selected in each of nine categories. Fans can pick up ballots in this month's issue of Inside Sports, or, in the new American way, can call a 900-number at a cost of 95 cents a minute to vote for favorites. (For those who really can't resist, that number is 1-900-454-3800.)

The primetime special will honor America's favorite choices for Athlete of the Year in: auto racing, baseball, basketball, boxing, football, golf, ice hockey, horse racing and tennis. There will also be six living legends selected in: baseball, football, basketball, boxing, hockey and tennis.

As if there aren't enough awards shows on television, at least there is more to this one than a few minutes of pomp and circumstance. A portion of the proceeds from the All-Star Pro Sports Awards will benefit the Special Olympics.

SATURDAY

'Carol & Company' changes rules of TV

Each week brings Burnett new role

By Anne Wheeler

Carol Burnett is changing the rules of the 30-minute show format with her creative and unique, by today's standards, comedy series Carol & Company, seen Saturdays on NBC.

The guidelines are a bit different for Carol & Company because the show is quite unlike other current television fare. Often compared to The Loretta Young Show of the 1950's, Carol & Company is a weekly anthology. First, and foremost, the show, including characters, sets and costumes, is different each week; and second, the show makes a comment on some human condition through humor.

Burnett, who starred for 11 years on the Emmy-winning Carol Burnett Show, wanted to forge out into something completely different than that successful comedy/variety series.

As a result, she said she does not want to rehash characters she created in her earlier show, and she expects fresh material from the new writers, as well.

"I am asking these writers to come up with wonderful new stuff—a whole body of a show—every single week," the performer said. "And they are asking me to create a new character—and we are now joined together, attempting something that I'm excited about."

Performed before a live audience in a 220-seat amphitheatre at the Disney-MGM Studios, the show presents many challenges besides the physical learning of the lines, designing of the set and costumes and casting a guest star each week. One of those challenges is developing a character rapidly to interest the audience, a task she said is more difficult than in her previous series.

"When you do a series of sketches, you might do six minutes or 10 minutes that don't catch on," Burnett explained. "We always had the feeling we could redeem ourselves with a medley or a terrific finale or another sketch."

Adding some continuity to the series is Carol's "company," made up of Terry Kiser (Weekend At Bernies), Anita Barone (The Rosary Murders) and Second City alumni Meagen Fay, Richard Kind and Jeremy Piven. She had done four shows before the repertory group was selected, and said that those shows were enjoyable, yet grueling. "We'd come in on a Monday and we'd all just get to know each other and fool around in the sandbox all week, and then we'd do the show on a Friday and they'd go bye-bye, and then there's a whole new group and a whole new story the following Monday."

Despite the desire to keep the show completely different, Burnett said one thing will remain the same in her new show as in the old—her now familiar closing gesture of pulling her left earlobe—a signal she used to say hello to her grandmother at the end of each show. "I caught hell when she didn't see me do that. She said, 'the neighbors are waiting for it,'" Burnett said. "Sure, I'll do that, yeah."

A&A Realty Associate Honored

Daniel Talbott, of A&A Realty/Better Homes and Gardens, was honored at the recent Better Homes and Gardens Real Estate Service National Convention held in Las Vegas. Talbott was inducted into the President's Council because of his outstanding sales performance in 1989.

The President's Council was established by Allen Sabbag, president of Better Homes and Gardens Real Estate Service, to honor the network's top 45 sales associates. "I'm pleased to present Daniel with this outstanding award," said Sabbag. "His excellent service to customers and dedication to his profession are a credit to our industry."

Talbott is a native of Elkins, W.Va., and a 1974 graduate of West Virginia University with a bachelor of science degree in parks & recreation management, College of Forestry.

Prior to his entry into the real estate business in 1989, his career centered around the ski industry and park management. While director of the Elkins Parks and Recreation Commission, he received the community spirit award for city and park improvements. He has been a ski patrol member and/or director of ski patrol at the following areas: Arizona Snow Bowl in Flagstaff; Snowshoe, W.Va.; Silver Creek, W.Va.; and Timberline Four Seasons Resort in Canaan Valley, W.Va. He also supervised a 30-man crew in the development of a 100-acre ski slope system at two new areas in West Virginia, Tory Mountain.

Talbott has received the Yellow Merit Star from the National Ski Patrol which is an award presented for supporting response in a life-saving effort. While under his direction, the Snowshoe Ski Patrol was chosen most outstanding ski partrol in the Southern Division of the National Ski Patrol.

Talbott resides with his wife, Suzi; son, Wes, age 1 year, and step-daughter, Amy, 9. He works in the Canaan Valley branch office of A&A Realty/Better Homes and Gardens, which is situated in the vicinity of two ski resorts, a State park and golf course, and 830,000 acres of National Forest.

Better Homes and Gardens Real Estate is a national network of locally olwned and operated residential real estate companies — including two corporate-equity firms — franchised under the Better Homes and Gardens name. Better Homes and Gardens Real Estate Service was formed in 1978 as an extension of Better Homes and Gardens magazine — one of America's largest home and family magazines with a monthly circulation of more than 8 million.

Better Homes and Gardens Real Estate Service is an operating group of Meredith Corporation, a Fortune 500 diversified media company headquartered in Des Moines, Iowa, and involved in magazine and book publishing, television broadcasting, residential real estate marketing and franchising, and commercial printing.

Second row, same order, are: Chas Stoner, Wesley Wilt and Bricen Shaluta, third place winners.

PARTICIPATE IN EARTH DAY — A "Recycling Day" was held at Red House Elementary School for Earth Week, April 14 to 22. Pictured above are the 54 students who participated by collecting 132 pounds of aluminum cans. The money raised will be used to purchase shrubbery for school grounds.

Voter Registration Volunteer Training Sessions Underway

The State Administrative Board of Election Laws (SABEL) and the local boards of supervisors of elections are in the process of conducting training sessions for groups interested in a program to have every eligible Maryland resident ready to vote in the Gubernatorial Primary, September 11, and in the General election, November 6.

A person qualified to vote must be: a United States citizen, resident of Maryland, 18 years old by November 6, 1990, with no disqualifying criminal record or under guardianship for mental disability.

Registration may be in person at the local election office in the person's county or Baltimore City, or by mail after obtaining a voter registration application from any election office.

Applications are also available in some State agencies, such as the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene, Social Services Administration, and the Motor Vehicle Administration.

Individuals trained as voter registration volunteers are certified, either by the State Board (SABEL) or the local board and may receive the necessary materials to encourage and assist those eligible to apply for voter registration.

Applicants are warned that one is not registered until he/she receives a voters's notification card in the mail.

For further information concerning voter registration, persons may call their local board or SABEL at 1-800-222-VOTE.

Joy McCain, Oakland, has been accepted for the fall term at Chatham College in Pittsburgh. She intends to major in pyschology at the private, liberal arts college.

Miss McCain, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Asa McCain, Oakland, will be a 1990 graduate of Southern High School.

Guest Speaker Scheduled At Flowery Vale

The Area Agency on Aging will be hosting Craig Ingram, a local attorney, at the Flowery Vale Senior Center. He will be discussing the 60 plus Wills Program.

The presentation is slated to begin at 12:30 p.m. on Tuesday, May 8. Seniors planning to participate in the noon Nutrition Site meal must contact Flowery Vale Senior Center, 826-8824, for a meal reservation no later than 2 p.m. on May 3.

Lupus Toll-Free Number Installed

The Maryland Lupus Foundation recently installed a statewide toll-free phone number. State residents who need to learn more about Lupus, a chronic auto-immune disease, can now call the office without charge by dialing 1-800-777-0934.

"This is a very valuable service for those who need information about lupus or physicial referral. The foundation is pleased to be able to offer this as one of the new and important services to better service all the residents of Maryland," said Mary Ellen Bur, Maryland Lupus Foundation executive director.

The addition of the 800 number is a direct result of the generosity of the members of the Maryland Clubs of the Soroptimist International, the largest world-wide service organization of business and professional women. Several years ago, the South Atlantic Region (of which Maryland is a member) of the Soroptimist International elected to support lupus as their primary health concern.

Other services offered by Maryland Lupus Foundation include educational and support group meetings, counseling and referral, prescription discounts, a quarterly newsletter, patient orientation sessions, literature and video service, statewide subchapters, a Speakers Bureau, funding local and national research, and professional education programs.

For more information on the activities of the Maryland Lupus Foundations, persons may call 1-800-777-0934.

Conference On Forestry Slated For May 21, 22

The future of Maryland's 2.4 million acres of forest land will be discussed May 21 and 22 at Governor William Donald Schaefer's Conference on Trees and Forests at the Annapolis Ramada Inn. The public is invited to attend and to participate in the finalization of a forestry action plan for the 1990s. Marylanders attending will have a unique opportunity to help shape the future trees and forests in years to come, according to a Department of Natural Resources spokesman.

A 33-member task force, appointed by Governor Schaefer, has been examinning key issues affecting the future of trees, forests and forestry in Maryland and has prepared a draft action plan for Maryland's forestry resources. The task force consists of three working groups representing social land use, economic, and environmental interests. Recommendations and a final plan will be presented to Governor Schaefer and his Commission on Growth in the Chesapeake Bay region. The latter group is also known as the 2020 Commission.

Registration for the two-day conference, including an evening banquet is $25 for students, $40 before May 15, $50 after May 15. For registration and program information, persons may contact the Maryland Department of Natural Resources-Forest, Park and Wildlife Service, Annapolis, MD 21401, Telephone (301) 974-3776.

CHECK THE WOODMEN DIFFERENCE

A 100-YEAR TRADITION

The Woodmen was founded in 1890. Today, many four- and five-generation families know of the many extra services that are traditional with the Woodmen. And one of the most important is "service after the sale." In the Woodmen, every member has an assigned "personal" Field Representative, a trained, experienced representative who is a part of a career agency system that is a tradition with the Woodmen.

STUDENT EXCHANGE FOR A BEAUTIFUL MARYLAND — Northern High School recently participated in "Showcase Maryland," part of a program entitled "Student Exchange for a Beautiful Maryland." The idea for the program was conceived by college interns in the Governor's 1987 Summer Internship Program as part of their report on internal tourism for the Maryland, You Are Beautiful Program and is designed to nurture understanding of Maryland's regional and cultural heritage and an appreciation for its diversity. Garrett County was one of five school systems throughout the state of Maryland which were invited to pilot this two-year program. Northern High School and Queen Anne's High School were paired to exchange student participants. Last spring, Susan Cupler and April Slagle visited Queen Anne's High School and toured Queen Anne's County. Two Queen Anne's High School students, Nicole DeFlaux and Jerome King, visited Northern High School and toured Garrett County this year. Host students were Jon Houser and Audra Speicher. Faculty hosts Robert and Vonda Yunker coordinated all activities. Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, superintendent of Garrett County Schools; Garrett County Commissioner John Braskey and Delegate George Edwards welcomed the students from Queen Anne's High School to Garrett County. In the above left photo, Commissioner Braskey presents a Garrett County flag to Queen Anne's High School. New Office Technology Program At GCC Is Unveiled At Luncheon

The new Office Technology Program to begin at Garrett Community College this fall was unveiled at a luncheon for area employers given at the college last week. Following a welcome and prefatory remarks by Dr. Steve Herman, president of the college, Tammy Manthos, coordinator of the program, explained the curriculum design and other features of the new program that make it unique.

In addition to the general education requirements, which include a new course in psychology of human relations, students in the Office Technology Program will take a number of professional managerial courses and advanced technology courses that will prepare them to manage the electronic offices of the future. Included in the course requirements are a one semester internship and a one semester practicum during which students will work in offices on campus and in the community. To graduate from the Office Technology Program, students must maintain a "B" average.

Ms. Manthos told the employers that the program is designed to produce top professionals who are ready to assume managerial positions. "We have established both prerequisite skills for admission to the program and exit level skills in typing and taking dictation that must be demonstrated before the Associate in Arts degree is awarded," she stated. "Because of these requirements, we know that you will be getting top-level professional people who graduate from this program."

Guests at the luncheon included Bill Aspinall, Appalachian Crossroads; Dr. Jerry Ryscavage and JoAnn Vent, Board of Education; Patsy Slaubaugh, Hopemont Hospital; Jill Strapason, Bausch and Lomb; Wanda Dawson and Deborah Murdock, TDEC; Annette Livengood, Garrett Memorial Hospital; Shelby Paugh, Health Department. In addition to Mrs. Manthos and Dr. Herman, college personnel who attended were Dr. Lillian Mitchell, Lowell Bender, John Culp, and Joan Crawford.

State Real Estate Tax Rate Held At 21¢ Per $100

After the Commission on State Debt recommended that the Maryland Board of Public Works hold the state real estate tax rate at 21 cents per $100 of assessed value for the tenth consecutive year, that rate for the year beginning July 1, 1990, was established at the board meeting April 25. The Board of Public Works, consisting of Governor William Donald Schaefer, State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein, and State Treasurer Lucille Mauer, must establish a state real estate tax rate by May 1 each year.

The tax rate is important to taxpayers, the Commission said, because it appears as an item on the local property tax bills that will be mailed to taxpayers later this summer. The state real estate tax revenue is dedicated to helping pay the principal and interest costs of Maryland's general obligation bonds. This dedicated revenue source is an important factor in Maryland's long-standing triple A general obligation bond rating — the best available.

Debt service requirements will total $395.1 million for fiscal year 1990, which ends June 30, 1990, and $389.6 million for fiscal year 1991.

The relatively stable amount of revenue needed to pay principal and interest costs in recent years has two important benefits to taxpayers, according to the commission. First, it has allowed the Board of Public Works to hold the state real estate tax rate at 21 cents per $100 of assessed value.

The state real estate tax rate set by the Board of Public Works is expected to raise $169.9 million during fiscal year 1991, compared with $158.9 million for the current year.

Secondly, the stable debit picture means that fewer general fund dollars are required to supplement the revenue produced by the property tax rate.

In setting the rate, the Board of Public Works also took into account $74.3 million in general funds appropriated to the annuity bond fund for fiscal year 1991, or $4.3 million less than the general fund supplement required for fiscal year 1990. The general fund supplement is important to every taxpayer because it includes revenue from state income and sales taxes.

The 21-cent rate is actually the rate needed to raise the additional revenue required for principal and interest payments on state general obligation bonds. Another reason the rate could be held to 21 cents is that the Board of Public Works and the General Assembly have cooperated in limiting bond authorizations and issues.

The Commission on State Debt, chaired by Treasurer Maurer, also includes Comptroller Goldstein and representatives from the State Department of Assessments and Taxation, Budget and Fiscal Planning and Transportation, as well as a public representative. It is charged with recommending a state real estate tax based on a study of debt service requirements and available revenue.

The state's Capital Debt Affordability Committee, also chaired by Treasurer Maurer, annually reviews Maryland's debt picture and recommends how much new debt should be authorized by the General Assembly.

Yura To Speak At Chapter One Parent Meeting

Dr. Michael Yura, Garrett County's Chapter I Parent Liaison, will be the guest speaker at the next Chapter I parent meeting for the southern end of the county to be held in the media center at Dennett Road Elementary School, Wednesday, May 9, at 7 p.m.

Throughout the '89-'90 school year Dr. Yura has presented several different topics related to parenting, including, "Raising Children Without Guilt" and "Self-Image." During the upcoming program, Dr. Yura will conduct an open forum whereby parents and others will have the opportunity to ask questions relevant to individual concerns.

All parents, educational staff, and others who work with children are invited to attend the meeting. Refreshments will be served.

SCIENCE/SOCIAL STUDIES FAIR WINNERS — The fifth grade students of Dennett Road Elementary School recently held their annual Science/Social Studies Fair, for which each participant completed a project that included a written report, charts, drawings, and working models. The projects were judged by Jim Hart, director of the planetarium for the Garrett County Board of Education; John McIntee, engineer and manufacturing manager of the local Bausch & Lomb plant; and Charles W. Teets, superintendent of technical services for the Virginia Electric Power Company. Thirty-one ribbons were awarded to the first, second, and third place winners in various categories. The first place winners are pictured above and include, front row, left to right: Andy Severe, Lauren Newcomb, Jack Alvarez, Megan Redinger, and Allison Swinson. In the second row, same order, are Meghen Dabney, Howard Crosco, Eliza Coviello, and Amanda Mountain. Not present for the photo were Autumn Newcomb and Brian Ward.

Older Americans Month Proclaimed For Marylanders

Governor William Donald Schaefer has proclaimed May "Older Marylanders' Month." This year's theme is "Nostalgia's Fine ... But These Are The Good Old Days."

This observance coincides with the national celebration of "Older Americans Month" and the Silver Anniversary year of the federal Older Americans Act, which was signed into law on July 14, 1965.

The proclamation honors the more than 735,000 Marylanders over the age of 60, and recognizes the contributions that older persons have made to the progress and development of the state.

"During Older Marylanders' Month, we celebrate the vast reservoir of talent, knowledge and experience that older persons offer our state and the nation," said Governor Schaefer. "The Silver Anniversary year of the Older Americans Act is a milestone. I encourage public officials, business, civic, religious, volunteer and educational leaders, and everyone else concerned with serving older persons, to join in this observance."

Maryland is one of the most progressive states in providing innovative programs for its elderly population, he added. In many communities, the services to help older people are already in existence. "The goal of this administration is to insure that each community system works as a coordinated whole, and to develop new services when they are needed," Schaefer said.

"Maryland is a leader when it comes to providing the best service and care for our older citizens," said Rosalie Abrams, director of the Maryland Office on Aging. "We have programs that offer a wide variety of services to older people, such as housing, adult education and day care, physical fitness, transportation and nutrition. Issues of long term care, catastrophic health insurance, expansion of senior centers around the state, respite for caregivers, the escalating cost of nursing homes and hospital beds, are all problems that we are beginning to address as a society. Our goal is to work toward the creation of a truly responsive system of community services which will enable older persons to live with dignity and independence," she added.

During May, the Maryland Office of Aging makes a special effort to feature older citizens in Maryland, and to focus on the aspirations, achievements, problems and concerns of older people and their families. To promote and increase the public's awareness of this observance, the Office on Aging has expanded publicity through the use of campaign posters and public service announcement. Various state agencies will highlight the special programs designed to accommodate elderly persons living in Maryland, while many local area agencies on aging and senior centers throughout the state have planned special activities and events in observance of "Older Marylanders' Month."

Northern GOP Women Hear Sheriff Evans

The Northern Garrett County Republican Women's Club met at Hill Top Inn, Grantsville, April 24, with Garrett County Sheriff Van Evans as the guest speaker.

President Lulu Brown presided and Orpha Miller, chaplain, led devotions.

Sheriff Evans's topic was drug abuse and law enforcement. He stated that alcohol is the drug most widely abused locally, with marijuana second, cocaine third, and prescription drugs fourth. He said there are plans underway to have experts go into local schools to teach children about drugs and their harmful effects. He urged all to help in reporting any drug activity they may observe and to question children, who are often a good source of information. A question and answer session followed his presentation.

The business meeting followed. The group decided to continue meeting at 7:30 p.m. and adjourn by 9 p.m. Chance booklets were distributed for the club's fund-raising project. A donation was given to the Western Maryland Food Bank in memory of a member who died April 22.

Members present besides those previously mentioned were Lois Rowe, Louise McKenzie, Cleda Baker, Evelyn Younkin, Cora Bowser, Mary Broadwater, Twila Mae Fike, Stella Edwards, Ruth Horning, Mary Durst, Jean Friend, Helen Keller, and Hazel Margraff.

Applications Being Accepted For 4-H Scholarship

The Garrett County 4-H Program has announced that applications are now being accepted for the John Thomas Sealing Memorial Scholarship. This tuition scholarship will be presented to a freshman entering college in the fall of 1990, with studies in the field of nursing or education. The recipient must be or have been a 4-H member and must be a graduate of a Garrett County high school or a resident of Garrett County for one year, with a high school diploma or equivalent.

The Garrett County Extension 4-H program is serving as the sponsor's contact for the scholarship.

Applications forms are available by contacting the Extension Office at 334-1990 and are due July 20. The scholarship recipient will be announced during August.

Earns Achievement Award From FSU

Joy L. Strider, a senior at Northern High School, has been named a recipient of a Meritorious Achievement Award from Frostburg State University.

Miss Strider, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Strider, Accident, plans to study pharmacology at FSU.

At Northern she is an honor roll student and the treasurer of the school's chapter of the National Honor Society.

Funding for these awards is provided by the University of Maryland System and is administered by the FSU Scholarship Committee. Selection is based on academic achievement, leadership qualities, or demonstrated abilities in the visual or performing arts.

March Of Dimes Walk Scheduled For This Sunday

Sunday, May 6, is the day of the 8th annual March of Dimes Walk, sponsored by the March of Dimes Committee at the Mt. Storm Power Station, Virginia Power. The walk will begin at 1 p.m. at the Grant/Tucker county line on Route 93 west of the station. The public is invited.

Registration will begin at 11 a.m. Pre-registration is not necessary. A ribbon-cutting at 1 p.m. will officially begin the walk. Station Manager Doug Ketterman and State March of Dimes poster child, Ryan Fox, will participate in these activities. A special aerobics demonstration is being presented by the Petersburg Nautilus at noon.

Free Pepsi will be provided by the Pepsi Cola Bottling Company of Petersburg. Stations along the walk will feature drinks, candy, first-aid items, and apples. A full meal, provided by Virginia Power, will be available to all following the walk. T-shirts will be available for all walkers, but a donation of at least $10 on one's sponsor sheet is requested. Door prizes are being provided by individuals and businesses and will be given away at the end of the walk. The walk will also be manned by ham radio operators provided by Mountain State Transmitters Association.

Only medical vehicles will be permitted on the walk road. The walk will begin and end at the same place, eliminating the need for busing which has caused delay problems in the past for walkers returning to their vehicles.

For further information, persons may call (304) 259-5272.

Commissioners To Sponsor Clean-Up Days

The Board of Garrett County Commissioners announced this week that they are sponsoring a spring county-wide clean-up Saturday, May 19, and Sunday, May 20. The county-wide clean-up is an expansion of the annual Deep Creek Lake area clean-up sponsored by the Deep Creek Lake Businessmen Association, the Property Owners Association, and the Department of Natural Resources.

The commissioners indicated that the purpose of the clean-up is to provide pick-up and disposal of bulk items, not normal household refuse.

The county will have manpower and equipment at all regular collection sites with an additional site located behind the Garrett National Bank lake office. Collection sites included are the Friendsville site on Rt. 42, north of Friendsville; the Bumble Bee Road site, Rt. 40, east of Rt. 219 north intersection; Rt. 135 at SHA salt bin, Rt. 219 at Weber Road, and King's Run Road site. The Round Glade Landfill on the Oakland-Sang Run Road will also be open and will accept approved bulk items. Collection sites will be manned from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. each day.

According to the Garrett County Roads Department the following items will not be accepted: controlled hazardous substances, liquid waste, sludges, industrial waste, commercial waste, construction waste (unless approved), septage or sewer scavenger waste, automobiles, tires (unless split or sidewall removed), friable asbestos, pathological waste, dead animals, drums or tanks which do not have the ends cut out and flattened (they must be free of hazardous waste) and petroleum waste.

REALTORS HONORED

Century 21® Country Time Realty, McHenry, recently recognized three of its sales associates, all from Friendsville, for outstanding efforts. They are Patty Sines, Cheryl Henderson, and Denise Ferrainolo.

Ms. Sines, a full-time realtor, specializes in residential homes, lots, land and farms. Her credentials include: VIP relocation designation, financing analyses, and small investment properties. According to a Century 21 spokesman, she has assisted many individuals and couples in selecting a home and finding the right financing to fit their needs.

Ms. Sines, who has been a resident of Friendsville for 14 years, has been awarded several honors such as top producer for two years in a row, top listing agent 1988, pacesetter awards for sales, listing superstar and million dollar club member, 1989.

Denise Ferraiuolo, also a full-time realtor, specializes in lots, land, farms and residential homes and investments. "Denise is sincerely dedicated to the best interest of my clients," the spokesman said. "She has successfully found property and the right form of fiancing to make owning realty a reality."

Cherry Henderson, who has been a licensed realtor for the past four years, has worked with Century 21, Country Time Realty, for the past three years. She specializes in farms, acreage and residential sales.

She is also active in the community, and has currently been elected to serve as PTA president of Friendsville Elementary School.

HORSE-A-THON SLATED — Members of the Mt. Top Saddle Club make preparations to participate in the 10th annual Horse-A-Thon. The fundraiser will be held May 6 at the Herrington Manor State Park. Registration will begin at 10 a.m. with the ride beginning at 11 a.m. The event will consist of a 10-mile ride through the park, under the direction of Roger Riley, park manager. There will be a rest stop with soft drinks donated by the Mountain Top Saddle Club and fruit donated by Farmers' Market, Oakland. "This is not a race," stated Cancer Society Board Member Nancy Nemith. "It is a pleasant ride through the beauty of the state park and forest." Trophies will be awarded immediately following the ride at a covered dish picnic at the park pavilion. Presentations will be made to the following riders: oldest, youngest (riding alone), the most sponsored money, and the rider traveling the farthest distance to participate. A "hard luck" trophy will be awarded to the rider most worthy (to be decided by fellow riders). All are welcome to participate. For more information, registration forms, sponsor sheets, or directions, persons may call Nancy Nemith, daytime, (301) 334-8694, and evenings, (301) 334-8386.

DEEP CREEK REALTY

LEMONADE FOR SALE - 10¢!

Have you ever watched neighborhood youngsters set up a lemonade stand in the heat of summer? They are sure their price of 50¢ per glass will bring droves of customers and high profits. As the morning wears on with few takers, prices begin to come down. By early afternoon, 10¢ will buy the same glass of cooler. The hot sun beats down and the lemonade is soon gone, along with dreams of great wealth.

The lemonade stand contains a message for home sellers too. Price your home too high and people will look but not buy. Price it too low and you will be overrun by buyers thirsty for a bargain. What is the right price for your home? There is a time-proven method to determine that price.

First, call a REALTOR® ! Selling your home is no lemonade stand situation; it is serious business. By securing the representation of a REALTOR® , you can expect to receive all the facts about sale prices before the "For Sale" sign goes up.

Because buyers compare homes before making a purchase, ask your REALTOR® for a detailed accounting of homes for sale now, those competing with yours for buyers. Next, ask to see the sale prices of similar homes which have sold recently. This will give you a good idea what buyers are willing to pay for homes like yours. You should also expect to be told what buyers are not willing to pay — as illustrated by the prices of homes which did not sell.

Pricing your home correctly from the beginning is the key to a successful sale at the best possible price. For complete details, select a REALTOR® , then enjoy the benefits — SOLD!

If you're planning to sell your home soon and would like information on its current value, give us a call at 387-5303, or come by our office located in McHenry, MD.

1990 Children's Literature Festival Slated At Frostburg State University

Children's author and book illustrator Anne Rockwell will join a select group of writers who will be featured at the 1990 Children's Literature Festival, scheduled for May 4-5, sponsored by the Frostburg State University Department of Educational Professions' Center for the Study and Dissemination of Children's Literature.

In addition to Rockwell, the festival will feature award-winning authors Cynthia Ryland and Margaret Hodges, as well as storyteller Hughes Moir. Participants will select from a choice of ten informative small group sessions directed by talented professionals related to the field of children's literature.

The festival opens Friday evening with a dessert reception for guest presenters and conferees, presentations by Rockwell and Moir as well as book sales and autographing. Saturday's agenda includes coffee and danish, addresses by Hodges and Ryland, a luncheon, small group sessions and book sales.

Also, a special children's program will be held Friday afternoon at 4 p.m. with two concurrent presentations. Anne Rockwell will meet with children ages 4, 5 and 6 while Hughes Moir will work with children in grades 2 through 6. Children attending the special presentations are invited to meet and ask questions of the authors, purchase books and obtain autographs. Reservations are required.

Well-known and respected in the field of children's literature, Rockwell has spent over 25 years perfecting her craft. Her love of books and drawings began as a child and her first "book" was a collection of creative hieroglyphics and matching pictures. This effort also won her the first of many awards — a first place in a children's art contest at a local museum. More recent honors include two of her popular concept books, "At the Beach" and "The First Snowfall," both selected as Children's Books of the Year by the Child Study Children's Book Committee.

Rockwell thinks of herself as a "painter who makes color dreams to hang on walls where there are no windows." She works from her home in Old Greenwich, Connecticut.

For more conference information, contact Dr. William Bingman, 689-4420.

Bike-A-Thon Set Saturday In Friendsville

St. Jude Children's Research Hospital has announced that Barbara Tressler has agreed to be the coordinator of the St. Jude Children's Research Hospital Bike-A-Thon in Friendsville. It will be held at the school from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Free refreshments will be available.

St. Jude Children's Research Hospital was founded by entertainer Danny Thomas. The institution opened its doors to the public in 1962 to combat catastrophic diseases which afflict children, St. Jude Hospital is non-sectarian, non discriminatory, and provides total medical care to all patients.

The Bike-A-Thon program this year is dedicated to Ellen Marie Haynes, a six-year-old solid tumor patient at St. Jude Children's Research Hospital.

Persons who have questions or need a sponsor form may call Barb Tressler at 746-5910.

Allegany County Cemetery Book To Be Published

A book on old and forgotton cemeteries in Allegany County is being published by the Genealogical Society of Allegany County.

Members of the Society have been gathering information on cemeteries in rural areas of the county since 1985.

The book, entitled "Allegany County Maryland: Rural Cemeteries," will include information inscribed on tombstones of more than 3,000 graves in over 100 rural cemeteries. Epitaphs that could be deciphered are included. No information on major cemeteries will be included.

A pre-publication price of $20 per copy plus $2.50 for postage and handling. After publication, the price will be $25 per copy plus $2.50 for postage and handling.

For more information, contact Lucy Wagner, 14910 Lone Oak Road, Cresaptown, MD., 21502.

JUMPING ROPE FOR PHYS. ED PROGRAM — Grantsville Elementary School held its physical education program recently as part of a P.T.A. program. Jeffrey Rice, physical education teacher, organized the program. A group of fourth and fifth graders are pictured above, demonstrating jumping rope. Other activities included scooter carts, balance beams, basketball and parachuting.

NHS Students Building, Selling 24'x50' House

by Jerry Uphold, Northern High School student

Attention, homebuyers. The house being built by the carpentry class at Northern High School is a great opportunity for a small family or a just-married couple to make a great investment.

The class, taught by Jeff Montgomery, started construction of the 24X50' house in August of last year. The house consists of three bedrooms, two bathrooms, a laundry room, kitchen, dining room, living room, and a foyer.

The master bedroom is 12 and one-half by 14 and one-half, with an adjoining bathroom. The other bedrooms are 10 and one-half feet square and nine by 11 feet.

The laundry room, which includes a water tank, washer, dryer, and linen closet, is six by eight feet.

The nine by 12 kitchen will be equipped with a stove, cabinets, a double sink, and a dishwasher.

The eight-by-nine-foot dining room will include a table and chairs, and the living room measures 11 by 18.

The entire house will be carpeted and it will have unique lighting, as closet lights will turn on automatically upon opening the closet doors. This feature was installed by Tony Talerico's residential wiring class.

The house is insulated with a total value of R-38 in the ceilings and R-21 in the walls. It has vinyl siding and Fiberglas shingles on the roof.

Another special feature is an intercom system in the house which has a speaker on the outside, one in the kitchen, and one in the master bedroom.

The house can be toured at any time and there is a video tape available to interested persons which shows the construction from beginning to end. The house will be auctioned, with a minimum bid of $30,000.

State Tourism Grant Proposal Deadline Noted

The Maryland Department of Economic and Employment Development (DEED) has set June 29 at 4:30 p.m. as the deadline for grant proposals for tourism-related activities scheduled for October 1, 1990 through June 30, 1991. The grants, available in amounts of up to $5,000, are administered by DEED's Office of Tourism Development. They are available to Maryland organizations sponsoring an event, project or attraction that promotes tourism in Maryland.

"The purpose of these grants is to help organizations throughout the state promote their events to the public, thus increasing tourism activities in various parts of Maryland," said R. Dean Kenderdine, DEED's assistant secretary for tourism and promotion.

Expenses eligible for coverage under the grants include advertising costs, design and production budgets for promotional materials, postage, entertainment costs related to the event, cross-regional marketing and marketing research.

Grant applications are available from Katherine Hax, grants officer, DEED, Office of Tourism Development, 9th Floor, 217 East Redwood Street, Baltimore, Maryland 21202, or by calling (301) 333-6611.

SHS Students In Auto Trouble Shooting Contest

Job hunting will be smoother for 20 area high school automotive tech students, including two from Garrett County, who passed written examinations to qualify for the seventh annual Trouble Shooting Contest, a competition designed to encourage students to continue their training in automotive services.

The hands-on competition will be held at Catonsville Community College on Tuesday, May 8, at 10 a.m.

During March, participating Maryland schools selected their best automotive students to take written examinations testing both academic and mechanical abilities. The high-scoring teams statewide will compete in the May 8 hands-on contest. Representing Southern High School will be William H. Thomas III and Jeffrey R. Helbig. Tom Powers is their coach.

Working against the clock, each two-member team will repair a 1990 Plymouth Acclaim automobile with deliberately "bugged" parts and other mechanical problems. The team with the fastest time and highest quality workmanship will represent Maryland at the national championship in Washington, D.C. June 18.

The nationwide high school student auto technician competition includes representation from all 50 states. The championship team from each state will qualify for a $3,000 to $14,000 scholarship per student.

Coordinated by the Maryland Department of Education, the contest is sponsored by AAA Maryland and the Baltimore Chrysler-Plymouth Dealers Association.

"AAA is again pleased to be a co-sponsor of the Trouble Shooting Contest for 1990," said William U. Bass Jr., AAA Maryland president. "This is a valuable program which encourages talented high school students to continue their education and training in automotive repair to meet the service needs of motorists."

May Bird Count To Be Conducted

The May 1990 Bird Count will be conducted throughout Garrett County, Saturday, May 12, over a 24-hour period, according to Fran Pope, member of the Maryland Ornothological Society.

The 24-hour period will begin Friday at midnight and continue until midnight Saturday.

Results of the count will be published in "Maryland Bird Life," a quarterly publication.

Anyone who desires more information or wishes to volunteer is asked to call Fran Pope at 334-4908 or Connie Skipper at 387-5227.

Trout-Rearing Station Promises Better Environment, Economy — And Fish — For Garrett County

by Sherry Frantz

An innovative and exciting trout-rearing project with far-reaching prospects is quietly taking place at the foot of the Jennings Randolph Dam near Bloomington, and a small team from the Maryland Department of Natural Resources/Fisheries Division is overseeing the experimental station located in the North Branch of the Potomac River.

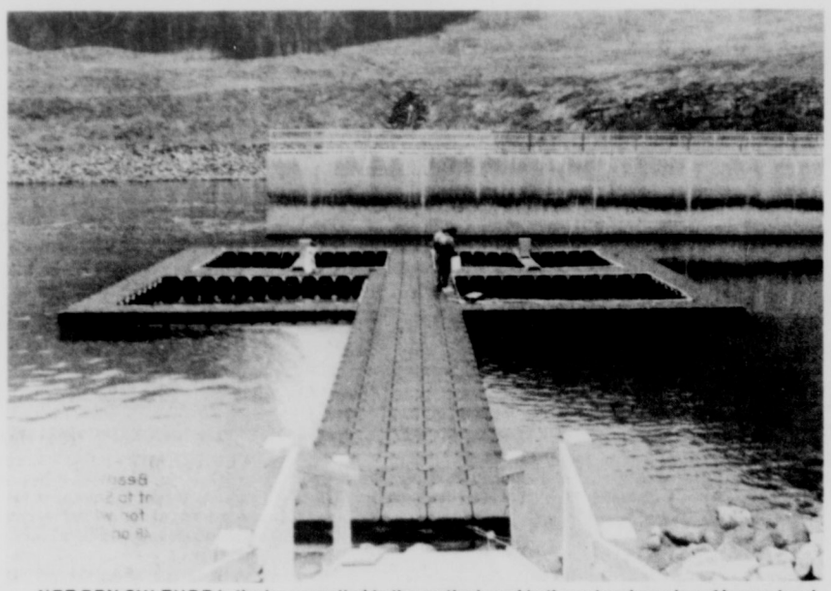
Known as net-pen culture, the trout-rearing facility is operated and maintained by project leader, Mike Dean, DNR conservation associate, who is witnessing the unexpected phenomenal success of the project which, by the way, has the potential of out-producing the traditional fish hatchery operation at a significantly lower cost.

The project originated when DNR Chief of Freshwater Fisheries, Dr. Robert Bachman issued a request to look for a site. It was discovered that the "tailrace area" at the dam had the right conditions.

As Ken Pavol, DNR regional fisheries manager, explained, the project "has turned out to be much more successful than anyone had anticipated."

Pavol explained that wild trout attracts a different kind of fisherman than the trout raised in artificial hatchery situations and stated, "Wild fishing is considered to be the ultimate fishing experience." The wild fishing sportsman, he said, spends "real money" for the experience.

The experienced fisherman, he added, makes the distinction between wild and tame trout.



NET PEN CULTURE is the term applied to the method used in the natural rearing of brown trout at the above pictured dock facility located at the Jennings Randolph Lake Dam near Bloomington. The dam (which was ten years in construction) has created cleaner, much improved water quality in an eight-mile stretch of the North Branch of the Potomac River. It is estimated by officials from the Fisheries Division of the Maryland Department of Natural Resources that approximately 16 to 18,000 brown trout will be produced this year. This, in turn, will result in Garrett County no longer having to purchase trout to stock local streams. In fact, it will now be possible for Garrett County to supply other streams in counties to the east. The dock has four separate units, all with net boundaries, that house different life cycles of the fish, and an automatic feeding system is also being utilized there.

He noted, however, that those who prefer the tamer variety will still have plenty to choose from in "put and take" streams — those streams which are supplied from fish hatcheries.

According to Gary Yoder, Western Maryland liaison for DNR, "Because of this operation, Garrett County has the potential to become one of the premier fisheries in the East." He explained this by citing the conditions of cool water, the increased ability to stock the rivers and the increased production of wild fish — all factors created and stimulated by this particular net-pen culture and the dam itself.

Yoder noted that other fisheries opportunities in the county have also improved recently, and cited the Little Youghiogheny's improved water quality as a direct result of the Oakland sewage treatment plant.

The facility, which began operation last summer, is situated on property owned by the Army Corps of Engineers and so is off-limits to the public. Presently there is no public access on the Maryland side of the lake but plans are being formulated to create one.

Pavol explained that because of the dam that is now in place at the lake, the water at the North Branch of the Potomac River from the site and eight miles downward is now greatly improved. In fact, he said, the dam has allowed the water quality there to be improved ten-fold, noting that the former mining town of Kempton had, at one time, been responsible for the high acidity there — conditions not favorable to the successful habitation of trout.

In fact, just a few years ago, the area was relatively uninhabitable to fish — and almost totally devoid of any food source (insects).

Seeing is believing, and upon observing the fish at the facility, one could only marvel at the fatter, more colorful specimans. These are healthy fish.

As Gary Yoder pointed out, the waterways (and the fish living there) are the best index of the general environmental health of a region. He explained that Garrett County is unique in that it is at the top of the watershed, and the water from five drainage basins flows out of the county. Most of the water now in Garrett County originated in Garrett County and is not impacted significantly by other waters.

This means, he said, that we have "very clean, pristine waters" and a great many streams here have excellent conditions for trout.

One problem experienced in Garrett County with other streams and tributaries is that some of them heat up toward the middle and end of summer, resulting in an unacceptable mortality rate among trout and in poor fishing opportunities during those summer months. The fish that are raised at the dock facility are treated to cool waters, maintained year-round by the ability to pull in (from a "release tower") waters from different strata in the lake, resulting so far in a very low mortality rate among the trout raised at that location.

Another plus at the spillway, according to Pavol, is that the water contains a much higher level of oxygen — 10 to 11 parts per million — than in traditional fisheries.

Water conditions at Bloomington are perfect for the entire life-cycle of the trout, beginning with the spawning process, which requires a gravel bed. The individual pens housing the fish are lined with netting, instead of concrete, so the fish experience very little abrasive injuries.

Also, because of the constant turnover of water, the fish, say Pavol, are "hardened off," and become healthier fish as a result.

Along with the environmental benefits of the project, not only to the fish but to the total environmental scenario as well, is the expected substantial economic impact to be seen as a result.

First, the facility itself is quite inexpensive to maintain, just as it was to construct. Mike Dean explained that the principal capital expense were the docks (known commercially as the Jet Stream System).

As far as the long-range economic impact, the renewed vitality of the North Branch of the Potomac and many other major tributaries in the county, according to reports, will lend itself to the area becoming a prime trout fishing area.

According to officials, wild trout fishing has a relatively low obtrusive impact on the community but a relatively high impact on the economics of an area.

As Gary Yoder stated, "Tourism makes up 35 to 50 percent of the aggregate income of the county, and recreation, especially, wild trout fisheries, is a very serious industry."

Yoder added, "Serious fishermen spend thousands of dollars to travel out west to the prime fishing areas." Garrett County may soon be "the" place for trout fishing in the Eastern United States.

This experimental trout-rearing project could, indeed, create a powerful attraction to Garrett County — one with which the natives can healthily live.

FISH FEEDING TIME — Regional Fisheries manager, Ken Pavol, above, right, is assisted by Gary Yoder, Western Maryland liaison for the Maryland Department of Natural Resources, left, in filling the automatic feeders that are part of the experimental trout-rearing station which has been in place for approximately one year. According to Pavol, "The project is more successful that anyone had predicted." Yoder added that the potential result of this operation is that Garrett County could become one of the "premier" wild trout fishing opportunities in the Eastern United States.

ACCIDENT

SPRING CLEAN-UP

Residents of the Town of Accident are reminded that Friday, May 4, has been designated by the Mayor and Town Council as "Spring Clean-Up Day." Residents are asked to gather debris and trash and place it along the street for pick-up no later than 2 p.m. The usual household garbage will not be collected on this day.

FLOWERY VALE SENIOR CENTER

A group of Seniors from the Flowery Vale Senior Center went out on Thursday afternoon to pick up trash from the area which they are sponsoring in the Adopt-A-Highway Program.

PERSONALS

SSG Edward Deal, son of Alice Deal, graduated at Ft. Belvoir, Va., on Friday from the U.S. Army Ordinance School. He has been stationed there since January. After visiting with his mother he continued on to Ft. Sill, Oklahoma, where he joined his wife Diana and son Jason.

Friday evening Mary Zinkan, Raymond Georg, Lourine Frazee, Fred and Margaret Kahl visited with Louise Richter at Flatwoods.

Mrs. Ross Speicher, a former resident of Accident, who now resides in Harrisonburg, Va., visited over the Easter holidays with her sister Mrs. Iva Knotts of Oakland. Hospice To Hold Annual Memorial Service Sunday Hospice of Garrett County, Inc., will hold its annual Memorial Service and covered dish dinner Sunday, May 6, at 5 p.m. at Camp Hickory near Accident.

Rev. Stephen Yelovich will conduct the worship service, which will include verses, readings, hymns and the lighting of candles in memory of Hospice patients and personnel. The Rev. Yelovich will be assisted by Father Martin Feild. Special music will be provided by Leonard Eiswert, local attorney and Hospice board member.

Hospice invites family members of deceased Hospice patients. Those attending the dinner are asked to bring a covered dish, salad or dessert and eating utensils. Beverages, napkins, plates, and cups will be provided.

For more information on the memorial service, persons may call Sally Schwing, chairperson for the memorial service, at 826-8339, or the Hospice office at 334-8111 or 895-3111.

Hospice Slates Training Class For Caregivers

Hospice of Garrett County, Inc., will sponsor a two-day training class this Saturday, May 5, and Saturday, May 12. These classes are designed to teach new volunteers how to deal with the many challenges of being a Hospice caregiver.

Topics scheduled for Saturday, May 5, include an overview of the work of Hospice by Cathy Chapman, director of nursing; Sharon King, volunteer coordinator; and Father Martin Feild, education coordinator and member of the board. Virginia Jeffrey will be teaching listening skills, Shirley Fitzwater of the First United National Bank and Trust will talk on legal and financial planning, and Martha Jachowski, co-chairman of the Hospice Bereavement program, will be conducting the grief counseling skills.

Topics for Saturday, May 12, will consist of home health skills, funeral home skills, aids awareness program taught by Chris Shafer, R.N., and physical therapy skills.

Persons can register for these classes by calling the Hospice office at 334-8111 or 895-3111.

Maryland Is Model For Octane Testing

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said a U.S. General Accounting Office report on lower than advertised octane ratings throughout the nation does not reflect the situation in Maryland where consistent testing of motor fuel since 1970 helps guarantee motorists that they get what they pay for.

"Our office helped design the GAO study. They came to us because Maryland is well-known as a leader in the field of gasoline and other motor fuel testing," Goldstein said.

The comptroller gained legislative approval to begin a petroleum testing program in 1970, and opened the Comptroller's Petroleum Testing Laboratory at Jessup, Maryland in 1974. "When we first began testing, about 10 percent of the product failed one or more of the quality tests," Goldstein said.

"Now, we test samples representing over one billion gallons of motor fuel each year, and only a fraction of one percent fail to meet quality standards. So we know the program is working," he added.

Maryland's motor fuel inspection program tests gasoline for octane rating, lead content, Reid vapor pressure, contamination and other qualities. Diesel fuel, home heating oil, kerosene and other products are also tested.

"During the last six months, we have tested 7,861 samples of gasoline," Goldstein said. "These samples were taken from retail service stations, tank storage farms, pipelines, barges and tanker ships. Only about 200 of these samples involved any octane problem, and those were generally brought up to standard within 24 hours by the oil companies."

The comptroller said that virtually all of the octane problems discovered in Maryland seemed to be the result of poor handling or contamination in transportation.

"I organized a task force including members from all levels of the industry which has suggested ways to prevent contamination in transportation and handling. We are cooperating with the industry by furnishing materials and speakers to various groups, including truck drivers, to point out ways to protect the integrity of the product and to protect the consumer," Goldstein said.

Board Of Realtors Collect Food For House Of Hope

The House of Hope was recently presented with donations from the Garrett County Board of Realtors food drive.

Ann Smith, Community Service Committee chairperson of the Garrett County Board of Realtors, presented to Sister Joanna, House of Hope, $300 in cash and 24 bags of groceries.

Century 21, Deep Creek Realty and the Board of Realtors were contributors and solicitors for public donations for the drive.

Each Board of Realtors in Maryland chooses an annual service project to promote goodwill.

The House of Hope Food Pantry serves 40 to 60 families each month. The House of Hope relies on contributions from organizations and individuals to provide this service.

The next food drive sponsored by the Board of Realtors is scheduled for June 2 to 8. Non-perishables, especially nutritious snacks, and cash donations, can be delivered to any realtor or real estate office during this week.

REALTOR® MLS EQUAL HOUSING OPPORTUNITY

GRANTSVILLE NEWS

Woodmen of the World Lodge No. 41, Grantsville, held its regular meeting April 23, with Janis Pope, President, presiding.

The State Road Department official arrived to explain the "Swat Program." Carl Schulk and Bob Rowan gave the program and showed a video tape.

The Lodge decided to take care of the Negro Mountain and Cove area for the "Adopt a Highway" program.

Flags donations were prepared. Scott Pope will take care of the yard. The door prize was won by Lillian Guthrie.

The next meeting will be May 14 at 8 p.m. All members are welcome.

The Woodmen of the World Western Maryland Lodges were hosted by Lodge No. 41 on Sunday, April 29, with Tom Bender, chairman of the group, presiding. The meeting was turned over to State Manager Ronald Ford who spoke on the Woodmen Centenial and went over all the Woodmen material. Janet Wable was the only field representive present and she was recognized for "a job well done."

A new benefit has been added for a Woodmen family with a new baby. Field Day was announced for June 16 at 9:30 at Fort Hill Stadium in Cumberland.

Summer Camp will be held at Camp Hickory July 2-6. Asa McCain is the camp director. The counselors are professional counselors and teachers from Camp Hickory.

Ed Robinson, Jurisdictional president from Cheverly, was present. He is at work planning the Convention which will be held April 19-20-21 in 1991 at Atlantic City, N.J., at the Claridge Hotel and Casino.

The nominating committee and fraternal project committee were appointed.

Woodmen Day has been set for June 16, when Woodmen of the World Life Insurance Company will be 100 years old.

The pre-convention program will be set up at a later date. Bittinger will host a corn roast on September 9.

The same officers were retained: Tom Bender, president; Tom Bernard, vice president; and Orlean Rider, secretary/treasurer.

Refreshments were served by Lodge No. 41.

McCartney Named To Local AEL Directors Board

Professor Kent B. Fuller, director of the University of Maryland's Appalachian Environment Laboratory (AEL), joins Dr. Wayne C. Spiggle, chairman of the AEL Board of Visitors, in announcing the appointment of Sull McCartney to the local Board.

McCartney attended West Virginia University and received two B.A. degrees from Glenville State College, Glenville, W.Va. He has also taken classes at Garrett Community College, McHenry.

McCartney serves as chief financial officer of Potomac Engineering and Surveying, Inc., which is a small, multidisciplined engineering firm serving Western Maryland and eastern West Virginia since 1957. He has been with PE&S since 1980. In addition to being responsible for all financial matters, he has also co-authored several land use plans prepared under contract for Garrett County. He was also the grant administrator for the Town of Oakland's recently completed sewage treatment project.

He is a charter member and past president of the Youghiogheny Chapter of Trout Unlimited, and has been involved in a wide variety of ecological projects in Garrett County, ranging from cleaning up trash to instream restoration work. He is also a charter member and current president of the "Friends of the Ruth Enlow Library" which was founded in 1986. Friends of the Ruth Enlow Library has been responsible for many improvements to the library and just concluded a successful campaign to raise $10,000 in 1989 for children's books. He is also a member of the Garrett County Democratic Club.

McCartney resides in Oakland with his wife, Brenda Dawson McCartney.

Pressure-Treated Wood Should Be Used With Caution

The wood used to build outdoor decks, lawn furniture, fences, etc. is pressure-treated with toxic chromated copper arsenate for protection from weather and insects.

This material is potentially harmful and must be handled safely to avoid problems. Of concern, is that bare feet and hands are exposed to the chemicals and then, especially with children, find their way into the mouth, youngsters may even chew on the wood. Either safe or hazardous labeling has to wait until more research results are in.

In the meantime, it is wise to handle the material with common sense. Do not burn it, do not use it for any food preparation (as cutting board). For extra safety, the wood can be sealed annually by coating with urethane and shellac.

CAC Reviews Several Projects

In a recent development status report released by Garrett County Community Action Committee, several projects were reviewed.

Through DHCD's Rehabilitation and Special Loan Programs, many county residents have received below market interest rates for rehabilitation loans. These loans have provided septic systems and wells for families that previously had no indoor plumbing. These loans are helping the low-income families of Oakland finance the sewer connection fees that many could not pay. This enables Oakland to obtain the funds they need to pay their loan. These loans are available to low and moderate income residents who own and occupy their homes. Loans are also available to landowners who rent to low and moderate income tenants. Loans are used to improve the dwellings, provide energy conservation measures and to correct life and health threatening conditions in the homes.

DHCD's Community Development Block Grant program recently provided funds to develop Woodridge Park, a subdivision in Mt. Lake Park, to provide housing sites. CDBG funds provided for the site aquisition and installation of the streets, public water and sewer lines, and other underground utilities throughout the subdivision. Funds will be recovered by lot sales. Also through DHCD's Homeownership Program, a housing financing package was assembled allowing lower income residents to purchase a lot in Woodridge Park and build a house. Interest rates are from four percent and five percent for 30 years. Presently there are several lots still available. Anyone interested in receiving any additional information concerning Woodridge Park is encouraged to contact Meg Ellis at Garrett County Community Action at 334-9431.

The Department of Housing and Community Development has invested not only money, but also technical assistance to encourage projects to completion. "The Department's investments have made many happy people in our county. We think they have invested their money well," stated Ms. Ellis.

Retired School Employees To Meet May 15

Members of the Preston County Association of Retired School Employees will meet Tuesday, May 15, at noon at the Reedsville United Methodist Church Hall.

Officers for 1990-1992 will be installed.

Send $5.00 with reservations to Mrs. Margaret White, P.O. Box 442, Reedsville, W.Va. 26547 or call 864-3316 no later than May 11. Retired school employees are invited to attend.

Agency To Start "Tender Loving Care" Project

Rosalie S. Abrams, director of the Maryland Office on Aging, has announced that the Office on Aging has established a project to recruit older persons as volunteers to help provide "tender loving care" to hospitalized children.

Currently, a number of hospitals throughout Maryland have "Cuddler" programs that utilize volunteers to assist hospital staff in caring for newborns, infants, sick children, or those rejected by their parents.

Recruiting senior volunteers for "Cuddler" programs is one of the projects associated with Governor Schaefer's designation of 1990 as "Maryland's Year of the Infant," and illustrates the high priority the Governor has placed on promoting intergenerational activities, according to Mrs. Abrams.

"This is a wonderful example of an intergenerational partnership in human service," Mrs. Abrams said. "The 'Cuddler' programs permit older people to participate in meeting the challenges of helping children with special needs."

Several hospitals around the state have indicated their need for more volunteers to provide much-needed attention for their young patients, she said.

Senior volunteers will be recruited from both the public and private sectors. Several agencies and organizations have agreed to recruit older retirees. Included are the: Baltimore Gas and Electric Company, the American Association of Retired Persons, the "Eating Together in Baltimore" nutrition program, the statewide Area Agencies on Aging, the Retired Senior Volunteer Program, and the Foster Grandparents program.

For further information on "Cuddler" programs or opportunities for volunteers, persons may call Susan Coller, Maryland Office on Aging, (301) 225-1064.

Northern High School Students Of The Month Selected

Senior Kevin Orner resides in Grantsville with his parents, Bill and Madeline Orner. He is a member of both the football and the auto mechanics clubs.

Andrei Yelovich, a junior, is the son of Stephen and Margaret Yelovich, Accident. He is a member of the band, Student Council vice president and junior class president. He is the president of his church youth group, and church lector and usher, and a member of the Accident Community Band. His future plans include finishing the fourth term of the school year on the Honor Roll. Andrei hopes to attend a four-year college and major in chemistry.

Sophomore Rebecca Fratz is the daughter of Jim and Lena Fratz, Accident. She is active on the basketball and softball teams and is a member of the basketball club. Rebecca is the vice president of the Zion youth group and is a member of the Zion Lutheran Church. She hopes to become more prepared for college where she plans to study veterinary medicine.

Julie Maust, also a sophomore, is the daughter of Markel and Miriam Maust, Accident. She is a member of the French club and babysits for the PTA. She plans to attend a four-year college and obtain a teaching degree.

Scott McKenzie, a freshman, is the son of Joe and Arlene McKenzie, Accident. He is active in basektball and football and is a member of St. Peter's Catholic Church. He plans to attend college and major in electronics.

Earns Honors At Washington, Lee

Courtney Llewellyn Smith, a freshman at Washington and Lee University, has earned honor roll status for the recently ended winter term.

Honor roll status at Washington and Lee represents a term grade-average of at least 3.5 on a 4.33 scale.

Miss Smith is the daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Manning L. Smith, Mountain Lake Park. She is a 1989 graduate of Southern High School.

Reduced MAIF Rates Approved

Maryland Insurance Commissioner John A. Donaho last week announced the approval of an overall statewide average 6.5 percent decrease for private passenger automobile insurance rates for the Maryland Automobile Insurance Fund (MAIF).

An Annapolis-based agency of the State government, MAIF sells automobile liability insurance to Marylanders who have been rejected by at least two private insurers or who have had their automobile liability insurance cancelled or not renewed for any reason other than nonpayment of premiums.

MAIF had made a rate request on April 10 and a public hearing was held by the State Insurance Division on Monday, April 23.

Assistant Insurance Commissioner J. Frank Nayden, who presided as hearing officer and prepared the order, stated, "I find that the filler (MAIF) has demonstrated that the proposed rate changes are justified and appropriate. The approved rates will affect new business written and renewal business processed as of June 1, 1990."

Fire Marshal Gabriele Notes Department Stats

State Fire Marshal Rocco J. Gabriele has announced the departmental statistics for the Office of the State Fire Marshal for the period January through December 1989.

Last year, the Office of the State Fire Marshal conducted approximately 4,520 total investigations state-wide. This represents a 7.3% increase over the 4,210 total investigations conducted by the Agency during calendar year 1988. Of the 4,520 total investigations, approximately 1,415 were initial fire investigations. Of the 1,415 initial investigations, 557 were determined to be arson or incendiary in nature.

The busiest month for initial investigations occurred in December with 225. June was the slowest month during the year with only 129 recorded investigations.

The Office of the State Fire Marshal's Bomb Squad responded to approximately 433 explosives incidents during the year. This was an increase of nearly 1% from the 429 such incidents recorded during calendar year 1988.

State Fire Marshals arrested 174 individuals for arson and fire code violations during 1989. One hundred twenty-seven of the 174 arrests were for arson-related crimes. The southern region, consisting of Charles, Calvert and St. Mary's Counties led the state with 30 individuals arrested for arson. Additionally, the northeast region of the state recorded the highest number of total arrests with 54 for arson, explosives and fire code violations.

In 1989, the Office of the State Fire Marshal performed some 13,179 fire code safety inspections throughout Maryland. The busiest month for inspectors during 1989 was May, when 1,621 fire code safety inspections were performed. Fire code inspections are conducted to insure that facilities meet Maryland's minimum fire safety regulations.

Those properties receiving the most frequent inspections by State Fire Marshal personnel were multi-family residential and business occupancies, with 3,447 and 1,557 inspections conducted respectively.

The Fire Protection Engineering Bureau conducted more plan reviews during the past year than in any other year in the Agency's 25 year history. Fire Protection Engineers reviewed approximately 4,351 building plans.

The Office of the State Fire Marshal, an agency of the Department of Public Safety and Correctional Services, is mandated to perform fire safety inspections and the suppression of arson among its varied and extensive duties.

Commenting on the departmental statistics for 1989, Gabriele stated, "I am extremely pleased with the level of performance of the men and women of the Office of the State Fire Marshal. All of our personnel have given 100% during the past year in the ongoing battle to improve fire safety conditions in our state."

CPA Workshop Slated At FSU

The Frostburg State University Accounting Department will offer a workshop for six hours of continuing professional education for certified public accountants from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Friday, May 11, in Room 141 of the Lane Center at FSU.

Featured speaker will be Anne Butt, a 1978 graduate of FSU who is a certified public accountant and partner in the accounting firm of Keller, Zanger, Bissell and Company of Frederick.

Participants will receive the "Government Auditing Standard" (yellow book); "State on Auditing Standards: Number 63"; "Statement of Positions: Number 89-6;" and "Office of Management and Budget Circular A-128."

CPE credit has been applied for from Maryland, Pennsylvania, and West Virginia.

The deadline for registration is May 8. Cost per participant is $75, which includes lunch.

The seminar is being sponsored in cooperation with the FSU Foundation, Inc., with proceeds benefiting the Accounting Department Endowed Scholarship Fund.

To register or for more information, persons may contact the FSU Accounting Department, William Hollar, at (301) 689-4372 or 689-4297.

Sales Tax Revenue Shows Increased Signs Of Growth

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein says consumer activity and unusually mild winter weather contributed to a nearly nine percent increase in sales and use tax revenue in the month of March. "This is the largest month to month growth we've seen this fiscal year," he said.

Total sales and use tax receipts in March 1990, which reflect February retail activity, amounted to $111,579,768, an increase of nearly nine percent over the same period of 1989. Total sales and use tax revenue in March 1989, was $102,412,116.

The taxable food and beverage category, the largest revenue source with $22.3 million, registered an increase of more than eight percent for March 1990, followed by general merchandise with $18.7 million, a nine percent increase over March 1989.

"The milder weather obviously encouraged consumers to get out to the stores and shopping malls," Goldstein said. "The warm weather also allowed construction activity to continue unhampered, and revenues from the construction-related categories posted substantial increases in sales and use tax revenue."

The building and contractors category produced $17.3 million, an increase of 16.8 percent over the same month last year. The furniture, fixtures and appliances category produced $14.3 million, up 7.4 percent, and the hardware, machinery and equipment category yielded $4.1 million, an 11.3 percent growth.

Sales and use tax revenue for the first eight months of fiscal year 1990 totalled $1,046,113,249, an increase of 4.5 percent over the $1,001,326,150 collected during the same period of the previous fiscal year.

LEARNS HOW TO MAKE A BED — Guy Hinebaugh, a student in Garrett Community College's woodworking class, displays the beds he has constructed out of cherry as a class project. Hinebaugh has taken the woodworking class taught by Bruce Taliaferro as a non-credit course for several semesters, and each time has made a different project.

Animal Agriculture To Be Topic Of Program Sunday Night At FSU

A Frostburg State University program this Sunday night, May 6, will examine the present and future role of animals in agriculture. Open to the public, the 7:30 p.m. program will feature six panel members representing agriculture, and a maximum of six panel members representing various animal rights organizations. The program will be held in room 201 of Lane Center on the FSU campus.

Following the presentations, a 30-minute question and answer session will allow panel members to answer questions from the audience, and the evening will end with a summary from each panel. The purpose of the panel presentation, which will be moderated by Paul McCloud of WXIE radio, is to inform and educate.

Agricultural sources say that many people have different perceptions of just what cruelity is, and all types of farmers should attend this presentation to find out how they are being viewed by the general public and what they can do to correct any misconceptions or misunderstandings the public might have.

Panel members speaking on behalf of agriculture will be from various agricultural associations, the University of Maryland and the Maryland Department of Agriculture. The speakers will be:

Don Osborn, a veal producer from Northwestern Pennsylvania, started his family-run operation in 1971 with 12 head, and now has a 530-head capacity. It continues to be a family operation. Osborn and his wife start the calves and their 21-year-old son finishes the calves. He began raising veal calves as an extension of his seven-year background as a dairy farmer. The Osborns are members of the American Veal Association and are involved with the Ohio Veal Growers. Osborn is also a member of the Pennsylvania Farmers Association.

Anita L. Wehrman, R.D., L.D., is a graduate of the University of Delaware with a B.S. degree in dietetics. As a registered and licensed dietitian, she is employed by the Maryland Beef Council as Director of Education and Promotion. Anita is currently pursuing a Masters of Health Science degree at Townson State University.

Boyd M. Cook was born and raised on a family dairy farm in New Castle County, Delaware. He was active in 4-H and FFA and won national 4-H awards in Soil Conservation and earned the American Farmer Degree in FFA. After completing two years in the Army and graduating from the University of Delaware with a distinguished degree in Animal Husbandry, he operatied the family dairy farm partnership from 1954 to 1958. Cook became a field representative for the Maryland Cooperative Milk Producers in 1958. He has advanced to his current position as the Middle Atlantic Division Manager for Dairymen, Inc. He has held national leadership positions in the International Association of Milk, Food and Environmental Sanitarians, the National Mastitis Council and the National Conference on Interstate Milk Shipments.

Dr. Douglas Carmel is the livestock Extension veterinarian for the University of Maryland in College Park. Dr. Carmel earned his D.V.M. from the University of Minnesota and an M.S. from the University of Wisconsin where he specialized in dairy science and veterinary parasitology. A former private practitoner with a four-person large animal practice in upstate New York, he now works extensively with livestock owners and veterinarians throughout Maryland.

Dr. James Fearer grew up in Preston County, W.Va., and after graduating from Terra Alta High School he received a B.S. degree in agriculture at West Virginia University. He received his D.V.M. degree from Ohio State University School of Veterinary Medicine at Columbia in 1972. He assumed a private practice in the Oakland area, and that 12-year practice involved both pets and farm animals. He was hired by the Maryland Department of Agriculture in 1984 as the field vet for Garrett and Allegany counties and lab director for the Oakland branch lab under the auspices of the Animal Health and Consumer Services Section of the Maryland Department of Agriculture.

Dr. Ray Stricklin was raised on a general livestock farm in Tennessee. He received his bachelor of science degree and his masters degree from the University of Tennessee, and his Ph.D. from Penn State University. He served on the faculty at the University of Saskatchewan, Canada. Dr. Stricklin joined the faculty at the University of Maryland in 1980 and is studying the social behavior of cattle and the area of animal well being. He has had articles published on the behavior of animals and participated in a consortium on the care and use of research farm animals.

The Race Is On!

If you have your corn in the ground, the only thing you have gained is the "Bragging Rights" with your neighbors that you got your corn planted first. However, your neighbors will, in all likelihood, have a better crop if he waits until the soil warms up. Corn planted in cool soil is at risk. First of all, it will not germinate until the soil temperature approaches 55 degrees F. Then many times the germination is erratic. Also, the longer the seed lays in the soil dormant, the chances of corn seed maggots and rot are much greater. My advice would be to have a good soil thermometer and plant corn when the soil temperature approaches 60 degrees F. The corn will germinate quickly and keep on growing.

Cows — Strong Markets Could Fade

Slaughter cow prices have soared to the second highest level in history this spring. Cow slaughter during the first quarter was nearly identical to the year-ago level. But since mid-winter, slaughter has dropped off rather sharply and should remain several percentage points below last year through late spring. Increased fed cattle supplies are expected from now into early summer. Cull cattle prices ordinarily lose a couple of dollars relative to fed cattle from mid to late spring. Fed cattle prices are likely to fall several dollars by June. If so, slaughter cow markets will probably slide lower as well. Take advantage of current high prices to aggressively cull your herd.

How Long Should Tax Records Be Kept?

Most professionals will tell you to keep copies of your tax returns forever and they mean it. If the Internal Revenue Service says it did not receive a return from you several years ago, it is up to you to prove you filed it. If you cannot come up with a copy of the return, it is often impossible to prove you filed one. And all the fines and penalties begin from the due date of the missing return.

All records that support an item used in figuring your income tax should be kept at least until the statute of limitations runs out. The burden of proof is on you, so you must have the supporting data. The problem is, how long does the statue of limitations run? Generally, it's three years after the return is filed. That's the time the IRS has to ask questions or to audit your return. But, it is six years if IRS finds you understated your gross income on the return by 25% or more, and there is no limit if fraud was involved or no tax return was filed.

Farm Notes

•You should be scouting your alfalfa fields often for the presence of the Alfalfa Weevil.

•The Gypsy Moth is hatching. Spraying will take place in approximately two weeks. We have to wait until the Oak trees get small leaves so the caterpillar will move up into the canopy.

•Be careful with your fertilizers and pesticides around streams. Your "Big Uncle" may be watching.

Governor To Sign Maryland-Soviet Agricultural Exchange Agreements

Governor William Donald Schaefer announced he will be signing four agricultural agreements with Soviet agricultural institutions during his visit to the Soviet Union in May. The agreements are with the Timiryazev Agricultural Academy, the USSR Agricultural Academy, the Institute of Agricultural Engineers and the Moscow Veterinary Academy.

"These agreements will allow us to exchange scientists and to cooperate on projects of mutual interest. All of these academies are leading research organizations in the field of agriculture in the Soviet Union," Governor Schaefer said.

"Taken together, I am proud to say that these agreements will put Maryland in the forefront in the field of agricultural cooperation with the Soviet Union. Maryland will be far ahead of all other states," said Governor Schaefer.

With Governor Schaefer at the signing ceremony will be Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Wayne A. Cawley Jr. and Deputy Secretary of Agriculture Robert L. Walker. Representing the University of Maryland will be Dr. William E. Kirwan, President, the University of Maryland College Park and Dr. Raymond J. Miller, Vice Chancellor of Agriculture and Natural Resources for the University of Maryland System.

The signing of these agreements for agricultural exchanges is the result of an ongoing relationship that has emerged over the last several years between the Maryland Department of Agriculture, the University of Maryland and Soviet agricultural leaders.

For example, in 1989 thirteen Maryland farm families hosted soviet farm students and this exchange will take place again this summer. In addition, this year Maryland students will be studying at the Timiryazev Academy, the leading agricultural academy in the Soviet Union.

Logger/Forestry Field Day Set For June 15-16

The Maryland Forests Association has a Logger/Forestry Field Day scheduled for June 15-16 at the Garrett County Fairgrounds, McHenry. The purpose of the field day will be to provide information and education for landowners, loggers, and others to increase their awareness of natural resources and the management of these resources. There will be equipment displays, equipment demonstrations, information and education booths, and craft displays on all aspects of natural resources management.

The Maryland Forests Association is a non-profit citizens' organization for people interested in trees, forests, and forestry. It is dedicated to the protection, preservation utilization, and intelligent management of all of the State's forest resources, to insure long term sustainable productivity of the forest land, natural resources, fish and wildlife.

The Logger/Forestry Field Day is open to the public; admission is $5. This gives the purchaser and his family access to the Field Day on both days and qualifies him for entry into door prize drawings each day. In addition, the first 1,200 people purchasing advance sale tickets will receive a "Western Maryland Loggers/Forestry Field Day" baseball cap.

Marylanders And Canadians Discuss Crop Insurance

More than 100 farmers, program administrators and academicians gathered in Saskatchewan, Canada, April 2 and 3 for the Saskatchewan/Maryland Conference for the Improvement of Agricultural Crop Insurance. Heading the Maryland delegation was Secretary of Agriculture Wayne A. Cawley Jr., who brought a strong message of support from Maryland Governor William Donald Schaefer. Dr. Darell Hueth led the University of Maryland delegations, Bruce Gardner represented the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

The program included the results of research conducted at six United States, Canadian, Australian and Israeli universities and a panel discussion on how crop insurance can be improved. On the panel were Charles Cawley and Royden Powell III, Maryland farmers; John Kintzel, vice president of the American Corn Growers Association and a member of the Commission for Improvement of Crop Insurance; and three Saskatchewan farmers.

The Honorable Grant Devine, premier and minister of agriculture in Saskatchewan, talked on the potential gains to world agriculture through further reductions of tariffs and non-tariff barriers to trade. Secretary Cawley met with Premier Devine on two occasions to privately review progress in the program of cooperation, which both sides began in the spring of 1988.

The Maryland delegation met with the Honorable Graham Schmidt, the minister of trade and development for the Province of Saskatchewan, to discuss future collaborative work. He expressed considerable interest in exploring how Maryland and Saskatchewan can increase the value added component of their exports and how foreign policies can provide for greater exports of North American agricultural products.

The Crop Insurance Conference was an outgrowth of a meeting between Governor Schaefer and Premier Devine at last year's Annual Governor's Conference. At that time they endorsed the concept of continous cooperative endeavors between Saskatchewan and Maryland.

Harrison Ford Endorses Farmland Preservation In Lancaster Co., Pa.

Harrison Ford, the number one male box office draw in the nation's movie theaters, has not forgotten the special experience of living in Lancaster County, Pa. The star, who resided in the county during the filming of the movie "Witness," has enthusiastically given his endorsement to the Lancaster Farmland Trust, a non-profit, farmland preservation group, that is working to help preserve Lancaster County's best agricultural lands and unique way of life. To date the trust has preserved over 1200 acres of farmland in the county.

Ford, who reportedly rode his bicycle through the countryside each day to his film location in rural Strasburg Township, made the following statement in support of the Lancaster Farmland Trust:

"I have had the firsthand opportunity to experience a special place and an extraordinary community in Lancaster County, Pa. An important part of America's heritage, this area of exceptional resources is home to a culture of wholeness and productivity that must be preserved.

"It is under enormous pressure. Farms, countryside communities and cultures are threatened with being overwhelmed by suburbanization, highway and commericalization. This is too important a part of America to lose by default.

"Please join with me in supporting the Lancaster Farmland Trust in our mission to preserve Lancaster County farmland resources and to move toward a more sustainable and agricultural community. Together we can save an important part of America's heritage."

Alan Musselman, executive director of the trust, was thrilled to hear of Ford's endorsement and said, "We are excited and grateful for Mr. Ford's backing. As a small non-profit land trust, it is gratifying to have our work acknowledged by a star of his magnitude. Apparently his stay in Lancaster County was much more than a job assignment to him. Mr. Ford is a man who travels worldwide yet he recognizes Lancaster County for the natural treasure that it is and wishes to protect it."

The Lancaster Farmland Trust was founded in 1984 as a support arm of the County Agricultural Preserve Board, known as "Friends of Agricultural Land Preservation." In 1988 the group was reformed as an independent, private, non-profit land trust and since then has been successful in preserving over 1200 acres of farmland using a unique mix of flexible and specially tailored methods including the purchase of conservation easements. The Trust has also gained an increasing and loyal following that helps to support its efforts through membership dues and contributions.

Dan Herr, Trust president, stated, "We are here to encourage and assist the farmer in a variety of ways and help him pass his land on to the next generation. However, it is only through the invaluable support of people like Mr. Ford and our members that we are able to pursue our mission of preserving this beautiful countryside and way of life. The Trust thanks Harrison Ford and all those who enable us to continue our important work."

For membership or preservation information in the Lancaster Farmland Trust, interested persons may contact the Trust at 128 East Marion Street, Lancaster, 17602, or call (717) 293-0707.

Labeling Standard For Organic Food Is Urged By F.B.

Asserting that a carefully developed labeling standard is "essential" for both consumers and growers of organic food, the American Farm Bureau Federation today urged the Senate Agriculture Committee to set a reasonable timetable for developing a workable program.

"Consumers need to be guaranteed that organic food for which they paid a premium is produced in accordance with guidelines applicable throughout the country," said John Datt, executive director of the AFBF Washington office, in a letter to the committee. Farm Bureau supports national labeling for organic products, saying it would aid consumers and possibly provide producers with new marketing opportunities.

Datt said both organic and conventional farmers believe there are still many "serious practical" and philosophical" issues that need to be resolved before legislation is written. Senate Agriculture Committee Chairman Patrick Leahy (D-Vt.) introduced a new labeling bill this week, but Farm Bureau, other farm groups and members of the Agriculture Committee take issue with some of the provisions. The Leahy bill, for example, would not set a strict federal standard and states could overrule it.

Datt cautioned against rushing the legislation, saying it might "send confusing messages to consumers" and "forestall important discussion and consensus building."

Farm Bureau sent the committee a draft bill that would require USDA to hold hearings to determine an organic standard. Following the hearings, USDA would then summit recommended legislation to Congress within 18 months after the 1990 farm bill is enacted.

HONARARY CHAPTER FARMERS were named at the annual Oakland FFA Awards Banquet held recently at Southern High School. The recipients, left to right, were: Tom Dodge, Henrietta Lease, Steve Kisner and Dorinda Kisner. Other awards presented that evening included Leadership Pins to Trish Marple, Chuck Graham, Elaine DeBerry and Chris Karcher; and Scholarship Pins to Ty Miller, 9th grade; Robbie Marple, 10th grade; Sam Wright, 11th grade; and Monica Miller, 12th grade.

ASCS Recommends Pre-Measurement Before Planting

Kenneth Bachtel, chairman of the Garrett County ASC Committee, says farmers who use pre-measurement service before planting their spring crops will be guaranteed that their field sizes are accurate for the 1990 program year.

"Pre-measuring assures farmers that they are in compliance with the acreage reduction requirements," said Bachtel, "and eliminates the worry over loss of program benefits."

Before crop planting time, ASCS will stake and measure any type of acreage, or portions thereof, that a farmer requests. To be assured that acreage reduction requirements are met, farmers must plant within the stakes that are placed when the land is pre-measured.

Farm program participants are required to report actual planted crops, acreage conservation reserve (ACR) and other acreage, to be eligible for price support loans, target prices and other program benefits. The ACR is cropland removed from production and put into conservation uses under the 1990 farm programs.

Bachtel said pre-measurement is important in helping producers plan which land to devote to the ACR and which fields to plant.

The service costs $20 plus 40 cents per acre, per tract and includes measuring, referencing and marking fields with stakes prior to planting.

Farmers may request pre-measurement services at the Garrett County ASCS Office.

Maryland Farmland Values Are Up

The average value of Maryland farmland and buildings was the third highest in the nation at the first of the 1990s. Farmland and buildings in the state averaged $2,512 per acre, up one percent from February 1, 1989. Nationally, farmland and buildings averaged $693 an acre, up four percent from February 1, 1989.

YOU'RE WELL EQUIPPED TO DETECT A GAS LEAK.

Fortunately, natural gas leaks are rare. But if one should occur, you have everything it takes to spot the telltale signs...the ability to see, hear and smell.

INSIDE

The most obvious sign is the smell. Natural gas by itself usually is odorless, so gas companies add a distinctive odor to gas.

If you smell this telltale odor in your home, don't use matches, electrical switches or appliances. Leave the house immediately, then call the gas company from a neighbor's home or pay telephone. Remain near your home until a gas company representative arrives and checks the cause of the odor.

OUTSIDE

You may detect a natural gas leak anywhere gas lines or facilities are located. Sometimes, the sign may be the odor. But in rural areas, natural gas pipelines may contain non-odorized gas. A leak of non-scented gas means little or no odor will be present. So count on your other senses as well.

Look or listen for these signs. Anywhere a gas line is located, a leak may cause:

- a blowing or hissing sound
- dirt being blown into the air
- water bubbling or being blown into the air at a pond, creek or river
- brown patches in vegetation on or near a gas line right-of-way
- fire coming from the ground or burning above it

If you detect any sign of a leak, follow these steps quickly: 1) leave the area at once, and warn others to stay away; and 2) find a telephone away from the area to call the gas company, and the fire and police departments. DO NOT try to extinguish a gas fire or operate any pipeline valves.

Chances are you'll never need to recognize a natural gas leak. But just in case, we think it's important for you to be able to detect signs of trouble. Together, we'll keep natural gas service safe and efficient.

EPA Says "Aldicarb Recall Should Not Worry Processors, Consumers"

The Rhone-Poulenc Ag Company recently announced that it is voluntarily stopping the sale of the pesticide aldicarb (brand name Temik) for use on potatoes and is recalling all stocks of aldicarb previously sold for this use. The company will continue to sell aldicarb for other food and nonfood uses.

Rhone-Poulenc officials took this action because of unexplained high residue levels they found in a few potatoes while conducting a study requested by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

Rhone-Poulenc scientists analyzed 100 potatoes from each of three fields treated with aldicarb in 1989. All the potatoes from two of the fields had residues below the legal tolerance of one part per million (ppm). In the third field, they found 10 potatoes with residues slightly above the tolerance and one potato with residues of nine ppm.

"Because these residues occurred as a result of a legal application according to label directions rather than as a result of misuse. Rhone-Poulenc decided to be extra cautious and withdraw Temik for use on potatoes while they conduct further studies," explains Amy E. Brown, pesticide coordinator for the University of Maryland Cooperative Extension Service (MCES).

She adds that there is no need for consumers to stop eating potatoes or for food processors to change their processing practices.

"Aldicarb has not been associated with cancer or any chronic health effects," explains Brown. "It can cause some acute (immediate, short-term) problems, but no adverse health effects have been reported from proper use of aldicarb in the 17 years it has been used in crop production."

Residues of nine ppm, the amount found by Rhone-Poulenc in one potato, could cause flu-like symptoms, possibly including nausea, blurred vision and vomiting. These symptoms would begin — and end — rapidly.

But because only one out of the 300 potatoes analyzed had residues that high, consumers' risk of getting sick from eating potatoes is extremely slight, according to Rick Tinsworth, head of the Special Review and Registration of EPA's Office of Pesticide Programs. And that risk can be reduced even further by home preparation techniques.

"Although aldicarb is systemic, which means you can't wash or peel it off," Tinsworth explains, "traditional cooking methods — baking, boiling, frying — reduce any residues by about 50 percent." (Data on the effects of microwave cooking are not currently available).

Because processed potato products, like instant mashed potatoes, French fries and potato chips, are made from a combination of many potatoes from different sources, the chance of above-tolerance residues is virtually non-existent.

Therefore, EPA is recommending that potato processors continue to accept potatoes already treated with aldicarb.

This is good news for many Maryland growers who have already treated their fields this spring to prevent damage from the Colorado potato beetle. Still, because of possible public confusion and controversy, Brown advises growers who have not yet treated their fields to refrain from doing so.

"We don't want to get caught in another Alar scare," she says.

SOIL AND WATER STEWARDSHIP WEEK is being observed this week (April 29-May 6) and the Garrett Soil Conservation District is encouraging local churches, organizations and individuals to join the nationwide observance which emphasizes everyone's role in protecting soil and water resources for future generations. The local district, which works throughout the year on soil and conservation measures, is providing literature and speakers who will emphasize man's responsibility to be active stewards of the nation's soil and water resources. George Bishoff, chairman of the Garrett District, said, "Everyone needs to learn about the impact of his or her actions and the actions of those around us. Recognizing that, we can commit ourselves to individual and community action. By using good erosion prevention practices, conserving water or simply planting a tree, we'll each help make the world a better place for our children's children. Since 1955, the National Association of Conservation Districts has sponsored Soil and Water Stewardship Week, in cooperation with nearly 3,000 local districts nationwide, as one way to emphasize the importance of good stewardship of basic soil and water resources."

Milk Production Is Up Slightly

Maryland milk production during January through March 1990 was up one percent from year earlier levels. The number of cows in the milking herd was down by 1,000 head to 105,500 in the first quarter of 1990.

On April 1, 1990 dairy farmers in Maryland were feeding an average of 16.1 pounds of grain and other concentrates to their milking herd compared to 16.4 pounds a year earlier.

Livestock Production And Prices Are Down

Maryland cattle farms produced 105.5 million pounds of cattle and calves in 1989, down four percent from the previous year. However, due to higher prices, the value of this production was only off by one percent from the 1988 value.

United States production of meat animals during 1989 totaled 62.7 billion pounds, down fractionally from the 1988 production of 63.0 billion pounds. The value of meat animal production was $37.6 billion in 1989 compared with $36.8 billion in 1988.

March Commercial Livestock Slaughter Down In March

Commercial red meat production for the United States in March 1990 totaled 3.26 billion pounds, down two percent from last year, according to the Agriculture Statistics Board. January-March red meat production, at 9.58 billion pounds, was down slightly from last year. Percentage changes for 1990 accumulated production by individual components were: beef, down fractionally; veal, down 13; pork, up fractionally; lamb and mutton, up six.

Commercial red meat production includes slaughter in federally inspected and other plants, but excludes animals slaughtered on farms. Kill days for March 1990 included 22 weekdays (no holiday) and five Saturdays. Kill days for March 1989 consisted of 23 weekdays (no holiday) and four Saturdays.

Comparing March 1990 with March 1989. Beef production, at 1.87 billion pounds was down one percent. Head kill totaled 2.76 million, down two percent. The average live weight increased eight pounds to 1,133. Veal production, at 28.0 million pounds was down 10 percent. Calf slaughter totaled 171 thousand head, down 15 percent, and the average live weight increased 10 pounds to 270. Pork production, at 1.33 billion pounds was down three percent. Hog kill totaled 7.45 million head, down four percent from last year. The average live weight increased one pound to 248. Lamb and mutton production, at 32.0 million pounds was down six percent from last year. Slaughter totaled 493 thousand head, down five percent. The average live weight was unchanged at 129 pounds.

AFBF Speaks Out Against Legislation To Acquire Private Lands

Legislation that would establish a $25-30 billion trust fund to acquire private lands for recreation and other uses threatens landowners' property rights, according to the American Farm Bureau Federation.

Testifying before a Senate Energy subcommittiee, Wyoming Farm Bureau President David Flitner said the American Heritage Trust Act (S. 370) "will increase federal spending and taxes, reduce economic opportunities in rural communities and will result in the confiscation of private lands from farmers and ranchers."

Commenting on behalf of AFBF, Flitner said the legislation's impact on property rights is Farm Bureau's primary concern because the bill does not require lands to be purchased only from willing sellers. In other words, local governments can invoke eminent domain under the bill.

Among farmers, he said, concerns "are widespread and ... are growing" because the bill calls for $1 billion to be spent annually for acquistion of private lands for recreation and historic preservation. The $1 billion would be an automatic appropriation, with no congressional oversight. It would come from interest generated by the $25-30 billion fund, which would be amassed from federal oil and gas leasing revenues.

"We think you will also agree that S. 370 is a big step in the wrong direction," Flitner told the congressional committee, citing the off-budget spending process, outside of the regular appropriations procedure. "Farm Bureau insists that spending restraint, rather than tax and spending increases, is the right path to balancing the federal budget."

The House Interior Committee approved its version of the bill in May 1989. Since then, it has been stalled in the House Rules Committee, which is in charge of allowing legislation to reach the House floor. Some Rules Committee members object to the measure's bypassing of normal congressional spending procedures.

Flitner is a Shell, Wyo., rancher who produces Hereford cattle, sheep, alfalfa, barley and sugar beets.

Land Preparation Progresses Slightly

Wet fields hampered farmers' activities in most areas of the state for the week ended April 15. At the end of the week topsoil moisture was surplus in 67 percent of the state and 33 percent was adequate. Subsoil moisture was surplus in 33 percent of Maryland and 67 percent was adequate. There was an average of 2.1 days suitable for fieldwork according to the Maryland Agricultural Statistics Service.

Thirty-eight percent of the acreage had been prepared for spring planting, ahead of last year's 30 percent on April 15 and behind the normal of 44 percent. The use of minimum tillage and government programs causes the acreage prepared figure to be difficult to measure and less meaningful. A portion of the acreage is not conventionally tilled.

Wheat, barley, and rye are generally in good condition. Powdery mildew has been reported in many wheat fields. Oats were in fair condition throughout the state. Spring oats were 47 percent planted, slightly behind last year's 53 percent and the 5-year average of 49 percent. Peaches were 96 percent in bloom, ahead of last year's 86 percent on April 15 and the normal of 72 percent. Thirty-seven percent of the apples had bloomed, while last year at this time none were reported having bloomed. Strawberries were in bloom on 36 percent of the crop, ahead of last year's six percent.

Sweet corn was three percent planted, behind the five percent of a year earlier. Farmers had planted 48 percent of the potatoes, down from 53 percent a year earlier and the average of 68 percent.

WEATHER

Maryland weather for the week ended April 13 was cool with showers. Precipation averaged 0.64 inch, ranging from 0.13 inch at Smithsburg to 1.07 inch at Wye Research Center. Western Maryland received an average of 0.70 inch; North Central received an average of 0.55 inch, Southern Maryland west of the Bay received an average of 0.52 inch, and the Eastern Shore received an average of 0.78 inches. Temperatures averaged 45.8 degrees for the week, 6.3 degrees below the normal of 52.1 degrees. Minimum temperatures dipped to the upper teens, in the extreme Western Maryland but were mid-20s to the low to mid-30s elsewhere. Maximum temperatures were mostly in the low to mid-60s to low 70s.

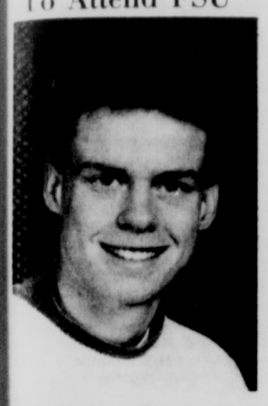
David Eiswert Receives Award To Attend FSU



David James Eiswert, Rt. 2, Oakland, has been selected to receive a Meritorious Achievement Award to attend Frostburg State University for the 1990-91 academic year.

Eiswert, who plans to major in political science, will graduate from Southern High School this spring. The son of Leonard and Kathy Eiswert, he is a member of the boys' varsity basketball team and the National Honor Society. In 1987, he was an exchange student to France. In addition to being honored in "Who's Who Among American High School Students," he was a member of a winning delegation at the World Affairs Institute of West Virginia University. He also had a lead role in his junior class play.

Funding for the award is provided by the University of Maryland System and is administered by the Frostburg State University Scholarship Committee. Selection is made on the basis of academic achievement, leadership qualities, or demonstrated ability in the visual or performing arts.

For more information about the awards, persons may contact the FSU Financial Aid Office, (301) 689-4301.

Dr. Thomas Joins Meyersdale Hospital Staff

Meyersdale Community Hospital, Meyersdale, Pa., has announced the association of Terrence J. Thomas, M.D., to the active hospital staff in the practice of general surgery.

Dr. Thomas most recently practiced in Louisburg, N.C., and was previously on the medical staff of Garrett County Memorial Hospital. Originally from Meyersdale, Dr. Thomas graduated from Mount Saint Mary's College in Emmitsburg and from Jefferson Medical College in Philadelphia. He has been in private practice of general surgery since 1966.

Dr. Thomas will have an office in the Meyersdale Community Hospital Medical Building at 312 Sherman Street in Meyersdale. Appointments can be made by cailing (814) 634-5117.

Reams Is Named Merit Recipient

Allen G. Reams, Oakland, has been selected to receive a Meritorious Achievement Award from Frostburg State University for the upcoming 1990-91 academic year.

Reams, who plans to major in accounting/international business at FSU, will graduate from Southern High School this spring. He is a member of his school's chapter of the National Honor Society and the Student Council. Other accomplishments and awards include All American Scholar, Student of the Month, "Who's Who Among American High School Students," the National Science Merit Award, United States Council Award, and Maryland Distinguished Scholar.

Funding for the award is provided by the University of Maryland System and is administered by the Frostburg State University Scholarship Committee. Selection is based on academic achievement, leadership qualities, or demonstrated abilities in the visual or performing arts.

For more information about the awards, persons may contact the FSU Financial Aid Office, (301) 689-4301.

Promenaders Recently Elect New Officers

The club held its 20th Anniversary celebration April 9 at the Will O' the Wisp with a dinner and dance which was called by Jerry Harbert, their square dance caller. The following members and guests attended: Doyle and Louise Biser, Jack and Thelma Henshaw, Maxine and Elwood Jamison, Arnold and Barbara Feather, Ralph and Ethel Buckel, Dale and Janet Sisler, Mike and Eleanor Winter, Doug and Bonnie Buckley, Stan and Creola Jones, Willie, Regina and Melanie Zinn, Jess and Helen Molle, Paul and Alice Eary, Bob and Pauline Eaton, Joe and Kate Matthiesen, Ray and Betty Mattingly, Walt and Kitty Poyer, Nellie Platter, Neil and Virginia Sanders, Bud and Margaret Sharps, Paul and Donna Shogren, Dale and Marie Custer, Jo Ashby, James and Donna Carney, John and Wilma Sharps, and Jerry Harbert, club caller.

The club will be starting new classes in September. Dates will be published in the local paper at a later date. For more information, persons may call Doug Buckley at 334-9253, Doyle Biser at 334-9724, Dale Custer at 334-3195, or Jo Ashby at 334-2193.

Club dances are held at Dennett Road School gym every second and fourth Mondays from 7 to 9 p.m. Spectators are always welcome.

Awards Ceremony To Be Held For Students At FSU

Frostburg State University's Office of Student Support Services and Disabled Student Services will hold its third annual Student Achievement Recognition and Awards Ceremony, today, May 3 at 7 p.m. in the Roper Gallery on campus.

The event will feature a dual program with guest speaker James Rhodes, an attorney with the Cook County Public Defenders Office in Chicago, addressing "Class Action in Action: Potentials for High-Risk Students," as well as a special award going to now retired FSU administrator Paul Trichel. He is receiving the award in recognition of National TRIO Day 1990 and because of his long-standing support of numerous SSS/DSS activities.

Outstanding SSS/DSS students will also be honored in a showcase of awards of talents at the event. For more information, contact Regina Williams, 689-4481. The public is invited to attend.

Forests Association Sponsors Poster Contest In Schools

In conjunction with the first annual Loggers and Forestry Field Day, June 15-16, at the Garrett County Fairgrounds, the Maryland Forests Association will also be sponsoring a poster contest with the theme, "Man and Forests Working Together."

Details of the poster contest were distributed via a green flier this week in most Garrett County elementary and middle schools.

The contest is open to school-aged students in two categories: grade K through 5 and grades 6 through 8 with a $100 Savings Bond being the top prize in each category as well as a special $100 bond for the winner of a "Peoples' Choice" poster chosen during the Field Days, June 15 and 16. Visitors to the event may vote by coins in appropriate cans near each poster entry with all proceeds going to Garrett's Habitat for Humanity.

Students entering the contest should pick up an information flier at their school which specifies that posters be 14" x 22" in size with a design that develops the contest's theme — "Man and Forests Working Together." Deadline for all posters is May 23 at each individual school. All posters will become property of the Maryland Forests Association.

For more information about the contest, contact Marshall Stacy, 387-4588.

Inducted Into Quill And Scroll

Brenda Paugh was recently initiated into the Southern High School Chapter of Quill and Scroll, a national honor society of high school journalists.

Students so initiated must be in the upper one-third of their class academically, be on either a school newspaper or yearbook staff, be a junior or senior, and be recommended by their advisor. Brenda was recommended by Doug Buckley, SHS journalism advisor, and was among those students initiated into the chapter on April 18 in ceremonies held at Cornish Manor.

Miss Paugh was also recently nominated by Pam Eyler and Connie Carpenter to receive an award in cheerleading from the U.S. Achievement Academy.

Brenda is the daughter of Leon and Carol Paugh, Kitzmiller.

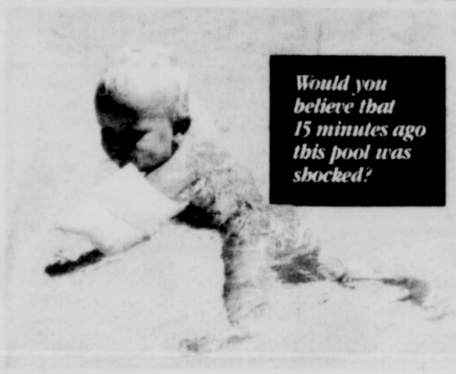
Maryland Trout Stamp Design Competition Opens

Dr. Torrey C. Brown, secretary of the Maryland Department of Natural Resources, has selected May 1 as the opening day for the 1991 Maryland Trout Stamp Design Contest. The purpose of the contest is to select the design to appear on the 1991 Maryland Trout Stamp, a required purchase for anglers 16 and over to take trout from the state's non-tidal waters.

The artwork may be of any species of trout — brook, brown or rainbow — found in Maryland waters, or of any activity or equipment associated with trout fishing in Maryland. The artwork may be a horizontal or vertical drawing or painting, 11"x 15½" in multicolor or black and white, and matted no larger than 13½" x 18." Artists entering the contest must be residents of Maryland.

All entries, if hand delivered, must be received no later than 4 p.m. on August 3, 1990, or if mailed, postmarked no later than August 3, 1990. Rules may be obtained by writing: Maryland Trout Stamp Contest, Public Affairs Office, Department of Natural Resources, Tawes State Office Building, Annapolis, Maryland 21401.

Judging is scheduled for 10:30 a.m. Friday, August 17, 1990 in the Lobby Conference Room, C-1, the Tawes Building, Annapolis.



It could have been.

Be back in the swim in 15 minutes instead of the usual 8 to 10 hours. That's because E-Z Clor O³ Shock contains DuPont IMPACT® Speed Shock Treatment, an oxygen based, non-chlorine powder. So O³ Shock is safe, fast, and comfortable. So fast, it won't bleach or damage vinyl liners. So easy, because an underdose removes some chloramines while an overdose is not harmful. So comfortable, because it eliminates contaminants that cause cloudy water, eye burn and that chlorine smell.

TRUSTEE SALE OF ATTRACTIVE AND VALUABLE PROPERTY

situate in Election District No. 6, Garrett County, Maryland.

Under and by virtue of a decree of the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, passed on February 23, 1990, in the proceedings in No. 1319 Civil Action in said Court, wherein Charles R. Goss was the Plaintiff and Thomas E. Goss, et al, were the Defendants, the undersigned, being authorized and directed to sell the property hereinafter described, does hereby give notice that on:

Friday, the 4th day of May, 1990
at the hour of 10:00 a.m.

in the Rotunda of the Courthouse in the Town of Oakland, Garrett County, Maryland, we will offer and sell at public auction, all that lot, piece or parcel of land, situate, lying and being in Election District No. 6, Garrett County, Maryland, being part of a tract of land called "Gleanings" and described as follows, to wit:

BEGINNING for the same at a stake by the side of the County Road leading from Oakland to Sang Run; thence South 15 degrees West 63¼ poles to a stake; South 22¼ degrees West, 29 poles to a stake, South 28 degrees West, 29 poles to a stake; South 16 degrees West 34¼ poles to a stake corner to a division line with John Sines, South 70½ degrees West, 109½ poles (division line) to a stake, North 4½ degrees East, 10 poles to a stake; North 30 degrees East, 112 poles to a stake, North 75½ degrees East, 86½ poles to the beginning, containing 50 acres, and 74 poles, more or less.

ALSO, 7 acres of woodland, adjoining the above-described land, making a total of 57 acres and 74 poles of land hereby intended to be conveyed.

BEING the same as conveyed by Henry Sines to Elmer E. Goss and Hallie E. Goss, his wife, by deed dated September 6, 1932, and recorded in Liber No. 112, Folio 366, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland.

UPON the death of Elmer E. Goss the property vested in the late Hallie E. Goss.

The above described property is located on the County Road leading from Oakland to Sang Run and is improved by a one story four room frame cabin. This property has approximately 150 feet along the Oakland to Sang Run County Road, approximately 10 acres of woodland and the remainder is cleared. The property contains a dug well and two springs.

TERMS OF SALE: Fifteen percent (15%) cash on the day of sale and the remaining eighty-five percent (85%) upon ratification of sale and delivery of a deed for the property, or all cash, at the option of the purchaser. All taxes and other public charges will be adjusted as of the day of sale. The cost of documentary stamps and transfer tax will be shared equally. The property is being sold in an "as is" condition.

The Trustees reserve the right to reject any and all bids.

NO. 1819 CIVIL ACTION
IN THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR GARRETT COUNTY MARYLAND

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this proceeding is to secure the foreclosure of all rights of redemption in the following property, situate in Election District No. 18, Garrett County, Maryland, sold by the Collector of Taxes for Garrett County and State of Maryland to ROBERT SMITH.

ALL that lot, piece or parcel of land situate in Election District No. 18, Garrett County, Maryland, known and designated as Lot No. 52 in the George E. Sloan Subdivision, and being the same as described in a deed from Ernest B. McKee, to Edward M. Spohn and Darlene L. ORDINANCE 1990-2

WHEREAS, the Friendsville Mayor and Town Council is authorized by the Friendsville Town Charter to enact ordinances to protect the health, safety and welfare of residents and visitors to the Town of Friendsville; AND

WHEREAS, it has come to the attention of the Friendsville Mayor and Town Council that the operation of skateboards by persons on public ways within the Town constitutes a hazard to pedestrians and vehicular traffic, as well as to the operators of skateboards, AND

WHEREAS, the Town council believes that prohibiting the operation of skateboards on public ways within the Town limits will reduce and/or eliminate any existing hazard regarding the use and operation of skateboards within the corporate limits of Friendsville;

NOW, THEREFORE, be it resolved by the Friendsville Mayor and Town Council that, effective May 1, 1990, it shall be unlawful for any person to ride, propel, push, or otherwise operate a skateboard on any public way, street, alley, sidewalk, parking lot, or other public property within the corporate limits of Friendsville.

FURTHERMORE, any person(s) found to be in violation of the provisions of this ordinance shall be subject to a fine of $50.00.

Deep Creek Lake Clean-Up Slated For May 19-20

The Deep Creek Lake Management Program will be sponsoring its annual drive to clean up the Penelec buffer strip and land around Deep Creek Lake on Saturday, May 19, and Sunday, May 20, according to Paul Durham, lake manager.

Through a cooperative effort with the Deep Creek Lake Businessmen's Association, Arrowhead, Inc., and the Garrett County Roads Department, and the Deep Creek Lake Property Owners Association, Durham said he hopes that this will continue to be a yearly effort which will insure the "beauty and integrity" of the shoreline surrounding the lake. According to Durham, the most important contributor to the success of this project, however, will be the efforts of the individual landowners who have property around the lake. It is hoped that all landowners in the lake area will take the time to gather up separated pieces of lumber from old docks, and empty barrels, provided holes have been punched in both ends of the barrel.

Such articles should be placed on the lake side of roads immediately adjacent to Deep Creek Lake. It should be noted that the volunteers will not pick up leaves, brush, tires, household litter, stumps or driftwood, Durham said.

Environmental Group Formed By Area Citizens

A group of Garrett and Allegany County residents have formed a non-profit organization to focus on environmental issues. Called CARE (Concerned Area Residents for the Environment), the organization will focus on urging decision-makers to consider residents' views on environmental issues.

"Too many decisions about the environment are made without local input," said Larry Bruch, president of the new organization. "We feel it's time for people who live and work here to stand up and be counted on environmental issues. We're concerned that the great life we have now be kept for our children to enjoy." Bruch explained that when plans for an interstate highway to tear up Meadow Mountain were announced, it created quite a stir. The plan would destroy the skimobile trail and would disrupt much of Savage River Forest and New Germany Park, he said. "It's time to put a stop to this sort of thing," Bruch said. "The area they're talking about should be a greenway, not a throughway."

Bruch continues, "The same thing applies to reckless timbering with no thought of

Swallow Falls Resident Robbed While At Home

A Swallow Falls Road resident was recently the victim of a robbery in his own home, according to Detective P.J. Kelly, Garrett County Sheriff's Department.

According to the victim, Claude Lewis, two persons entered his residence last Friday evening, both having stocking caps pulled over their faces.

One person, approximately six feet tall, held him while the second individual, approximately 4 feet in height, searched the residence. Lewis was unable to absolutely determine whether the suspects were male or female.

The suspects then forcibly took money from his person and left the premises.

Detective Kelly has requested that persons with any information concerning this crime contact him at the Garrett County Sheriff's Department, 334-1911.

In an unrelated case, Alpheus Walter Sine Jr., Woodsboro, reported a breaking, entering

Plans Finalized For May 19 Commencement At GCC Campus

The sound of bagpipes and the roll drums will signal the start of the 18th annual commencement of Garrett Community College on Saturday, May 19, at 10:30 a.m. in the college gymnasium. Once again, the GCC Pipe and Drum Band led by the Honorable Fred A. Thayer, pipe major, will play for the academic procession of graduates, faculty, administrators, and other dignitaries. The public is invited to attend the commencement.

According to Dr. Lillian Mitchell, Dean of Academic Affairs, 65 students have been approved for graduation, pending submission of final grade reports. This number includes both students who will receive associate in arts degrees and those who will receive certificates.

Following a welcome and introduction of guests by GCC President Dr. Steve Herman, Henry J. Butta, chief executive officer of C&P Telephone Company, will give the commencement address. Degrees and certificates will then be conferred by Wayne Hamilton, chairman of the Board of Trustees.

Awards will be given to the outstanding transfer student and the outstanding career advancement student. A special award for outstanding contributions to Garrett Community College will be presented to Richard Schick, plant manager of Bausch & Lomb.

In addition to the Pipe and Drum Band, the Mt. Top Brass Quintet will play during the commencement ceremony, and the Garrett Community College chorus will sing. Following the ceremony, all graduates, their families, and friends are invited to a reception in the Student Center.

Two More Rabies Cases Confirmed; Total At 13

The Garrett County Health Department has recently confirmed two additional cases of rabid animals, bringing the total for this year to 13.

The 12th and 13th cases were confirmed Tuesday, according to Rodney Glotfelty, assistant director, Garrett County Environmental Health Department, who reported that two raccoons were killed, one on Saturday and one on Sunday, that were later confirmed to be rabid.

Harland Upole reported that a raccoon entered his property, located on Fairview Road off New Germany Road, and attacked his dog. Upole shot and killed the raccoon.

The dog had been vaccinated, but is being watched as a precautionary measure.

Raymond Brant discovered a raccoon in a tree on his property on Brant Road, off State Park Road. That incident is still under investigation, however, because officials are uncertain of whether or not there was human or animal exposure to the rabid animal.

Glotfelty stated that the response so far to the rabies clinic being conducted this week by the Health Department has been good. He noted that over 100 animals had been vaccinated at the Friendsville site, and aproximately 78 at the Gorman site.

Waldorf Man Found Guilty Of Killing Bear

A Waldorf man was found guilty of a charge of killing a black bear during a trial held Tuesday at Garrett County District Court.

Jesse Beale, 37, was found guilty of killing a black bear in a closed season.

Beale pleaded not guilty to the charge, even though he apparantly had signed a confession in January.

He was fined $500 and sentenced to six months in the Garrett County Jail. Judge Turney then suspended all of the sentence except 48 hours and placed Beale on 12 months probation.

Beale's hunting privileges have also been suspended for two years.

Beale apparently killed the black bear on the first day of deer season, November 25, 1989, in an area near Savage River Road, known as Bear Pen.

The charge was filed by Officer J.R. Milbourne, Department of Natural Resources Police. Beale appeared without counsel.

Bloomington Water Problems Plague Sanitary Board, Commissioners

The Bloomington Improvement Association recently met with the Garrett County Sanitary Commission Administrator, Wendell Beitzel, who, in turn, has met this week with the Garrett county Board of Commissioners, in an attempt to resolve the problems of contaminated water in the town of Bloomington.

"We've got a real problem down there," stated Beitzel, explaining that a leak was discovered several months ago at the raw water intake structure located in the Savage River, downstream from Erin's Run. Erin's Run is known to have a high mineral content.

Beitzel stated that water is seeping out of the ground in an area owned by Westvaco Corporation, and that water is also located immediately above the intake area.

The Sanitary Commission has been conducting tests and has found a high content of iron and manganese, but, he said, the level is higher in the home water than in the raw water. Beitzel explained that the Bloomington treatment plant is not designed to remove those minerals.

Garrett County Commissioner Elwood L. Groves II stated that the Sanitary Commission took over the Bloomington operation (at their request), and that the commission was aware of the deficiencies and were searching for alternatives to resolve the issue.

Blaze Destroys Rt. 495 House Early Sunday

A single-story, wood-frame house located along State Rt. 495 just north of Glendale Road was gutted by fire at just after midnight Saturday.

Fire fighters from Bittinger and Deer Park responded to the residence of Bertie Gilpin, 55, who was not at home at the time of the fire. Upon their arrival, they discovered flames coming from the windows and eaves of the house. The alarm was received at 12:01 a.m. Sunday and they remained on the scene for about three hours.

According to Jim Martin, state fire investigator for Allegany and Garrett counties, the fire apparently originated in the basement as a result of a malfunctioning coal/wood furnace. The flames quickly spread into the first-floor living room area.

The fire was discovered by Mrs. Gilpin's daughter and son-in-law, Brenda and Larry Shoemaker, who live next door. The Shoemakers smelled smoke and then discovered the flames.

Martin estimated the damages to be $40,000. He said Mrs. Gilpin did have some insurance on the property.

Also responding to the scene was the county air cascade vehicle, presently being housed at Bloomington VFD. A crew from the Oakland VFD stood by at Deer Park's station.

The same firemen were called back to the scene last evening at 6:15 p.m. when it was reported that the remains of the structure were fully involved in flames again. Apparently Mrs. Gilpin was having the remains of the house burned in a controlled setting, but the flames got out of control and were threatening neighboring structures.

First United National Sponsor Of Autumn Glory Festival Parades

FIRST UNITED TO SPONSOR PARADES — It was announced this week by the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council that First United National Bank & Trust, Oakland, has agreed to be the sponsor for the 1990 and 1991 Grand Feature Parades of the annual Autumn Glory Festival. Accepting the proposal from Richard Stanton, president and chairman of the board of First United, was Liz Gilbert, events coordinator for the Promotion Council. See story.

The Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council has announced that First United National Bank & Trust will sponsor the 23rd and 24th Autumn Glory Festival Grand Feature Parades in 1990 and 1991.

The date of the 23rd Autumn Glory Festival is October 11-14, with the Autumn Glory Festival Grand Feature Parade beginning at 1 p.m. on Saturday, October 13.

"We're excited about the opportunity of serving as the Parade's Official Sponsor," stated Richard G. Stanton, chairman of the board and president of First United National Bank & Trust. "Having community offices located in Oakland, McHenry, Friendsville, and Grantsville, our staff members have been active with the festival since its inception. Not only have they been involved through organizations such as the Lions Club and Junior Woman's Civic Club, but the bank itself has played an active role. We have had bank representatives serve on the

Broad Ford Students Affected By Gypsy Moth Caterpillar Dermatitis

The gypsy moth, that creature that has been getting so much attention in recent months for defoliating thousands of acres of forestland, is apparently causing a new problem for local residents, as over two dozen youngsters at a local school have become victims of what is known as gypsy moth caterpillar dermatitis.

According to Dr. Rex Archer, Garrett County health officer, stated yesterday that health department officials were summoned to Broad Ford Elementary School Wednesday morning after some 29 kindergarten children were found to be covered by a rash and some with large welts on their bodies.

Archer said that an initial investigation by local health officials indicated that the rash is a form of dermatitis caused by the gypsy moth caterpillar. He said that the class had been on a field trip the day before in an area where the caterpillars were present.

"About half of the students in the class were affected, along with some other students and a few of the adult staff of the school," Dr. Archer said.

Archer noted that, according to the rather limited research information available, this form of dermatitis is caused not only when one comes in direct contact with the caterpillars, but can also be transmitted through the air. He said that as the caterpillars shed their exterior layers as they grow, the fibers and particles can be carried by the wind.

He said that the dermatitis is not dangerous and is treated like other rashes and hives — with medicines such as Benedryl and calamine lotion. However, he said that it causes one to itch and the scratching can lead to infection.

"My recommendations would include: avoiding contact with the gypsy moth caterpillar; attempting to avoid allowing clothing to air dry on clothes lines in infested areas; and urging all persons with known allergies and presently on medication for those allergies to remain on that medication," Archer said. "If one gets this rash and conventional methods of treatment are unsuccessful,

PRAYERS DIDN'T HELP Route 40 Elementary School Principal Patrick Delaney, as Craig Kamp smeared him with a pie as part of a recent book program held at the school. Students were challenged by Delaney to read over 5,000 books during a seven-week period and they responded by reading over 23,000 books. Delaney promised to take a few pies in the face if the school goal was realized. Besides the benefits of reading, the students earned over $4,500 worth of materials from the World Book company who co-sponsored the project. The Route 40 School students were recognized by the governor's office for their exemplary reading program. Students celebrated their success with a school meeting which honored their achievements. Assisting Kamp with his pie throwing techique in the above photo is kindergarten teacher, Dorothy Minick.

Two Men Charged With Theft, DOP, Burglary By MSP

Two 19-year-old men were arrested by Maryland State Police on April 24 and charged with burglary, theft and destruction of property.

Patrick Francis Staley, 19, Martins Ferry, Ohio, and Mark Wayne Rohrbaugh, 19, Petersburg, W.Va., were charged with burglary, theft and destruction of property by Tfc. G.R. Chaney on April 24.

The two had apparently broken into a home on Rock Lodge Road, owned by Patricia Moats, Clarksburg, W.Va., and removed beer, wine and money.

Staley and Rohrbaugh were taken to Garrett County Jail, where they were released on April 27 on $1,000 bond each.

Md. State Police Investigate Theft Of Oak Trim

Maryland State Police are investigating the theft of oak trim from an abandoned farm house.

Someone apparently removed the oak trim from the farm house, which is owned by American Heritage Corporation, between April 27 and May 2.

The oak trim is valued at $1,250.

Tfc. P.R. Brown is continuing the investigation.

Lowell Thomas, Friendsville, reported the theft of an Agway garden tractor, orange in color, from his property between April 29 and 30. Tfc. P.R. Brown is continuing the investigation.

Michael Dehus, Oakland, reported the theft of a GT Performer bicycle from his home on May 1. The bike is blue in color, with a white seat. Tpr. W.E. Dixon is continuing the investigation.

BREAKING GROUND for a new church building recently was the congregation of the Loch Lynn Evangelical Free Church. The new sanctuary and Christian education building will be built on the former Mtn. Lake Park Hotel grounds along St. Rt. 135 in Mtn. Lake Park by Gnegy Construction Company. The cost of the project, including land and construction, is estimated to be $500,000, according to Rev. Russell Hamilton, pastor. The new building will provide for increased seating, a larger fellowship area, a new nursery, a baptistry, and parking for 100 cars. Pastor Hamilton said that the building should be completed by Christmas of this year. In the meantime, worship will continue in the present church building in Loch Lynn. Pictured above, digging the first spade of dirt at the ground-breaking, is Dave Callis, chairman of the building committee. Pictured left to right behind him are Pastor Hamilton; Beth Friend, a member of the building committee; Roger Shaffer and Lee Thorne, elders; Grace Bittinger, board of deaconesses; Linda Fike, building committee; Dwight Stover, elder; Claude Wagher, building committee; Kelly Vance, missions chairman; and Troy Gnegy, general contractor.

Gormania Man Charged After Vehicle Accident

A Gormania, W.Va., man was charged with driving while intoxicated and several other traffic violations following an accident that occurred last Saturday on Route 560, according to reports from the Garrett County Sheriff's Department.

John Mark Finch, Jr., 23, was also charged with carrying a loaded handgun in a motor vehicle, negligent driving and driving with a revoked license.

Finch lost control of his 1988 Ford pickup truck approximately one-quarter of a mile north of Oak Grove Road on Route 560, and the vehicle landed on its right side, in the middle of the roadway.

A 13-year-old juvenile passenger was in the truck at the time of the accident. Both Finch and his passenger received injuries as a result of the accident.

They were transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad where they were each treated and released.

Finch was then taken into police custody and later released after posting $300 bond.

Former County Man Being Held In LaVale

A former Garrett County man was arrested Wednesday in Baltimore City and taken to LaVale to face several charges, including two counts of burglary by Maryland State Police. He is now being held in the Allegany County Jail on $50,000 bond.

Edward Alvin Morton, 36, a former resident of Backbone Mountain, was charged with two counts of burglary with intent to steal, two counts of theft, malicious destruction of property and contributing to child delinquency. The charges stem from one case.

Morton is apparently a suspect in more than 50 other breaking and entering and burglary cases which have occurred since March 18 in LaVale, Bowling Green, Potomac Park, Cresaptown, Bel Air and Cumberland, as well as Keyser and Carpendale, W.Va.

State police interviewed numerous suspects, then arrested a 16-year-old Westernport youth on April 25, who has since been released to the custody of his parents. Several days later on April 28, a warrant was obtained for Morton and he was arrested on May 2 in his apartment in Baltimore.

Police apparently found evidence in the apartment which was believed to have been stolen recently. He also was reported to have several thousand dollars in a bank account and on his person at the time of his arrest.

Police suspect that Morton was in the process of changing his identity.

Morton was released from the Department of Corrections on November 28, 1989, after serving eight and one half years of a 15 year sentence which he received in Allegany County Circuit Court in 1981 for charges of breaking and entering.

After his release from prison, Morton was taken to Florida on a detainer. He was released from jail in Florida on March 14, 1990.

Grantsville Area Bloodmobile Visit Surpasses Goal

The American Red Cross bloodmobile recently visited Grantsville with a total of 180 volunteers (10 of which were first-time donors) participating. The drive netted a total of 169 units of blood. The goal was 125.

Recognition pins were given to James Rephann, 10 gallons; Claudine Opel, eight gallons; Philip Bender, six gallons; Rebecca Yoder, Raymond N. Yoder, Glenda Yoder, and Lois Bender, three gallons; and Betty Davis, Audry Kinsinger, and Cheryl Sweitzer, one gallon.

Volunteer nurses assisting were Christine Graber, Linda Maust, Esther Beachy, Linda Miller, Rhoda Maust, Freda Maust, Ruth A. Yoder, Rachel Miller, and Katherine Miller.

Other volunteers were Rosie Miller, Debbie Haning, Lila Maust, Lois Bender, Glenda Yoder, Lois Durst, Alice Younkin, Mabel Brenneman, Claudine Opel, Esther Opel, Hilda Sturtz, Lulu Brown, Ruth Horning, Bertha Gephart, Mary Broadwater, and Ruth Yoder.

Custodial service was provided by members of the Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department.

Milk and orange juice was donated by Yoder's Country Market and Potomac Farms Dairy.

Lela Bender served as coordinator for the visit.

Man Arrested For Unauthorized Use Of Vehicle

An Oakland man was recently charged with unauthorized use of a motor vehicle and driving while intoxicated, according to reports from the Oakland City Police Department.

Warren Edward Stevens, 31, Oakland, was arrested April 30 along Fourth Street in Oakland, by Deputy R.P. Shaffer, Garrett County Sheriff's Department. He was then charged by Sgt. Roger Lewis, Oakland City Police, for allegedly operating a vehicle that was reported to be stolen from the American Legion parking lot in Oakland. The 1979 Ford Mustang was reported stolen by Rory Dixon, shortly before Stevens' arrest.

Stevens is currently being housed in the Garrett County Jail in lieu of $1,500 bond.

In an unrelated case, Carlos Augustine Pacheco, 65, Oakland, was arrested May 1 on various traffic charges following a minor accident that occurred 7:30 that evening at the intersection of Mason and Cade streets, Oakland.

Pacheco was charged with driving while intoxicated, failure to stop at a stop sign, negligent driving, failure to remain at the scene of an accident, failure of the driver of a vehicle to report an accident, failure of the driver of a vehicle to stop after unattended property damage and speed greater than reasonable.

He was released from jail the next day on his own recognizance.

Clarence William Collins, 42, Deer Park, was arrested May 2 and charged with driving while his license was suspended and revoked. Chief John Sines made the arrest along the Oakland-Rosedale Road. Collins was later released on his own recognizance.

Robert Richard Rhodes, 53, Oakland, was arrested Monday by Sgt. Roger Lewis following an incident which occurred at Cuppett-Weeks Nursing Home, Oakland. Rhodes was charged with disorderly intoxication. He was released from jail the following day on his own recognizance.

West Virginia Highlanders Bagpipers Band To Perform At McHenry Fest

The West Virginia Highlanders Bagpipe Band, of Elkins, will perform bagpipe concerts during the Third Annual McHenry Highland Festival at the Garrett County Fairgrounds, McHenry, Saturday, June 2.

Organized in 1947, the Highlanders perform under the direction of Pipe Major Tom McLaughlin. The band is composed of more than 20 members. Their color guard of six men carries the flags of the United States, West Virginia, and Scotland and will be the official color guard of this year's festival. The band's music features bagpipes, while bass, tenor and snare drums set the military pace.

Festival hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., and admission is $4.00 for anyone 12 years of age and over. This festival also includes a ceilidh (Scottish party with entertainment) on Saturday evening at 8 p.m. in the McHenry House at Wisp Ski Resort, hosted by Wisp Ski Resort (admission $3. The First McHenry Highland Festival Scottish Scramble will be hosted by the Golf Club at Wisp on Sunday, June 3, at 12:30 p.m.

The festival is sponsored and hosted by the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council, Westvaco, and Wisp Ski Resort. It is funded in part by the Garrett County Arts Council through a grant from the Maryland State Arts Council. A new program at this year's festival, the "From the Old Country to the New Country" Workshop, is made possible with funding from the Maryland Humanities Council through a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities.

For more information, persons may contact the McHenry Highland Festival, Courthouse, Oakland, Md. 21550; telephone (301) 334-1948.

To My Mother

There is a loved one, far away, who taught my heart, first, how to pray; who sent me off with blessing rare my wail and woe to ever share.
She is my Mother.
There is a cherished hope that lies beyond the tears that dim her eyes, that some day soon, I'll find a way to come back home, always to stay With Mother.
As life is ebbing fast away, and she grows weaker day by day, I long to take her hand in mine, to kiss her cheek, and, somehow find Sweet words to say to Mother.
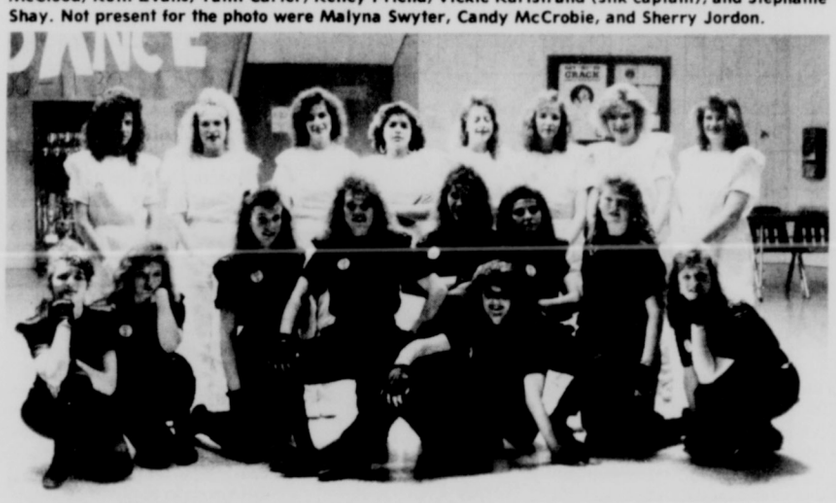
I'll take the time and write today -- 'twill cheer her on her lonely way -- I'll assure her that I love her still, for she loves me, and always will,
My Mother.

Janet

GRAND CHAMPS — The Southern High School Band wrapped up another successful year of competition by winning the Grand Champion title in the "Fiesta-Val" Spring Marching Band Competition in Williamsburg, Va., April 27-28. Directed by Richard Clever, the band out-scored all other bands from eight states to take the top prize. The Winter Guard, pictured below, won first place and a superior rating. Guard members pictured include: front, Tracie Ellis, captain; first row, left to right, Melanie Ellis, Lara Ball, Dawn Scheffel, Jennifer Reeves, Amy Barnhouse, Beth Dilley, Kim Wampler, and Lisa Murray; and second row, same order, Beth Cannon, Janice Nugent, Melanie McCloud, Ruth Evans, Tami Carter, Kelley Friend, Vickie Karlstrand (silk captain), and Stephanie Shay. Not present for the photo were Malyna Swyter, Candy McCrobie, and Sherry Jordon.



Southern Band Takes Top Honor In Williamsburg

The Southern High School Marching Band added a major feather to its cap recently by capturing the grand champion award in the "Fiesta-Val" Spring Marching Band Competition in Williamsburg, Va.

The band, under the direction of Richard Clever, competed in the jazz/stage band competition on Friday night, April 27, competed in a parade on Saturday morning, and spent the afternoon and evening at Busch Gardens, where the awards ceremony took place that evening.

The band won first place and an excellent rating in the jazz/stage band event and the Southern brass section won the best brass section award. The band earned an excellent rating and second place in the concert band competition and an excellent rating and second place in the parade. Meanwhile, the Southern High Winter Guard unit won first place overall with a superior rating, the best rating possible.

The combined points of all of the events gave Southern the highest score of the weekend. Clever also received the Director's Award.

Among the other states represented by bands in the festival were Virginia, North Carolina, Connecticut, Ohio, New York, Michigan, and Georgia.

Sheriff Arrests Kitzmiller Man On Drug Charges

A Kitzmiller man was arrested Sunday on several drug charges following a routine traffic stop, according to reports from the Garrett County Sheriff's Department.

William Gary Riggleman, 19, was charged with possession of marijuana, possession of drug paraphernalia, driving at a speed greater than reasonable, driving while intoxicated and driving in violation of an alcohol restriction.

The arrest took place after Deputy R.L. Sines, accompanied by Deputy R.P. Shaffer, stopped the Riggleman vehicle along the northbound lane of Route 219 near Foster Road, at approximately 3 a.m.

A male juvenile was also taken into custody for an alcohol violation.

A third passenger in the vehicle, Brian Keith Craver, 23, Deer Park, was not charged.

Riggleman was later released from police custody on $1,000 full cash bond.

In an unrelated case, Terry Luther Wilson, 20, Oakland, was arrested 6 p.m. Friday at the Midway Plaza and charged with theft. According to Deputy D.M. Stoner, Wilson was apprehended after he allegedly stole two cartons of cigarettes from the Short Stop convenience store. He was later released on $1,000 bond.

Wilson was arrested last Thursday, as well, this time on a warrant charging him with destruction of property and disorderly conduct in a public place. Deputy D.C. Welch served the arrest warrant. Wilson was released later that day on $250 bond.

In a separate case, Jackson Samuel Green, 45, Lonaconing, was arrested May 1 and charged with driving while intoxicated (DWI) and driving while suspended and revoked. Deputy J.D. Murphy made the arrest along Route 40 near Meyersdale Road. Green was later released from police custody on $500 bond.

Elmer Eugene Caton Jr., 33, Salisbury, Pa., was arrested last Thursday and charged with DWI. Murphy made the arrest along Route 40 near Long Stretch. Caton was later released into the custody of his father.

Randle Gayle Ashby, 35, Oakland, was arrested Friday and charged with DWI. Murphy made the arrest along Liberty Street in Oakland. The deputy sheriff then transported Ashby to his residence.

Dominic Mark Bryan, 43, Grantsville, was arrested Friday and charged with driving under the influence of drugs and alcohol (DUI). Murphy made the arrest along Route 40 in Grantsville, and then transported Bryan to his residence.

Kelly Ann Carroll, 28, Silver Spring, was arrested Sunday on a warrant and charged with disturbing the peace in a public place, malicious destruction of property and littering the Wisp Resort swimming pool. The charges stemmed from an incident that allegedly took place earlier that day. Thurston Jacobs, 33, also of Silver Spring, was charged with disturbing the peace in a public place as a result of the same alleged incident. Deputy R.L. Sines served both arrest warrants. Carroll and Jacobs were later released from police custody, each on $300 bond.

Owen Thomas Ravenscroft, 29, Deer Park, was arrested Friday on a warrant charging him with battery. According to the arresting officer, Deputy R.P. Shaffer, the charges stemmed from an incident that allegedly occurred earlier that day involving Kela May Ravenscroft. The suspect was later released on his own recognizance.

Todd Allen Crosco, 18, Oakland, was arrested last Thursday on a warrant charging him with theft. According to Deputy C.C. Feller, Crosco allegedly stole $1,200 from Kathy Sue Crosco. The suspect was later released on his own recognizance.

John Eugene Derossett, 25, Oakland, was arrested Sunday on a warrant charging him with theft. According to Deputy Stoner, Derossett allegedly stole record albums valued at $60 from Lorie R. Coddington. Derossett was later released on his own recognizance.

40 Years Of Caring . . .

"A Commitment to Caring for 40 Years" is the theme of this week's 40th anniversary observance of the Garrett County Memorial Hospital, and as we look back over the 40-year history of that institution, we believe that such a commitment has been evident since the idea for establishing a local hospital was born.

The generosity of George W. Loar who provided the seed monies for such a project; the foresight of the original board of governors; the diligence of the first Contributing Committee, headed by George Hanst; the endorsement of the few physicians in the county at the time; and the tremendous financial support by the community in those early days were all critical to getting the project off the ground.

What followed that historic opening on May 15, 1950, has been four decades of caring for thousands of people and a consistent, never-ending push forward by all involved with the institution to provide the latest and best possible medical care available. Today, Garrett County Memorial is not a typical example of a rural hospital. Few rural hospitals offer such services as orthopedic surgery, vascular surgery, opthalmic surgery, C.T. scans, and pacemaker implantation. Few rural hospitals have such an extensive wellness program like Wellness Together, which is absolutely second to none in what it offers the general public. Few rural hospitals have such a skilled, outstanding medical staff like Garrett Memorial's. Few rural hospitals have such a talented, high-powered administration as ours. Few have the luxury of having such a dedicated group of employees, from nurses to lab techs to custodians, whose primary concern is the care and treatment of patients. And nowhere would one find a more devoted board of governors.

One of the most exciting new additions to the hospital family is the GCMH Foundation, composed of local volunteers, which has raised donations and pledges totalling over $1.5 million to help the hospital finance needed equipment. This is another sign that the hospital has the confidence and trust of the public it serves.

The hospital will also be opening the Deep Creek Health Center later this month to further extend its services to lake area residents and visitors.

Still, many local residents take the hospital for granted and really have no idea as to what a health-care gold mine we have in Garrett County Memorial Hospital. We urge all to find out by attending the open house and tours slated for this Saturday, May 12, from 2 to 4 p.m.

We take great pride in our hospital and look forward to the next 40 years of caring.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

"Gypsy Moth and Junk Yards."

Pick up any farm journal from the last two years and you will come across many articles concerning chemicals and how they are polluting our underground water source. Farm magazines are encouraging organic farming (getting back to basics)!

Forty years ago DDT was used to whitewash barns, etc. I saw a man who worked on a crew that white-washed barns. Someone had mixed too much DDT in the spray, and he became paralized. He was carried around on a stretcher.

Atrazine (a weed killer) we were told to apply 3½ lbs. per acre. Now in the Mid-West they are finding traces of Atrazine in most farm wells as deep as 80-100 ft. below the surface. It is a cancer agent. Now we are told to cut back on its use and you need a license to apply it. Will this help?

Dimilin (the spray for gypsy moth) is going to be sprayed throughout our county. The County Commissioners seem to be proud to announce they are going to get tough on the gypsy moth by using the strongest chemical. Five to ten years from now we (humans) may have to suffer and Garrett County Memorial Hospital may have to open another wing for more cancer patients.

Remember 40-50 years ago when we had the chestnut blight? It killed almost all the chestnut trees, but you can see our forests are still green. Other trees took their place. Why take the chance with Dimilin to poison our land and water?

Now for my comment concerning "Junkyards."

At the same time, how would you like everyone having a pile of pipes, used vehicles, etc., in their backyard?

A junkyard saves many people a lot of money they would have to pay for new parts. It also saves time, fuel, trucking; could you imagine buying everything brand new?

Used vehicles have to be stored somewhere. Those who sell these parts are really doing more for our environment and "indirectly recycling." Besides, those who operate these yards are self-employed, pay taxes, and choose this profession for their livelihood. Why punish them?

Clayton I. Martin
A dairy farmer

To the Editor:

As parents deeply concerned about the quality of education and services provided our children in the public schools, it was in utter disbelief that we read of the recently overturned termination of Mr. Douglas Fitzwater in last week's issue of The Republican.

We do not know Mr. Fitzwater, and in no way will we sit in judgment of his suitability as a bus driver. That is not our job, but it is the job of his supervisors, and it appears that Mr. Michael Sines and Dr. Ryscavage did their homework. Documented instances of negligence, the use of profanity, conflicts with students, and creating the potential for a dangerous situation by his driving actions are reviewed and acted upon in an apparently deliberate (5 years' worth) and thorough manner, resulting in a job termination. Sounds pretty clean.

And now, the rest of the story:

Mr. Fitzwater appealed to the school board, whose role in life is probably not quite clear to anyone at this point. We're sorry to say this to Mr. Fitzwater, but at that stage in the process, he is guilty until proven innocent. The school board's role was to support the management of our school system unless compelling evidence suggested otherwise. We didnt read anything that would have suggested that a gross injustice had been done.

Unfortunately, it appears that factions within the school board are undermining good managements practice.

The victims of these political football games are the students, the very people whom the board is there to serve and protect. It appears that Mr. Rodney Durst wishes to equate strictness with the use of profanity. A bus driver, like any personnel in the school district, must set an example for children in the area of socially appropriate behavior. If we expect our children to respect other people, then we must also show them respect. Is a bus ride laced with four-letter words how Mr. Durst would want his kindergartener beginning a "high quality" educational experience?

Months ago, Mr. Durst wrote an editorial suggesting that the reason for the failure of our schools is the parents. Lo and behold, parents come forward to make a difference and the school board, led by a "holier than thou" Mr. Durst Says, "Not so fast! If it weren't for your lousy kids, this gentleman wouldn't have to swear!"

To the board members who voted for reinstatement, you also voted against the students, parents, and the management of our school system. We have not always agreed with Dr. Ryscavage, but our experiences with him have us truly believing that Mr. Fitzwater could not have been dismissed by a more compassionate individual in a more thorough process.

Contrary to Mr. Durst's opinion, it is Mr. Sines' and Dr. Ryscavage's job to sit in judgment. We pay them and entrust them to do that. As voters, we must exercise that same, thorough judgment come election time, to ensure that our parents can be heard and our children's well-being is safeguarded.

Oakland, Md.

To the Editor:

May is Better Hearing and Speech Month. "So what," one might say. Given the numerous observances of worthy causes, it's easy to let this one pass by, but we shouldn't. Hearing and speech are precious, but taken-for-granted abilities, and they are more fragile than we imagine.

About 24 million people in the United States have hearing or speech disorders. That's one in every ten people. It's safe to say that almost everyone reading this letter has a hearing or speech problem or knows someone who does.

To put these statistics into perspective for those who do not have such a disorder, imagine not being able to hear people speaking to you or not being able to tell someone else your thoughts and ideas. Few would argue that these are profound loses.

The pain of people with communication disorders is often intensified by the thoughtless behavior of those around them. People who stutter, for example, have been objects of laughter and the butt of cruel jokes for centuries. Not an easy environment in which to overcome the problem.

People who stutter need the same patience and attention to their ideas as speakers who don't stutter. We can all help by not looking away when they speak and by not hurrying them or filling in words.

There are also a few simple things we can do to help those with hearing impairments. The most important one is to avoid shouting and exaggerating words. Face people who are hearing impaired directly and speak clearly in a normal voice.

Better Hearing and Speech Month is just another observance unless we give it meaning. Practicing the small courtesies that make a big difference in the lives of people with hearing and speech problems is a wonderful way to make the month meaningful.

Another is to urge those who have suspected or untreated hearing and speech disorders to seek professional help. Speech-language pathologists and audiologists are specifically trained to work with individuals having such problems. For further information, contact (the Garrett County Board of Education 334-8943, or HELPLINE 800/638-TALK (8255), or your state speech-language-hearing association, county health department or other agency which has information.

May we all have a meaningful Better Hearing and Speech Month.

Sincerely yours,

To the Editor:

The secrets and values of the natural world are revealed to us almost daily. More than ever before, the media has provided the general public with a heightened awareness of the world around us. No doubt, this increased awareness contributed to the overwhelming display of enthusiasm exhibited by residents of western Maryland throughout Earth Week 1990. Our level of environmental awareness is probably greater now than ever before.

But, how far have we come? Where are we going? How do we plan on getting to where we want to be? These are all difficult questions without simple answers. As a newcomer to western Maryland and a forest ecologist at Frostburg State University, I do not claim to have divine insight into any of the above questions; however, I do hope I can provide some rational perspective on regional issues pertaining to our forest resources.

While forest resources are renewable, there is only a finite amount of land from which to produce these resources; so as demand rises, competition for those resources also rises. This is not a situation unique to western Maryland; it is occurring all over the globe. Naturally, this competition for resources has led to the formation of special interest groups that try to influence elected officials and government agencies on the allocation and management of forest resources. To a certain extent this competition is healthy and ensures a high

The Mind Wanders

by Sherry Frantz

It is time for the first "The Mind Wanders" Awards. A time to reflect. A time to laugh at ourselves (and others). A time to get down and dirty. So, without further ado, the envelope, please....

The "Careless Reader" award is being presented to all those who insist on calling this column "AS The Mind Wanders" or "The Mind WONDERS."

The "Practice What You Preach" award goes to all those organizations promoting Earth Day who sent out mounds and mounds of glossy, colored pamphlets with redundant information.

The "Huge Segue Void" award is proudly presented to a recent episode of 20/20, which began with a startling portrait of a Greek Island where the country's mentally ill are literally dumped, and who then live out the rest of their lives in far worse conditions that most animals. The show then turned to a segment entitled, "Whatever Happened To Fess Parker?"

The "Never Again" award goes to the 1990 Maryland General Assembly for a) grossly redefining the filibuster concept, and b) having nothing to show for it.

The "It Can't Happen Here" award is presented to the American education system for producing (according to a newscaster) seven out of ten high school graduates unable to effectively write a letter to obtain employment.

The "Nostalgia" award goes to the clever team whose decision it was to cover up one of the most beautiful buildings in Oakland (the Courthouse) with one of the most "obnoxious in its absolute lack of character" buildings (the new Courthouse).

And then there's a special "Longevity" award to be presented to the Department of Motor Vehicles, which has carried on quite a tradition of humiliating and dehumanizing all humans they come in contact with — just for doing business with them.

To Dan Quayle, the "Just For Being You" award is created.

The "Three P" award goes to several members of the Garrett County Board of Education for their "political, petty and personal" manner of dealing with some recent issues. It should be noted (however obvious it might seem) that elected officials ARE accountable for their actions.

And, finally, the "To Whom It May Concern" award is presented to all those members of the human race who have wistfully continued to destroy the environment, and who have no truly workable idea of how to restore it.

by Sull McCartney

People are eating ramps and my beard is gone, so it must be spring. It is a typical Garrett County spring, where else do you need to mow your lawn, but have to wait for the snow to melt?

I have made progress in my ongoing effort to read women authors. Ella Jones suggested that I read Kaye Gibbons' two novels Ellen Foster and A Virtuous Woman. Both are good, but I especially enjoyed A Virtuous Woman, which is the story of Jack Stokes, called "Blinking Jack," and his wife, Ruby. The story is told in alternating chapters between husband and wife.

Another book written in the same fashion is Tracks by Louise Erdrich. Three narrators chronicle the life of Fleur Pillager, a member of the Anishinabe Indian tribe. I have even discovered two female mystery writers whom I like, Sue Grafton and Amanda Cross. I have to draw the line somewhere, though, and in spite of the urgings of Loriann Ludwig at the Book Mark't, I refuse to read Danielle Steele.

Since spring signals the beginning of another season of baseball, the world's greatest sport, I have also been reading baseball books. Mike Dennis loaned me Baseball For the Love of It by Anthony J. Conner. This book is a collection of interviews with members of the Baseball Hall of Fame and would be enjoyed by any fan. Jan Finkel loaned me his copy of The Celebrant, a novel about a Jewish emigrant and his relationship with Christy Mathewson, by Eric Rolfe Greenberg. One of the benefits of writing this column is that people have been recommending and loaning me excellent books which I would have otherwise missed.

Claudia Coughlin reported at our last Freinds meeting that the initial order has been placed from our Children's Book Fund. This is a great beginning in our efforts to upgrade the children's literature collection of The Ruth Enlow Library.

Our most recent life members are Dixie W. Wilson, Hazel Glotfelty, Jerry K. Stewart, and W. Dwight Stover.

Maryland Commentary

What really matters

ANNAPOLIS — Maryland politicians are just catching their breath from the windup of the legislative session before plunging into another election campaign. That means we will probably soon be hearing a lot about "the quality of life."

The ins will talk about how they have improved the quality of life, and the outs will talk about how they will improve the quality of life even more if they get in.

But when politicians talk about improving the quality of life, they usually mean some huge construction project or the solution to a great social problem, such as a new bay bridge.

These are noble objectives, and no voter should remain unimpressed by the politician who promises to do something about them.

But this voter is still waiting for the politician who sees the quality of life not only in terms of such big, noble objectives but also in terms of all those little things by which the quality of life is really measured.

Some have already disappeared and others are fading fast.

For example, the neighborhood candy store. Not the kind you see today in every shopping mall, where you can buy a pound of dietetic chocolates for half a day's pay, but the kind where a kid with a nickel can walk in, stand in profound contemplation before a big glass case containing shelf after shelf of indescribable delights, and finally begin ordering, "One of these, and one of them, and one of those, and -- let me see . . ."

Or the glass of water poured for you by the restaurant waiter or waitress shortly after you are seated as evidence that your presence has been noted and that your order will be taken before malnutrition sets in.

Or the elevator worthy of a civilized society, not one of those whooshing isolation booths with piped-in funeral music and a control panel resembling the dashboard of a space capsule, but one with a slightly hung-over but cheerful operator who smells of after-shave, is obviously proud of his freshly pressed uniform and -- in absolute confidence, of course -- will share with you the latest building gossip or a tip on the third at Pimlico.

Or the real department store, not one with the neatness of a post-hurricane street bazaar displaying mounds of polyester garments waiting to be snatched and raced to some distant check-out counter, but one with a real, live salesperson who greets you the moment you walk through the door and who actually knows where everything is, what sizes it comes in, when it is scheduled for mark-down, and which style and color are you, really you.

Or the daily morning newspaper that, besides overwhelming you with in-depth reports on the latest Mideast crisis and the tawdry love-lives and drug problems of the glitzy and the glamorous, serves its true purpose by printing the box-score of last night's Oriole game.

Or that "voice with the smile," the switchboard operator who not only doesn't have to ask you what area code you're calling from but who knows because she's in the same area instead of 150 miles away, and who remembers when telephone exchanges began not with three sterile digits but with names that shout of American history, names like Lexington and Concord and Saratoga.

Or the taxicab driver who can not only speak English and has heard of the street you want but actually knows how to get there without consulting the Office of Tourist Development and, on delivering you to your destination and being handed a ten-spot for a five-dollar ride, doesn't fumble endlessly through his pockets in the hope that you'll say, "Never mind, keep the change."

Or the corner bakery that doesn't use radio or TV to advertise the freshness of its bread and buns because the wind carrying its heavenly aromas over the neighborhood is more convincing than mere words could ever be.

Little things, sure, but no great politician would ever dismiss them as real measures of the quality of life.

Senior Citizens' Menus

The Area Agency on Aging/Garrett County Community Action Committee announces the Senior Nutrition Program menus for the week of May 14-18 as follows:

May 14 — Tossed salad with carrot, radishes, and cheese sticks, stuffed pepper with tomato sauce, corn on cob (canned corn), wheat bread, and lime sherbet.

May 15 — Cole slaw, baked ham, candied sweet potato, fresh green beans (canned), oat bread, and cinnamon apples with raisins.

May 16 — Tomato on lettuce with hard boiled egg, cheese rabbit on toast, buttered peas, and yellow cake.

May 17 — Sunshine salad with carrots, chili con carne, corn bread, and baked custard.

May 18 — Spinach salad, roast beef with gravy, whipped potatoes, sauteed zucchini, and cherry pie.

Milk, coffee, and tea are served with all meals.

"Eating Together" sites that operate five days per week will be following the menu as is. Those that operate only two or three days per week have the option of choosing menus within the same week.

On occasion, a site may opt to make a substitution in the menu. Senior citizens who wish to eat at one of the "Eating Together" sites are asked to call the individual site to check the menu for the day and to make reservations.

Telephone numbers of individual sites are as follows: Flowery Vale Senior Center, Accident, 826-8824; Bull's Restaurant, Bloomington, 359-3035; Finzel Fire Hall, Finzel, 689-8388; Old Mill Grill, Friendsville, 746-5414; Old Mill Restaurant, Gorman, 334-4865; Casselman Restaurant, Grantsville, 895-5092; Jennings Community, Jennings, 245-4204; Kitzmiller Community Building, Kitzmiller, 453-3445; Oakland Senior Center, Oakland, 334-3399; and Swanton Community Building, Swanton, 387-9191.

Swanton Resident Accepted Into Nursing Program

Beverly Bowser, daughter of Robert and Gladys Collins, Swanton, was recently notified that she has been accepted into the fall semester at Allegany Community College, Cumberland, where she will be attending a two-year nursing program.

Beverly is currently employed by Garrett County Memorial Hospital as a nursing assistant, and is a part-time student at Garrett Community College.

She has been invited to join the National Honor Society at GCC. The organization is comprised of students who have achieved academic excellence.

Beverly resides in Swanton with her husband.

Oakland Police Investigate Local Theft

The Oakland City Police are currently investigating a $520 theft, according to Police Chief John Sines.

A spokesman for Tableland Milk Producers reported the theft of eight milk cans valued at $65 each. Sines is conducting an investigation.

Several Persons Taken To GCMH After Three-Vehicle Accident

Several persons were taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital after a three-car accident occurred Saturday evening at the intersection of Route 135 and Weber Road, according to Maryland State Police.

Gregory Inglese, 17, Oakland, was eastbound on Rt. 135 in a 1981 Trans Am with two passengers, Terri Shaffer, 14, Deer Park, and LaDonna Wolfe, 14, Deer Park, when he attempted to make a left-hand turn onto old U.S. Rt. 219 at 10:46 p.m.

Jennifer L. Friend, 18, Terra Alta, W.Va., was westbound in a late-model Chevrolet Camaro with one passenger, Jeffrey Barnes, 34, Davis, W.Va., when her vehicle was struck in the right front by the Inglese vehicle.

Inglese's vehicle then proceeded on to hit a Buick Century driven by Tammy Lee Upole, 23, Mt. Lake Park.

Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad responded and the six persons involved in the accident were taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where each was treated and released.

Tfc. J.E. Foley investigated.

Edna T. Pruitt, 80, Friendsville, was treated and released at Garrett County Memorial Hospital after an accident which occurred Friday at 9:45 a.m.

Pruitt was driving southbound in a Chrysler LeBaron on the Friendsville-Addison Road when she ran off the right shoulder of the road. Her vehicle skidded sideways and the left front struck a tree on the right side of the road, spun around the tree and slid approximately 20 feet down an embankment and into a small stream.

Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad responded and Pruitt was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where she was treated and released.

Tpr. G.S. Becker investigated.

Bessie Canan, 79, Oakland, was admitted to Garrett County Memorial Hospital after an accident which occurred Tuesday at 11 a.m.

Canan was southbound near the Ben DeWitt Road when she apparently failed to negotiate a left curve. The vehicle then ran off the right side of the road, where it hit a tree head-on.

Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad responded and Canan was taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where she was admitted. She was listed in stable condition this morning.

Tfc. L.R. Rosage investigated the incident.

Peter Michael Mueller, 49, Swanton, was operating a Polaris four wheel all-terrain vehicle on April 29 around 7:30 p.m. on private property near Bittinger when the vehicle overturned and ejected him as he was proceeding up a hill.

Mueller was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by private vehicle and later transferred to Sacred Heart Hospital, where he has since been discharged.

A young boy was taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by private vehicle after an incident which occurred April 25 at 8:30 p.m.

Richard William Paugh, 27, Kitzmiller, was backing out of a private drive in a Chevrolet Chevette with one passenger, William Edmon DeWitt, 5, Kitzmiller. DeWitt apparently opened the door of the vehicle and jumped out and was then taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where he was treated and released.

Tfc. P.R. Brown investigated.

Braskey To Serve On Political Leaders Council

Garrett County Commissioner John G. Braskey was informed this week of his appointment to The American Council of Young Political Leaders, following his nomination by Maryland Governor William Donald Schaefer's administration.

The Council is comprised of young political leaders from each state, with Commissioner Braskey representing the State of Maryland. Braskey stated, "I want to take this opportunity to thank the Schaefer administration and particularly Mark Wasserman, the Governor's Executive Chief of Administration for the nomination."

Commissioner Braskey has received an invitation from U.S. Secretary of State James Baker and the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to attend a conference on Foreign Policy in Washington, D.C., May 23 and 24.

Braskey stated, that "It is a great honor for me to be invited to participate in this conference, and I feel it brings additional recognition and attention to Garrett County and the State of Maryland. With the recent changes occurring in Eastern Europe and throughout the world, I feel we, in Garrett County, need to know what type of impact those changes may have on our future. A favorable impact could possibly result through the development of new markets and export opportunities in the area of economic development."

"He added, "I am also curious to learn about the current U.S. policy in Lithuania, since my father's parents both came to Garrett County from Lithuania."

"Iona" To Perform At Festival

Barbara Ryan and Bernard Argent, who together comprise the musical duo, "IONA," will perform for the Third Annual McHenry Highland Festival on Saturday, June 2, at the Garrett County Fairgrounds on Route 219 at Deep Creek Lake in McHenry.

Barbara Ryan, who provides lead vocals and plays the bodhran, (Irish drum), guitar, and bones, has performed in South Africa, Europe, the British Isles, and the Eastern United States. Bernard Argent, who harmonizes with Barbara, plays tin whistle, 12- and 6-string guitars, and flute. They play traditional folk music from Ireland, Scotland, Wales, Cornwall, the Isle of Man, and Brittany, drawing on a repertoire of more than 150 songs. Many are performed in their original Celtic languages and are interspersed with dance music and anecdotes from the duo's travels in the British Isles.

Barbara and Bernard have performed for many major festivals along the East Coast of the United States and have produced many programs for schools in the Washington Metropolitan area. They also produce the Great Falls, Va., Summer Concerts on the Green.

Festival hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., and admission is $4 for anyone 12 years of age and over. "IONA" will also perform at the Ceilidh (party) at 8 p.m. Saturday evening in the McHenry House at Wisp Ski Resort, hosted by Wisp Ski Resort (admission $3).

Pleasant Valley Christian Students To Be Graduated

Pleasant Valley Christian Academy will be having its commencement exercises May 20 at 2 p.m. at Mountaintop Christian Assembly, Mountain Lake Park.

Evangelist Lonnie Manning, Manassas, Va., will be the guest speaker. All members of the public are welcome to attend.

"THE CHOICE," written by 8BL1 and L2 at Southern Middle School, will be presented to the public, free of charge, Friday, May 11, at 7 p.m. Under the direction of Wes Lovelace, the play is a series of vignettes (small plays) that deal with choices between good and bad and the consequences of those choices. During and following the play, the audience is asked to make their own choices. A spokesperson for the students stated, "We hope our play can make a change in the way we look at life's decisions." Pictured above are the students from the two English classes who composed the play.

Maryland Humanities Council Funds New Workshop At Highland Festival

The "From the Old Country to the New Country" Workshop, a new event that will be held at the 3rd McHenry Highland Festival on Saturday, June 2, at the Garrett County Fairgrounds in McHenry, will be made possible with funding from the Maryland Humanities Council through a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Co-directed by the Garrett Community College, the half-hour and 45-minute presentations comprising this workshop will continue on the fairgrounds from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. during regular festival hours. The festival celebrates the cultures of Scotland, Ireland, England, Wales, and Brittany, so the presentations will include topics like, "Stories from Ireland," "Hammered Dulcimer Music of the British Isles and Appalachia," "Brief History of the Gaels and Celts," and "Life for the British Immigrants in Lonaconing, Md." Festival goers who drop in for these free presentations will be encouraged to consider the history of the music, dance, games, military, and clans represented in the festival taking place around them. Four additional presentations will include one set by the Living History Military Encampment that will be camping on the fairgrounds and representing 300 years of the Scottish soldier.

Festival hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., and admission is $4.00 for anyone 12 years of age and over.

Municipality Update

Grantsville

The Grantsville Mayor and Town Council met Monday evening and approved the operating budget for fiscal year 1991.

The operating budget has been set at $250,368.

Discussion was held on obtaining a contract with Maryland Environmental Services (MES).

The council gave approval to signing a contract with MES to start up the wastewater treatment plant and for MES to supervise the water and wastewater treatment plant division.

The next regular meeting of the Mayor and Town Council has been scheduled for May 21.

Accident

The Mayor and Town Council of Accident held the regular monthly meeting Monday evening to discuss plans for the wastewater treatment plant.

The Mayor and Town Council met April 12 with officials from the State Department of the Environment to discuss the town's plans for utilizing a state grant of $725,000 to up-grade the wastewater treatment plant.

The council agreed Monday evening to engage Maryland Environmental Services (MES) to handle the administration of the grant fund.

The agreement will include the services of the engineering department of MES to prepare the scope of work and solicit proposals for the engineering design.

The town will also be requesting assistance from MES to TV the sewer collection lines to determine the causes of sewer infiltration.

CULTURAL/HISTORICAL ACTIVITIES

The council heard a report from the Accident Cultural and Historical Society that plans are well underway for the Accident Fourth of July Homecoming.

The add-day festival will feature a parade on Main Street, a Historical Walking Tour, entertainment, arts and crafts, games and other activities.

One special feature of the day will be a patriotic program with a performance by the Accident Concert Band.

TALENT SHOW

An amateur talent show will be held Saturday, May 19, at 7:30 p.m. at the Flowery Vale Center.

Children and adult talents from Accident will be featured. The public is invited.

SHA PROJECTS

The Council learned that the State Highway Administration will be linestriping U.S. Rt. 219 (Main Street) in Accident, this year to improve safety conditions.

An addtional white line will be painted to designate street parking along Main Street.

COMMUNITY PARK

The Central Garrett Baseball League is utilizing the Accident Community Park East for little league and t-ball games.

The infield at the park has been refurbished by the league and landscaping around the structure is completed.

Oakland

The Oakland Mayor and Town Council met Monday evening to set the tax rate for the upcoming year.

The rate has been set at the constant yield rate of $1.20 per $100 value of land.

The same discount rate applies this year as in the past: five percent if the bill is paid in the first month; four percent if paid in the second month; and three percent if paid in the third month. There will be a charge of one percent added to the bill for each month after the first three months.

For the fourth year, the phasing out of the inventory tax for businesses will continue. The bill will be 20 percent of what it was. The tax will be eliminated completely next year.

"We will be finalizing the budget at next month's meeting," said Mayor Asa McCain. "The town is in good financial standing at this point."

For more information on taxes, contact the Oakland City Hall.

An ordinance was also passed on water rates for Oakland. The rates will be the same as last year.

CENTER STREET RECREATION PROGRAM

The council approved operation of the Center Street Recreation Program for the summer.

The program will be operated by Don Stemple, Southern High School teacher and coach of the girl's basketball team.

ROAD RESURFACING

The council approved the resurfacing of Eighth Street, between High Street and Oak Street.

The town has just completed installing a new water line on that section of Eighth Street and resurfacing of the roadway will get underway this week.

NEW POLICEMAN

Oakland City Police will receive an additional police officer on Saturday.

Shawn Groves will graduate from the Maryland Police Academy on Friday and will begin working with the Oakland City Police on Saturday.

The addition of Groves will bring the Oakland City Police force up to four members.

BROADFORD PARK

The town has employed Debbie Reall to operate Broadford Park. She has completed an agenda of activities for the summer, which council approved Monday evening.

The council also approved the installation of additional docks at Broadford Lake and will continue the development of the trail that will encircle the lake.

Richmond Man Charged By Police After Incident

A Richmond, Va., man was charged with failure to secure a load properly after an incident which occurred last Friday in Friendsville around 5 p.m.

Edward Jerome Shearin, 35, was approaching the C&P Telephone Building in Friendsville, when a stack of batteries on the back of the truck fell over. When Shearin stopped the truck, he noticed that battery acid was leaking from the batteries.

The batteries were resting on a wooden skid and 24 of the batteries, weighing 175 pounds each, slid off the truck. Several of the batteries cracked, causing the leak.

Shearin was going to C&P to pick up used batteries for disposal.

Friendsville firefighters used absorbant material to soak up the spill. No evacuation was required and traffic was not affected.

Northern High's Building Trades Students Build Modular Home

by William Colby
NHS English Teacher
And Newspaper Advisor

Several years ago, Jeff Montgomery, one of Northern's Building Trades instructors, had a new and innovative idea for showing his carpentry students just how much hard work goes into the construction of a home. He had suggested that his classes actually build a complete modular home and then sell it to the highest bidder.

Three years ago, construction on the first of these houses began. This month, the finishing touches are being applied to the third. In the course of the years in between, building trades students in carpentry, electronics, and industrial arts have been exposed to a wide variety of new experiences and learned a great deal about the working world.

Chuck Hetz, one of this year's seniors, who has worked on all three of the houses, says, "One of the most important things I've learned is cabinet-making." He proudly adds that he has built and installed kitchen cabinets for his mother and recently took second place in the statewide VICA competition for cabinet-making.

Hetz said that his teacher, Jeff Montgomery, pushed him hard his first year because "he wanted you to learn everything; he's just like someone you'd go out on a job and work for."

Hetz states that he likes to come to school because he "doesn't want to miss anything," especially working on the house. In addition to carpentry, Hetz takes courses in English, drafting, and theater arts. He modestly adds that he may be in this year's school play, as well as helping build the sets for the production.

Hetz noted that each year the house project has gotten a little bigger and a little fancier. This year's home measures 24' by 50', or nearly 1200 feet of living space. In addition to the larger size of the house, a number of other frills have been added, such as the 52" ceiling fan in the living room and the oak wainscoting in the kitchen/dining areas.

Jeremiah Casteel, another of Montgomery's senior carpenters, says that he prefers doing finishing work. He's a man who doesn't mind taking his work home with him. In fact, one summer, Casteel helped a friend build a home. More recently, he has worked for the telephone company while on his summer vacation. He adds that he intends to continue his education in a carpentry school after his graduation from Northern.

Casteel modestly predicts that the house he has worked on all year "is going to turn out pretty nice."

Some of Casteel's work can be seen in the bathrooms. The two bath areas have one piece tub/shower units and the walls are covered with wallpaper. The floors in both bath and utility areas are covered with linoleum. The utility area is equipped with washer/dryer hook-ups.

Elsewhere through the house, wall-to-wall carpeting covers the floor; handcrafted cedar trim spruces up the door and window frames; and textured ceilings add an elegant touch to all the rooms.

One of the other seniors whom Montgomery depends on is Jim Thomas. He too has worked on all three houses built at Northern High School. Thomas became interested in carpentry helping his father with odd jobs around the house.

Although Thomas does not anticipate making a full-time occupation out of carpentry, he wants to keep working at it "on the side." He presently is employed after school and during the summers at Casselman Lumber in Grantsville, building sheds and doing odd jobs.

Comparing the three houses that he has worked on, Thomas says this house is "better than the other two." He adds, "It's built better, and although we don't have as many people in Carpentry III, we all pulled together and did a better job."

Thomas thinks of his teacher, Mr. Montgomery, not just as a boss, but adds, "I think he's wonderful myself; he's super. Ever since I started, he's taught me a lot. We know what he wants, and we get it done."

"I just wish I could stay a couple of more years," says Thomas, but adds that he has been looking into a prospective job in Hagerstown, building cabinets.

Thomas said that he was particularly proud of some of the new extras installed in this year's house. For example, there is a lighted attic which one can reach by a folding access stairway in the hall, and each of the closets read the homeowner's mind by automatically turning on the light when the door is opened.

The heating is handled from baseboard electric heat. Each room has its own thermostat control, and to keep the costs of heating down, insulated Peachtree brand glass windows with screen have been used in conjunction with super thick insulation.

The last of Montgomery's Carpentry III seniors is Steve Bittinger, who says he enjoys doing rough carpentry most. He likes working with his hands and feels that it "takes a lot of responsibility to build a house."

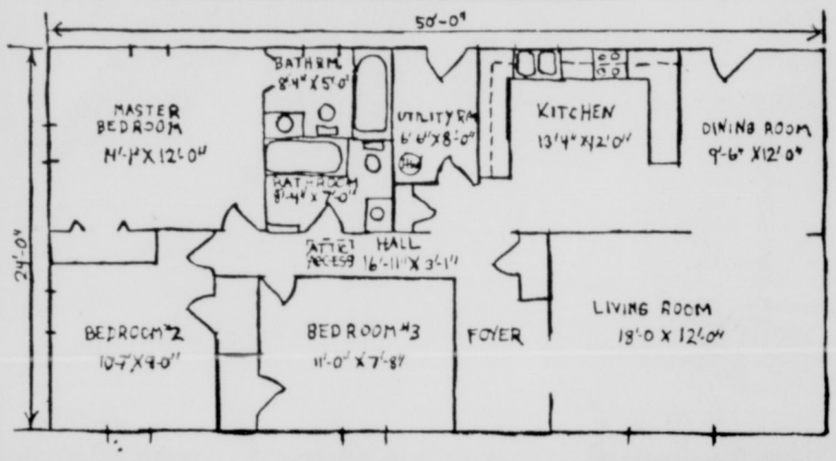
Bittinger hopes to be able to get into home construction after he graduates. Bittinger comes by his interest in carpentry honestly: his dad is a carpenter doing maintenance at Alpine Village in Terra Alta, W.Va. To earn money while still in high school, Bittinger has been employed by The Winds in McHenry, delivering pizza.

Bittinger recommends carpentry classes to other high school students. "Mr. Montgomery expects you to work hard, and to get a lot done, but you learn a lot."

Bittinger pointed out a number of other items that were installed inside the house: smoke detectors, built-in phone jacks, cable television hook-ups, and a radio-intercom to talk between rooms or to listen for the baby while working in the kitchen or resting in the living room.

Outside, custom-made shutters draw the eye of passers-by. Also, there is outside lighting and an outside spigot for washing the car or the dog without getting the floors all wet.

THIS IS THE HOUSE THAT NHS BUILT — More accurately, this is the house built by Northern High School students in Jeff Montgomery's building trades class. The finishing touches are being applied to this, the third house built by NHS carpentry classes in as many years. The Garrett County Board of Education began taking bids for the house April 22. All bids must be received by May 18, at 1 p.m. The house measures 24 feet by 50 feet, includes two bathrooms, a 52-inch ceiling fan, oak wainscoating, a utility area, complete with washer/dryer hook-ups, wall-to-wall carpeting, handcrafted cedar trim and textured ceilings. (See story by William Colby.)



The home is ideal for a young couple first starting out, or for a retirement couple, or perhaps, as a cozy vacation get-away for anyone.

The Garrett County Board of Education began taking sealed bids for the house April 22. All bids must be received by the Board of Education by 1 p.m., May 18, at which time they will be opened.

DAV Clothing Giveaway Hours Are Corrected

Mt. Top Unit 29, Disabled American Veterans Auxiliary, will operate its clothing giveaway store, located at the former Cee-Dee Restaurant, Rts. 135 and 219, Oakland, every Tuesday and Saturday through October. Hours will be 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

It was erroniously reported last week that the store would operate six days each week.

This service is for anyone needing clothing, not just veterans and their families. Persons with clothing or other items to donate are invited to do so.

For more information about this service, persons may call 746-5921 or 334-4904.

When the nation took its first census in 1790, only five percent of the population lived in cities or towns. Most of the 3.9 million people lived in farm areas.

BITTINGER-GLADES

CHURCH NEWS

Casey Nathaniel Faust, son of Kim and Mitch Faust, was baptized during the worship services at Zion on Sunday. Altar flowers were presented in recognition of the occasion.

Holy Communion will be observed in all the churches of the Bittinger Parish on Sunday. On Sunday, May 20, following the worship service, there will be a congregational meeting at Emmanuel. There will be a discussion concerning the next steps in planning for a new building.

The Glade Mennonite Church is sponsolring a yard sale and bazaar on Saturday, May 26, on the Glade Church grounds. The event will run from 10 a.m. until 8 p.m. Funnell cakes, homemade ice cream, and concessions will be available. There will be live gospel music after 4 p.m., and plate dinners will be available. The public is invited to attend.

Emmanuel Lutheran Church will hold its Mother-Daughter banquet on Monday, May 14, at 6:30 p.m. at the Bittinger Fire Hall. A turkey dinner will be served by the ladies Auxiliary of the Fire Department. The cost will be $5.25 for adults, $2.50 for children 5 to 12 years, and free for those under 5 (limit one per adult). Maggie Matthews, a Peace Corps volunteer who worked with Dr. Scott Glotfelty in Togo, Africa, will be the speaker for the evening.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

A family birthday party was held to celebrate the fourth birthday of Robbie Glotfelty, son of Rodney and Marcie, on Sunday. There were ten present.

TRIP TO WILLIAMSBURG

Ferne Beachy, Beulah Moon, and Ellen Moon took a sightseeing trip to Williamsburg, Va., for three days last week.

ATTENDS SERVICE

Among those attending the memorial service held by the Hospice at Camp Hickory on Sunday evening were Don and Jane Sealing, Mrs. Elmer Maust, Ruth DiPaolo, and Charleen Thomas. A covered dish dinner was served prior to the service.

TOURS WITH BAND

Jenny Weller, along with other members of the Northern High School Band, toured Washington, D.C., Friday and in the evening attended the musical production by James Galway on the flute at the Kennedy Center.

SINGING ENGAGEMENT

Paul Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Miller, sang at the Sunday morning worship service of the Falls Assembly of God Church in Falls, W.Va. He was accompanied by his parents.

ATTEND CHORAL PRESENTATION

A number of persons from the Bittinger area attended the presentation of the Garrett County Choral Society at the College on Friday evening.

PERSONAL ITEMS

Donald Sealing II spent two days at his parents' home last week. Weekend guests of Ida Reckner were Paul Wiley and his sister, Ruth Stinchcomb, of Canton, Ohio. Sunday supper guests of Ida Reckner were Mr. and Mrs. Tom Glotfelty and family, Mr. and Mrs. James Glotfelty, Karmen and Tony Carey, Lisa Platter and son, Linda Oester and Craig Williams.

Margie Brenneman was a Sunday evening caller at the home of Martha Glotfelty, and Ferne Beachy was a brief caller on Monday morning. Mrs. Glotfelty recently had eye surgery. Olive Bender stayed with her for a week to assist in her work.

Mr. and Mrs. Lou Detrick and family spent the weekend with Mary and Russell Brenneman.

Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Brenneman were Mr. and Mrs. Damon Schmuck and family, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bender and family, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Bender and family, Brent, Susan and Scott Maust, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Brenneman and family, Wayne Mast and Kenton Bender. Mrs. Viola Miller and Darlene were afternoon visitors.

Dan and Jean Caldwell, Uniontown, Pa., visited Mary Forney on Wednesday.

The Bittinger Fire Department will be sponsoring a chicken barbeque on May 12, at the Bittinger Fire Hall from 4:30-7 p.m.

McDONALD'S TO SPONSOR SPECIAL OLYMPICS — The Spring Games of the annual Special Olympics, to be held Friday, May 11, at Northern High School, will be sponsored by Oakland's McDonald's, who will be the primary food providers for the event. Shown above, left to right, are Al Boxley, owner and operator of the Oakland McDonald's; Linda Tomblin, Garrett County competition director, and Lyz Biser, Special Olympics director for the area. Tomblin is holding a plaque in memory of a local Special Olympian who died at the age of 13 after having been confined to a wheelchair. Called the Eric Lewis Award, its 1989 recipient was John Carroll, Grantsville. American Legion Post 71, Oakland, is co-sponsor of the event.

Stephens Recognized By Community Action Program

The Maryland Energy Assistance Program (MEAP) of Community Action has recognized Lori Stephens as "Outstanding Employee."

Mrs. Stephens has been employed be the program for two years. She works as a certifier, responsible for determining the applicants eligibility and processing related documentation.

According to Bob Rodeheaver, Energy Services Director, "Lori displays a genuine concern for our clients. She is detail oriented and works well under pressure. Lori is a fast learner, adapting easily to new or adjusted regulations. In addition, she is able to process a considerable amount of work in a short amount of time, which is a certain asset to our cause. When our program was initiated in 1981 we serviced approximately 1,100 clients. This year we assisted 5,560 clients, representing 1,986 households. Our applicant status stood at 2,158, which thrusted us to a 99.7 percentage rate of our projected goal. MEAP has been awarded by the state for accuracy, volume and program increase. In essence, our operation depends on a capable support staff and Lori works with stamina toward the team effort."

When notified of her selection as "Outstanding Employee," Mrs. Stephens commented, "I enjoy working with my coworkers, the vendors and the clients. I feel that the Energy Assistance Program is very important as it helps households to supplement 20 percent to 70 percent of their heating costs. Some of the homes in Garrett County would be without heat if it were not for MEAP."

Mrs. Stephens is an avid sports fan, with a special interest in volleyball and basketball and she also enjoys reading. Lori is a member of the Meadow Mountain Mennonite Church. She resides in Bittinger with her husband and four children.

Bowl For Kids Raises $7,600 For Organization

As the result of a recent "Bowl for Kids' Sake" bowl-a-thon, the Garrett County chapter of Big Brothers/Big Sisters of the Alleghenies raised over $7600 in pledges to help in the formation of the new group.

Seven corporate sponsors, businesses or organizations pledging $250, supported the bowl-a-thon held at Par-Matt Lanes in Oakland. The highest scoring corporate team was BPO Elks, who received a trophy for their efforts. A plaque will be placed at Par-Matt naming the first place corporate teams in Garrett County this year.

Other contributors were the Oakland Lions Club members, who have pledged over $500 to their bowler, Paul Mullan; Bausch & Lomb, which contributed sunglasses, valued at $300, which were then raffled off, and Kelly's Appliance and Furniture, with a pledge of $200.

Individual bowlers received McDonald's "goodie bags," provided by the Allegany County chapter.

"Bowl for Kids' Sake" is a local fund-raising event, therefore, all money raised will stay within the community to support the opening of the Garrett chapter.

Big Brothers/Big Sisters of America is a national organization with more than 480 affiliated agencies, whose philosphy is, "The quality of the time an adult spends with a child does make a difference in a child's life." Agency professionals monitor each volunteer.

Those wishing to pledge money, are asked to contact Al Coviello, 112 I Street, Mtn. Lake Park, 21550, before Saturday, May 12, in order to pick up T-shirts or incentive prizes. Money may also be turned in on that date at Par-Matt Lanes, where prizes will be distributed. Major prizes will be awarded after all money has been submitted.

Prizes include a grand prize of seven nights in Cancun for two, an East Coast trip and a set of four tires (adult prizes) and youth prizes including a videocassette recorder and a CD player. Elementary age bowlers are eligible to win a Nintendo game system and a McDonald's celebration party for 15.

BOWL FOR KIDS' SAKE — A bowl-a-thon was recently held at Par-Matt Lanes in Oakland by the newly formed Garrett County chapter of Big Brothers/Big Sisters to help organize the group. Over $7,600 was raised in pledges, which was held in conjunction with the Big Brothers/Big Sisters Allegany County Chapter. Shown above left, are Brenda McCartney, left, who is presenting Anna Bishop, one of the winners, with a pair of Ray Ban sunglasses from Bausch & Lomb. McCartney is the corporate chairman. Above right, one of the corporate teams participating in the bowling event was Loyal Order of the Moose, with members, left to right, Charlie Walters, Keith Doyle, Bob Peiffer and Dave Ringer. Pictured, below left, is the corporate team of Potomac Engineering and Surveying. From left to right are Tom Massi, Sull McCartney, Gary Yoder and Larry Bayles. Below right, same order, are "Red" Guthrie, Jeff Meyers, Fred Sanders and Rocky Smith, members of the BPO Elks, 2481, who were the top team for Garrett County in the event. (See story.)

Rams Roll Over Huskies, 12-1, To Claim County Bragging Rights

If Northern Coach Phil Carr would be allowed to disregard the Southern Rams' third inning of Monday's county contest in Oakland, the final score would have been a close 3-1 Southern victory.

However, the Rams recorded nine runs in that inning to roll over the Huskies, 12-1, and record their 11th win in 15 starts. Coach Jim Bosley's Rams have won 10 of their last 12 games and will host Bishop Walsh this afternoon.

The loss dropped the Huskies to 2-7 and they stumbled again yesterday at Beall (see separate story).

The game was scoreless until the bottom of the third when Southern sophomore Brett Rice, who earned his seventh win on the mound by firing a five-hitter, led off with a double. Charlie Plauger followed with a walk, Kevin Green singled home Rice, and Britten Martin walked to load the bases. A pair of Husky errors accounted for two more runs.

Mike Fulmer and Dave Upole followed with RBI singles before Rice batted again and recorded another double. Plauger then brought Rice home with a double to make the score 9-0.

Southern added a single run in the fifth when Rice, who was on base with his third double of the afternoon, came home on a single by Green.

Northern finally got on the scoreboard in the sixth when Wes Loar scored on a fielder's choice by Mark Beals.

The Rams added two insurance runs in the bottom of the sixth when Upole doubled to score James Bateman and Plauger rapped a ground out that scored Dave Kurtz.

Rice struck out four batters and walked just two in gaining the win over Northern's Jon Houser.

Rams, Huskies Finish Last In Beall Invitational

The Northern and Southern high school boys track teams did not fare well this year in the Beall Invitational, held Tuesday evening in Frostburg, as the Huskies finished ninth in the 10-team event with 14 points and the Rams placed last with eight points.

The only real highlight for the Rams was a first-place finish by Darren McKenzie in the 200-meter dash. He also placed fourth in the 100-meter dash.

The best finisher on the afternoon for Southern was by Mike Freyman, who placed third in the pole vault.

Fort Hill won the meet with 134 points, followed by Allegany with 103, Keyser, 69; Meyersdale, 56; Hampshire, 48; Bishop Walsh, 39; Frankfort, 33; Northern and Southern.

Huskies Fall To 2-9 With Loss To Beall

After falling to cross-county rival Southern on Monday (see separate story), the Northern High Huskies continued to struggle yesterday afternoon, as they were blanked by visiting Beall, 6-0.

It was the ninth win in 10 starts for the Mountaineers, while the Huskies fell to 2-9.

Jerry Uphold started on the mound for the Huskies and held the Mountaineers scoreless until the fifth inning, when the visitors recorded three runs. Shannon McKenzie, the winning pitcher, aided his own cause in that inning by smacking a three-run homer. His blast brought home Jon Winebrenner and Brian Lewis, who had each singled.

Beall added two more runs in the sixth, as Jason Robison and Winebrenner reached on base hits and McKenzie followed with a single to score Robison. Winebrenner then came home on an error to make the score 5-0.

Beall added an insurance run in the seventh when John Cutter reached second on an error and Leland Richards followed with an RBI single.

The Huskies nearly put a run on the board in the fourth, but Mark Beals was thrown out at the plate by centerfielder Brian Thomas.

In recording the win, McKenzie allowed six hits, struck out seven, and walked just one. Uphold recorded five strike outs before being relieved by Dave Yoder in the fifth.

The Huskies are slated to host Bishop Walsh this Saturday at 1 p.m.

Lakers Sweep Charles, 13-3, 9-4, Before Dropping A Pair To Essex

The Garrett Community College Lakers swept a doubleheader from Charles Community College this past week, 13-3 and 9-4, only to turn around and drop a twinbill to Essex CC on Sunday, 4-1 and 3-2, after leading by a run in the seventh inning of both contests.

The playoff picture for the Lakers was still undetermined early this week and such information was unavailable at presstime.

It was strong pitching and good speed on offense that paved the way for the Lakers' sweep over Charles Community College on Friday.

Brian Dillon and Scott Lohr each tossed complete games for GCC, while the Laker base runners recorded 10 steals in as many attempts on the afternoon.

Dillon allowed only four hits in the opener and yielded no earned runs as he struck out five and walked just two.

The Hawks took a 2-0 lead with unearned single runs in the second and third innings. But the Lakers took the lead for good by scoring four times in the top of the fourth on an RBI single by Mick Bayle, a two-run double by Eric Chapman, and an RBI double by Chris Miller.

Charles added a run in the bottom of the inning, but the Lakers added six more runs in the sixth and three in the seventh. Irvin Johnson led off the sixth with a single and moved to third on a hit by Chapman. After Chapman stole second, both runners came home on a double by Miller.

Joe Zosky, a pinch runner for Chapman, came home on a hit by Dwayne Woodring, who proceeded to steal two bases and then score on a fly by Mike Harbaugh. Cajetan Stepani followed with a walk, stole second, and came home on Bayle's eighth home run of the season.

The seventh inning runs were scored on a double by Miller and a homer by Todd Booth, his first of the season.

Lohr, a Southern High graduate, went the distance in the second game and gave up six hits and two earned runs while striking out four and notching his fourth win in five outings.

Again Charles took a 2-0 lead on unearned runs in the first and third before the Lakers scored three runs in the top of the fourth. Bayle led off the inning with a double, D.G. Largent followed with a single, Johnson doubled to score Bayle, and Steve Ujcic smacked a single to plate Largent and Johnson.

A solo home run by Foster of the Hawks tied the score at 3-3 in the bottom of the fourth, but the Lakers answered with five runs in the fifth. After a one-out single by Harbaugh, Largent was struck by a pitch and Johnson and Chapman followed with RBI singles. Then Ujcic stroked a two-run single to score Johnson and Chapman and a single by Scooter Browning sent Ujcic home.

Ujcic still wasn't finished, as he singled home Largent in the seventh inning to record his fifth RBI of the game.

The Lakers finished with 27 hits in the sweep.

The losses to Essex on Sunday were both tough to accept by Coach Lawrence Nesselrodt and his team, as the Lakers saw one-run leads in the seventh inning of both games evaporate.

The Lakers led off the first game by loading the bases in the first inning, but they did not score. Their only run of the game came in the fourth inning when Harbaugh walked, Stepanic followed with a double and later scored on a single by Largent. Harbaugh was thrown out at home when he slipped in a puddle rounding third base on Stepanic's double.

The Lakers still had that 1-0 lead with two outs against the Knights in the bottom of the seventh, when Carmen Moon walked two batters and Smits followed with an RBI single to tie the score.

Moon, who struck out eight and walked seven, was relieved in the bottom of the eighth after giving up two walks with two outs. But Chapman took the mound and gave up a three-run homer to Flynn to end the game.

The Lakers also scored first in the second game when, with two outs in the third, Tony Warner rapped an RBI single that scored Lohr, who was running for Browning.

The Knights tied the game at 1-1 on a squeeze bunt in the fourth before the Lakers took a 2-1 advantage in the sixth when Harbaugh singled to score Warner.

It appeared that the Lakers would pad their lead in the top of the seventh when Largent led off with a double, but he was stranded.

The Knights loaded the bases against Laker starter Mike Berlin in the bottom of the seventh before a fielder's choice and a single gave them the victory.

Berlin gave up just five hits, struck out six, and walked six.

Nesselrodt said that walks have been a major problem for his pitchers much of the season, noting that in 12 of the team's 18 defeats, at least six walks were allowed.

Railey Fares Well In Fla. Triathlon

Jim Railey, McHenry, competed in the Tampa Bay Triathlon on April 29 in Florida. The course was a 0.9-mile swim, 25-mile bike ride, and a 6.2-mile run.

Railey's time for all three events was 2:07:11, placing him 61st out of 1,500 entrants. He was also 14th in the 25 to 29 age group.

Railey's son, Lee, competed in the kids triathlon which consisted of a 100-yard swim, 3-mile bike ride, and 0.8-mile run. Lee finished sixth in the 8-year-old age group.

Southern Girls Finish Seventh In Area Meet

The Southern High School girls' track team competed in the Area Track & Field Championships at Beall High School in Frostburg yesterday and came away with seventh place finish in the 10-team event.

Allegany captured the overall championship with a total of 11 points, followed by Fort Hill with 103, Beall, 81, Frankfort, 59, Hampshire, 49 and one-half, Southern, 36, Bishop Walsh, 22, Mount Savage, 14, and Westmar, 2 and one-half.

The major highlight of the event for the Rams was a first place and new Beall Stadium record in the triple jump by Tonya Shreve. She recorded a jump of 32 feet, six and three-quarters inches.

Shreve also placed second in the 200-meter dash and fifth in the long jump.

Krystie Browning finished second in the 300 intermediate hurdles and Susan Umstot was fifth in the 1,600-meter run.

First Adventure Sports Mountain Bike Race Set For This Weekend

World Championships, Inc. will hold the first of two 1990 mountain bike races this weekend over the rugged trails of Green Ridge State Forest.

The Dogwood Classic is scheduled for May 12 and 13 with registration and practice scheduled to begin at noon on Saturday and competition beginning at 11 a.m. on Sunday. The course will be a challenging 15-mile loop running north/south over forest trails between the summit of Town Hill mountain and Green Ridge Road beginning and ending near the M.V. Smith interchange along Route 48.

Entrants will race in three categories including Beginner, Sport and Expert. Entries have been received from over 100 competitors including many nationally ranked racers.

Working in cooperation with the Maryland Department of Natural Resources Forest Park and Wildlife Service, WCI is developing a role in the growing mountain bike sport similar to their position as international promoters of competition canoe and kayak racing.

"Mountain biking is one of the fastest growing recreational activities in the country," commented WCI Event Development Director Fred Stemple, who is organizing the two race 1990 mountain bike calendar that will conclude with the first-ever Maryland State Mountain Bike Championship on the same site in October.

Mountain bikes differ from road bicycles in a number of ways. They are lower with more compact frames, smaller knobby tires and rugged construction. An entire industry has risen about the hobby with small manufacturers specializing in bike construction, parts fabrication, and clothing.

"There is an interesting cultural crossover between the look and jargon of mountain bikers and other outdoor activities like surfing and skateboarding," Stemple said. "The difference comes from the demographics . . . mountain bikers come from a broad range of white collar, well educated professions and typically have roots in other outdoor activities.

"Green Ridge is well known among mountain bikers for its extensive trail system. In fact, it has been featured recently in a national magazine as one of the East Coast's best," Stemple said.

The course was developed by DNR coordinator Liz Griffith and nationally ranked racer Darcy Wright of Ohiopyle, Pa. It will utilize a combination of trails and dirt roads through the 60,000-acre forest. Expert riders are expected to complete the course in about two hours.

"The course is tough. It takes competitors south along the western face of Town Hill and loops them back north along East Valley Road," Stemple observed.

Those interested in watching the Sunday event should take the M.V. Smith exit from Route 48 to the Green Ridge State Forest Office and arrive before 10 a.m.

Earlier this year at a WCI Adventure Sports Symposium, the civic sports organization directors announced that they would begin developing a broad range of adventure sports activities in Western Maryland as an outcome of their successful effort to organize and promote the acclaimed 1989 World Whitewater Championships on the Savage River.

A FANCY FEAST is in store for the family of Ronnie Schrock of Pleasant Valley, although it is unlikely they will wait until Thanksgiving. Schrock, 19, bagged this 18-pound gobbler two weeks ago in the Backbone Mountain area. The tom had an eight-inch beard.

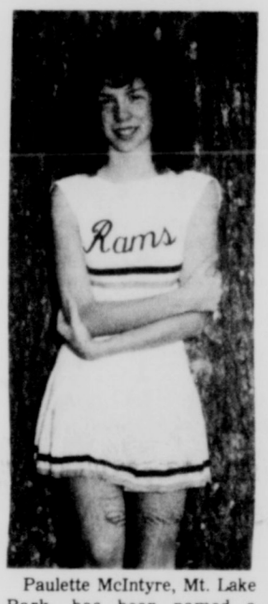
McIntyre Named Award Winner



Paulette McIntyre, Mt. Lake Park, has been named a national award winner in cheerleading by the United States Achievement Academy.

McIntyre attends Southern High School and was nominated for the award by Pam Eyler, cheerleading advisor.

The academy selects winners upon the exclusive recommendation of teachers, coaches, counselors or other school sponsors and upon the standards of selection, which include academic performance, interest and aptitude, leadership qualities, responsibility, enthusiasm, motivation to learn and improve, citizenship, attitude and cooperative spirit, dependability and recommendation from a teacher or director.

She is the daughter of Brenda and Paul McIntyre, Mt. Lake Park.

Karen Gurrera To Join GCC Women's Team

Karen Gurrera, Weirton, W.Va., recently signed a letter of intent to attend Garrett Community College and play basketball for the GCC women's team.

Ms. Gurrera, a product of John Marshall High School, was a first team all-state guard selection this past season. She averaged 16 points per game, 2.4 assists, and two rebounds per game as her team made it to the state tournament in Charleston for the second year in a row. She is considered an excellent shooter, connecting on 77 percent of ther three-point attempts, and 62 percent accuracy at the free throw line.

Laker head coach Dennis Gibson points out Karen's abilities will be a "great asset" to his returning squad. "Our biggest weakness this past season was perimeter scoring," he said. "Our defense ranked ninth in the country and we had the third leading rebounder in the JUCO nationally, but our lack of outside scoring ability allowed teams to key on our two best players. The addition of Karen will stop teams from double-teaming and open up scoring opportunities for everyone."

WMSG COUNTRY FISHING RODEO

The WMSG Country Fishing Rodeo at Broadford Lake will be held June 9 starting at 9 a.m. . There will be no admittance charge to get into the park until 10:00 a.m. The boat pictured above will be given away at 6 p.m., courtsey of Foxes Pizza Den , Downtown Oakland (Owned By Andrew & Evie Fike) and WMSG Radio. Boy Scout Troop 31 of Oakland will be helping to patrol the rodeo.

The WMSG Country Fishing Rodeo at Broadford Lake is for the whole family. You don't have to fish to win. WMSG will be giving away prizes every 10 minutes and 50 seconds. All you have to do is sign up for the free rodeo in two age groups, 16 and under, and 17 and over. If you don't want to fish still sign up and you can win. WMSG will be playing country music all day at the park so come out and enjoy the day. It's free admittance to the park until 10:00 a.m. so come early and stay late. At 6 p.m. WMSG and Foxes Pizza Den Downtown Oakland (Andrew and Evie Fike Owners) will be giving away a boat to someone who has signed up for the free drawings. You must be present to win the boat. The prizes total over $3,000. The chances of winning are good!

Also, if any group wishes to set up a booth for free they can. A charge of $20.00 per group will be made for electrical use. If your group does not require elec tricity the set up is free. For more information on how to register to set up booths or tables call WMSG after 3:00 p.m. and ask for Greg C.

WMSG will not be responsible for any accident that takes place during the Country Fishing Rodeo.

Northern Girls, Southern Boys Win In County Tennis Competition

The Northern and Southern tennis teams met each other twice this past week and the results were the same in both encounters, as the Northern girls won both of the girls' matches by the score of 5-2 and the Southern boys captured a pair of 7-0 wins.

The teams met first in Oakland on Monday. Recording singles wins for the Southern boys were Dan Nordeck, Rory Bernard, Manfred Bustamante, Brian Boal, and Sean Gregory. The doubles teams of Nordeck and Bernard, and Andy Helbig and Doug Storck were also victorious.

In girls' action, Tammy Brenneman, Kristin Edwards, Pam Brenneman, and Valerie Hamilton won singles points for the Northern girls, and the Brenneman sisters combined for a doubles win.

Southern's points were recorded via a singles win by Liz Savage and a doubles victory by the team of Sheila Butt and Heather Hinebaugh.

The boys' results on Wednesday at Northern were identical in singles, with Nordeck, Bernard, Bustamante, Boal, and Gregory all gaining wins, along with Nordeck and Bernard in doubles. The other doubles win was by Boal and Gregory.

In the girls' match, the Brennemans and Edwards won in singles for Northern, while Savage and Hinebaugh won for Southern. The Brennemans also captured their doubles match, as did Heather Golden and Kim Green.

The Rams are scheduled to host Fort Hill this afternoon and the Huskies will return to action this weekend in the Bi-County Tournament.

Summer League To Be Organized In Grantsville

The Star Route Urban League, of Grantsville, will form an outdoor, summer, three-on-three basketball league at the Grantsville Community Park, with the season beginning in June and continuing through July.

Dave Bender, coordinator of the league, said that the summer league will present an opportunity for current local high school players to improve their skills. "We will offer a form of basketball that is instructionally sound, fundamentally demanding, and gobs of fun," Bender said. He said it will also be an opportunity for former high school players to continue their involvement in the game. "Plus, we would simply like to see the best outdoor-lighted hoop facility in the area more thoroughly utilized," he said.

Bender said that a high school division and an unlimited division are planned. Play will begin at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, June 7, and continue every Tuesday evening through July 26. Each team will play at least two 20-minute games each night, with a possibility of a third game, depending upon the number of teams that enter.

The fee to participate will be $25 in the high school division and $40 in the unlimited division. Participants will receive a $5 discount off the team entrance fee for the Greater Grantsville Shootout three-on-three basketball tournament and scoring competitions, slated for June 22 and 23.

Persons interested in registering or obtaining more information may contact Bender at 334-4390.

First United

Promotion Council Board of Directors, sponsored the Queen's float on a rotating basis, participated as Golden Ambassadors, entered our own First United float, and even had our employees dressed in costumes to greet visitors to the Festival. So, when we had the opportunity to be sole sponsor of the Parade, we immediately said 'count on us!' "

First United is currently working with the Promotion Council during the planning phases for the parade. Representatives of the bank will be actively involved in the planning phases and serve "on sight" in various capacities during the October 13 event.

According to Elizabeth Gilbert, events coordinator for the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council, First United's sponsorship of the Autumn Glory Festival Grand Feature Parade represents a two-year commitment to defray the costs of producing this event in Garrett County.

The bank serves as a participant and resource for numerous local festivals and projects, which include the following: official sponsorship of 1989 World Whitewater Canoe/Kayak Championships held on the Savage River, Garrett County Agricultural Fair, Grantsville and Friendsville Days, the Accident 4th of July Parade, and as a contributor to the Garrett County Memorial Hospital and Garrett Community College Foundations, as well as many other local projects throughout Garrett and Allegeny counties.

Sponsorships of the Autumn Glory Festival's brochure, which for a fee lists the events related to the Festival, but costs more to print and distribute (35,000 are printed) than the fees cover, are still available. Westvaco, the largest manufacturer in Allegany County and one of the nation's largest producers of fine papers, has purchased the first $500 patron sponsorship of the Autumn Glory Festival.

Mrs. Gilbert expressed her gratitude for this support of the Autumn Glory Festival by saying, "Thanks to those fine institutions, the Golden Ambassadors, and all of the people in Garrett County who work hard together to produce the Autumn Glory Festival each year. The Autumn Glory Festival has been named one of the top three events in the State of Maryland by the Maryland State Office of Tourism. Everyone who helps produce the Autumn Glory Festival by giving their time, money, and cooperation to this great event is owed a debt of thanks for making this possible."

For more information on the Festival and sponsorships, persons may contact the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council at (301) 334-1948.

persons should see their physician."

Archer said that parents should not be afraid to send their children to school, noting that the dermatitis is not contagious via casual contact. He added that state health officials will visit the county today or tomorrow and continue the investigation into the outbreak.

"We are reasonably certain that we have made a correct diagnosis, but we could be mistaken," Archer said, noting that more information would be forthcoming within the next week.

Bloomington

Groves said that two alternatives were being considered. The first would be to tie the water system back into the Westernport line (the line from which Bloomington previously got its water).

The second alternative being considered is to obtain funds to relocate and reconstruct an intake system which has a better quality of water.

Groves stated there had been no indications of health problems associated with the town's water, but that it was unacceptable for other purposes, such as washing clothes, etc.

Beitzel reported that the commission is currently preparing estimates "for immediate and long-term solutions." The commission has also asked the Maryland Department of the Environment to look at the situation and to possibly provide funding to correct the problem.

Beitzel stated that testing so far had not revealed toxic substances in the water.

other industries or the future. Tourists come and spend a lot of money to hike, ski, fish, hunt, and camp in the parks and forests. With a reasonable user fee, they would probably bring in more money over the long haul than timber sales do. In the fall, tourists come up just to see the forests. They don't come up to look at clear-cuts."

Organizers emphasized that they are pro-development, "but we advocate using common sense about the long-term effects on the environment," Bruch added. "Tourism, lumbering and mining are all important parts of the economy, and a lot of us make a living from them. But we run the risk of killing the goose that's laying the golden eggs." Bruch cited the tremendous positive changes in the environment since strip mining was regulated. "Sure, we need to take out the coal. But we need to protect the water and restore the land, also. It's being done with mines, it can be done with timbering and other development."

The organization hopes to keep track of federal, state and local planning to find out what activities are coming up that effect the environment and the quality of life in Western Maryland. CARE will support comprehensive planning and development which they think will make a positive difference to the environment and improve the quality of life in the area. The group also plans to work to make people aware of the environmental impact of specific developments before it's too late to do anything about it. Finally, the group will protest plans which will negatively affect the environment.

A public meeting to discuss the aims and activities of the organization will be held at Garrett Community College May 15, at 7:30 p.m., in Room CE 314. All interested citizens are invited to attend and participate. Those who wish further information, are asked to call Larry Bruch at 895-3286.

and theft that occurred between March 17 and April 28 at his residence located along Herrington Manor Road.

According to reports, a person or persons broke into the residence through a window and removed a microwave, VCR and somes VCR tapes. The total loss from theft and damages has been estimated at $850.

Deputy C.P. Nolan is conducting an investigation.

George Joseph Brodak, Oakland, reported a case of property destruction that occurred at Brodak's club, one mile north of Sand Flat Road.

According to reports a person attempted to break in and enter the building by forcing the double front doors inward. The doors were made to swing outward and were unlocked at the time the crime took place.

Deputy C.C. Feller is conducting an investigation.

degree of equitability associated with the needs of multiple users.

However, there is a point beyond which competition becomes destructive to the collective goals of society. There is no doubt that the vast majority of the public wants to continue using wood and wood by-products well into the 21st century (so we need to continue forest management); likewise, there is an indisputable need for the preservation of wilderness areas throughout our forested landscape (so we need to preserve wilderness areas). This single issue alone has led to a greater division between "utilitarian conservationists" (foresters) and "ecological-aesthetic conservationists" (preservationists) than any other resource issue in recent times. The use of clearcutting as a silvicultural system represents yet another issue for which there seems to be no middle ground.

Foresters and preservationists are both conservationists, that is, both care deeply about the forests, yet there is an enormous chasm between them. Nowhere does this seem more evident to me than in western Maryland.

What inspires my remarks on this issue is an April 26 Republican article citing the perceptions of Marshall Stacy and Ron Stemple, two Garrett County residents in the forest products industry, who reported on their experiences at the April 7 Citizens Conference on Forests and Forestry held at the University of Maryland at College Park. I was asked by the Maryland Conservation Council and numerous environmental cosponsors to speak on the ecological differences between managed and natural forest ecosystems. After reading the article by Stacy and Stemple I and others who attended the conference were confused. Were we all at the same meeting? Certainly, the misinterpretations and misleading statements made by Stacy and Stemple do not further the cause of forest conservation in western Maryland.

Suffice it to say, the ecology and management of forest systems is enormously complex and all facets are not yet fully understood even by professionals. Necessarily, public presentations on such a complex topic can be difficult at best. One cannot expect all members of an audience to be aware of the most recent scientific literature pertaining to forest ecology; likewise, it is unreasonable to expect them to be able to fully comprehend and integrate technical information during a brief period of time. Thus, the "reporting" of an event by one or two audience members can be subject to some (unfortunate) "misinterpretation."

Enumerating a list of misinformation reported by Stacy and Stemple would not be productive. However, I do see a need for better communication and honest interactions taken in good faith. Oddly, I spoke briefly with Stemple at this conference and he did not express the same views as he chose to submit to the regional press. Forest managers and preservationists will never be able to address our collective societal goals if we become subsumed with unhealthy interactions in the process. As mandated by Congress, public forested lands are to be managed for multiple-uses: timber/fiber production, wildlife, aesthetics, and recreation — end of story. The time has come to move onto more substantive issues concerning how we plan to meet our goals for a cleaner and healthier environment in western Maryland and around the globe.

Sincerely,
Brian C. McCarthy, Ph.D.

To the Editor:

I know there are those who will not believe what I am about to say, but I was present and it is still hard for me to realize what I heard and the actions of these Bloomington residents at a meeting between Mr. Beitzel and the board members of the Bloomington Improvement Association, Inc. This meeting was held to bring the association up to date concerning our intake at the pump station with problems created by the engineer at the original construction and problems with the Farmer's Home loan. I kept my mouth shut, listened, and I believe Mr. Beitzel has the best interests of Bloomington working for the town, even though I have not always been in agreement with him.

To get back to the action of these three individuals — one who stormed into the meeting and said, "There's that liar" pointing at Mr. Beitzel. I will not repeat the actions or comments of these three, but after the first two had left, slamming the door behind them, a third person entered with the meeting well underway and his attitude was no better than that of the others. President David Brennan informed him that two others had just left and he would not put up with that kind of conduct. Mr. Beitzel stated he did not have to take that and Bloomington could have the works back if they wanted it that way.

With the abuse towards Mr. Beitzel and in front of Mrs. Warnick, I can only say I do not believe in an attack of this type. We have problems, but let's work with Mr. Beitzel and try to correct them in a respectable and reasonable way.

Open House Will Showcase SHS House-Building Project

by Shelly Cassidy,
Marketing Ed. Student

In the market for a new home? Make plans now to attend the Open House at Southern High School Saturday, May 12 from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. The Modular house designed and built by local vocational students will be on display. Students and faculty members will be on hand to explain the many features and benefits, and answer any questions regarding the sale of the house. Interested home buyers are encouraged to attend.

This year's house has grown to 48'x24' in dimension, with many added features. The house boasts three bedrooms, two full baths, carpeting throughout, wainscoting in the living and dining areas with oak trim, and a sliding glass door off the dining room. Other features include an attractive kitchen with dishwasher, laundry room, ample closet space, and basement access. The house provides a maintenance-free exterior, Anderson windows, shutters, and energy-efficient sidewalls and ceilings with R-19 and R-38 values respectively.

Jim Koon, Building Trades instructor at the local school, explains why this project is important to the program: "We felt a need to give students practical experience and simulate on-the-job training. This is our third year to complete a house and the kids become involved as early as September to complete this project."

The public is encouraged to visit during the Open House on Saturday to witness the many features and benefits of the student-built house. Persons wishing to bid on the house must submit their sealed bids by 2 p.m., Friday, May 18.

SHS CARPENTRY STUDENTS TO SHOW HOUSE — The vocational students at Southern High School recently completed construction of a 48'X24' modular home, which will be presented to the public at an Open House to be held Saturday, May 12, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Pictured above are some of the students who worked on various aspects of the house, under the direction of Jim Koon, building trades instructor. Persons wishing to bid on the house, are required to submit sealed bids by Friday, May 18, at 2 p.m. (See separate story.)

CRIME SOLVERS

The Garrett County Crime Solvers have requested information on the following two cases that are currently under police investigation.

Between January 8 and February 23 unknown persons entered the summer residence of Robert Floyd, located in Sky Valley and removed numerous items valued at $395.

The stolen items included a television and a German hat with a goat's beard band.

The second case highlighted by Crime Solvers this week involves a recent breaking and entering that occurred at the Potomac Edison Building in Oakland.

On March 23 at approximately 11:15 p.m. Garrett County Sheriff's Deputies responded to the location for a reported breaking and entering in progress. According to police, the suspects had entered the building before police arrived.

One man was apprehended while walking near the area, shortly after the crime occurred.

A second man is being sought in connection with the crime.

All leads in this case have been exhausted and Crime Solvers is seeking help from the public.

Persons with any information regarding this case or any other unsolved crime are urged to contact Garrett County Crime Solvers at 334-1975.

If a tip leads to the arrest and charging of the responsible party, the caller is eligible for a reward up to $1,000. The caller may remain anonymous and need not appear in court.

Lead Poisoning Prevention Week Is Proclaimed

Governor William Donald Schaefer has proclaimed May 7-13 as "Maryland Lead Poisoning Prevention Week." Rex D. Archer, M.D., M.P.H., Garrett County health officer, warns that lead poisoning is a disease that is more common than people think. It is especially dangerous to infants and small children. At low levels lead poisoning can slow a child's development, damage production of red blood cells and cause learning or behavioral difficulties. At higher levels, lead in the body can cause damage to the nervous system, the kidneys, the reproductive system, and other body organs.

Signs of lead poisoning can be mistaken for flu or other illness. Some of the symptoms are stomachache, irritability, fatigue, vomiting, constipation, headache, sleep disorders, poor appetite. Dr. Archer noted that these symptoms may also indicate other health problems, so it is important that persons consult their physician if they suspect lead poisoning. He added that the Health Department or a physician can perform a simple blood screening test that will tell whether or not a child has lead in his body. It is recommended that all children from nine months to six years should be screened.

One of the most common sources is leadbased paint that was used in houses constructed before 1950. According to the last census, there are 3,856 houses in Garrett County that were built before 1950. Children may chew on stair rails or window sills, or pick up and eat paint chips containing lead in these older homes. Dust from sanding or renovating painted woodwork in these older homes can be a source of the lead. Other sources of lead include water pipes that have been connected using lead solder, some imported porcelain and pottery, and food contaminated with lead.

Dr. Archer recommended the following simple prevention steps to avoid the consequences of lead poisoning. Have children checked for lead in their systems, especially if they are living in a house that was built before 1950, or if the family has moved recently into an older home. Keep floors, stairs and woodwork clean and free from dust and dirt. Don't let children chew or eat anything that has fallen on the floor or in the dirt outside. Don't let them chew on window sills, furniture, or painted toys. If walls and woodwork in the home have flaking or peeling paint and plaster, make repairs immediately.

The Garrett County Health Department can provide information and advise concerning the best procedures for detecting and removing lead from the home. Those who are concerned that they have been exposed to lead can get diagnostic help from their physician or the Health Department. Parents who want to have their child screened for blood lead should call the Health Department at 334-8111. Those who are concerned about how to get rid of lead in their home should call the Division of Environmental Health at 334-8980.

Man Released From County Jail

A man who was held in the Garrett County Jail for nearly two months was finally released last week, due to lack of evidence.

Steven Seman, 27, was arrested by Maryland State Police on Monday, March 5, in Mountain Lake Park, as a fugitive from Pittsburgh, Pa., for charges of burglary. He was taken to Garrett County Jail and held without bond.

Seman was held in the Garrett County Jail and finally released from the jail last week, due to lack of evidence.

Seman now resides in Mt. Lake Park.

Open Athletic Games To Be New Event For Annual Highland Fest.

Clans gathered centuries ago in northern Scotland to display their strength in traditional athletic and military contests, often using materials available at local farms. In the Open Athletic Games of the Third Annual McHenry Highland Festival on Saturday, June 2, in McHenry both professional and amateur athletes will take their three turns in each of seven events of the Heptathlon.

The hearty athletes will pursue these traditional events: the sheaf toss (a burlap sack filled with 16 pounds of hay is thrown over a crossbar); 56-pound weight throw (the block or bell-shaped weight on a chain is thrown as far as possible); 28-pound weight throw (same objective as the 56-pound weight throw); 22-pound hammer throw (a 16-22-pound hammer is thrown); 56-pound weight toss (the weight is thrown over a crossbar); stone putt (16-22-pound stone is thrown like the contemporary shot put); and caber toss (a log weighing approximately 100 pounds and standing approximately 20 feet is flipped so that it lands a certain way).

First, second, and third place medals will be awarded in each of the seven events, and the winner of the Heptathlon will receive the first McHenry Highland Festival Heptathlon Cup. Festival hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Admission is $4.00 for anyone 12 years of age and over.

Eastern Garrett VFD Slates Dinner

The Eastern Garrett County Volunteer Fire Department will serve a spaghetti dinner this Saturday, May 12, from 4 to 8 p.m. at the fire hall.

The menu will include "all-you-can-eat" spaghetti, salad, bread, and a beverage. The cost is $3.50 for adults.

The Ladies Auxiliary will be holding a bake sale at the same time.

The fire hall is located along Rt. 946 in Finzel, just off Exit 29 of U.S. Rt. 48.

TERRA ALTA NEWS

ASSOCIATION TO MEET

The Cranesville Area Civic Association will meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday, May 15, at the Faith United Methodist Church. Guest speaker will be Christelle Dumont, exchange student from France, who is attending East Preston High School. The public is invited to attend. Refreshments will be served.

PERSONAL MENTION

Harry Sisler was admitted recently to Preston Memorial Hospital, Kingwood.

John Elsey was admitted recently to Monongalia General Hospital, Morgantown.

EAST PRESTON NEWS

A selected group of 19 East Preston High School students participated in the All-County Junior High, Senior High Honors Band, April 18, at the Craig Civic Center in Kingwood.

Senior High Band members who participated were Michelle Strawser, David Sines, Stephanie Berry, Janie Rice, Jennifer Schwer, Donna Mullenax, Rhonda Metheny, Debbie Gank, Emily Lewis and Yolanda Garlitz.

Junior High Band members who participated were Kim Cramer, Emily Berry, Jennifer Stemple, Scott Metheny, Jamie Freeland, Elda Wilhelm, Deena Strawser, Melissa Sanders and Christine Haynie.

Students were selected by their band instructors, based on the students individual music experience and ability.

RECEIVES SCHOLARSHIP

Melissa Secrist, a senior at East Preston High School, was recently given a scholarship to Tri-State Beauty Academy in Cumberland, Md. She is a member of the FHA and an aid to teachers. She is also enrolled in the Academy's beautician program.

ROTARY HONORS STUDENTS

East Preston School Students (TOP) recently attended a banquet given by the Rotary Club. Oliver Luck, guest speaker of the occasion, told the students, "The teachers are doing a super fine job. This is evident here . . . I feel secure about our state."

Students honored at the banquet included Brad Cummings, Christelle Dumont, Kelly Gibson, Tonja Loughry, Christy Schmidt, Brian Spiker, Leslie Rice, Brian Dixon, Kim Gerlach, Emily Lewis, Ken Park, Jennifer Schwer, Kevin Stemple and Mark Utterback.

The students earned an invitation to the Rotary Awards Banquet because they represent academic success, school citizenship, moral integrity, character and self discipline, according to Lee Rice, program chairman for the event.

Gary Livengood, principal, presented award certificates to each of the students at the banquet.

(delayed one week)

ASSOCIATION TO MEET

The Cranesville Area Civic Association will meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday, May 15, at the Faith United Methodist Church. Guest speaker will be Christelle Dumont, exchange student from France, who is attending East Preston High School. The public is invited to attend. Refreshments will be served.

IN HOSPITAL

Yvonne McConnell was admitted recently to Monongalia General Hospital, Morgantown.

4-H CLUB MEETS

The Travelers 4-H Club of Cranesville met recently at the Faith United Methodist Church. Carla Layton, an EMT for Terra Alta Ambulance Service, was present to talk to the group about her job.

Following the presentation, President Rhonda Metheny called the business meeting to order. It was announced that Walking for Hospice would be held on Sunday, April 22. A demonstration in preparation for County 4-H Day was given by Ben Grose.

ROTARY NEWS

Rotarian Ken Frankhouser, program chairman for the April 19 meeting, invited members of the East Preston FFA to present the evening's program. Terry Hauser, a 1984 graduate of Preston High School and active FFA member, led the presentation.

The program consisted of a series of slides depicting various phases of the FFA activities, explained by Allen Metheny, current president of the group.

At the end of the presentation, Hauser invited anyone interested in farming to attend FFA meetings regularly.

In other business, the president reminded members of upcoming events:

April 21, clean-up day starting at Clyde Snyder's residence; April 16-29 District Conference at the Holiday Inn in Parkersburg; and May 19, the Rotary Roast for Scholars, with proceeds going to the Rotary High School Scholarship program. The roast will be from 3-7 p.m. at the Terra Alta Park with food, entertainment and giveaways. The public is invited. Tickets will be $25 per couple.

COLLECT FOR ACS

The youth from the Methodist Church worked in distributing literature and collecting money for the American Cancer Society in the town of Terra Alta from April 20-27.

HOMEMAKERS MEET

The Terra Alta Homemakers Club met April 17. Devotions were given by Beatrice Kelly and Edna Gibson. Betty Sereno gave the lesson entitled "Moisture in the Home."

Beatrice Kelly conducted the business session. There was a discussion of the Health Fair to be held at the Community Building in Kingwood on May 12.

A donation was given to the Cancer Society. It was noted that $25 was given to the Preston County 4-H Foundation.

Craft Day will be held on May 24 in Aurora and Presidents Day will be May 22.

Dollie Metheny, a member of the club, died April 2.

A memorial book was donated by the Preston County Homemakers Council to the Terra Alta Library in memory of Dollie Metheny. The title was "Collector's Dictionary of Quilt Names and Patterns."

Miss Nancy Sisler gave a demonstration on making homemade noodles. The special feature was a needlework wallhanging of the Metheny family tree made by Marie Metheny's granddaughter.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Beatrice Kelly.

Refreshments were served by the hostess Marie Metheny to May Frankhouser, Wilma Friend, Edma Gibson, Lucy Kelly, Beatrice Kelly, Betty Sereno and Nancy Sisler.

LIBRARY DONATION

"Collector's Dictionary of Quilt Names and Patterns" by Yvonne M. Khin was given to the library in memory of Dollie Metheny by Preston County Extension Homemakers Council.

SHOWS TO BEGIN

The East Preston High School Senior Shows will begin at the Terra Alta Public Library on May 5. The first three students will be Laura Shaffer, Bobby Orr and Diana Moats. On May 26, Eddie Beckman, Bobby Loughry and Larry Reid will display theirs. The public is invited to come into the library and see these at any time. The art instructor for these students is Larry Mattingly.

SENIORS MEET

The Terra Alta Senior Citizens met April 19. The meeting was opened with devotions by Lucille Pingley. Shirley Cramer, Bill Strickler, and Marvin Ware were guest speakers.

Mrs. Ringer spoke to the group on making arrangements for a will. It was announced that Gertrude Hemrick will be the Belle for Preston County.

A shopping trip to Morgantown was discussed.

AURORA-EGLON NEWS

SPRING SMORGASBORD

This Saturday evening, May 12, the annual Spring Smorgasbord will be served at the Aurora United Methodist Memorial Building. Serving begins at 4:30 p.m. and continues until 7 p.m. Donations for adults will be $5.00 and children, $2.00.

MOTHER'S DAY SMORGASBORD

The opportunity to take Mother out for dinner will be offered at a smorgasbord at the Mt. Grove Community Building on Sunday, May 13. Donations will be $5.00 for adults and $2.50 for children, with those under 6 eating free. Serving will begin at noon and continue through the afternoon.

HOMEMAKERS WEEK

This week, May 6-12, notes the observance of National Extension Homemakers Week. There are Homemakers Clubs throughout the United States and these are associated through the National Extension Homemakers Council for which new headquarters are being established in Louisville, Ky. There are clubs in most areas of both Preston and Garrett counties and those who are not members are invited to become acquainted with the program and join one of the local clubs.

SHAFFER—ABERNATHY REUNION

The annual reunion of the Shaffer-Abernathy relatives will be held Saturday, May 26, at the Eglon Memorial Building. A covered dish meal will be served at 1 p.m. Relatives, neighbors and friends of the late Carl W. and Ruth Abernathy Shaffer are welcome to join their children during the afternoon.

HOMEMAKERS MEET

The preservation and identification of family heirlooms which tell the family history was the subject of discussion at the May 1 meeting of the Eglon Extension Homemakers.

The club met at the Eglon Memorial building for a session with Mary Kay representative Betty Pritt. Learning how to present an attractive presence was part of the program, but it was also noted that Mary Kay is helping those who suffer the results of hair loss due to chemotherapy or radiation to learn makeup techniques to help compensate.

The ladies adjourned to Cathedral Ole' Towne Restaurant for lunch during which a "Happy Birthday" was sung to guest, Mary Norwish. They returned to the Memorial Building where Jean Winters led the discussion of "Preserving Family Heirlooms" after a business session.

The meeting opened with devotions by Mary Rembold who read two poems, "Familiar Things" and "The Meaning of 'Mother.'" Plans were made to serve the Mt. Lions Club on June 7 and a donation will be made to the Preston County 4-H Camp. Plans for Craft Day on May 31, to be held at Aurora Memorial Building, were announced.

Mrs. Winters used articles from her home to illustrate that heirlooms may have monetary value, but can be kept for sentimental reasons. She spoke of methods of identification, and urged that the history of each be logged. Designating recipients may also save a lot of family feuding and anxiety, she added.

Each member had been asked to bring along objects to share and they did that, telling the history behind each piece.

Those who were present were Linda Lewis and Sara, Mary and Craig Rembold, Sandra Hauser, Avenell Parsons, Mildred Wilt, Nina Layman, Lectie Bonner, Lillian Knotts, Rebecca Teets, Ruth Teets, Jean Winters, and guest, Mary Norwish.

QUARTET ENTERTAINS SENIORS

At the May 5 meeting of the Union District Senior Citizens, there were 57 who registered. Entertainment was provided by a quartet from the Kingwood Wesley United Methodist Church: Dr. Fred Conley, Tom Harriman, Ronald "Tater"

Kurtz Elected To First United Directors Board

Robert W. Kurtz, executive vice president, has been elected to serve on the Board of Directors for First United Corporation and First United National Bank & Trust, according to Richard G. Stanton, chairman of the Board and president.

Kurtz was elected by the shareholders on April 17 to serve on the Corporation Board of Directors, and was then elected by the Board on the following day to also serve as a director for First United. He has served as secretary to the Board for four years.

A native of Pittsburgh, Kurtz is a graduate of Davis and Elkins College with a B.A. degree in business administration. Following college, he served four years in the U.S. Air Force.

Kurtz joined the Bank's staff in 1972 as a management trainee. He later moved into the auditing department, where he was named chief auditor in 1974. He was promoted to cashier in 1977 and was named vice president and comptroller three years later. In 1982, he was then promoted to senior vice president and cashier and, in 1987, he was promoted to his current position of executive vice president.

Since joining the bank's staff, Kurtz has continued bank training. He has completed several American Institute of Banking classes, and is a graduate of the Commercial Lending School at the University of Oklahoma.

He is a past president of the Cumberland Chapter of the Bank Administration Institute, and a past 15-year member of the Oakland-Mtn. Lake Park Lions Club. He currently serves as vice president of Group One-Maryland Bankers Association, president of Southern Garrett Athletic Association, and is a member of St. Paul's United Methodist Church.

Kurtz and his wife, Susannah, have two children, Carrie and David. They reside in Oakland.

Omission Noted

The Northern Middle School Honor Roll recently published in The Republican contained an omission. The name of an honor roll student was inadvertently not submitted. The list should have contained Matt Wolf, 6E, an honor roll student for the school's fifth grading period. The school regrets the error.

Obituaries

DEBORAH A. FRIEND

Deborah Ann Phillips Friend, 39, Etam, Rowlesburg, W.Va., died Sunday, May 6, 1990, at Ruby Memorial Hospital as the result of a car accident.

She was the wife of Preston County Commissioner David Friend.

Born March 20, 1951, in Bluefield, W.Va., she was the daughter of Norman Phillips and Aretta Bever Phillips, both of Rowlesburg, W.Va.

She was a member of Good Tiding Assembly of God Church in St. George, W.Va., and was employed by Bausch and Lomb, Oakland.

In addition to her parents and husband, she is survived by one son, David E. Friend II, at home; two daughters, DeeDee Ann Friend Loughrie, Morgantown, W.Va., and Dawna DeVonne Friend, at home; and one brother, Charles Phillips, Lordstown, Ohio.

She was preceded in death by an infant daughter, Denean Dawn Friend, in 1970.

Services were held at the Rowlesburg Southern Baptist Church on Wednesday, May 9, with the Revs. Iris Skipper and John McKinney officiating.

Burial was in the Etam Cemetery.

White, and Charles Whetsell. Their accompanist is Linda Royce.

Grace for the meal was asked by the Rev. John Negley and Charles "Bud" Whetsell led a meditation.

Blood pressure readings were taken by LaDonna Ringer, Senior R.N. Phil Schenk, his wife and daughter, were present and he spoke to the assemblage concerning his candidacy for the Preston County Commission. Marvin Ware, also a candidate for the Commission, was present prior to the meeting.

It was announced that Annie Ringer has resigned her position with the Preston County Seniors.

PERSONALS

Carolyn Laurie of Aberdeen, Ohio, spent the week of April 22-29 at Horse Shoe Run with her mother, Mrs. Jessie Bachtel, her sister, Margaret, and Leroy McWilliams, and her nieces and nephew. On Sunday the family returned her to Parkersburg where she was met by her husband, Jerry, to return to their home.

The L.H. Digmans of Cumberland were visitors last weekend with Mrs. Louella Fike at Aurora. Visiting with her this weekend was her grandson, Brian Fike, of Terra Alta.

Lydia Harsh of Aurora remains a patient in Ruby Memorial Hospital where she underwent tests last week and will have surgery for implanting a pacemaker this week.

Lura Calcamp of Horse Shoe Run was taken by ambulance last week to Garrett County Memorial Hospital where she remains a patient.

Last summer the Angels and Bunnies Drill Teams visited here, and presented a demonstration drill for the public, and were entertained overnight by Melvin and Rose Ina Harsh and their family with the help of the community. In return for this hospitality, the Harshes were invited to North Chicago where they were guests at a Friday night, April 27, "bash" and at a competition held in the North Chicago High School on Saturday, April 28, for Chicago North Suburban Regional Drill Teams.

Making the trip were Melvin and Rose Ina Harsh, Brenda, Carroll and Allen Hartsell of Eglon, and they were guests of another daughter, Neva and Don Frantz and family there. The Frantz's daughter, Melissa, is now a member of the Angels and this was her first public appearance as such.

At the Saturday competition, the Harshes were honored with a plaque which expressed appreciation for their generosity in the 1989 West Virginia trip. The bash was attended by team members, parents, and honored guests. The group asked the Harshes to extend their greetings and appreciation to the community.

On Saturday, the proceedings for the family were interrupted when Don Frantz became ill and was admitted to Great Lakes Naval Hospital where he remains a patient.

The Harshes and Hartsells returned Tuesday to Eglon.

David and Wilma Mae Teets of Horse Shoe Run were recent visitors in Goldsboro, N.C., with their daughter and son-in-law, Mary Lou and Dick Miller.

Don and Edith Wotring of Aurora and Dee Kight of Silver Lake spent a recent two-week visit with their children, Vernon and Delores Kight, at Charlotte, N.C. While there, their grandchildren, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Kight and four children of Pearisburg, Va., and Kimberly Kight of Hickory, N.C., visited there also. They did a lot of sightseeing which included seeing one of the world's largest churches, one which will seat 60,000 people. Their grandson, Greg Kight, returned them home.

Don and Norma Beckman of Horse Shoe Run vacationed for a week in Florida recently at DelRay Beach.

Claud Poling suffered a heart attack two weeks ago but has now returned to his home at Shepherdstown. His address is P.O. Box 1297, Shepherdstown, W.Va. 25443.

Lyle and Mary Ann Harsh of Rootstown spent the weekend here visiting with his father, Harold Harsh, Stemple Ridge, and sister and brother-in-law, Jean and Herb Starr.

Bonnie Harper of Mt. Top was taken Friday by ambulance to Garrett County Memorial Hospital where she remains a patient following a heart attack.

Ron and Avenell Parsons of Eglon were Friday and Saturday visitors in Morgantown where they were overnight guests of Darrell and Marie Rolth and on Friday night attended the 80th birthday dinner for John Markwood held at the Lake View Resort and Conference Center. On Saturday they visited with Lee and Dean Beckman and with Cleo Roth before returning home.

Dean Sisler and her mother, Maxine Hauser, both Aurora, visited in Ashland, Ky., April 27-29 with Dean's sister, Bonnie Douglas.

Bill Hauser of Aurora and a friend, Ken Flimming, a Westvaco representative went last week to Springfield, Mass., where they attended the Northeastern Loggers and Equipment Expo '90.

Members of the Men's and Women's Bible Class of Maple Spring met for a covered dish dinner Sunday following the morning service. The afternoon was spent in sharing of experiences.

Greg and Barbara Knotts and their son, David, were Sunday afternoon visitors with his aunt and uncle and family, Anita and Kirk Lantz, at Brookside. His grandmother, Lillian Knotts, of Eglon, also visited there.

On Sunday, May 20
The Gorman Church Of God

Will hold its annual Pastor Appriciation Day to honor its Pastor, the Rev. J.T. Paugh and his family. Pastor Paugh has been at the Gorman Church for the past three years, during which time the church has grown and prospered under his leadership.

There will be a special morning service followed by a covered dish lunch in the Church Fellowship Hall. Everyone is welcome to attend this special service. Services will start at 10:00 a.m.

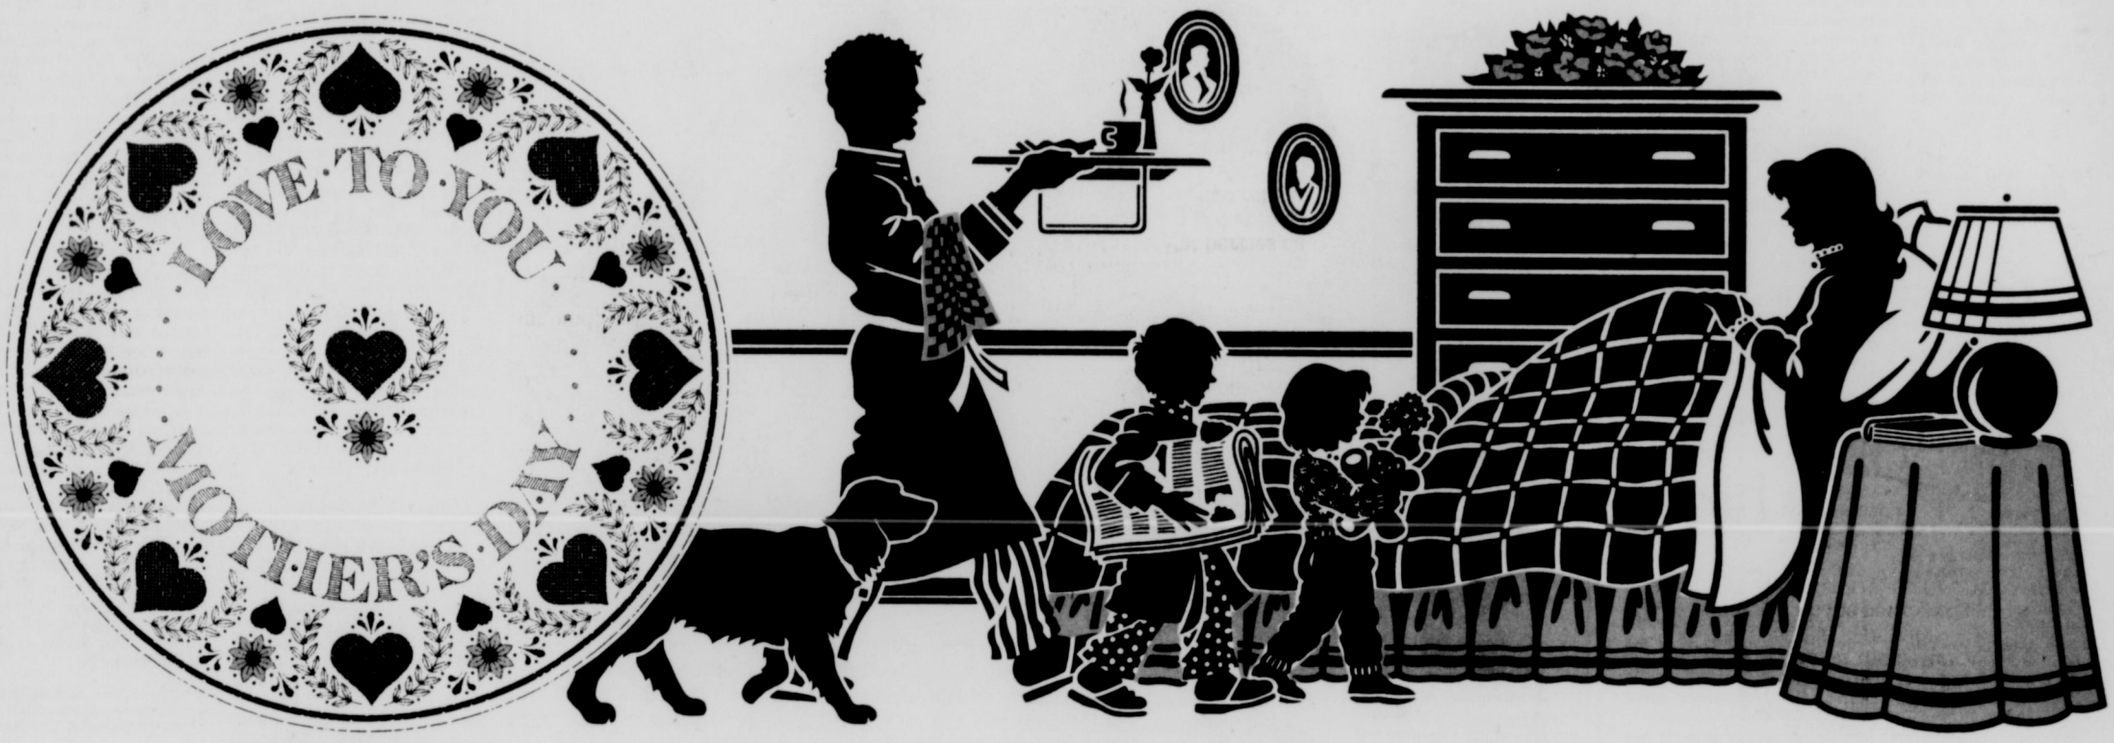
Good Food and how to prepare it!



With Mother's Day just around the corner, you've probably started to worry about what to give your mother.

Remember the days when your gift to mom was something you made yourself? All the drawings, paintings and home-made cards were created especially for her with lots of time, effort and most of all, love.

This Mother's Day, capture the spirit of those childhood gifts by once more giving mom something you've made yourself. Breakfast in bed or something sweet would be a wonderful treat for mom on her special day!

ORANGE CAKE

Orange Filling:
6 tablespoons sugar
1½ tablespoons cornstarch
Pinch of salt
½ cup water
½ teaspoon grated orange peel
½ cup fresh orange juice
1 egg yolk, slightly beaten
1 tablespoon butter, melted
½ cup crushed pineapple

On top part of double boiler, over boiling water, mix sugar, cornstarch & salt. Gradually add water, orange peel & juice, then egg yolk. Cook, stirring, until smooth & thick. Fold in butter & pineapple. Chill.

The Cake
4 tablespoons butter
1 cup sugar
2 eggs, separated
1½ cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
Pinch of salt
½ cup fresh orange juice

Preheat oven to 350°. Cream butter & sugar. Add egg yolks & beat until thick & lemon-colored. With a fork, mix together dry ingredients & add them alternately with the orange juice. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into two buttered 8" cake pans & bake at 350° for 20 minutes. Cool completely & remove from pans.

Orange Icing:
Zest of 1 orange
Juice of 1 orange
1½ cups powdered sugar
1 teaspoon white rum
Coconut for garnish (opt.)

Lightly grate rind of orange and bring it and the juice to a boil. Strain the juice and pour as much hot juice over sugar as needed to make right consistency for spreading. Stir in rum.

To Assemble:

Put the chilled filling between layers. Frost with orange icing, allowing some to dribble over edges. Sprinkle on coconut if you like. The cake looks beautiful served on plates lined with lace doilies.

CHOCOLATE-MINT WAFERS

2 ounces (2 squares) semisweet chocolate, chopped
8 tablespoons, (1 stick) unsalted butter, softened
½ cup granulated sugar
Pinch of salt
1 large egg white
2 teaspoons vanilla extract
½ teaspoon mint extract
¾ cup all-purpose flour

Evenly space two racks in the oven and preheat to 350°. Lightly butter two baking sheets. In the top of a double boiler, over hot but not simmering water, melt the chocolate. Remove the top of the double boiler from the water and cool chocolate slightly. In a medium-sized bowl, combine the butter, sugar and salt, beat with an electric mixer until blended. Add the egg white, vanilla, and mint extract and beat until smooth. Add the melted chocolate and flour and beat just until the color is even. Using 1 level tablespoon of batter for each cookie, drop the cookies onto the baking sheets, leaving 3 inches between them. Bake 12 to 14 minutes, until the edges begin to crisp. The cookies will be soft in the center but will firm up as they cool. Cool on the sheets for 1 minute. With a spatula, transfer the cookies to paper towels and cool completely. Repeat with the remaining batter.

HONEY FRENCH TOAST

2 eggs, slightly beaten or 5 tablespoons dried egg mix plus 2½ tablespoons lukewarm water
¼ teaspoon salt
Butter or margarine for frypan
¼ cup milk
¼ cup honey
8 slices bread

Combine beaten eggs (or reconstituted dried egg mix), milk, honey, and salt. Dip bread in mixture and fry in butter or margarine until golden brown. Flip over when the first side is done cooking. Top with lemon-honey syrup.

Lemon-Honey Syrup
1 cup honey
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons lemon juice

Heat all ingredients together in a small pot. Serve over French toast or pancakes.

STRAWBERRY SHORTCAKE

4 cups unbleached flour
½ cup sugar
2 tablespoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup butter
1 beaten egg
1¼ cups whole milk
3 cups heavy cream
5 cups strawberries

Wash, hull and halve the berries. Put them in a glass bowl & sprinkle 2 or 3 tablespoons sugar over. Cover & chill. Turn oven to 400°. Combine first 4 ingredients. Chop butter into pieces & cut into flour mixture until crumbly. Beat in egg & milk. Butter 2 baking sheets. Using ½ cup dough per "biscuit," make 8 4" rounds. Bake 15-17 minutes until golden. Whip the cream, adding sugar to taste. Put berries on top of shortcake, then a big dollop of whipped cream. Best served when shortcake is warm: you can reheat them. The berries will be juicier if you crush a few before sugaring & let them sit for an hour before using. Serves 8.

MIX-AHEAD BRAN MUFFINS

2½ cups buttermilk
½ cup vegetable oil
2 eggs, beaten
4 cups bran flake cereal with or without raisins
2 cups all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons baking soda
⅔ cup sugar

In large mixer bowl combine first 3 ingredients. Stir together at LOW until blended. Add remaining ingredients and mix at LOW until moistened. Cover and refrigerate 1 hour before baking. Muffin batter may be refrigerated up to 1 week. TO BAKE: Preheat oven to 350°F. Place paper liners into muffin tins. Fill prepared muffin tins ⅔ full for smaller muffins or to brim for larger muffins. If desired, sprinkle 1 teaspoon sugar on each muffin before baking. Bake 18-22 minutes or until golden brown. Yield: 18 small, 12 large muffins.

CINNAMON COFFEE CAKE

1 cup whole wheat flour
½ cup enriched white flour
½ teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon baking powder
3 tablespoons brown sugar
3 tablespoons chopped walnuts or pecans
1 teaspoon cinnamon
6 tablespoons margarine
¾ cup sugar
2 eggs
¾ cup plain lowfat or nonfat yogurt
5 teaspoons vanilla
Powdered sugar (optional garnish)

Combine the flours, baking soda and baking powder in a medium bowl. Set aside. In a small bowl, mix together the brown sugar, chopped nuts and cinnamon, set aside. In a large bowl beat the margarine and sugar together thoroughly. Add the eggs and beat well. Blend in the yogurt and 1 teaspoon of vanilla. Then gradually mix in the flour mixture, beat well. Pour half of the batter in a greased 9x9-inch pan. Sprinkle with the cinnamon-nut mixture, then pour in the last half of the batter. Stir together the remaining 4 teaspoons of vanilla with 4 teaspoons of water. Spoon this mixture on top of the batter in the pan. Bake in a 350 degree oven for 45 minutes or until done. Allow to cool. Sprinkle with the powdered sugar before serving, if desired.

SPEEDY OATMEAL PANCAKES

1½ cups oatmeal
¾ cup skim milk
2 egg whites
2 tablespoons oil
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1 tablespoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt

Assemble blender. To make oat flour, put oatmeal into blender container. Cover and process at a medium-high speed until the consistency of all-purpose flour. Remove from container. Place all other ingredients into blender container. Add oat flour. Cover and process at a high speed until smooth. Allow to stand for 5 minutes before using. Pour onto preheated, lightly greased griddle. Cook over medium high heat until browned, turning once. Yield: 8 4-inch pancakes.
